Civic League Flower Show Reincarnates Former Charm

with Lula Jones Garrett

The Co-operative Women's Civic League recaptured its old charm on Sunday afternoon, when some 400 women donned their finest feathers and tripped down to the YWCA to sip tea and judge flower arrangements at the annual flower show.

Gladys Sheppers, who chairmaned the affair, wore, ever-so-swank-ly, beaded bronze crepe, and President Viola Jackson, a black moire taffeta. The full length flared coat in apple red, worn by Marion Reid, was very fine, and a rolled back brim black felt hat, donned by Audrey Butler, drew flattering comments. Constantia Jackson's black and silver ensemble and the beige lace frock worn by Estelle Lee were a-plenty smart. Frances White in a winter white suit co-ordinated with brown, and Elizabeth Marshall in smoke blue were also smart accents at the affair.

Judges were Miss Reid, Mrs. Edna Finney, Mrs. Jackson and Miss Lena Dickerson. Miss Alice Taylor was chairman of the garden committee.

Prizes went to:

Flower Arrangement Variety: Mrs. Angeline Smith, first; Mrs. Carrie Pettus, second; 27th Ward, third;

Flower Arrangement One Color: Miss Ida Levi, marigold, first; Mrs. Mary Miller, yellow roses, second; Mrs. Sarah Rayne, red roses, third;

Single Bonquets: Mrs. Helen Luca, red dahlias, first; Mrs. Maggie Diggs, zennias, second; Mrs. Louise Rogers, red dahlias, third;

Canned Goods: Mrs. Spencer Dodson, peaches, first; Mrs. Marie Taylor, apple sause, second; Mrs. Kate Woodhouse, wax beans, third;

Needle Work: Mrs. Ethel Davis, bed spread, first; Miss Lota Howard bed spread, second; Miss Doroby Ros, table cloth, third.

AKA'S CORRAL TALENT

Alpha Kappa Alpha sorors snagged a hunk of swank entertainment for their bazaar on the 23rd.

Entertainers from uptown and downtown night clubs will be emceed by Chuck Richards. Rose Lee Fachs, the portrait artist, will do sketches that evening. Little Mme. Augusta will do readings. Some new selling features have been added to those already so well-known, and will include linens done by the girls of the Maryland Training School and leather articles from the Maryland Prison. There's going to be a table of old-fashioned aprons for sale, some home made cakes and cookies to auction off between those celebrities' gifts, which, incidentally, have been augmented by scores of new ones, including a handsome pair of ebony book ends which Soror Etta Moten fetched back from Africa on her recent trip there.

POT-POURI

Christine Carey (she's the daughter of Mrs. Annie B. Walker of Charlottesville, Va) library, Tulsa, Okla. since her graduation from Hampton, and J. D. Davis of Oklahoma City, were married, last week. They will be East during the Christmas holidays.

George Mercer, the Washington cartoonist whose drawings appear frequently in the AFRO magazine, will wed Miss Anita Sims, Sunday.

The Michael Branches (Frances Dougherty) of Bel Air have a baby girl as of the 24th. The young miss has been named Jeanette Elizabeth.

The Frank Fowlkeses are back from Kingston, Jamaica, where they vacationed. She (Mae) did the National Recreation Workers Convention in Omaha, Neb. ere returning. Pauline Ford is tucked in Provident Hospital for the notice.

DELTA HOLD SESSION

That stream of harmony heard from the direction of the YWCA lecture room Tuesday night came from members of Epsilon Sigma Chapter, Delta Sigma Theta Sorority, who engaged in a regular song fest after a business meeting.

Led by Rubye Gill, the community singing included Delta pep and serious songs to which the girls blended their voices. The meeting also featured the first distribution of "Delta Chatter" a chapter publication with highlights about the group's members, and with articles showing off their particular literary talents. The "Chatter" committe which will publish an issue for each meeting, includes Hazel Barrett, Osceola Savage, Jane Freeland, Harriet Peat, Lucille Johnson, Ida Smith and Mae Morris.

ed plans for Spring activities which

Other committee reports reveal. promise to be lively. Done up in a Hallowe'en motif, a buffet dinner was served by the hostess committee, with Ida Nixon as chairman.

Menu was frankfurters, slaw potato chips, rolls, and tea. Lighter aspects of the recent national Delta convention including the show put on by Sugar Chile Robinson, were related to the group by Pearl Wilson, chapter president; Muriel Johnson, regional director; and A. Dukye Woode.

HAYES ELECTED

The Baltimore Club of Howard Alumni, guests of its clergymen members at a buffet supper, Friday night, elected U. Theodore Hayes, attorney, to succeed another attorney, Roy S. Bond, as president.

Other new officers inducted were Vivian Briggs, who became financial secretary-treasurer and Linwood Koger, attorney, sergeant-at-arms. Other officers are Mamie Woodford, business manager; Dr. Miles Connor, chaplain; Ruth Lighston, secretary; and a trio of vice presidents — Dr. Frank Sykes, Gladys Taylor and Ethel Hughes.

JACK AND JILL SESSION

Marion Banfield went into the presidency when the Baltimore chapter of Jack and Jill Club of America, met Wednesday eve in St. James Parish House.

Doris Oswald is vice president; Marguerite Daniels, corresponding secretary; Hilda Higgins, recording secretary; Catherine Jackson, financial secretary; Charlotte Hackett, parliamentarian and Bernice Monroe, journalist.

Evaluation of last year's program revealed that physical education, instrumental instruction, darmatics, interpretive dancing and a rhythm band benefitted their hundred children.

The sixty-two mothers who comprise the chapter membership, had as their major projects providing musical instruction for released paralytics under the public school system, and hospitalization for rheumatic fever victims.

Commendation was received from both Governor Lane and Dr. William Lemmel, superintendent of education, by the club.

Conference reports made by Delegates Sadie Marshall and Bernice Monroe gave an insight into the purposes and aims of the national body. Charlotte Shervington is program chairman for the year.

OMEGA AUXILIARY MEETS

The initial meeting of the Omega Auxiliary was held Friday at Parole, Md., at the summer home of the Fletchers. A motorcade of gay Omegians rolled to "The Linden" which nestles among massive trees on a span of beautiful lawn. There they were greeted by a blazing roasting-pit and the sport-clad Fletchers.

Soon amidst the eating of crisp cooked wiener and slips of cold beer, mixed voices joined the curling smoke in the autumn air. The male quartette and the men's rendition of the Omega songs easily won first honors. As a result of brief business meeting prior to the socializing, the entire slate of officers was re-elected. Hostesses were Sally Fletcher, Helen Lee, Ronnie Carr, Ruby Gill and Rosa Hampton.

CELEBRATE BIRTHDAYS

Maria Alexis and Veronica La Verne, daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Harold A. Clark of 1712 McCulloh St., were entertained last Saturday evening with a joint birthday party in their honor.

They celebrated their second and fourth natal days.

Their guests included Leonore Woods, Cecelia and Elizabeth Chatman, Linda and Joseph Lee, Lynda Green, James McGilbern Jr., Roland B. Williams, Zelma Betty Jones, Yvonne and Yvette Barnes, Mary Holman, Robert F. Bailey and Eleanor M. Bailey.
