'Canon City,' Thrill Drama Held-Over at New Albert

"Canon City," the semi-documentary film of the newsshattering prison break of 12 convicts from the Colorado State Penitentiary last December 30, is another in the list of Eagle Lion Films releases to bring screen stories based on actual facts to motion picture audiences.

The picture, which brings to the screen the dynamic moments of the jail break which made news headlines in the midst of the yule-tide season last year is being held over a second week by popular demand at the New Albert Theatre.

Eagle Lion Films' other semi-documentary pictures based on true stories include "T-Men," "23 Clues," "These Were My Orders" and "T-Man on the Border."

"T-Man," the Edward Small production, is based on the work of Treasury Department agents in uncovering a nationwide counterfeiting gang. "T-Men on the Border," the sequel to the original "T-Man," and now in production, is based on the border agents of the Treasury Department in a case of a smuggling gang.

Also held over will be "Stepchild," a drama picturing the effects of divorce and broken homes on children. Plus serial selected shorts and latest news.

Theodore C. Stone In Sunday Recital

To Appear Here at Metropolitan Church

Showmanship, voice and a knowledge of music in all of its phases would seem to provide an unbeatable combination for a singing star, such as will be observed when Theodore Charles Stone, baritone of international fame, appears here Sunday at Metropolitan Methodist Church at 5 o'clock.

The theory expressed in the first paragraph seems to bear fruit in the case of handsome and gifted Stone, who recently won high acclaim after a concert in New York's Times Hall, where critics, distinguished singers, musicians, and composers joined with music lovers in applauding him.

His ambition stems from an early experience in hearing opera, and concert singers, and as a student in the public school he sang solos in the school productions. Later he entered Samuel Huston College and became a member of the glee club, the choir and finally featured soloist.

Studying voice and piano, he became vitally interested in theory of music, history and language, and from all of these gained an exceptional musical insight which has always been impressive and rewarding.

Several years ago during a visit of the great Marian Anderson, her accompanist at the time, Kosti Vehanen, heard him sing and offered him a chance to study under his guidance in his native Finland. His study in Helsinki, Finland, was realized and his popularity since that unique experience has brought him outstanding contact and attractiveness here and abroad.

Red Cross Work Abroad

TRENTON — Miss Evelyn N. Hudson of 625 S. Warren St. has returned home after serving as a Red Cross recreation worker at service clubs in the Pacific area.

Daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Hudson, she is a graduate of Trenton Central High School and Trenton State Teachers' College.

Featured on Royal Stage

This lovely lady is Camille Howard, pianist-vocalist, with Roy Milton and his Solid Senders now co-heading the Royal stage bill with Boyd Raeburn and his nationally known band.

Concords and Discords

By LLEWELLYN WILSON

Among Baltimore sopranos, Beulah Poindexter is making quite a name for herself.

For a number of years, Mrs. Poindexter has been studying under some of our best local teachers and her serious efforts show excellent results.

At present her voice is clear and resonant and the disturbing vibration, commonly called vibrato, which so often mars otherwise beautiful tone production, is absent in Mrs. Poindexter's singing.

Sang at NANM

At the recent NANM convention Mrs. Poindexter appeared as soloist and was received with acclaim by the large group of musicians present.

Like many of our progressive singers here, she finds time to serve in the church choir at Enon Baptist, where she is often heard as soloist.

It is gratifying to observe that most of our gifted singers who have added training to enhance and to improve their innate talents very often find time to serve the community through the church.

Pupils in our public schools are getting instruction in piano classes established recently by the Department of Education. The first of these classes was established in the music department at Douglass High School. The teacher of piano there is May Guice.

Musicians at Morgan

Quite a number of members of the local musical colony journeyed to Morgan State College Community Center last Sunday to play with the Community orchestra which J. O. B. Moseley is organizing.

The response to the call indicates that our local orchestral players are intensely interested and the initial attendance was encouraging.

