Theatre Usher Stabbed to Death in Off-Stage Drama

Suspected Assailant Nabbed in Flight

Witness Says Man Charged Victim Had Improper Relations With Wife

NEWARK

While several hundred patrons watched a screen play at the Savoy Theatre, at 101 Springfield Ave., an unexpected off-stage drama stole the show, Tuesday, at 10:30 p.m., when Joseph Holmes, 25, of 14 West St., an usher at the theatre, was fatally stabbed in the chest.

He was removed to City Hospital, where he died 2½ hours later of an internal hemorrhage caused by a pen knife wound.

Daniel Hill, 30, of 56 College Pl., his alleged assailant, was arrested a few yards from the scene after a short chase by the police. He is being held without bail for the grand jury on a charge of murder.

Jealousy Hinted as Motive

Police arrested Miss Daisy Harris of the College Pl. address as a material witness, who is reported to have said that the fatal stabbing was the outgrowth of an argument between the two men in the lobby of the theatre over Holmes' alleged relations with Hill's wife.

Unaware of the seriousness of the off-stage drama, only a few patrons bothered to notice the fatal fracas as the movie continued without interruption.

Funeral arrangements for Holmes are being made at the Dabney Home for Funerals on Wednesday.

Proving that the color of a worker's skin has nothing do with his efficiency on a job, these two workers are employed in the Park Ave. office of Dr. Jacob W. Barenburg, white optometrist, in Baltimore. On the left is Mrs. Geraldine Smith Hawkins of 1116 N. Fulton Ave., who has been a lens grinder at the office for over four years. On the right is Miss Irma Curry of 1524 May Ct., who has been a typist and file clerk there for more than six months.

Doctor Orders Colier to Rest

Adjustment Hard for Former Fugitive

NEWARK

John Colier, 28, who was set free by Gov. Alfred E. Driscoll's withdrawal of an extradition warrant for his surrender to South Carolina authorities, is now resting at the home of Mrs. Lillie Booth, of 222 Warren St., on orders of a physician, Mrs. Booth told the AFRO on Tuesday.

Colier, gained his freedom after spending 28 months in Newark Jail, while South Carolina authorities sought his return to complete a term on a chain gang.

Slowly Becoming Normal

Since his release on Aug. 6, Colier at various times escaped the public in order to become adjusted to normal living.

Although he said he is ready and willing to work, he is unable to remain at one occupation more than a short period because of his health.

Weighing 176, Colier who is six feet, one inch tall, weighed over 200 pounds at the time of his arrest in 1946.

Abram Golden, Colier's counsel who worked militantly for two years for his release in New Jersey, and J. Mercer Burrell, associate counsel, secured lodging for their client in Mulberry Arcade.

Leaves Lodging and Job

Colier apparently did not relish being alone, and went to the home of Mrs. Booth, who with her husband, visited him regularly and gave him gifts during his stay in jail.

Golden gave him a job after he had rested several days, but Colier soon gave up the work because "I can't seem to get myself together," he mourned.

Colier said he was anxious to get work as a mechanic, truck driver, cook, dishwasher or shoemaker. He explained that he had experience in all those jobs.

Mrs. Booth told the AFRO that Colier had relatives in Orange. He stated after his release that his nearest relative was a sister who lives in Philadelphia, Pa.

Colier's case history and fight against extradition began in 1945 following his arrest here on a disorderly conduct charge.

He had escaped from a South Carolina prison after serving all but nine months of a sentence for stealing 10 packs of cigarettes, four packs of gum and $5, a charge which he denied.

South Carolina authorities learned that he was in New Jersey and began extradition proceedings.

Freed Despite Court

The Baptist Ministers Conference of Newark and Vicinity had in financing the fight and the NAACP and other groups aided in lesser degree.

While Golden and Burrell took the proceedings through Chancery Court of Errors and Appeals and the Supreme Court, where the highest tribunal refused to review the case.

Representatives of the Ministers and other groups met with Gov. Driscoll last March and offered to take full responsibility if Colier should be be given his freedom in New Jersey.

