CANCER KNOWS NO RACE, creed or color.

THE NATION-WIDE FIGHT against the deadly disease is one in which every person should participate.

TONIGHT—FRIDAY, 8 P.M.—the Gypsy Fit show will be held at the Royal Theatre as a tie-in with the Rose Bowl game and other gala events in and around the Rose Bowl City.

Bob Stallings, Jr., of the Royal Theatre, is a Gypsy Fit member and will be in charge of the affair.

DO YOU REMEMBER Bob Hinson? He was a great favorite with thousands of movie fans in Baltimore and vicinity. Bob is being feted by his friends and admirers in Los Angeles, Calif., where he is now living. Bob's birthday is Oct. 24 and his friends are having a special day for him. Bob's address is 1203 Gramercy Place, Los Angeles, Calif.

HAPPY YOUNGSTERS—Lorraine Gaines, daughter of a barber, lives in the 1400 block, was 8 years old last week at the Homestead Domestic Club in Druid Hill Park. Her mother, who was very happy with ice cream, candy and favors, Mrs. Frances Gaines, was her guest. Vickie Gaines, was honor guest. Ruby Lee Gaines, 14, made the welcome address.

THE MIRRORS IN GAMBY'S are decorated with large questions marks. Frank Boddie, manager, says the 964 question will be answered tonight (Friday). Your guess is as good as mine!

THE AVENUE CAFE holding over its all-star floorshow a fourth week. Maude Thompson, jump singer, and Ola Mae Bishop, comedienne and songstress, both at Gamby's on week ends, in guest starring roles on Tuesday night with Bennie Cohen and his gang from Club Orleans, who make the rounds of all clubs, in the audiences.

F. L. DANIELS of NYC temporarily residing here at 1629 Druid Hill Ave., taking in the sports at Bowie Race Track, Saturday, Mrs Marie Thompson, sister of Johnny Thompson, 837 Park Ave., died on Sunday.

"A SONG IS BORN," new musical film, co-starring Lionel Hampton and Louis Armstrong, due to hit the Avenue soon. Armstrong and his group of mixed musicians, plus Earl (Fatha) Hines, will play the Royal (in person) next month.

FROM THE NUMBER of high school pupils visiting the Avenue shows during class time, the schools could render a service by inaugurating a "Movie Day" program. The prevalent class-cutting is contributing to the widespread juvenile delinquency.

THE MORGAN THEATRE does not draw the line on patronage. That new pool parlor over East Baltimore's Eden Theatre is "sagging" by an Avenue businessman.

AN INTERVIEW THIS WEEK with Oliver C. Winston, executive director of the Baltimore Housing Authority, revealed that a total of 2,278 families were interviewed by his office during July and August.

THIS IS POINTED OUT to mean that both old and new applicants are being given consideration as fast as the office staff is able to bring up-to-date the large number of applications, for the purpose of immediate selection for the homes available.

FREDA D'KNIGHT, wife of Rene, of the Delta Rhythm Boys and chef de la cuisine, this week introduced and put into effect a new food policy at the Casino from her first cook book, "A Date With a Dish." They (Freda and Rene), married nine years ago when Rene was just 17.

HERE'S ONE FOR THE BOYS: Jess: They chose the name "Delta" because it had a Southern flavor; "Rhythm" because of the beat they had, and "Boys" because they were just kids when they first organized. Put them together and they spell Delta Rhythm Boys. Quite nifty, eh?

THE AVENUE CATS who wonder what Lionel Hampton mumbles when playing the vibraharp or drums can rest at ease. The mumbling magic words are: "Send me eight on a plate—eight—gate," no matter what the tempo is.

MR. MERCHANTS DOUGLASS, long known for her civic activities, has been elected president of the new Greenwich Theatre organization, which recently presented "Deep Are the Roots" at Morgan Hall, Pa., and North Ave.

THE NEW PRESIDENT says: "Baltimore is fortunate to have such an organization. It is the only interracial theatre south of New York, and we simply cannot fail to do everything in our power to bring it the success it deserves."

Theatrical Ed's Note: The group is non-profit and all the shows are presented with interracial casts before interracial audiences.

PLAYING THE THEATRES: "Foxes of Harrow," MARYLAND; "Dream," NEW ALBERT; "Forsaken Affair," CENTRE; "Black Arrow," ROYAL; "Man-Eater of Kumaon," LEROY.

ANSWERS TO QUERIES—"Sunshine Sammy" . . . "Our Gang" fame, was born Sammy Morrison . . . The Marie Ellington, who married Nat King Cole, definitely is not related to the Duke . . . Tommy Dorsey's salary booking contract calls for $18,000 a year, making him the highest paid band on the air in the world.

