Police Rookies Undergo Training

The recent 135 appointees to the Police Department are rounding out the third week of training in the Rookie Police Training School.

All but five of the probationary officers are white. The five are Edward W. Stewart, Claude D. Hill and Carl McKinney, all assigned to Northeastern district, and Webster S. Lewis, and Anthony C. Williams, assigned to Northwestern district.

Most of the classes in the eight week course are held in the Police Headquarter Building.

General Curriculum

The curriculum includes calisthenics, first aid, use of firearms, criminal investigation and law, departmental rules, preparing routine reports, sanitation, testifying in court, and personal defense.

One of the important courses deals with the police officer and minority groups, others with police boys' clubs, juvenile delinquency and handling traffic problems.

Lectures on the operation of the Federal Law Enforcement agencies are given by the FBI and the local Federal Narcotics Bureau. Rookie patrolmen also are taken on a tour of FBI headquarters in Washington.

Lt. Leonard H. Fehlauer, a graduate lawyer, is director of the school. He is assisted by Sgts. Anthony Doyle and Frank Maimone.

Committee Chairmen Plan Easter Service

The committee chairmen of the Easter Sunrise Service met in the Hotel Stafford last Monday evening to plan the program to be given in the Municipal Stadium on March 28.

The pageant, which includes approximately 1000 participants will again be directed by Miss Edith L. Menkel.

FOR WHOLESOME ACTIVITY:

40 Boys Find Answer to Juvenile Problems

Everybody talks about juvenile delinquency, but ten West Baltimore boys have done something about it.

The youngsters, all between the ages of 10 and 16, formed the St. Paul Athenians Club, recently, an organization pledged to curb juvenile delinquency and "spon sor trips to see the Brooklyn Dodgers play baseball."

Other objectives of the newly formed club are to help send deserving boys to summer camp and to foster clean sports and wholesome fun.

Outgrowth of Church Group

The nucleus of the club was the Sunday School Class of St. Paul Methodist Church that is taught by James N. Caldwell.

Mr. Caldwell is advisor to the group, supervises activities at the regular meetings which include stunts, story - telling, debates, quizzes and displays of individual talent.

In athletics, the boys plan to compete with other boys' clubs in basketball, softball, and track.

To Raise Own Funds

Officers of the ambitious club are: Lowell Allen, president; Walter Strickland, vice president; John Holley, secretary; and Anthony Allen, 3rd, treasurer.

Other members are Alvin Brooks, Leon Brooks, Howard Collins, Clifton Johns, James Thornton and William Wax.

The Athenians will give stage plays and other forms of social entertainment to raise funds for their program.

The club is now open for membership. It meets each Thursday at 7 p.m. at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Anthony Allen Jr., 426 N. Arlington Ave.

Garage Worker Gets 9-Month Jail Term

Pleading guilty to receiving three drills and two sanders from a garage where he was employed, Lawrence Johnson, 39, was sentenced to nine months in jail, Monday, by Judge Edwin T. Dickerson.

Johnson, who lived at 1903 Brunt St., was arrested by Sgt. James H. Butler and Detective Lloyd Johnson in connection with the theft of the automobile equipment from a garage in the 1400 block Eiting St.

Two Appointed to Morgan Staff

The appointments of Dr. Clarence F. Stephens as head of the mathematics department and Mrs. Grace L. Burke as junior stenographer, were approved Tuesday by the Morgan State College board of trustees.

Dr. Stephens served as acting head of the department during the first semester and Mrs. Burke's position was temporary heretofore.

At the same time the board accepted the resignations of Miss Ruth McCoy, assistant librarian; Miss Bernice A. Mosbey, director of residence halls; Miss Evelyn C. Carter, senior account clerk; and Mrs. Elsie M. Moseley, junior stenographer.

Regulation Amended

The board also amended a regulation which will grant sabbatical leave to faculty members with less than six years service, at the discretion of the college president.

Status changes were granted to Elmore Johns, head cook; Miss Pearl Major, senior typist; Mrs. Beatrice Somerville, director of residence halls; and Miss Ella H. Pierce, senior typist.

Third Party to Be Formed on Feb. 15

A new political party supporting Henry A. Wallace as a Presidential candidate will be formed at a convention on February 15 at the 104th Medical Regiment Armory, Fayette and Pace Sts.

The campaign is sponsored by the Maryland for Wallace Committee of 213 Tower Building, whose official board includes Dr. Alexander J. Walker, Dr. J. E. Campter, Mrs. Sarah P. Diggs, William H. Murphy, Roy S. Bond and Dr. James Fair.