Gov. Driscoll reserved his decision until Aug. 5 when he announced that he would recall the warrant for Colier's return to South Carolina on the basis of the request and offers of the representatives group and the time Colier had been a prisoner here.

Bowling Alley Picketed by Young Progressives

PHILADELPHIA

The Jimmy Dykes Colonial Recreation Center, 5212 Sansom St., was picketed by members of the Young Progressives of America, Saturday night, after two colored persons were not allowed to bowl there.

Members of the group charged that in barring the colored group the center was following an established policy of racial discrimination.

This was denied by John Holloway, manager of the center, who said that the center, which is owned by Jimmy Dykes, one-time major league manager and player, does not discriminate against colored persons.

Gives Trivial Excuse

He said the reason the two persons were barred Saturday night was that they did not have bowling shoes.

Members of the Young Progressives said the question of shoes came up, but that when the colored persons presented shoes an employee of the club told them there were no alleys.

The Young Progressives of America is an adjunct of the Progressive Party. Members said they will continue to picket the center on week ends.

Whites Protest Ark. College Sale

LITTLE ROCK (ANP)—Although the sale of white Little Rock Junior College to Philander Smith College has been completed, white residents are still up in arms against the deal. Last week, approximately 20 protestants attended a public hearing, only to learn that there was "nothing to be done about it."

The protesting group contended that the erection of a colored college would decrease neighborhood property values. When Dr. Ed Barron, board president, announced the building had been sold at its appraised value of $222,350 nothing can be done about it," they angrily stalked out.

No Chance in Court

John R. Thompson, attorney, representing the opposing group, said he did not believe that the sale could be attacked successfully in court "because of the recent action in Congress, but I do not believe the board wants to displease the people."

Another objector, C. R. Howell, said the sale would reduce by $1000 to $1500 the value of property he recently sold to veterans. He said he would not object if the board established a public colored school at the site.

It is difficult to see why so much furore has been created.

Political Tremors Rock Old South as Liberals Win

Die-Hards Upset as Colored Voters Give. Big Majority to Sidney McCath in Arkansas

By STAFF CORRESPONDENT

LITTLE ROCK, Ark.—The past week witnessed many, many strange things among the Dixiecrats. Sidney (Sid) McMath, Hot Springs, 36-year-old Marine hero and liberal, won the gubernatorial nomination on a ticket refusing to bring the race issue in his campaign over Jack Holt, State Attorney General of Little Rock.

Holt, a rabid Dixiecrat, lost by over 10,000 votes. The incumbent governor, Ben Laney, said it was all wrong because 10,000 colored people voted for McMath in Little Rock, Pine Bluff, Hot Springs and Fort Smith, so they held a mass meeting Sunday in Little Rock to try to run Holt as a Dixiecrat.

"We can't stand for the colored people to elect a governor in Arkansas," said the retiring governor, Laney. They never learn.

In refusing to be a party to inflammatory discussions of race issues, McMath declared, "all people died in the war just closed to preserve freedom and democracy. They all have their places in the sun in the enjoyment of blood bought rights."

Among colored leaders who helped put McMath over are Harold Flowers, young lawyer of Pine Bluff, and Dr. J. M. Robinson, physician of Little Rock.

The Rev. DeWitt T. Alcorn, mid-South leader and AFRO representative, who recently made a tour of Arkansas and talked with Mr. McMath, wired congratulations to Mr. McMath. "We confidentially anticipate you will be a great governor," said the minister who is secretary of the colored Memphis Chamber of Commerce.

The Rev. Mr. Alcorn declared, "The new governor of Arkansas bespeaks a new day of opportunity and hope for decent citizens."

New Proposal

The Democratic executive committee of Texas gave Dixiecracy a hard blow this week when they ruled that Thurmond and Wright could not be placed on the Texas ballots. Texas is the home of ex-Speaker Sam Rayburn, permanent chairman of the convention, which nominated President Truman and Senator Barkley.

Then Senator W. Lee (Biscuit) O'Daniels of Texas, twin spiritual brother of the late Theodore Bilbo, announced his retirement from the Senate.

