SEPTEMBER.

Sweet is the voice that calls
From babbling waterfalls
In meadows where the downy seeds are flying;
And soft the breezes blow
And eddying come and go,
In fairy gardens where the rose is dying.

Among the stubbled corn
The blithe quail pipes at morn,
The merry partridge drums in hidden places,
And glittering insects gleam
Above the ready stream
Where busy spiders spin their filmy laces.

At eve, cool shadows fall
Across the garden wall,
And on the clustered grapes to purple turning,
And pearly vapors lie
Along the eastern sky
Where the broad harvest-moon is redly burning.

Ah, soon on field and hill
The winds shall whistle chill,
And patriarch swallows call their flocks together,
To fly from frost and snow,
And seek for lands where blow
The fairy blossoms of a balmier weather.

The pollen-dusted bees
Search for the honeyless
That linger in the last flowers of September,
While plaintive mourning doves
Coo sadly to their loves
Of the dead summer they so well remember.

The cricket chirps all day,
"O, fairest summer stay!"
The squirrel eyes askance the chestnuts browning;
The wild fowl fly afar
Above the foamy bar
And hasten southward ere the skies are frowning.

Now comes a fragrant breeze
Through the dark cedar trees
And rests at noon by hempen fondly lingers,
In gentle pity fainness
Like to the soft caress
Bestowed in happier days by loving fingers.

Yet, though a sense of grief
Comes with the falling leaf,
And memory makes the summer doubly pleasant,
In all my autumn dreams
A future summer gleams,
Passing the fairest glories of the present!

HEAVY ROBBERY OF A SILVER MANUFACTORY—OVER $13,000 OF SILVER WARE AND DIAMONDS STOLEN.

On the evening of the 16th inst., Mr. Francis W. Cooper left his silver ware manufactory at the corner of Amity and Macdougal streets, at the usual hour. At about 9 o'clock he returned, bringing with him a large Newfoundland dog, which he left on the premises as a safeguard. While closing the store on the last occasion, he noticed a man who had frequently called into the building for the alleged purpose of making purchases, hanging around the vicinity. The matter excited no comment from him however.

On entering the premises the following morning, he found that they had been entered the previous night, and the watch-dog poisoned by giving him a dose of strychnine. Two iron safes in the office were found to have been opened by means of false keys, and robbed of diamonds to the amount of $10,000, silver ware valued at $3,000, and other small articles to the amount of $250. The boxes and papers which had contained the stolen goods were strewn upon the floor.

Information of the loss was conveyed to John S. Young, Chief of the Detective force, and Captain Jourdan, of the Sixth Precinct, and the latter officer and Detective Elder investigated the matter. Mr. Cooper gave them a minute description of the man whom he saw hanging around the premises on the night preceding the robbery, and added that about a month previous the same suspicious stranger had called upon him at the manufactory, and wished to know if he (Mr. Cooper) would buy of him 100 ounces of silver, at the same time representing himself to be just from California. Mr. Cooper replied that he was not in the habit of buying from strangers, but told him he might bring the silver there and he would look at it.

The stranger left, and was not again seen until the night of the robbery. Mr. Cooper he had disposed of the silver, and now wished to have some articles manufactured, and would like to see some specimens. A number were taken from the safe and shown him, and, remarking that he would go and bring his wife before ordering any articles, he left, and was not again seen by Mr. Cooper until the evening preceding the robbery, when he was seen by that gentleman in the vicinity of the manufactory.

From the description of the suspected thief, the officers are convinced that he was one other than Daniel Bartlett, a most notorious burglar, and on Tuesday night, accompanied by Roundsman McDonnell, of the Sixth Precinct, they succeeded in arresting Bartlett at one of his haunts, and a young man named Wm. Coleman. Yesterday, they were arraigned before Justice Hogan, and were fully identified by two witnesses as the persons seen by them while attempting to open the door of the manufactory. They were committed to the Tombs by the magistrate. Bartlett states that he is aged 37 years, but refuses to say anything about the burglary. He has already served 18 years and six months in the prisons of New York and Massachusetts. Coleman is aged about 20 years, and is also very reticent. None of the stolen property has yet been recovered.—N. Y. Tribune.

A WOMAN MADE TO TALK AFTER BEING DUMB TWENTY-FIVE YEARS.

