SEES CO-OPS AS SOLUTION:
Mortician Plans Drive Against Costly Burials

NEW YORK (ANP) — A prominent local mortician set New Yorkers back on their ears this week when he announced the launching of a national campaign designed to reduce what he termed "the ridiculous cost of a decent Christian burial."

He is Henry W. Payne, president of the Empire State Funeral Directors Association, who will invite the country's leading undertakers to organize mortician co-operatives which would manufacture caskets and sell them at cost.

Such co-ops, Mr. Payne maintains, will eliminate the major cause of the exhorbitantly priced funerals and make it possible to institute appreciable reductions to meet community needs.

Lambasting the few exploiters of the profession who encourage poor families to spend their last cent to impress curious onlookers, Mr. Payne pointed out that an undertaker has a social responsibility on par with the minister.

Held Major Responsibility

"When you see over 90% of colored families spending their last dollar on a funeral," he declared, "of the post Civil War era as the highpoint in Christian co-operation, he said that he had been doing intensive research for questions on these earlier organizations which operated on the theory, "I am my brother's keeper."

Pointing to the burial societies, "the great need for greater organization and education become more apparent, and responsible citizens must accept the leadership in remedying this sorry state of affairs."

"There is no reason that reputable business men cannot make a good living and at the same time render a much needed service to the colored community," his statement said.

"We must guide clients, who reach us when they are at their lowest ebb, away from a costly funeral which is ridiculous when one must return from the graveside to face the grocer with empty pockets."

U.S. Insurance Covers 11 Million Employees

More than eleven million and a half workers in the United States have attained lifetime insurance protection for themselves and their families under the Federal old-age and survivors insurance program.

This was revealed in a year-end statement made by William M. Donlin, manager of the Baltimore field office of the Social Security Administration, who placed the exact number of persons now having lifetime insurance at 11,600,000.

He pointed out that many persons are still unaware that benefits are payable only if they are claimed.

Security Benefits Cover 11,600,000 Wage Earners

Approximately 11,600,000 wage and salary earners in the United States have now their families' lifetime insurance protection from themselves and their employers under the Federal Old-age Survivors Insurance program.

In a statement released by William M. Donlin, manager of the Baltimore field office of the Social Security Administration, it was stated that this has come about through completion of a required number of years work in jobs covered by the Social Security Act.

Status Can Change

Permanently insured status does not mean that the retirement or survivors benefit amounts are not subject to change. If the worker continued to work in covered employment after beginning permanently insured, the benefits increase if the worker leaves covered employment, they decrease.

The Social Security Administration also estimates that at the end of 1947 almost 76,700,000 persons had some wages credited toward oldage and survivors insurance benefits.

This represents an increase of 2,100,000 persons over the number reported at the end of 1946. During 1947 some 40,800,000 workers received wages covered by the Social Security Act.

Delay Making Claims

The Baltimore field office is faced with a problem because oldage and survivors benefits are being lost because of delayed filing of claims.

DUNBAR SNAPS CARVER WIN STREAK

Poets Top Unbeaten Rivals in Thriller

Alvin Coleman Paces East Balto. Lads to 50-46 Win; Carter Hurt

By THOMAS SKINNER

There was never a dull moment when the Dunbar Poets poured out the gorgeous Carver Vocational Sagers, 50-46, Wednesday afternoon in the winners' court in a battle that was tense down to the final whistle.

With an overflow crowd of 600 cheering fans flanking the sideline, eagle-eyed Alvin Coleman and four Trusty clicked with a pair of field goals from the floor in the last two minutes to break a 46-46 deadlock and upset Carver in one of the best scholastic contests seen here in years.

In the first play of the game, Ira Carter, diminutive forward and captain, took a baseball pass from Jerome (Rosie) Burton to make a lay-up on the fast-break. Robert (Dock) Harris sank a set shot seconds afterwards to tie the score. Then the tussle took on a familiar pace as Donald Quarles, Burton and Leon (Red-daddy) Coleman loomed as the big-wig for Dunbar.