In Mississippi, Governor Wright, the Nestor of demagogues, wondered what could be done to prevent the colored people from voting. He wants to call a special session of the Legislature to deal with that very "delicate" subject. He proposed a "moral" test. "Let's require the colored people to bring their marriage certificates to the polls," he said.

For many years they did not give any marriage certificates to colored people, especially in working season. One of the legislators has proposed that it be made obligatory to voting to interpret the Constitution of the United States. But there is objection to that.

"Don't bother the colored people about the Constitution. They will all memorize it," it was pointed out. So they all chorused, "What can we do?"

Meantime, 15,000,000 bales of cotton are being produced this year and the big landlords want the politicians to shut up on the colored agitation, declaring, "You will cause them to leave this cotton field, and you know this damn mechanical cotton picker is not working."

Folsom to Retire

Alabama's Big Jim Folsom announced he is going to retire at the expiration of his term. He was a candidate for the nomination against President Truman, but not even Alabama was for Big Jim.

His former secretary had just filed a suit against him saying he was the father of her illegitimate child, and gave testimony that "We lived as husband and wife and he promised to marry me."

Rose Crump of Tennessee went down for a count of ten by Colonel Browning and Congressman Estes Kefauver whom he accused of being a Red.

An estimated 25,000 colored voters in Memphis are preparing to link up with the forces of reform to bury Crump in November.

Henry Wallace has announced he will actively campaign in the South.

Governor Earl K. Long of Louisiana has given the Dixiecrats a cold shoulder: He would not attend the Houston, Texas, meeting. His nephew, Russell Long, son of the late Huey P. Long, is a candidate for U.S. Senate. It is awfully hot in the Deep South.

Envisions New South

The old South is dying; the new South is being born, but the labor pains are great. The tobacco chewing cot house gang is thinning out, but they are madder than a setting hen with Truman, Dewey, Wallace and the Supreme Court. They are mad with everybody except themselves, and they are divided. "A house divided against itself cannot stand," so listen for the fall.

Ronakoe to Host State Civic Group

STAUNTON, Va.—Local branch of the NAACP is a bee-hive of activity these days. Plans are being completed to play host to the 13th anual convention of the Virginia State Conference of the NAACP here, Oct. 1-2-3.

The Rev. T. J. Jemison, president of the branch, is taxing the energies of his coworkers in providing for every anticipated need and desires of the delegates.

The convention date has been moved forward, approximately 30 days this year, in order that more time might be had to "survey the field of battle and plan the attack," the conference realizing that a challenge has been flung in the face of every citizen in the State.

Already the lines of battle are clearly drawn. The NACCP, through its broad school facilities program, has succeeded in focusing wide attention on the educational abuses as practiced under a dual citizenship regime. Activity in a number of school divisions is progressing as planned.

Convention Call Quoted

The call sent out for the conventions said, in part:

Today, we are voicing the conclusion which was reached many years ago, that is, "There is no such thing as separate but equal." The history of the colored American and his struggle toward complete citizenship dictates the validity of this conclusion, not only in the educational field, but in all other phases of our daily lives: housing, recreation, employment, health.

"This program is presenting a new American citizen with a completely revised pattern of thinking to the powers to be." This American is no longer afraid of request, yes demanding, that which is constitutionally his.

"Come then, let us reason together at the 13th annual State convention, in Staunton, Oct. 1-2-3, lest we lose that which we have gained."

Pythians Re-elect Nutter Chancellor for 31st Term

KEYSTONE, W. Va.—The West Virginia State Grand Lodge, Knights of Pythias and Court of Calanthe held their joint annual session here last week with one of the largest attendance in the history of the order.

The session opened with a public meeting at which the Mayor of Keystone welcomed the delegates. Greetings were brought also by representatives of the Lily of the Valley Lodge and Sojourner Truth Court of this city.

Highlights of the convention were reports by T. G. Nutter, grand chancellor for 30 terms, and Mrs. Lola M. Mack, grand worthy counsellor.