A correspondent of the Cincinnati Gazette relates a wonderful case of a woman having her speech restored, at Cambridge City, Indiana. About twenty-five years ago, Miss Permelia Barnell, who was then, and is now, a resident of Jacksonburgh, in this county, while attending a camp meeting in this vicinity, and in the act of prayer, went into a trance, in which mood she remained for about eleven days, at the expiration of which time she was attacked with alphonia, and from that time until within a few days ago, she conveyed her thoughts only by manipulation, having not uttered a syllable during this long period of years. Being conversant with the facts above stated, and having noticed that a soldier who had lost his speech under the excitement of a great battle, and whose case had baffled the skill of the experts of the army, was made to talk by imbibing freely of the ardent, it was a source of much gratification to me to get the consent of the lady to try the experiment, as it will no doubt be a source of rejoicing to her numerous friends. Having procured for her a pint of best secale antiquum, she began to imbibe it about 10 o'clock yesterday morning, and in ordinary time, using common parlance, became beautifully drunk. After lying in a comatose state for two hours, at which time she began to sober off, to the utter astonishment of all present, she began to talk, at first slowly, but afterwards with as much ease as if the gift had never departed, and this morning continues to talk as glibly as if she was an adept in the matter.

A "CONCILIATED" REBEL.—The Nashville correspondent of the Chicago Tribune gives the following specimen of the conciliated rebel feeling:

A widow of a leading rebel of that city, who was endeavoring to obtain possession of her husband's property, was the speaker.—[illegible] I gave two sons to the war, and I would give two more to fight you again, if I could."

LATEST FOREIGN NEWS—FURTHER DETAILS.

The Royal Mail steamship Persia, Captain Lott, which left Liverpool at eleven o'clock on the morning of the 12th, and Queenstown on the evening of the 13th of August, arrived at New York on Wednesday morning.

The Pennsylvania reached Liverpool on the morning of the 11th instant.

The Africa arrived off Crookhaven about ten o'clock on the night of the 11th.

The London Times editorially expatiates on the advantages a free trade policy would financially secure, both to the United States and Canada, and the article winds up with the following remarks on a proposition recently put forth by the New York Chamber of Commerce:

"The New York Chamber of Commerce have thrown out a suggestion, which shows how great a change has come over the minds of men on another subject. They suggest that the Imperial Government should guarantee to the North American provinces the liberty to preserve a strict neutrality in all foreign wars in which they have no interest, in which case they may count on perpetual tranquility and uninterrupted commercial relations with the United States. On our part there would be no difficulty in obtaining such a guarantee, nor do we think there could be any doubt as to its observance.

"As the weaker party on the North American continent we should clearly have an interest in observing such neutrality, for nothing would be more absurd than to imagine an invasion of the United States from Canada or Nova Scotia. Putting aside any question of honor, America might be quite sure that our interest would bind us to its observance.

"But these very considerations of interest make it equally unlikely that the neutrality we should be ready to guarantee would be also respected by the United States. It is not likely that in the anger and excitement of a great war, the United States would forbear from attacking a point so vulnerable, where they could hardly fail of one or two things, either lowering this country in the eyes of foreign nations by exhibiting it as unable to defend its own colonies, or compelling those colonies, in order to avoid immediate ruin and devastation, to annex themselves to the American Union.

"The experiment of neutrality would work exceedingly well, only until it was wanted; it would then infallibly break down, and must therefore be reserved for those happier times when States and individuals can be trusted to adhere to their promises, while every passion and every interest loudly calls upon them to violate it."

Lord Lyons is to succeed Sir Henry Bulwer as British Ambassador to Constantinople.

FRANCE.

In the absence of any news, some of the gossiping correspondents of the Continental journals have invented or circulated a rumor that the Emperor Napoleon is considering a scheme for annexing Belgium to France after King Leopold's death, the Duke of Brabant receiving the Mexican instead of the Belgian crown, and for giving the Danubian principalities to Austria, territories in Northern Germany to Prussia, and Venetia to Italy.

ITALY.

Cholera continued its ravages at Ancona. On the 9th there were ninety-eight cases, of which sixty-two proved fatal.

The Roman Government had ordered the pontifical army to be increased by a further levy of three thousand men, and it is stated that one thousand men in foreign countries had already entered into engagements to serve.

The Pope had authorized a loan of ten million Roman Crowns to be contracted, in order to cover the expenses of the Government.

SPAIN.

The Epoca says the negotiations between the Pontifical and Spanish Governments which allowed the recognition of Italy by Spain have been brought to a satisfactory conclusion. The Spanish Government has promised to protect the Pope and the interests of religion in Spain.

