Big Jim's Parents Honored at Morgan-Howard Game

—with Lula Jones Garrett

Solemn moment at the Howard-Morgan game, here, Saturday (Doctor Pi Psi Fraternity awarded Morgan student body prominent sleeve and number-bearing jersey to the parents of Big Jim Curpin, star—who lost his life the past spring. The parents, Mr. and Mrs. James Turpin, came down from Westfield, N.J., to be guest of the college at the first game in the home stadium.

FLORIDIANS FETED

Dr. and Mrs. Joseph Thomas poured cocktails for their house guests, Dr. and Mrs. T. R. Vickers of West Palm Beach, Fla., at their new maison at Sparrows Point, Sunday.

The Vickerses, who had one experience with the Florida hurricane season, now pack up each year and come East (or elsewhere) until the season of the wind and water is over.

It was one of the first of the parties that Dr. and Mrs. Thomas have held at their beautiful Chesapeake Bay place. So if you missed any of the guests from the flower-bedecked living room and solarium, and did not find them about the lace draped cocktail table, they were probably out getting a sneak view of the Thomasses' swank beach, beach-house, barbeque pit etc.

Guests at the affair were:

Dr. and Mrs. Douglas Sheppard, Mr. and Mrs. John Hobbs, John Neil, Messrs. and Mesdames Eugene Payne, Courtland Brown, William Croston, Howard Patterson, Dr. Maybelle Weaver.

Messrs. and Mesdames Paul Henderson, Bruce Thomas, A. Jack Thomas, Arnett Frisby, Ralph Cooke, Josiah Henry, Howard Murphy.

Messrs. and Mesdames Clarence Overton, William Parks, William Adams, Clyde Martin, Eugene Byrd, T. Randolph Waters, Lester Norris, A. J. Allen, Thomas Graves, Whalen Wilson, George West, James Thomas;

Mrs. Shipley had entertained at dinner for the latter earlier in the day.

WASHINGTONIANS TAKE OVER

Cute party of Saturday was that staged by the Washingtonians, who came over with all the fixings for the post-game party which Coach and Mrs. Talmadge Hill usually hold. Frances, is, you know, still in a stage of convalescence from her recent operation.

In came Dr. and Mrs. Purvis Williams, Ted and Elizabeth McIntyre, Charles and Thelma Baltimore, Myra Reeder, Frank Sayles and his brother, Dick and Georgia Thomas, bringing seads of spaghetti and meat balls, vegetable salad, pies, baked beans, condiments, coffee, and drinks, both hard and soft; and even the paper plates and paper table cloth to avoid any after work.

They and a gang of guests form hereabouts and elsewhere feasted and frolicked until the morn. About also were Dorothy Young and a Mr. Daniels of Asbury Park, Coach Jimmy Lytle of Shaw University, Richard Sewell of Washington, Ken Brown of the Morgan staff, who, incidentally had been scouting Lincoln and was absent for the day; the former Harriet Grant of Clarksburg, W. Va., the Daniel Clarks, Yancey Whitaker, Dean George Grant, Jimmy Carter and Capt. and Mrs. Harlan.

PARTY AT YORK

The Howard guys and gals drowned their woes at a very gay party at the York Hotel, following the Morgan-Howard game, where they gathered at nine, romped until about two, jockeyed on to "Mouse" Dorsey's for more cocktails, and some of them ended up at the Biddy Woodes for breakfast.

Included were:

The Miles Harrisons, Harry Gails, Jr., Robert Matthews 3rd., Bill Pogue, John Pead, Marvin Davis, Harvey Banks, Frank Bizzell, Mike Wade, Walter Wright, Roland Jones, Walter Ray, John Graves, Dr. Norman Harris who fetched Dorothy Hughes; William Burke and Sarah Hughes, who made a couple, Gordine Jones, Nancy Reynolds, Reidy Rector and Jean Mailette, Carl Rowan and Jeanne Parrott, and DeWitt Howard and Elaine Lee.

MONROES HOSTS

Dr. and Mrs. Clarence Monroe held forth at another of the post-game parties—a buffet supper, with Dean and Mrs. Joseph Hill of Lincoln University as guests of honor. The Hills were the Monroes' house guests.

That same evening, scores of localites dashed out to Glenburnie, where the James Brown, were being festive in a Hallowe'en setting.

Jimmy and Rhea have converted one of the buildings on their place into a club room, with hugh fireplace, barbeque facilities and all.

The guests, in the snariest of sport clothes, plied themselves with food, and then settled down to games.

They included:

Dr. and Mrs. Thomas Simmons, Dr. and Mrs. William Nasli and Mrs. Dora Stewart came over from Washington, the Douglas Kings, the C. H. Hensons and Dr. and Mrs. A. T. Allen, from Annapolis, and from hereabouts were:

Mrs. Helen Graves

Exploring She Would Go

If Mrs. Graves ever manages to get her hands on Alladin's Lamp, she's going to give it a quick rub and wish she were in California. Not permanently, mind you—but just to look around.

Like a lot of other people, Mrs. Graves has heard so much about the wonder of California, that it has become her secret ambition to get out there and satisfy her curiosity about the place.

Mrs. Graves studied at the Corter Peters School of Business and then found herself an interesting position with the Social Security Board. Likes it very much.

On the fashion side, Mrs. Graves shows a strong preference for sports clothes, and wears them very well indeed. She has high praise for Hendin's Hollywood Fashion.

"Hendin's," says Mrs. Graves, "have very smart clothes . . . AND . . . you don't see your selection walking down the street on someone else. I like exclusive things."

The service at Hendin's is so fine, too, says Miss Graves. They make you feel right at home.

Like most of Baltimore's well dressed women, Mrs. Graves enjoys the convenience of a Hendin Charge Account.
