Baltimore AFRO Pictures and Opinions of the Week

Milady's Headgear Reflects Sparkling Personalities

Miss Nina Ellis of New York makes a pretty study in a picture hat trimmed with baby bows and attractive veil. Just the thing for a fall social event.

In words, as in fashions, the same rule will hold,
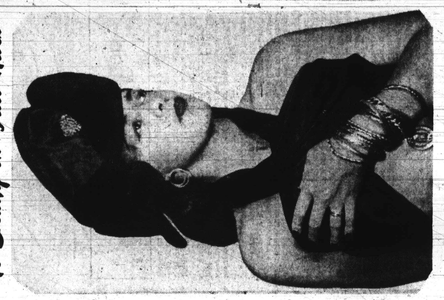
Alike fantastic if too new or old;
Be not the first by whom the new
are tried,
Nor yet the last to lay the old aside.
—ALEXANDER POPE.

A Study in Tall Hats



A black satin chapeau with dipped brim and a dainty cluster of pearls makes Miss Emily Satchell of Morristown, N.J., a fetching model in this Jon Kay Butler creation.

And How Do You Like These Creations?

More Butler creations are modeled by Miss Satchell in this series of bewitching styles which will be seen this fall. Flowers, pets and feathers are used to advantage to give each a distinctive touch.

The Baltimore Afro-American, October 23, 1948

AFRO MAGAZINE SECTION

Only The AFRO Has All Three

Something New

The pre-kindergarten class at Alexander School No. 112, which is now in its fourth week, is one of the types in the local schools.

Many 3-6 children, between the ages of 2 and 5, are under the guidance of three teachers and the Cheerful atmosphere, as they play, eat, sleep and play. When they arrive, they are greeted by the coolness of fruit juice and water. Then at 9 a.m. they engage in such activities as painting, building with blocks and playing games, including stories and playing games.

At 11:30 they are fed a well-balanced lunch. The children have their own table and serve themselves. Correct table manners are taught.

After the meal they wash up, take off their own coats and hats and have a rest period. Then they hop, skip and take a nap for over an hour.

Minimum Teacher Assistance

Then the youngsters are made to feel at home in the playroom with as little help from the teachers as possible.

While awaiting their parents, the children are read to them by the teachers.

Sometimes the children are taken on a trip to the playground of the Gilmor Housing Project where they have a lot of fun. Many new toys have been added to the playroom equipment. A new slide, bicycles, wagons, dolls and carriages are among the new toys.

All of the tables and chairs are in proportion to the size of the children. Each child has a peg rack and a cubby hole to put his coat, hat, etc.

As a part of instructions received in the pre-kindergarten class at Alexander School No. 112, the 3 to 5-year-old youngsters learn how to make their beds after their afternoon nap. The two little girls shown above are industriously folding their blankets while some of their sleepy playmates catch a few extra winks. The boy looks as if he would like to go back to bed.

Every child is given individual attention in washing, dressing and taking care of his personal needs. The parents pay 10 cents per day for each child. If there is an emergency and the child's parents pay day is provided by her son and Mrs. Martha Johnson, are teachers and experienced. Mrs. Wilkerson is principal of the school.

Fellowship House Doll Library Exhibit Is Prize Winner

Exhibits sponsored by the Doll Library of the Baltimore Fellowship House won first and second prizes in the international doll show recently held at the Central YWCA.

The Fellowship House Doll Library was established in the winter of 1945 with Mrs Grace Martin Fry as chairman. Other officers are Miss Rita Taft, doll expert and Alliance of the Jewish Educational Church and the YWCA international doll show.

Other assistance was given by Mrs. Ethel Weber, Mrs. Robert Brown, Mrs. Ellis Krug of the Baltimore Doll House, lectures and demonstrations by Mrs. Ethel Weber of the Evening Art School staff