THE CHOLERA—ITS FLIGHT WESTWARD.

We have dates from Gibraltar to Aug. 6. Cholera appears gradually creeping westward. The towns on the eastern coast of Spain, in their dread of the introduction of the epidemic, are imposing quarantine on each other.

The following are extracts from letters dated Constantinople, July 27:

During the cholera many people don't come to town any longer; many villages on the Bosphorus have been deserted.—Our stock exchange (Consolide Khan) is open for only about two hours and a half daily. I don't remember every year, after the example of Cairo and Alexandria. At the Galcata Tower we have two provisional hospitals. Up to the present, I believe, we are on the increase, and altho' the number of attacks has only been five hundred odd per day, which, with a population of more than one million, is not a very great number, yet, as no one can tell when, where, and how it will finish, it is natural that the alarm should spread. The greatest number of deaths has been one hundred and eighty per day, but of course this may be doubled in the course of a few hours, or it may be reduced as much.

One peculiarity is, that up to the present moment it has, with one or two exceptions, been exclusively confined to the poorer and indigent classes. It must be admitted in justice to this Government that it has spared no means to come to the assistance of the public. Money, provisions, shelter, and every other requisite or necessary have been furnished with a liberality which must call forth the praise of every honest person. Many, very many of the inhabitants are deserting the place altogether, and every steamer carries away great numbers of the Constantinople residents. The French steamer which left yesterday was so crowded that the agents were obliged to refuse tickets, although a very large boat.

July 31 —I am sorry to say that since my last the cholera has greatly increased, and I am afraid that during the last two or three days the cases must have attained the number of eight hundred odd daily, although for some reason or other, the local papers do not give the number of attacks. The mortality is about thirty to thirty-five per cent., as near as I can learn, although some days since it reached fifty.

MURDER UPON MURDER

A terrible sequel has followed the murder of three children in London, as reported by the last steamer. The murderer, after committing the deed in London, proceeded to Ramsgate and there killed his wife and daughter, from whom he had been parted for several years.

THE FIRST CRIME.

William Forward, the monster accused of these terrible crimes, has for some years made his living as a billiard sharper, under the name of Southey. He had been separated from his wife for some time, and had been leading a disreputable life, maintaining all the time an illicit intercourse with a married woman named White.—They were her three children he took to the Holburn coffee house and poisoned, and it is said that he himself was the father of them.

THE SECOND CRIME.

Early the next morning Ramsgate was thrown into a state of intense excitement by a report that a man had committed a double murder in a dyer's house in King street. Unfortunately, upon inquiry, this rumor proved only too true. It appears that Forward, who was formerly a baker in the town, left Ramsgate some eight years ago, leaving his wife and little girl behind him in a state of almost total destitution. From time to time anonymous letters have been sent to his wife, some of which have contained small sums of money. On Wednesday evening Forward suddenly appeared in Ramsgate, and made his arrival known to his wife. He requested her to take a walk with him, but she declined, giving as a reason that as he had been away for some years, he was a comparative stranger, and she did not like being seen out in the evening with strangers. She then invited him to go [illegible] She had hardly got there when Mr. Ellis and his daughter were startled by two rapid reports of a pistol, and on the latter rushing up stairs she arrived at the landing just in time to see Forward's daughter fall down dead, she having been shot by the prisoner. She then called on her father, who immediately came in, and on rushing up stairs he saw Forward standing at the top of the stairs, just in the sitting room. He said, "What have you done, Forward?" and seeing that he had a pistol in his hand he called on him to give it to him, which he did. Forward then had a black mustache and dark whiskers on. Ellis then saw the feet of Forward's wife, and on looking over the table he saw her head, and that blood was oozing therefrom. He told Forward to sit down, and he then perceived that he had neither mustache nor whiskers on. He asked Forward where they were, and he replied that they were under the grate. He looked there, but could not find them, and Forward then gave them to him. He then called out to send for the police and a surgeon. Forward added, "Yes, send for a policeman." He was then given into custody.

FENIAN RIOT IN IRELAND.

[From the London Pall Mall Gazette.]

A conflict has occurred between the constabulary and the Fenians, at a place called Bangan, in the county of Cork.—The police, seven in number, had arrested a drunken and disorderly man during the morning, it being a fair day in the village, and some two hundred people attempted to effect his release by force. The police, however, were successful in resisting this attack, and repaired to a cabin in the vicinity with their prisoner. At this stage a young peasant, jumped on an elevated part of the ditch near, addressed the crowd, calling on them as "true Fenians," not to be afraid of a "handful of police," but to show "that they were able to fight for the freedom of Ireland."

