48 Pupils Learn Art of Driving

Course at Douglass High Proves Helpful

Successful completion of a course in driver education, such as that being taken by 48 pupils at Douglass High School with Mrs. Thelma C. Ashe as instructor, renders a pupil eligible to receive his license from the Commissioner of Motor Vehicles.

To earn a certificate, a pupil must have at least 30 hours of classroom instruction, demonstrate his ability in the skillful manipulation of a car, as well as his knowledge of State and city driving regulations.

This year for the first time since the course was offered in 1946, they will be given behind-the-wheel instruction in a dual-control car.

Gift of Auto Trade Group

The dual-control car, one of three provided for city high schools by the Department of Education, was presented to Douglass this week, by the Maryland Automobile Trade Association. Adequate insurance protection is also provided for all pupils enrolled.

The course is open to all pupils over 15 years of age, and instruction is given during their lunch or study periods. Right Rev. Maynard Jones, president of the Board
