Two Ask $40,000 From Transit Co.

The Baltimore Transit Co., was sued for a total of $40,000 Thursday, through City Court suits entered by two persons injured in a streetcar accident.

Clinton Hudness, of 1006 N. Appleton St., also named as a defendant with the transit company the driver of the automobile which allegedly struck the trolley upon which he was riding on Oct. 24.

Jaw Injuried

The suit reveals that Mr. Hudness was thrown to the floor of the trolley, fallen upon by other people, and that he suffered injuries to his head, jaw and back from the accident at Gilmor St. and Harlem Ave.

In the second litigation, Mrs. Mary E. Brown of 1805 Riggs Ave., sued the transit company and the American Ice Co., charging that she was injured as a trolley passenger in a collision between the trolley and a truck at Dolphin and Fremont Aves., on Sept. 11. She claimed injuries to her back and other parts of the body.

Both plaintiffs, each asking $20,000, are represented by Amos J. Meyers, attorney, who requested that the cases be heard by a jury.

Number of County Pupils Increases

A total of 3,307 colored children enrolled in the Baltimore County schools as of last December, represented an increase of 173 pupils as compared to 3,134 recorded on Dec. 31, 1946.

According to E. Guy Stapleton, associate superintendent of schools, last year's total enrollment figure included 733 pupils in the junior and senior high schools and 2,574 in the elementary division.

Carver Plans Progressing

Mr. Stapleton also noted that "considerable progress" has been made on the plans for the new Carver High School to be erected on the Sandy Bottom site in North Towson.

A full report on the county's school building program will be released next week, Mr. Stapleton said. This will include information about the Banneker and Sollers Point High Schools.

Cooking Classes Open at Center

Cooking classes and courses in clay modeling will begin Thursday at the Lexington St. Recreation Center.

The culinary classes will be held each Thursday from 7 to 10 p.m. Pottery will be taught from noon to 3 p.m. on Thursdays.

No fees are charged for any of the courses, but students of clay modeling are required to purchase their own materials. George Bennett, art student at Fellowship House, will instruct the ceramic classes.

The cooking classes, sponsored by the Gas and Electric Company, are similar to the ones now being held at McCulloh Homes Center from 7 to 10 p.m. on Tuesdays.

Home nursing instruction is given at the McCulloh Center on Thursday nights.

Night Students Being Registered at Carver

Registrations are being taken at Carver Evening Vocational School for courses in tailoring, auto mechanics, carpentry, painting, and interior rdecorating and cookery.

Wilbur O. Stewart, principal of the school at Carrollton Ave. and Lafayette Avee., announced that a refresher course for secretaries is also being offered. Additional courses may be started if sufficient applications are made.

$2,919,590 in Sales Tax

James J. Lace, State Comptroller and administrator of the Maryland Retail Sales Tax Act, announced this week that the receipts for December were $2,919,590.75, making a total of $13,138,408.15, for the first six months of the levy.

The receipts for December are the largest received for any one month for 1947. The second largest amount received was in October.

Alexander School Promotions

The first semester of the scholastic year 1947-1948 ended at Alexander School No. 112 on Jan. 30, with closing exercises for the sixth grade, occupational class, kindergarten, and pre-kindergarten classes.

Seven children who were advanced from pre-kindergarten to kindergarten were Angela Cook, Veronica Hackett, Betty Jackson, Marlene Young, James Deanes, James McGlothern and John Patterson.

Fifty-four children were advanced from the kindergarten to the first grade, 84 to the junior high school, and 24 to the general vocational school.

Of the children who entered the junior high school, four were admitted to the accelerated class of School No. 130.

These were Marva Dates, Doris Umphrey, Joseph Brooks and Walter Williams. Other honor pupils in the sixth grade and occupational class were:

Lorraine Knox, Doris Hillian, Lewis Lyles, Ethel Williams, Walter Williams, Donald Sye, Viola Tutman, Kenneth Blackston, Donald Robinson, Mildred Chambliss, Queenie Wilson, James Gladden, Carolyn Roberts, Kenneth Coleman, Lonnie Penny, Donald Ryler, Arline Clayton, Carolyn Young, Peggy Randall, Clifton Ball and Josephine Booker.

Pageant on U.S. Growth

The program presented by the sixth grade and occupational class depicted in songs, speeches and skits the growth of the United States in size, in population and in democratic thinking.

The sixth grade presented the school an album of records for rhythmic activities for use by the music department.

Tentative plans for the observance of Negro History Week include bulletin board exhibits and poetry, music and poster contests. Mrs. E. Romaine Jones is principal.

Coppin's One-Act Plays

The Coppin Teachers' College Players will present two one-act plays at Enon Baptist Church at 8:15 p.m. on Monday.

Nora Murphy will take the title role of "Granny Maumee." Joyce Kenney will be "Pearl"; Shirley Hayes, "Sapphie." James Campbell will portray Dreamy in the "Dreamy Kid"; Velma Isabell, "Mammy"; Jessie Holmes, "Cecily Ann"; and Gloria Roberts, "Irene."