The crowd then attacked the cottage into which the constabulary had entered, breaking the doors and windows with stones, and threatening to set fire to the house. On this being attempted, the police discharged their rifles, three of them firing two shots each, three others one shot, and one not firing at all. The result was that three persons in the crowd were seriously and one mortally wounded.—There are a great many sworn Fenians in the county of Cork, but this is the first occasion on which they have done worse than drill and march by moonlight.

COFFEE—The market, from the beginning of last week, for Western account, and full prices were obtained, the market closing stiffer, though not quotably higher. The sales comprised 1,000 bags Rio, at [illegible]

COTTON—The recent heavy receipts have had a depressing effect upon the market, and caused speculation to withdraw in anticipation of lower prices. The sales were confined almost exclusively to the trade, for consumption, and prices, though without material change, had a downward tendency.

PROVISIONS—Receipts, 97 bbls. Pork and 100 pkgs. Cut Meats. The Pork market was fairly active, and, with a good speculative feeling, prices advanced, new mess closing steady at $32.25. The sales were 2,000 bbls. at $31 [illegible] for prime, $37.50@38.50 for old do., $38 for prime, and $38.62@39 for prime Mess; also, for August and September delivery, seller's option, the sales were 1,000 bbls. at $30.75@31.37½. The Beef market was moderately active, and prices remained steady—the sales were about 700 bbls. at $8@12½ for plain Mess, and $16@18 for extra do. Hams were dull, and prices were entirely nominal. Bacon was dull and heavy. Cut Meats were in moderate request, and prices were rather more steady—the sales were 100 packages at 18¼@18½ cents for shoulders, and 19@22 cents for Hams. The Lard market was quiet, but prices remained firm—the sales comprised 800 bbls. at 19¾@20 cents, the latter an extreme price for prime choice Kettle Rendered. Butter was in steady jobbing demand at 22@29 cents for Ohio, and 32@38 cents for State. Cheese continued in fair demand at 12@13 cents for common to prime.

SUGARS—The demand for raw was moderately active, and prices were very firm, the market closing steady. The sales embraced 1,200 hhds Cuba, Muscovado, and Havana, at 12½@13½ cts., including all grades. Refined was steady at yesterday's quotations, with a fair business.

TOBACCO—The demand is moderate; sales 261 bbls Kentucky 8c @ 25c; 117 cases seed leaf, 8¾@20c.

WHISKY—Receipts, none. The market was decidedly more active and prices were firmer, but not quotably higher. The sales were about 650 bbls Western at $1.32@1.36, the market closing steady at the outside price.

[BY TELEGRAPH.]

CAPSULES OF MATICO VEGETALIS,
ALSO—LIQUID EXTRACT OF MATICO,
BY
GRIMAULT & CO., Chemists, in Paris.

These elegant preparations effect rapid and extraordinary cures of recent and old and severe cases of disease. They are used in all the Hospitals of Paris by the most celebrated physicians, and are found greatly superior to all preparations of Copaiba, Cubebrate and mineral remedies.

The liquid extract is used in recent cases, and the Capsules in the more chronic, and where all other remedies have failed. These preparations will always effect a cure.

MEDICAL.

EVERYBODY, EVERYBODY, WHO USES
HANCE'S CHEMICAL
HAIR RESTORATIVE,
IS CONVINCED ON THE VERY FIRST TRIAL
It will Restore the Natural Color of the Hair,
Where age or sickness has turned it gray and as it will render it soft and glossy.

"ANYBODY"

Who may try it will find that it does not color the skin, but by stimulating the natural secretions at the roots, gives new life and strength to the Hair, and thus restores its color and freshness. It can be used not freely as water upon the scalp, and with as much safety—is composed of oil and stimulating spirits, and as an article for the toilet has no equal.

For Purifying the Blood.

BALTIMORE, June 20, 1865.

This is to certify that I was afflicted with a violent pain in the breast and right arm which I suppose proceeded from the impure state of my blood. I was recommended to take Hance's Sarsaparilla or Blood Pills, and after taking one box the pain was entirely removed from my breast and arm. I found them extremely gentle in their operation, and would recommend them to every person in want of a mild purgative.
