Gateway to Gayway

By GEORGE D. TYLER

Who is first to come to the aid of making the blues go? Who gives his all even though his own heart is weary and heavy? The entertainers, of course! So hats off to the bunch who appeared at the ROYAL in behalf of the Cancer Fund and to WILLIE ADAMS, whose knack for raising money, so quickly, in an emergency is unusual.

Joe and Mrs. Berry debuted King Draper and his Drapes at BERRY'S TAVERN recently. . . . This combo, doubling 'twixt here and BERTIE'S Road House, has injected new life into the West Street rendezvous where the reliable Ida Contes continues to serve as barmaid. For some smooth ass ditties dig the King . . . At the Rose House you will find Buddy Branson dishing it out and on the greeting end for the busy proprietor, George (B for Bertie) Brooks.

The RAVENETTES, a group of gals at present or formerly connected with the jolly CLUB ORLEANS, are set to throw a pre-Thanksgiving prom at the Elks Home. Nite life is expected en masse. . . . Orgie (Canary) Kimball is preexy. . . . The Gay Street haven our pal, "Good Cake," is in there pitching nitely with the Three Strikes, top local trio, and the sizzling Betye Logan . . . Little Bubby, who has a stool reserved at La Avenue, and his pal, "Shadow," have chartered a bus to take their fans to the annual Morgan-Virginia State gridiron tumble at Petersburg.

Drop Dot a Card

Don't forget Dot Kelly who underwent an operation Saturday. Dot Kelly inherited the crown of "first lady of nite life" when Dot (the real) McCoy abdicated. Drop her a line at 1207 Noral Court. . . . The real McCoy relaxes at 1224 Madison Ave. with her hubby, Mr. Pye. That tall, aristocratic gentleman entertaining friends at the polo game and exchanging greetings with the feminine in nite life circles was Fred L. Kahn, prominent liquor distributor and sportsman.

Props of the beaten path have a heck of a time drawing other than nabobnod biz, but take it from me, Roy Jones offers a guy so much in the way of quality and service that the HIDEAWAY, after a single visit, will keep you talking about it for ages . . . Jimmy Greene is a local lad — so is Eddie (Duffy's Tavern) Green and Johnny Hodgins. . . . Jimmy wowed patrons on the stroll years ago and then moved out into greener fields. . . . Ask any Philadelphian that visited the Z-Bit Club. . . . Home again and appearing nitely at JONES'S Lounge he dispenses a brand of comedy that should roll you in the aisles, plus the chic Cecelia Cox, beauty contest winner and a lovely singer, backed by a style of jump as only Mellow Men have been able to capture and deliver.

A new drummer is in the making. She is the heart-stopper of that eccentric Pee Wee. She spends her leisure time visiting the spots to improve her technique . . . Frank Reddish will formally open GAMBY'S season Friday (tonite) with a new all-star revuelci featuring the exchirper of the "Hamp" crew, William Brown. Ontap is Delores Brown, another top band warbler.

Lucky a Busy Man

Lucky is dashing madly 'twixt and 'tween the ZANZIBAR where the Ballars are week-end sensations, the Dreamland and as agent for Stop. . . . With the exception of J. C. Bailey, the guy that caters to the scientist of the stroll and the sports whirl, at the famous ALHAMBRA, and Buck (Cuz) Barnes, deluxe pool parlor operator, Lucky has been photographed with more celebs than any other local guy.

At last Bill Lindsay and Elmer Youse have put their heads together and emerged in accord. The past trio of weeks prove that the stool needed needling . . . Tonite (the 29th) Redd Foxx, a familiar stage figure, opens the AVENUE. This will be his debut here, but his followers are so fond of his type of risque jokes he'll draw — watch and see . . . Herbie Fields' combo slated for the ASTORIA is constantly up near the top in band polls. . . . Betti Mays, currently appearing with her swingers, has a pair of the keenest gams in the game . . . This burg has some good sayers but you toss a crap if you fail to visit the KNOTTY PINE to hear the elongated Bill Swindell as he rocks the jernt on each appearance.

Things really buzzed at the SPHINX last week when the crowd romped through a duo of 'Old Timers" nite. . . . Doc Woingust is credited with changing costumes a dozen times a nite but it was Charley Tilghman who almost stole the show. . . . Doc just fumed and fussed. . . . Al Prestwidge continues to plan bigger and better festivities for the coming season . . . Mame is set at BERNES' jolly off-spring, where television and other forms of activities are effect. . . . Keets shares bar chores . . . Never a dull moment at the FROLIC, favorite sip and dine inn of actors playing the nearby theatre, where Rudy Dixon's hospitality is paramount.