Death Claims Paid

Mr. Nutter reported that in the last five years—over $60,000 was paid in death claims, and that since its founding the Knights of Pythias had paid a total of $619,950.16 in claims.

In addition, the Grand Lodge loaned over $300,000 to institutions which saved their property. The Court of Calanthe paid over $200,000 in death claims since its founding.

The State Grand Lodge owns buildings in Charleston, Huntington and Keystone, where the sessions were held. The Court of Calanthe met at Mount Chapel Church.

Officers Elected

The Pythians elected the following officers:

T. G. Nutter, grand chancellor; C. W. Boyd, keeper of records and seal; J. Jones, vice chancellor; Earl Johnson, grand master of exchequer; Crockett, prelate; J. M. Ellis, attorney; Stewart A. Calhoun, assistant attorney; W. M. Davis, master of exchequer; H. C. Hargrove, registrar; H. French Hunter, master-at-arms; J. E. Haskins, inner guard; W. M. Campbell, outer guard, and Paul Johnson, trigadier general.

New officers of the Court of Calanthe are:

Mrs. Lola M. Mack, grand worthy counsellor; Mrs. Maggie Johnson, worthy inspector; Mrs. Emma Anderson, worthy inspectrix; Grayce Seams, registrar; Mrs. Pearl I. Johnson, receiver of deposits; Mrs. Mary E. Miller, orator; Mrs. Lenia C. Price, worthy directress; Mrs. Sophia T. Shoemaker, assistant directress; Mrs. Agnes Taylor, conductress.

Mrs. Beulah Anderson, assistant conductress, Mrs. Emma V. Harris, escort; Mrs. Lulu Polk, herald; Mrs. Margaret Fleming, protector; Mrs. Florence White, lecturer; Dr. J. W. Shellcroft, medical registrar; J. M. Ellis, attorney; Mrs. Julia V. Wilkerson, matron, and Mesdames Mary E. Jones, Mary A. Hargrove and Susie E. Marks, trustees.

Burglary Suspect Caught Entering Apartment

PHILADELPHIA

Charged with burglarizing the apartment of Richard Anderson, 816 Poplar St., Robert L. Jackson, 10, of 13th St., near York, was held without bail for court, Thursday, by Magistrate Hobson R. Reynolds. He was captured after Miss Mary Stone of the Poplar St. address summoned police.

GI Loan Helped Veteran Organize Business in D.C

WASHINGTON

Doing a stint in the Army may have been tough on some soldiers, but to Wilmer Shakesnider it was a lucky break.

Shakesnider upon being demobilized applied for a GI loan which enabled him to build one of Washington's most progressive business concerns, "The Sheke Ice Vending Company."

The AFRO, which had been receiving reports from ex-GI's that they had considerable difficulty in landing GI loans, asked if he experienced the same barrier.

Good Proposition

He replied: "I feel that if you have a good proposition, you will have no difficulty in receiving aid, at least that is how I found it."

Flushed with his Washington success, Shakesnider is planning to extend his operations to Atlanta next year. He already has contracted for an order of 20 trucks in preparation for the expansion.

Realizing that the bulk of his income is obtained from youngsters from 11 to 15 years of age, he has supported Police Boys Club activities.

Because there is no playground in the Ontario Rd. area in which he lives, he bought several hundred memberships for the kids in the community and also equipped a sandlot team that is leading the PBC league.

Battles Delinquency

His contributions towards battling juvenile delinquency have paid dividends, because, he notes that there has been a considerable decrease in juvenile crime in his locality.

Although, he intends to hire all applicants, regardless of race, his staff of 31 employees is all colored.

When he inserted a want ad for drivers at the beginning of year, he had a number of white applicants, who maintained that they weren't interested in the racial identity of their prospective employer.

Asked Reciprocal Deal

However, he didn't hire any of the whites. He offered to hire whites, if a Mr. Briner, personnel manager of the Good Humor Ice Cream Co., his largest competitor, would hire colored drivers.

Mr. Shakesnider negotiated for a concession at Maryland University's grid games last year and his bid was okayed via telephone. However, when he showed up in person, he was given the "we're sorry, but . . ." treatment.