In addition to establishing a new party, the convention will consider adoption of a constitution and by-laws; choice of a presidential ticket with an electoral slate and discussions of the Congressional elections.

Young Man, Arrested, Was Hiding in Store

Arrested as he hid in a N. Gay St. store early Saturday morning, Lester L. Bailey, 23, of 1642 Ellsworth St. was held for court in $1000 bail for breaking in and entering, after a hearing in Northeastern police court.

Patrolmen George Wright Jr. and Edward Point, who made the arrest, testified before Magistrate August Kozlovsky that they found Bailey hiding behind a restroom in the store after they found the glass broken out of a side door.

The policemen sped to the store in the 1500 block of Gay St., after receiving a call that the place had been entered.

Morgan College Students Stage Mock Nominating Convention

As a class project, Morgan State College students of political science, under the direction of Dr. Alexander J. Walker and Dr. Robert Gill, of the political science department, recently staged a mock "Democratic Presidential Nominating Convention" at which they pushed four candidates. The show that the students put on was so good that it drew a bulging house of students, faculty members and visitors. The convention lasted two hours and included a "dead heat," but everyone enjoyed it just the same. There were 10 States (representing the Union) and the convention was supposedly being held in Philadelphia. Each had the opportunity to nominate, and the delegates gave their seconding speeches with true political expression. One of the slogans read, "Pepper is good in soup, but not in the White House."

MEET: DR. RALPH J. BUNCHE

Here's the Man Who's Going to Run Palestine for the United Nations

"PALESTINE WILL BE THE BEST LABORATORY FOR RACE RELATIONS THE WORLD WILL HAVE FOR YEARS" That's the thinking of Dr. Ralph J. Bunche, above, who will leave shortly for the Holy Land to direct the 5-man commission in the partition of Palestine.

By OLLIE STEWART

"THEY handed me a tough one this time!"

The above statement is the last thing the Principal Secretary of the United Nations Secretary said to me following an exclusive interview in his office at Lake Success, N.Y. this week. He was referring to the job he will be doing up yonder in the Holy Land, is not only optimistic about the success he will have with the job of setting up two independent countries.

"The toughest phase of the job," said Dr. Bunche, lighting a fresh cigarette, "will be the actual setting up of the machinery for the establishing of working relations between the two countries, definitely opposed to the plan of the Arabs and Jews, who will be forced to live side by side in a peaceful way.

"Once the two governments are established, they will work together."

Dr. Bunche thinks so. "They'll realize that the sooner the two countries is small, and the resources are limited, they will realize that they have wholly political barriers to overcome, and that they have been brought together by many persons believe.

"Once they get out of mid-wife, we will set up Lembers, and get the militia started functioning. Then we will have to work out customs, transportation, and other matters that have been never ironed out. And last of all, we'll set the date of independence."

Dr. Bunche said that working out his difficulties, because he was a member of the Palestine Commission, which was set up by the United Nations Special Committee on Palestine.

He is still director of the Division of Trusteeship, and was promoted to Principal Secretary of that directorship, which is next to the top job in the U.N. He is also a raise in pay and authority.

With 12 hours a working under him on his staff, Dr. Bunche said he expects to take 50 with him when he leaves for the Holy Land. The five-man commission includes representatives from Bolivia, Czechoslovakia, Denmark, Panama and the Philippines.

When asked about personnel advisers from the various governments in the Holy Land, the commission chief said nothing definite has been set up so far—but if incidents occur to prevent the commission from doing its job, it will then come back to UN for further instructions.

The instructions detailed to set up two provisional governments by May 15 are based on the United Nations partition plan should be well on the way to completion.

A Finance officer will accompany the commission, and one more member, who will be a Finance officer to take care of any trouble getting money.

Dr. Bunche said he hopes that they go by boat. It isn't even certain that he will have a plane at his disposal on the way, he said.

Now living in the UN apartment in Manhattan, Dr. Bunche will move to Lake Success, where his family will join him when they arrive from Paris.

Dr. Bunche attended Jefferson Junior High School, Los Angeles, in 1924.

He graduated in politics, science at UCLA and graduated Phi Beta Kappa. He was valedictorian of his class, and delivered a Harvard address.

"I'm crazy about my wife and family," he said, "and I'm crazy about my work, and I'm crazy about my job."

Simple living doesn't mean disinterest and penalties; it means a good life, a good family, good sports, good health, good friends, good work, good music, good books, and good conversation.