MORE ANSWERS — Ellis Larkin's Trio is playing New York's Blue Angel. His wife, Mouse, operates her own night club in Paris . . . Rose Perry, singing mate of George Nelson of the Orioles, is working as a single in NYC . . . "Peaches" Webb doing request numbers at the Avenue.

WILLIAM H JETTER, operator of the Majestic Hotel, 1600 block McCulloh St., recuperating from a recent serious illness. . . . Well-known names along the Avenue: "No Talk," "Hot Pants," "Kid Baltimore," "Stoogie," "Cornbread," and "Fat Man."

THAT'S ALL FOR NOW, folks—We might not see the Big name" attractions in local clubs because eastern bookers are pricing the prices too high on their acts—so high that the clubs can't make it when they book them.

Benny Goodman, Ink Spots Head Sunday 'Toast of Town'

Benny Goodman and his instrumental quintet and the ever-favorite Ink Spots, singing quartet, headlined the talent roster on Ed Sullivan's star-spangled "Toast of the Town" over the CBS Television Network, Sunday (CBS-TV, 9-10 p.m., EST).

Myron Cohen, Jewish dialect comedian, makes a return appearance on "Toast of the Town," filling an engagement that was postponed from Oct. 3. His place at that time was taken by impersonator Dean Murphy.

Dewey Marchand and his comedy group also are returnees, for their third billing on the revue. Their "Pigmeat" and "Haunted House" skits have long regaled vaudeville and television fans.

A Hallowe'en finale number with the June Taylor girls completes the program.

Duke Ellington to Open "Duke Ellington's" Dance Emporium

WASHINGTON

The magic of Duke Ellington's moleskin will be exploited beginning Friday night, when the famed jazz maestro brings his incomparable orchestra into a spot that has been given his name, which formerly operated as the New Music Hall.

The dine and dance emporium, to be known as Duke Ellington's, in honor of the famed composer, band leader, is located at Ninth and Ven Sts., N.W., and will feature the famed bandmaster's musical aggregation for 10 days.

According to reports, Duke is co-owner of the spot along with Benjamin Bass and Herb Sachs. Named to manage the dance hall is Charles Nelson, former manager of the Bruce Hall. Duke Ellington's which opened early in 1947 as the Music Hall after David Rosenberg sank approximately $200,000 in the construction of the edifice, will be completely renovated according to its owners.

"Name Band" Policy Set

A "name band" policy will prevail with Billy Eckstine and Count Basie booked to follow the Duke's engagement. The management plans to change bands weekly and bring in 40 bands over a 40-week period allowing for closing down during the summer months.

The Ellington organization will feature his renowned instrumentalists including Lawrence Brown on trombone; Harry Carney, baritone sax; Oscar Pettiford, bass; and Ray Nance, trumpet. The vocals will be handled by Al Hibbler and lovely Kay David.

In addition to Duke's fame as a composer and maestro he has become a popular disc spinner with a local outlet over Station WWDC. Incidentally, his band will be picked up from the nitery over this station several times during his stand here. — AL SWEENEY

Concords and Discords

By LLEWELLYN WILSON

Writing school and college songs always has been intriguing to pupils and students who have inventive talents and gifts in the subtle art of music composition.

One of our best known and most popular songs came about in this manner. In the composition, "Lift Every Voice and Sing," which was written in 1899 by two brothers who were students at the time at Fisk University, namely, J Weldon Johnson and J Rosamond Johnson, both of whom became famous, one in the field of literature and the other in the field of music.

This lovely and well-beloved song, unfortunately, through the efforts of some enterprising music publisher, has been exploited as "The Negro National Anthem." This misnomer has led to some confusion, from my point of view.

I do not believe as a loyal colored American, through the heritage and training, that I have any national anthem, save the "Star-Spangled Banner."

Why should colored Americans willingly segregate ourselves by claiming to have a separate national anthem? It such condition or proposition be foisted upon us, we would rise a unit in protest against such a suggestion.

It is time that our leaders stop calling the Johnson brothers' beautiful song "The Negro National Anthem.

I has been my good fortune to be permitted to teach music in one of America's finest high schools, a school from which Anne Brown, Cab Calloway, Chuck Richards, Avon Long, Thomas Kerr, Annie Muldrow, Ellis Larkins, George-anna M. Chester, Mildred Williams, Ruth Dean, Mark Fax, Meredith Birche, Marcia Boddie, Adah L. Jenkins, M. Alonzo Miller and many others who attained high places in the music world of today, and on whose commencement programs, the beautiful song, here being discussed was placed, but the program always read, and those were graduated left feeling and knowing the song they sang was called by its proper name: "Lift Every Voice and Sing." Colored American should refrain from teaching its youth that we have a colored "national anthem."

Thinking of school or alma mater songs, brings to mind, that for the most part the words select are usually the work of some member of a given graduating class while the music is the tune of some well-known song, like "Auld Lang Syne," "How Can I Leave Thee" or "Drink to Me Only With Thine Eyes."