He's a hustling business man with the following philosophy: "Business will take care of itself if you take care of the business."

Fond of Flying

The young ice cream mogul served in the air forces with 20th and 332nd Fighter squadons as a master sergeant. He was a crew chief and member of the flying staff stationed at Godman Field.

He is still interested in flying; as he owns a Piper Cub and spends his leisure hours whizzing about in his bouncing two seater.

He graduated from Central High School in Galveston, Texas; attended New Orleans University and Fisk U., in Nashville. He was interested in the medical field and is a son of a pharmacist in Galveston.

He has been a resident of the District for 12 years. Among the persons associated with Shakesnider in his ice cream business are:

Jerome Williams, Hubert McAdams, A. B. Harrison, B. F. Taylor, Parnell Johnson, E. Douglass, Thomas E. Harvey, William Smith, John Sandifer, Randolph Scott, Jerome Wilson, Jerome Bailey, Robert Washington, Jerome McAdams, Clifton Thomas, Charles Sadler, Jack Copeland, Arthur Bailey.

Roger Adams, Wilmer Shakesnider, Moses Simokins, Grant Garris and William Lynch, all drivers, Miss Mildred McAdams, Miss Lillian Murray, Mrs. Ruby Shakesnider and Miss Vera Meadams, make up the office staff.

ISLAND CUSTOM FROWNED UPON

Resitto Magend, 318 N. Green St., a Philippine seaman who allegedly struck Miss Mirrie Cobb of the same address during an argument, was fined $11.45 following a hearing on Thursday in Western police court.

INCONVENIENCED BUS PASSENGER

Convicted of stealing a lady's suitcase and clothing valued at $23 from a Baltimore St. bus station, Joseph Harris, no home, was given a 30-day jail sentence on Thursday in Western police court.

Allen Stokes of 4616 Falls Rd. was given a suspended fine of $11.45 in Housing Court on Tuesday when Magistrate Harry Kruger found he had failed to completely clean up his debris cluttered yard.

An investigating officer testified that Mr. Stokes had cleared out most of the trash accumulation, but that a stack of auto tires remained pending their removal by a filling station proprietor who had stored them there. The owner of the tires has been notified, Mr. Stokes said.

A six-month sentence to the State Reformatory for Women was meted out on Tuesday in Western police court to Miss Mattie Creek, 20, of 619 Houser St., who was convicted of cutting Miss Sylvia Dukes of 808 N. Calhoun St. during a dispute.

Convicted in Western police court on Tuesday of stealing a robe and earrings valued at $11.54 from a downtown department store, Miss Pauline Johnson, 26, 1122 E. Lombard St., was fined $11.45 by Magistrate Preston Pairo.

Bail totaling $1000 was set in Western police court on Tuesday for Mrs. Elvena Coleman, 33, of 655 S. Paca St., who was charged with selling whiskey without a license and with having numbers slips in her possession.

Vandals Break Into Physician's Honeymoon Cottage

BRIDAL PAIR VACATIONING:

Housebreakers Enter Honeymoon Cottage

Taking advantag of the couple's vacationing at Cape May, N.J., and New York, burglars broke into the honeymoon cottage of Dr. and Mrs. Thomas Gunn of 2410 Overland Ave. in Morgan Park.

The Morgan Park Community has not been bothered with housebreakers for years and this incident, by someone who must have watched the Gunns and known that they were away, has created some alarm.

Neighbors first noticed that there was a large stick on the front porch which had not been there the day before and that a back window, which has venetian blinds, was open.

Burglars Enjoy Snack

An investigation showed that the stick had been used to break open the window; and it is thought that the marauders entered that way.

The shutters to the front window opening on the porch were not provided with locks. Further police investigation showed that whoever entered the house opened a can of sardines and a package of crackers and ate a light snack.

The gas range was left on also, which would indicate that the intruders contemplated cooking a hot meal and then changed their minds.

Leave by Front Door

In addition to the open window on the second floor back, police found that a radio and table lamp had been disconnected, but that evidently the house-breakers had not had chance to remove them. They left by the front door.

