Dr. Watts, Mrs. Hayes Wed in Quiet Baltimore Rites

with Lula Jones Garrett

Dr. Irving M. Watts, dentist, and the wealthy Portsmouth, Va., clan, and Mrs. Anna Hayes, Newport News teacher, were married, here last week.

The two came up quietly and sans witnesses, sans fuss, sans everything except the Rev. George G. Garnett, were merged in the latter's study.

Emma Gaskins, school marm, and Marshall Bright, post office, are discussing a date. Tillie Young, is being dated by Dr. Ali Thomas of Detroit, but Earl Britt of the town teaching force also has intentions. Carl White, councilor coordinator in vocational high schools here, and Ruth Gordon, D.C. school marm, were wed on Christmas night. She's the daughter of the Robert W. Gordons of Washington, an AKA soror, on the staff of the Reno elementary school.

The Nathaniel Youngs' (Omenia) four-month-old marriage is on the rocks. She will charge that a third party moved in within the month of the ceremony. He's a Morgan College sophomore. She graduated from there last year.

T. Henry Waters, caterer, was operated on at Johns Hopkins hospital, Wednesday. Mrs. James Pair has so improved from her recently sudden illness that she has been able to have telephone visitors this week. Mrs. Fannie T. White of the Dunbar High School staff, was surprised by a burglar in her home, Wednesday night, and suffered a painful head bruise as well as the loss of her purse. Miss Marian Reid, also of the Dunbar staff, is hospitalized in Boston, where she became ill during the Christmas holidays. Furman Templeton, personnel manager of the AFRO-American newspaper, and the AFRO-AMERICAN Newspaper is bedded after a tight bout with a surgeon at Franklin Square Hospital, Wednesday.

WHARTONS FETED

Dr. and Mrs. Heber Wharton of Erie, Pa. Mrs. Florence E. Porter, of Cape May, N.J., and Mesdames Cynthia Utah and Callie Harris of D.C., were the out-of-towners around whom the former's brother-in-law and sister, the McGinns, built their New Year eve celebration.

Mrs. Porter was house guest of the Furman Templetons for the holiday. Party guests were the William Gosnells, Dr. and Mrs. Enoid Lighton, the Houston Jackson, Miss Ivy Boone, Mrs. Matthews, the Arthur Jonases, the Duke Avnetts, Howard Murphy, the Bob Williamses, Mrs. Hermione Wharton and Mrs. Jennie White.

PAYNES HOSTS

In the knotty pine club cellar of the W. Eugene Paynes, a flock of their friends danced in celebration of the infant year on Friday from ten to three, about being:

Thelma and Woodley Lawrence, Jeanette and Bernard Christmas, Mildred and Harold Seaborne, Helen and Charlie King, Agnes and Elmer Patterson, Anita and Rapp Wheatley, Lilla and Charles Barnum, Audrey and Doug Brown, Beatrice and Alonzo Lancaster, Mae and Jack Fortune, Louise and Irvin Lockerman, Naomi and Charles Stanley, Georgia and Paul Chester, Harriette and Johnnie Dyson, Sadie Bryant, Alice Taylor, Thelma Ash, and Archie Bell.

CHILDREN GUESTS

Clarence Johnson held his annual New Year party for the children in the neighborhood of his barber shop on last afternoon, where 33 kiddies waded through a down pour of rain for dancing and games, ice cream, cookies and punch. Later each garnered a box of candy. Miss Jeanette Queen assisted Mr. Johnson.

BLIZZARDED IN

But naturally there was that quota of Baltimoreans which the New York blizzard held, including Fannie T. White who guested with her nephew and family in New York. Frances Smith, head of the