Carver Blows Chance

At this point the losers blew a golden opportunity to pile up a lead, inasmuch as Burton missed successive foul tries, and Carter failed to click on several chances under the basket.

Willie Levy dropped a beautiful shot from outside to knot the count at 22-22 at halftime.

During the intermission the large crowd went into a frenzy with the school songs and yells. Quarles one-handed hooping of John Brown Hurst and the effective jump-board work of Joseph (Sonny) Manning were the highlights of the second and third periods. Although Quarles and Levy kept over in the game with uncanny shooting of their own.

Burton pushed the Carver-men ahead on a lay-up, but Trusty responded to allow the Poets a 4-point lead going into the home stretch.

The crucial final session opened with Burton clicking on a free-throw to tie the count at 35-all. Then Lawrence Sykes and Harris registered three points. But these were offset by the quick eight points chalked up by Carter and Levy of Carver.

Just before Dunbar's final surge, Carter dropped another free-throw to knot the score at 46-46. Then the Poets' experienced Trusters, a 46-41 advantage. Bad luck put the losers in a jam, when Ira Carter, a truly great competitor, injured his ankle and was forced to leave the game.

Then it happened! Coleman, Harris and Trusty hit sets from outside to put the Poets in a 46-46 tie. From here on Coleman and Trusty took over with a duet of baskets that gained the victory margin.

Quarles and Coleman copped scoring honors with 17 points each.

Dunbar's Jayvees downed the Carver midget varsity, 30-16.

Carver Basketers Twice Top Bates

ANNAPOLIS, Md.—Carver Vocational High School cagers took the measure of a fighting, but outmanned, Bates quint, 53-31, here Friday.

Trailing 16-14, at halftime, the visitors reversed the count at 20-all as the third quarter came to a close. Newkirk and Black tallied the six points to square the score. Then gave the Carver femmes a two-point lead, but Jenkins, of Bates, sank a field goal to knot the count. Then "made good" a free-throw after being fouled. It was the last time a cage-basket got by the visitors in the closing seconds gave the Victors the 24-23 verdict.

Jenkins and Tyler played well for losers while Newkirk and Black were aided materially by the cagers' fine performances of Reddick, Walker, Wells and Whitney.

Teddy Rhodes and Bill Spiller, professional golfers, are filing suit against the Professional Golfers Association for refusing to allow them to participate in the Richmond (Calif.) open tournament, are well known to local fans.

In the Labor Day Capital City open tournament here last year, Rhodes fired a 152 to take first place in the 48-hole match, with piller coming in fourth with 192.

Archie Smith, Howard University scathack, who turned in several brilliant runs in the Bisons' 14-6 upset win over Morgan, and entered the hospital shortly afterwards for an aggravated rib injury, is reported recovering at a local hospital and gaining weight rapidly.

Another urgent reminder to high school officials to curb the outrunks of rowdyism at the city fries each week before some pu il is injured.

Last Friday, there were no less than three outbursts of fighting between pupils from rival high shools, one of which nearly developed into a gang fight. To separate the disorders participated in, ras nearly two minutes before one f the three policemen observed ould worm himself through the rowd.

Pupils, in addition to drinking, were observed unheathing knives nd other dangerous weapons following a fight during the height of se Cardozo and Phelps game. One g burly cop, swaggering back and orth across the floor, appeared to e doing as best he could, but the dds were too many.

In the coming CIAA wrestling meet between Howard and Lincoln, a match of interest will be that between Otto Jordan, 191-pound All-CIAA guard and Tim Armagostin, Lion, 167-pound All-CIAA second team tackle.

Despite the somewhat liberal fund of Catholic officials relative o discrimination in schools throughout the nation, the local atholic Youth Organization is ponsoring jim-crow ball ports, currently staging a colored nd white catholic league—LEIGH.