Dr. and Mrs. T. I. Brown of 2408 Overland Ave., who live next door, said they had not heard any unusual sounds during the night.

Frank Sorrell who lives directly across the street at Montebello Terrace, was the first to notice the open window in the back.

The Gunns went away week before last. Mrs. Gunn, the former Mrs. Virginia Hall Briscoe, returned while her husband went to New York, and she left Sunday to join him.

This is the honeymoon cottage of Dr. and Mrs. Thomas Gunn at 2410 Overland Ave., Morgan Park, which was entered by vandals this week, while the Gunns were vacationing. Mrs. Gunn is the former Mrs. Virginia Hall Briscoe. Close-up view of the cottage shows where the intruders used a stick to break the front window, through which it is believed they entered the house. Police said they ate a light snack and left the gas burning. Photo at extreme right shows rear view of the cottage and the open shutters which caused neighbors to become suspicious and call police, who found the furniture disturbed. The picture on the Right shows window also opened by the lawbreakers.

Summer Play Program to Close

Marking the end of a nine-week program of summer work, 11 playgrounds conducted by the Bureau of Recreation will close down (today) Friday.

They were located at Grove 2 in Druid Hill Park, City Springs Square, and on the grounds of Public Schools Nos. 156, 157, 158, 159, 111, 125, 100, 135 and 124.

The fall and winter programs will go into effect on Oct. 1.

Funds Running Low

Because of the outstanding need of South Baltimore, the hours were reduced at the center held in School No. 126 on Sharp St. near Montgomery, and the program will continue on this basis.

Harold S. Callowhill, superintendent of the Bureau of Recreation, stated that during the first seven months of 1948, a total of $19,824.37 had been spent in part-time salaries for colored recreational workers, as compared with $6,040 spent during the same period in 1947.

Couldn't Honor Requests

This represented an increase of $13,329.52. Mr. Callowhill stated that the bureau must "pull in its belt and go on short rations for the rest of the year."

It was for this reason that the bureau was unable to honor the petition signed by 188 members of the Mothers Club of South Baltimore, requesting the continuation of the playground on the fall schedule, Mr. Callowhill said.

Used Car Dealer Probe Promised by House Group

WASHINGTON

Unscrupulous used car dealers, who have been profiteering on the used car market with automobiles that are in demand, are going to be investigated by the House subcommittee on trade practices, it was announced this week.

E. R. Ferguson Jr., assistant counsel to the investigating committee, said Monday, that the hearing will be held "when we are absolutely sure of our ground."

He revealed that committee investigators are at present working on between 80 and 125 complaints of unfair trade practices in automobiles against dealers both in Washington and in nearby Maryland and Virginia.

These complaints, he stated, fall into "prette definite patterns." Many individuals report "bad beatings" in trade-in values. Others charge dealers with holding deposits for cars for too long a time.

Others charge car purchasers have been overloaded with accessories.

When the public hearings are held, Mr. Ferguson said, both reputable dealers and the "disreputable" dealers against whom charges have been substantiated by investigation will be called to testify.

Mr. Ferguson said he hopes the hearings will benefit the reputable dealers, along with the general public.

Dealer Blames Private Owners

Sunday, during a radio broadcast over Station WINX, of Hyattsville, a used car dealer, said that private car owners were as much to blame for the so called gray market at the dealers.

He contended that, daily, owners of 1948 automobile phone bits disgruntled over their cars and seeking to be compensated for the loss in money, which they believed was sustained in trading in their old cars.

Seaman Denies Guilt in Slaying

John Knowles, the 26-year-old "love mad" seaman, pleaded not guilty, Tuesday, when arraigned on charges of slashing his young sweetheart to death in Druid Hill Park on June 13.

Judge Michael Manley appointed Maurice T. Seigal, attorney, to represent Knowles, who was taken back to jail to await trial.

Woman Hacked Mercilessly

The body of Miss Ruby Davis, 21, was stabbed dozens of times in view of Sunday motorists who were in the vicinity of Druid Lake Drive.

Knowles surrendered himself a few yards away from the scene of the slaying.
