Moron Is New Hampton Prexy

Malcolm MacLean who headed the school during the war.

Academic Career

He graduated from the Hampton Trade School in 1921, received the Ph. B. degree, cum laude, from Brown University where he majored in sociology and economics and was admitted to Phi Beta Kappa honorary scholastic fraternity, and received his LL. B. degree last year from Harvard University Law School.

Social Housing Expert

He was formerly a social worker with the Baltimore Emergency Relief Commission, part-time instructor at Atlanta University School of Social Work, and manager of two Federal housing projects in Atlanta.

He is a graduate of the first Housing Management training institute, and was formerly commissioner of public welfare in the Virgin Islands.

The trustees re-elected Saul Perdue, principal of Carver Vocational-High School, Baltimore, as alumni representative on the board, and nominated Robert Decrecchi of NYC for membership.

Mr. Moron was appointed business manager in Feb., 1947, and has been serving as chairman of the interim administrative committee since last February. He will continue as business manager in addition to his duties as acting president.

Mays Studies Offer

Simultaneously with the announcement of Mr. Moron's selection, it was disclosed that the permanent post was offered to Dr. Benjamin E. Mays, president of Morehouse College, Atlanta, who reserved his decision until the end of this school year.

The agenda, Dr. Mays would satisfy the alumni who have been demanding for several years that the post be given to a qualified scholar of their own race.

Dr. Tobias pointed out also that the Hampton endowment of $9,500,000, the largest among educational institutions that are not white, was not yielding enough for present needs.

He had reported last week that selection of a successor to Dr. Ralph P. Bridgman was made extremely difficult by the financial strain under which all private schools are operating.

Md. State's Needs Cited by Dr. Byrd

tunities for all of its citizens, Dr. Byrd suggests that improved training in agriculture, home economics, mechanical arts and engineering be provided at the Eastern Shore college equivalent to that offered at College Park.

He continued:

"The State law as well as the Federal law places responsibility on the University of Maryland for higher education of colored people.

"The State has been making moves at considerable cost, allegedly to enable it to continue its policy of bi-racial education, but which will not accomplish that purpose.

"There is no sense in, or justification for the State making any more moves in the wrong direction.

Moves for Jim Crow

"The State first bought Maryland State College to keep colored students out of the University of Maryland.' Then it bought Morgan College for the same purpose.

"Both moves were unwise, but they are the only recourse—at least the most economical recourse—in the State to continue the development of these two institutions as a part of its higher education plan."

Dr. Byrd explained that the "brunt of the situation falls and will continue to fall on the University of Maryland unless the State wishes to go to the extravagant expense of duplicating the whole of the University of Maryland for colored people."

Present System a Flop

Describing this as "impracticable" Dr. Byrd said the intelligent move for the State now would be to place both Maryland State and Morgan State College under the University of Maryland so that the university can "work out the problem the best way it can."

Dr. Byrd asserted:

"No one yet, despite studies by the best legal minds in the South, has been able to offer a method under which the present system of segregation can be continued.

"The moves Maryland has twice been persuaded to make leave the State very little better off than it was before."

Bid for Freedom by Youth Halted

mony before Judges Charles E. Moylan and J. Edwin Dickerson that Peterson was picked up on Aug. 27 some 18 hours after and four blocks away from the 2000 block Guilford Ave., where the woman had been attacked about 5 a.m. that morning.

In his possession were a cigarette case and lighter stolen from the woman's room, and he was wearing clothing such as she described as being worn by the intruder.

Although the woman identified him by his voice only and admitted that she made no outcry or resistance during the attack, Peterson gave police three statements about

Says She Didn't Resist

In each he said he had climbed through the window to the woman's room, but maintained that the sex experience was voluntary on her part.

Peterson pleaded guilty to burglarizing the woman's home and another down the street on the same night, but pleaded innocent to the attack charge. He was sentenced for the burglaries to 10 years in each case to run concurrently with the life term on the sex charge.

E. Everett Lane, appointed counsel for the defense by Chief Judge W. Conwell Smith, pleaded for leniency for the youth, because a psychiatric report showed him to be of "poor intelligence" and the product of a broken home.

"Mind Warped," Counsel Says

Mr. Lane told the court that Peterson's mother died when the youth was only seven, and that Peterson had been cast out into the street to make his own way when he was very young.

The attorney said that Peterson has little conception of the consequences of his acts, having said that he would receive "about a year" if found guilty of the attack.

"This boy has no sense of values. His mind is warped," Mr. Lane declared.

Peterson took the stand to testify that he had not slept for two nights when police picked him up for questioning.

He said that one officer threatened him and that another told him it would be better for him if he told the truth. Peterson said he had been rooming at a home in the 400 block E. Federal St.

The case was heard in the third section of Criminal Court, under the jurisdiction of Judge Dickerson. Judge Moylan, who sat as co-jurist, is presiding officer in the Circuit Court for Juvenile Causes. Explaining the manner in which he subdued Peterson, Mr. O'Donnell said the throat grip was not one which hurt the youth, but one which choked off his air. "I didn't intend to hurt him in the least," the prosecutor said.

REMEMBER?

Remember the stock market crash of 1929? —The Republicans were in control.

Remember the depression of the early '30's? —The Republicans were in control.

Remember the hungry men and women in bread lines? —The Republicans were in control.

Remember Hoover's promise "prosperity is just around the corner?" —The Republicans were in control.

Remember the Veterans on the corners selling apples? —The Republicans were in control.

Remember when wheat and corn sold for less than 15 cents a bushel? —The Republicans were in control.

Remember when thousands of families were evicted from their homes? —The Republicans were in control.

Remember when sheriffs were hung in effigy for farm and tax foreclosures? —The Republicans were in control.

Now look at what the Democrats accomplished:

Compare your life and your job today with those days. Banks are no longer failing. Your deposit book is safe. The government guarantees your money (up to $5,000.00) and yet, through sound insurance, protects itself from risk of loss.

The Democrats saved 5 million people from being thrown into the streets by taking over more than one million distressed mortgages—and yet the federal government didn't lose a dollar.

It was the Democrats who put people back to work, who introduced social security, who brought us from the depths of despair to the highest standard of living this country has ever known. Remember the party that didn't forget you! And cast your vote for the straight Democratic ticket on November 2nd.

Vote for the party that brought prosperity back!

Vote for TRUMAN and BARKLEY

And Your Democratic Candidate for Congress