Here at Douglass High School the student body sings its own "Hail, Douglass High," an original song, the words of James Hill and music by Meredith Birche, both graduates of the school. This song was originally written, I believe, as a class song a few years ago.

It is now the official school song. This song is popular with the student body and the school is now learning to sing it for use in the assemblies and on general public occasions.

Museum to Show 3 Films on South

Three documentary films on the Deep South will be shown Sunday, at 4 p.m., as the first in a series of free movies to be given two Sunday afternoons each month at the Baltimore Museum of Art.

"The River," one of the films on Sunday's program, dramatizes the story of the Mississippi; while "Life in Old Louisiana" deals with the historical aspect of the River Country.

The program is to conclude with "Kentucky Jubilee," a film reproducing spirituals and plantation songs by an outstanding group of colored singers.

With 24th Infantry

Three Virginia soldiers are serving in Japan as members of the 24th Infantry Regiment, now stationed at Gifu, the 8th Army headquarters at Osaka, Japan, announced this week.

They are Pvt. Leon S. Lewis, son of Frank Lewis, of Allnut, Va., a rifleman; Pfc. James Harper, son of Robert Harper, of Portsmouth, drummer in the 29ist Army Band, and Pvt. Garland Pilson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ben H. Pilson, of Martinsville.

Marian Anderson Scholarship Award Won by Rawn Spearman

PHILADELPHIA

Selected as the unanimous choice of a panel of three judges, Rawn Spearman of Tallahassee, Fla. was presented with a $1000 scholarship, last week, as winner of the annual Marian Anderson Award auditions held last Wednesday and Thursday in the studios of Radio Station WCAU.

Spearman, who was visiting friends in New York City, entered the competition simply because he happened to be in the vicinity when the auditions opened. He had not yet indicated the school of his choice.

A $400 award was made to Miss Lillian Georgia Hall, a volunteer reform worker of Trenton, N.J., and a $300 award was presented to Miss Christine Reid of Hamilton, Ont., Can.

Only One Local Winner

Gifts of $100 each were presented to Misses Genevieve Warner of New York City, who tied for first place last year.

Other competitors from last year were Misses Nell Anders of New York City; Doris Rowe of Detroit; Mattawilda Dobbs of Atlanta, and Lenora Fafayette of Baton Rouge, La. Also of New York City, Misses Agnes Reifsnyder, local voice teacher, and William Lawrence of New York; music school director and former accompanist for Roland Hayes, were the judges.

Miss Alyse Anderson, sister of the famed singer, is secretary of the Marian Anderson Scholastic Fund.

RACE RELATIONS ROSY:

27 NYC Pupils Visit White Homes Upstate

NEW YORK — Twenty-seven high school pupils, accompanied by four adult leaders, were entertained in the homes of pupils in Cortland County, Upstate New York, over the week end of Oct. 9-12 inclusive. The New York young people were colored and of Japanese-American and Jewish background. All the Upstate young people were Caucasians. Many of the latter had visited in Harlem homes in May, 1948, so this was a return visit.

The trip was arranged by the Interracial Fellowship of Greater New York, the Rev. Ralph H. Rowse, executive director, and the Cortland County Council of Churches, the Rev. John C. Wilson, executive secretary.

The New York young people arrived by chartered bus at Homer. Following a dinner served by the ladies of Homer Congregational Church, the Rev. Henry M. Childs, Pastor, pictures of the May trip to New York were shown on the screen.

Attend Fall Youth Rally

On Sunday morning the guests attended the church of their host or hostess. In the afternoon and evening everyone participated in the Fall Youth Rally of the Cortland County Council of Churches. Worship was conducted by young people from the Methodist Church in Truxton.

Dr. Edward L. Christie of Cornell University, spoke on "One World Under God" which served as a basis for discussions in small groups. In the evening Thomas Pickell of Mt. Olivet Baptist Church, and Lester Mason of St. Phillip's Episcopal Church, Harlem, were two of four speakers.

Stage Hayrack Ride

The young people of Preble, staged an old-fashioned hayrack ride which ended with a sing at which cider and doughnuts were served in the United Church. On Monday visits were made to the of Garfield Temple, Brooklyn. The latter said:

"Never before when I was away from home, did I receive such generous hospitality, as we all did. This experiment in race relations has proven how successfully different types of people can live together and it took a group of teen-agers to do it."

Family Homeless After Chicken Coop Eviction

WASHINGTON

Displaced from their "home," which was formerly a chicken coop, to make room for a tobacco harvest, a Maryland family has been attempting unsuccessfully to find a place to live in Washington.

James Robert Brown, his wife and seven children compose the evicted family, who have been forced to sleep on the floor of an apartment at 612½ N. St., N.W., because they were unable to find a home or obtain assistance from the local welfare department.

