5 WIN SOUTH ATLANTIC BOXING TITLES

Northwestern PBC Takes AAU Team Championship

Newly Crowned Champs to Represent Baltimore in Nationals at Boston

Five colored boxers won championships, and the Northwestern District Police Boys' Club captured the team title as the South Atlantic Association amateur boxing championships closed Wednesday night after three weeks of competition at the Baltimore Garden.

The new champions are Elmer Barksdale, Ringside A.C., 118-pound class; Harvey Jones, Marco A.C. 125-pound class; Jerome Holt, Northwestern, 135-pound class.

The eight newly crowned champions were the survivors of a field of 72 simon-pure mittmen who will get a chance for national titles at the Boston championships next month.

Northwestern, competing for its second year, scored 18 points for the team title, with two championships and three runner-up. They had a nine-point edge on the Poodles A.C. and Baltimore A.A., who were deadlocked for second place with 10 points each.

The YMCA scored nine tallies; Marco A.C., seven, and the Ringside A.C. last year's team champion, six.

Virtually every kind of bout, from thrilling action-filled scraps to slow, cautious mixing, was exhibited at the finals. The top bout in spectator interest, however, was the final in the 118-pound class, in which Elmer Barksdale, Ringside A.C., eked out a split decision over Pete Garabito, Aberdeen Proving Grounds.

After two torrid rounds which had fans standing and cheering, Barksdale relentlessly poured left hooks and rights upercuts at the soldier's head and body to gain the majority decision.

Lindsay Courageous

Experience told the story in the heavyweight bout as Jose Sanchez decisioned Ernest Lindsay of Northwestern. Lindsay was down for three counts, two in the second and one in the third, but was still in there throwing punches to the very end, and won resounding applause for his gameness in the face of imminent defeat.

Jerome Holt edged his teammate, Herman Thompson, for the 135-pound title, but had a tough time doing it. The two skillful Northwestern boxers put on a real fight, but Holt showed the best class in the final round and gained the verdict.

Gray Applauded

One unpopular decision was rendered in the 160-pound class, in which Walter Gray, Carver A.A. boxer, chased, ran, punched and even floored Charles Hamlin, Baltimore A.A., but lost the three-round decision. The decision was roundly booed, and Gray received a tumultuous applause from the crowd during the presentation of trophies to the champions and runners-up.

Bison Boxers Blank Lions

WASHINGTON

Capt. Harry Cochran led Howard University boxers, defending CIAA champions, to a 4-0 triumph over Lincoln University, Missouri, while the Bisons' wrestlers dropped a 23-14 decision to the Lions' grapplers, Friday, in a dual meet, in Howard gym.

Cochran, defending CIAA lightheavyweight champion, scored the only knockout in the 4-match card, chilling Johnny Goodwin in 48 seconds of the second round.

Appearing at his best form thus far this season, Cochran administered a bruising to Goodwin in the first round, whipping a steady tattoo to-and-fro attack to the body. A flurry of blows to the head and midection in the opening minutes of the second canto, and Goodwin went down for the full count.

Sidney Bridgeforth, defending CIAA champion two consecutive years, counted on his tremendous weight to keep a clean slate in the feature bout with Howard's strong man, Cyril Joseph.

The 245-pound All-CIAA gridder held nearly even terms in the opening two periods, maneuvered Joseph into several near pins in the closing minutes of the final session.

Dodger Star Assumes New Attitude After Criticism

Reiser's Trip to Vero Beach Spurs Robinson Into Action; Explains Delay

By SAM LACY
(AFRO Sports Editor)

CIUDAD TRUJILLO, R.D. — Jackie Robinson answered the critics of his conditioning program here Wednesday by stepping off the scales at 201 pounds after playing four innings of an exhibition game against the Montreal farmhands of the Brooklyn Dodgers.

His Wednesday weight revealed that the Dodgers' first baseman has pared 14 pounds off his bulging frame in the past 12 days, and that despite widespread disapproval of his methods, he is gradually trimming down to his playing poundagh.

Jackie owes this reduction to the adoption of a more serious attitude toward the training routine. Regardless of what he may say in defense, Robinson did not assume any genuine interest in his responsibility until late last week, when he heard reports that observers did not think he was training conscientiously.

Changes Attitude

He also learned that the Dodgers motive in sending Pete Reiser to Vero Beach was to enable him to learn to play first base. Robbie put the two together and decided it was time something was done. That's when Jackie settled down to hard work.

Wherein he had spent the previous days talking to friends he knew in the batting cage, Robinson began engaging in pepper drills and joining fielders chasing batted balls. He even accompanied pitchers laps around the field on several occasions.

As a result he appeared more like his 1946-1947 self than at any time since he started in camp on March 4.

Robinson, however, is still far off his speed form of the past two seasons when he stole 69 bases against international and national League competition.

Beats Out Bunt

In Wednesday's game which the Dodgers won 4-0, Jackie opened the day beating out a cleverly laid bunt, flashing a bit of nifty footwork in doing so. But a moment later, when Outfielder Dick Whitman tripled behind him, Jackie was not at all impressive circling the bases.

Jackie ceased duplicating his Tuesday's feat when he hit safely twice in the same inning, by grifing out to center on his second time around. The previous day, Robinson obtained two hits and was victimized in two double plays, as the Dodgers mauled the Royals 13-4.

He registered seven putouts at first base in each of the two contests.

Explains Delay

Questioned about claiming Branch Rickey's assertion that he regarded a camp four days late without excuse, Jackie said: "When I learned the movie was to be which was to be the reason I was given permission to be late, I called the Brooklyn office long distance, and I was told I needed 17 different kinds of papers to leave the country after waiting two days, I was informed that credentials were needed. I went to New York and took the first available plane space."

Elites to Launch Spring Training

The Baltimore Elite Giants will launch spring training at Nashville, Tenn., next week, with Candy Jim Taylor, the new pilot, in charge.

Candy Jim, brother of the popular Ben Taylor, formerly managed the Washington Homestead Grays to a world championship, and for the past three years was at the helm of the Chicago American Giants of the NAL. He hopes to field a hustling young club in Baltimore with their goal the NNL pennant.

The team will play a series of exhibition games in Nashville and other southern cities before returning to Baltimore on April 18, when they meet the Homestead Grays in an exhibition. The two teams will play another exhibition in Washington on April 25.

These are just some of the things to be remembered before the job of throwing enters the equation. After that, the catcher with the strong, accurate snap-throw becomes the most valuable man on the diamond.

Junior Streaks Cop Midget Title in Lexington League

The Junior Streaks downed the Junior Pinos, 42-40, to capture the Lexington Street Recreation Center midget basketball title this week while the Lucky Stars dropped the Tigers, 25-18, for third place honors.

The Streaks, led by Capt. Joe Cole and William Steward, scored 12 and 9 points, respectively, to pace the victory, while Junior Pinos Johnson and Smith had 20 tallies for high point game honors.

The Streaks led at half-time, 20-17.

The count was deadlocked at 40-40 with less than a minute to play when Steward hooked a basket to win the game.

Silver Streaks Win

The the junior class, the Silver Streaks, twice city junior champs, defeated the Brown Dots of PS 400, 24-13, and eked out a 50-49 win over the Junior Harlem Bears to get close to another inter-center championship.

The Junior Pinos defeated the Etons, 33-30, to highlight the Intermediate Class, and will face the same team Wednesday night in the championship contest. The Etons beat the Rinks, 43-26, to gain a playoff spot.
