200 present at rites for Mrs. Brown, mother of South Baltimore mortician

PHOTO MADE Monday afternoon as relatives of Mrs. Sarah E. J. Brown entered Ebenezer AME Church for her funeral. Mrs. Brown, lifelong resident of South Baltimore, died on last Wednesday. She was 80. Left to right, her son, Ronald A. Brown, well-known mortician; another son, Allen, partially hidden; a daughter, Mrs. Thelma B. Bailey, and her husband, Henry Bailey.

More than 200 persons were present at the Monday funeral services for Mrs. Sarah Elizabeth Jones Brown, 80, 108 W. Montgomery St., member of a prominent South Baltimore family, who died suddenly at her home on Wednesday.

Mrs. Brown was the mother of the mortician, Roland A. Brown Sr., and the widow of Isaiah L. Brown Sr. founder of the Brown Funeral Home.

The two hour services were held at the Ebenezer AME Church in South Baltimore where Mrs. Brown was a lifelong member and an ardent worker in all branches of the church.

Eulogies were conducted by the Rev. S. A. Thompson, pastor of the church, assisted by the Revs. George Baynard, pastor of Shiloh Christian Community Church, J. E. Jackson, and R. J. Murray, longtime friends of the family.

Among those present were many citizens, civic and church workers of the community where Mrs. Brown was born and her husband conducted the funeral establishment until his death in 1935.

IN THE EULOGY the Rev. Mr. Thompson lauded Mrs. Brown as faithful in service to others throughout her life.

"He said: "With her strong and determined faith she received eternal life.

"She served and served well. In the home she was a devoted and loyal wife, a Christian mother.

"In the community she was a friend to mankind; in the church she was a hard worker and will be greatly missed.

"We have no uncertainty that all is well with her soul.

"We know that she has entered into His holy presence."

The Rev. Mr. Jackson also praised Mrs. Brown as a church worker.

He said: "She was one of the pillars of the church. She was a good, constructive, worthwhile friend. She stood for what she thought was right.

The Rev. Mr. Murray said: "We lived in the neighborhood together. She worked with us all. She and her family let their life shine throughout the neighborhood and through the church."

THE REV. Mr. Baynard said: "She was a soldier of the cross, faithful through the years. There is great rejoicing in heaven as this faithful soldier comes home."

Mrs. Mayme D. Hilton acknowledged telegrams of sympathy received by the family. Mrs. Georgiana Wesley, president of the Stewardess Board No. 1 of which Mrs. Brown was a member gave resolutions.

Members of the Heroines of Jericho Lodge of which Mrs. Brown was a member for 50 years conducted services as did the Order of the Eastern Star.

The Elks Great Southern Temple lodge, and the Peace and Harmony Circle to which Mrs. Brown also belonged conducted final rites at the graveside.

Music was by the church choir.

FOR BURIAL Mrs. Brown was dressed in a blue crepe and lace. The mahogany casket rested on the altar which was banked with more than three dozen floral designs. The top of the casket was covered with a blanket of maiden hair ferns and lilies.

Mrs. Brown was born July 16, 1878 at 65 W. West St., the youngest of the 16 children of the late John Augustus Jones, a carpenter, and Mary Louise Jones.

In 1896 she was married to the late Mr. Brown, who in addition three sons and a daughter were born.

The sons are Roland Augustus who conducts the family funeral establishment; Allen J., a local contractor; and Isaiah Levi who died in 1959.

Mrs. Thelma Brown Bailey.

An adopted daughter is Mrs. Emma C. Smith. When the children were young, Mrs. Brown became a seamstress and specialized in the making of dresses.

Burial is in the family plot at the Mt. Auburn Cemetery.

Members of the Spirit of Chesapeake Lodge No. 1107 of Elks acted as pallbearers.

In addition to the sons, daughter and adopted daughter, surviving are twelve children, eight great grandchildren and other relatives.

RELATIVES OF Mrs. Jennie G. White enter Madison Ave. Presbyterian Church for funeral services on Monday. Mrs. White, of 2129 Druid Hill Ave., died suddenly on Thursday while visiting at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Ruth Lighston in Cherry Hill. Shown in photo, Mrs. Lighston, her sister Holland funeral home attendant and her cousin, William Griggs. In rear, Mrs. Lighston's husband, Dr. Renold Lighston.

Body returned from grave, forms omitted

WASHINGTON

Burial for Mrs. Henrietta Harris who died December 17, has been scheduled for today (Friday) at Woodlawn Cemetery, after her body was interred at Arlington National Cemetery last Tuesday.

Officials at Arlington National Cemetery said Mrs. Harris's body was returned to its funeral home after it was discovered proper forms had not been filled out. A spokesman said Mrs. Harris's husband failed to certify that his own remains would be interred at Arlington National Cemetery.

Mrs. Harris, who died at D.C. General Hospital, is survived in addition to her husband, Arthur D. Harris, by three children and one brother. Funeral services were held for her Tuesday.

Cold war is tops on Newson list