The AFRO was told that Mr. Brown, after being evicted from his Maryland dwelling, brought his family to Washington, where, thanks to a local citizen, they were housed in the Receiving Home.

However, although Mr. Brown was a native of the District, they were forced to leave the Receiving Home because of the welfare department regulation, which does not provide assistance for persons who have not been residing in the District for at least one year.

Their case, because of this regulation, cannot be handled by any other welfare agency. However, several citizens learning of the destitute family's circumstances have offered financial assistance, if they can locate a home.

The AFRO was told that the Brown family lived in the shack, which was built for chickens for three years prior to eviction. The shack was located in Maryland about one mile past Chapel Oaks.

Father Now Employed

Mr. Brown has had a hard time in obtaining employment over the years but at present is working in the sanitation department, where he earns $30 a week.

The family includes Mrs. Bessie Worthington Brown, the wife; Edward Sylvester, 12; Albert Clifton, 11; James Joseph, 8; Morris, 7; Milton Isaac, 4, Celestine, 3 and Lorraine, 1.

Mrs. Jennie Lee, 1732 Vermont Ave., N.W., is heading a committee of citizens who have manifested interest in the family. Any person, who wants to assist in securing a home for this family, may do so, by getting in touch with Mrs. Lee.

Music Guild Notes

By MILDRED W. M'NAIR

The Baltimore Music Guild, Margaret B. Franklin, president, met at the president's home, 1136 Myrtle Ave. Saturday evening.

A report was made of the Sunday recital at Metropolitan Methodist Church at which time the guild presented the baritone, Theodore Charles Stone, which was well attended.

Mr. Stone in his colorful program proved himself a great artist both, vocally and artistically.

Mrs. Cargill gave an executive report.

Also mentioned was the recent recital of Gladys H. Taylor, student of Georgia Chambliss and whom Mrs. Chambliss so ably accompanied, and the Margaret Hall recital at Bethel Church, at which, this artist gave a fine account of herself.

The program for Saturday evening was in charge of Emma Poulson; participants, Evangeline Williams and Marshall Waters.

Hostesses were: Mesdames Katrine White, Virginia White, Rebecca Johnson, Margaret Franklin and Miss Mary Mobley.

all of New York City; Nancy Light, Lebanon, Pa., Clara Miles, Bronx, N.Y.; Grace Morgan and Johnnie Mae Pickett, all of Brooklyn, N.Y.

Elizabethtown Tops

LINCOLN, Pa.— The Lincoln soccer team, slightly over-confident because of the 3-0 shellacking it gave to Elizabethtown College the previous week, invaded the Blue and White field and was drubbed to the tune of 2-1 by a much improved Elizabethtown eleven.

D.C. Touring Club Now 13 Years Old

To Stage Celebration at YWCA on Saturday

WASHINGTON

When the Washington Educational Touring Club celebrates its 13 years with a reception at the Phyllis Wheatley YWCA Saturday at 8 p.m., George H. Wallace, founder and president, will speak on the club's 1948 educational tours which carried members from the Boston Commons in Mass., to Hollywood, Calif.

Over 12,000 miles were covered this year in the travel from coast to coast.

Guest speakers at the reception will include:

Mrs. Thomasina Johnson, Minority Section Consultant, USES; Dr. Marshall Shepard, Recorder of Deeds; Col. West A. Hamilton and Paul H. Kinsel, director Division of Travel Service, National Education Association; Marsden Cabell Sr., Postmaster General assistant, and James A. Jackson, Esso Standard Oil Company.

Paul C. Johnson is in charge of the reception. Other committees heads assisting him are William Walker, A. Serina Pinn, Isadora Atkinson, Thomas A. Heathman and Ruth A. Booker.

Officers of the club are:

Mr. Wallace, president; Isabella Broadus, secretary; Jessie Myers, assistant; Mrs. Marjorie C. A. Wallace, treasurer; James Cosby, sergeant-at-arms, and the Rev. Joseph H. Foster, chaplain.

The club will be the guest of the Rev. Sumner Lee, pastor, Kalgin Ave. Baptist Church, Camden, N.J., on Oct. 31. Buses will leave from the residence of Mrs. Lida W. Allen, 1824 Fourth St., N.W.

N.Y. Soldier Accident Victim in Yokohama

YOKOHAMA, Japan (NNPA)—A collision between a motorcycle and a jeep on the Yokohama-Zama road on Oct. 7, resulted in the death of the cyclist, Cpl. Homer G. Baker of Chatham, N.Y., it was learned here last Saturday by Eighth Army Headquarters.

Cpl. Baker died shortly after the accident, which took place approximately one-half mile from the turn-off to the Hodogaya Country Club. He was a member of the 243rd Transportation Port Company, was unmarried, and is
