Teacher Wins Decree; Five File Petitions

A mother-in-law who not only dictated what food was to be served and checked her household accounts, but had her savings bonds made in her name was blamed for the failure of Mrs. Susie S. Hannah's marriage this week.

Mrs. Hannah of 1805 N. Mount St., a teacher in the Somerset County school system, testified that she and Troy C. Hannah of Philadelphia were married on Dec. 11, 1943.

Their marriage ended on Oct. 25, 1945 she said, when she was forced to leave under physician's orders.

Breakdown Feared

The home was so unpleasant, she said, that her doctor advised her to either get out of the house or expect a nervous breakdown.

Mrs. Hannah was represented by J. Howard Payne, attorney.

Roy S. Bond was attorney for McCullon Thomas of 942 N. Bond St., whose marriage to Mrs. Dorothy Thomas lasted a little over two months.

The husband said that he and Mrs. Thomas were wed Sept. 25, 1937, and voluntarily parted Dec. 15, 1937, when he discovered that she preferred her independence to their marriage.

Divorce N.Y. Made

Mr. Bond also represented Wilis Roche of 919 N. Fulton Ave., who divorced Mrs. Louanna Roche of New York City on grounds of desertion.

Theodore Ricks of 2901 Matthew St., said that he and Mrs. Annie B. Ricks of 678 W. Saratoga St., were married Dec. 24, 1944, and a year later he discovered that she had had another husband.

The marriage was annulled. W. A. C. Hughes was attorney for the husband.

Five File

Petitions for divorces were filed by five complainants. They were: Mrs. Ruth Willis vs. Otha; William T. Buckner, attorney; James vs. Mary A. Downes; J. Howard Payne, attorney;

Carl L. Solomon vs. Mrs. Helen S. Solomon, J. Howard Payne, attorney;

Gerald vs. Mrs. Pearl Preston, Ernest Perkins, attorney; and Mrs. Laressa Hall vs. William, U. Theodore Hayes, attorney.

Pair Held in 2 Thefts in Night

They were identified as Irvin Tillett, 20, of 1509 Mosher St., and James B. Morton, 22, of 1618 N. Calhoun St.

Other Gangsters Sought

Arrested by traffic police cruising in the neighborhood, the pair were charged with cracking a safe in a liquor store at 414 E. Pratt St., taking $163 in cash.

They also faced charges of drilling open another safe at 412 E. Pratt St., and making off with $428 in cash and a revolver from it.

A postponement was granted police who sought time to apprehend the other members of the gang who escaped at the time of the burglary, late Saturday.

Poverty Ridden House Struck by Death 4 Times in 3 Weeks

Upsetting the adage—lightning rarely strikes the same spot twice, death visited one of Baltimore's slums four times in three weeks.

The house is a two-story, disease ridden, poverty enmeshed, furnished, stripped dwel at 1168 Carson Ct., long viewed by Health Department officials and the police as a threat to the good health of the community.

Shortly after 12o'clock noon, on Feb. 2, Mrs. Jennie Smith, 76, was found dead in one of the small, dark, sparsely furnished rooms Less than four hours later police were recalled to the house.

Another resident, Mrs. Mary Prather, 81, a deaf mute, was found dead. One week later, James Lassiter, 52, died suddenly, and on Sunday, Eugene Dorsey, 47, died. Police officials closed the cases with the terse observation—"death due to natural causes."

2 Teen-Agers Fined for Taking Spotlight Off Theatre Screen

Cracking down on moviegoers who deliberately molest and annoy fans seated around them, Magistrate Thomas L. Fitzpatrick fined two teen-age boys $10 in Northwestern police court, Tuesday.

Not only was the pair acting disorderly but they absolutely refused to respect other customers, an employee of the theatre in the 1300 block of Pennsylvania Ave., testified.

One 16, Other 18

The accused, fined $5 and costs each, were James Foster, 18, of 734 Mulberry St., and Luther Bolden, 16, of 505 N. Bonner St.

Questions by the magistrate revealed that neither of the pair is employed and that one of them seemed to glout over the fact that he kept house while his mother was away during the day.

Navy Prospects Urged to Get Education First
Despite the current drive to enlist Navy recruits, Lt. Com. F. J. Coulter in charge of the local office, suggests that interested young men complete their high school education before making application to serve in the fleet.
The U.S. Navy knows the value of schooling and urges young men to get as much technical and scientific training as possible. Although no specific amount of training is required to enlist, special advantages are offered to high school graduates.
Enlistees may attend a Navy technical school of their choice, if they can otherwise qualify, immediately upon completion of their basic training.