The music division of the Department of Education has established an interracial orchestra, made up of music teachers in the public schools.

This group was organized and will be directed by Richard Berg, supervisor of instrumental music in Baltimore Public Schools. They rehearse at Baltimore City College.

Musical Clinics in Making

Plans are now under way to establish clinics in the development of instrumental classes for pupils who desire instruction. These classes will be held in one of the local schools on Saturday mornings.

Local choirs in many of the churches are already preparing elaborate musical programs for the watt until "the night before Christmas" arrives. This is indeed a sign of real musical growth here—services.

Roy Milton, Boyd Raeburn Sharing Royal Spotlight

In the midst of a record-breaking dance and theatre tour, Roy Milton and his versatile Solid Senders, plus Boyd Raeburn's orchestra, are currently at the Royal Theatre for one week.

Milton has added the well-known Earl Hines trumpet player, Arthur Walker, and Roy, who beats the skins as well as vocalizes, is backed up by the brilliant and rapidly rising piano-song stylist, Camille Howard, and such old reliables as Bill Gaither, tenor sax; Jack Kelton, alto; Dallas Bartley, bass, and the sensational 17-year-old guitarist, Johnny Rogers, former Oklahoma schoolboy.

Latest reports from the disc and juke box polls show another Milton hit has crashed into the select circle.

Honored by Cash Box

In a recent issue, "Cash Box Magazine" received the news that was Roy's latest "Everything I Do Is Wrong," following on the heels of other Milton successes, "R. M. Blues" and "Then There Eyes."

Roy's versatile pianist and song stylist, Miss Howard, currently has the disc world agog with her smashing renditions of "Has Your Love Grown Cold" and "Barracuda Blues."

In their inimitable style, Roy and the Solid Senders have made themselves favorites in everplace for their dates throughout this tour and have just concluded a successful engagement at the Howard in Washington.

Vieing for headline honors are Boyd Raeburn and his brilliant aggregation which includes some of the greatest sidemen in swingdom today, while his music is classed as the newest rhythm in America. Other acts listed on this prize stage package are The Four Stepbrothers, Pigmeat Markham and the Delmars.

To Sing at Morgan

Marion Jackson Downs, lyric soprano, who will be presented in recital Sunday at 4:00 p.m., at the Morgan Christian Center, Morgan State College. Admission is free.

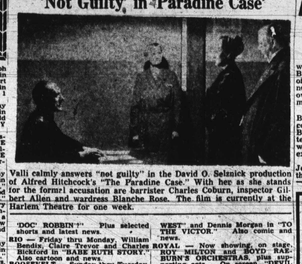
'Not Guilty,' in 'Paradine Case'



Valli calmly answers "not guilty" in the David O. Selznick production of Alfred Hitchcock's "The Paradine Case." With her as she stands for the former accusation are barrister Charles Coburn, inspector Gilbert Allen and wardress Blanche Ross. The film is currently at the Harlem Theatre for one week.

Avenue to Hold Revue 3rd Week

Football Matinee Saturday Afternoon

Following two successful smash weeks at the Avenue Cafe, Brown's Bronze Bruisiles, the most-talked-of complete show to hit the Avenue in some time, will be held over a third week by popular demand.

Featured in the unit are Wee Bee Booze, Baltimore's own blues recording and night club favorite; Brown and Brown, Apache dance team; Harry Gibbs, who gives out with comedy plus, and Yatilda Dix, exotic dancer.

An extra added attraction is Jesse Davis, a former dancer with the Four Stepbrothers, who also is a crowd pleaser with his difficult routine.

Music is furnished by the Avenue Playboys, featuring William Ross on tenor sax.

New numbers and costumes will mark the current show which will be presented nightly with a matinee on Sunday and Thursday afternoon.

The entire revue will be presented at a "Football Matinee, tomorrow (Sat.), beginning at 5 p.m., following the Morgan-Howard game at Morgan State College.