When interested in numbers, select the 1017 Madison Avenue's exclusive tavern famous for its except smile and welcome . . . Walter Rouse, or the CLUB 13, which jumps to the music of the Links, a hard-cutting foursome . . . Gusder doing his usual fine job at ED'S . . . The OLDE MILL holds its own with bar service by Carroll and Bobby. Lil does the serving while Joe is chief greeter.

For more hot entertainment you can enjoy ReBop at the SPOT on East and his swingsters topping the UBANGI or Harold Bravard doubling 'twixt JOLLY SPOT and LITTLE WILLIE'S.

Concords and Discords

By W. LLEWELLYN WILSON

Union Baptist Church, where the late Herbert Y. Johnson served as minister for over a period of 50 years, Sunday, heard Thomas H. Kerr Jr., a Baltimore-born youth, in a recital, presented by the Brotherhood of the church.

Mr. Kerr has established himself as a great favorite among his fellow townsmen as a pianist. His program was a model in program building and was satisfying.

It began with two contrasting pieces from the early classic period, Schubert's Impromptu in form, a "Minuet, arranged by Leopold Godowsky, followed by the brilliant "Concerto in the Italian Style" by Johann Sebastian Bach.

The latter composition revealed Mr. Kerr as a pianist who had overcome the digital problems which often confuse pianists of lesser gifts than those possessed by the soloist on Sunday.

At his hands, Beethoven's "Sonata in A Major, Opus 10" received an interpretation which, while carrying out all of the worthwhile traditions usually associated with the German musical giant, brought new values to the opus which might have seemed backyard at less capable hands.

The first group, following the intermission, was made up of compositions by young American composers, some of whom were fellow students of Mr. Kerr while he was at the Eastman School of Music.

They included a scintillating, but "Scherzo" by Burrell Phillips; Gardner Read's "American Circle Dance"; "Whirligig" (Etude) by Beryl Rubenstein, and "Pool of Silence," by William Grant Still.

In the concluding group, the pianist programmed two of his own compositions, "Gentle Melancholy," from "A Suite of Words"; "Gestapo Blues," and "Prelude in the Not Too Young." Prelude in D Minor by Sergei Rachmaninoff and "Fantasy in Themes" from Weinberger's "Schwanda," by Chasins.

The latter composition revealed an encore "A Waltz" by Jose enjoyment, was educational in a low tone manner as a pianist. His program was a model in program building and was satisfying.

It begin with two contrasting pieces from the early classic period, Schubert's Impromptu in form, a "Minuet, arranged by Leopold Godowsky, followed by the brilliant "Concerto in the Italian Style" by Johann Sebastian Bach.

Mr. Kerr's recital, in addition to sub-titles of his formal selection bringing inspiration and musicalinto the English language.

Larry Whisonant Appears in 'Aida'

NEW YORK (ANP)—Larry Winter (Lawrence Whisonant) of Washington got his big chance here this week when he appeared with the City Opera Company as Amonasro in a presentation of "Aida." Winters was a popular member of the cast of a Broadway show during its long run. Recently, he has been on concert tour, returning to New York in time to sing with the opera company.

Mr. Winter's appearance did not create the furore caused when Catarina Yarboro was given the leading role in this same opera by Producer Alfredo Salmaggi some years back. The late Julius Bledsoe was also engaged for a role in the same opera.

Several stars have appeared with the City Opera Company. Todi Dunca and Camille Williams being the singers so honored.

Plumbing Courses for Vets to Begin

New courses in the plumbing trade for veterans and non-veterans will begin Monday at the building trades schools at Edmondson Ave. and Bentalou St.

As approved by the State Department of Education, the five-hour daily training schedule includes courses of study in mathematics, the plumber's code, theory of plumbing, and practical plumbing.

Students, who will spend two hours a day in the classrooms and three hours in the shops, may attend morning, afternoon or evening classes.

Camper Out to Win Seat in Congress

speakers will be the internationally famous Paul Robeson.

Other speakers will be Charles Howard, former Republican State chairman of Iowa; Dr. Clark Foreman, chairman of the Southern Conference for Human Welfare, and Mrs. Juanita J. Mitchell.

Between tonight (Friday) and election day, the party will continue its campaign through a radio broadcast, neighborhood precinct meetings and through the use of a sound truck.

Ceaseless Work

Since the beginning of the campaign, Dr. Camper, affectionately known as Fighting John, has worked ceaselessly from early morning until late at night to sell the theories of his party.

A native of Baltimore County and graduate of Howard Medical School, Dr. Camper joined the Progressive Party because he feels that group, through its broad and liberal program will serve the needs of all the people.

His Fourth District, in North west Baltimore, carries a heavy colored vote and thousands of Jewish persons. With the support of both groups he can be sent to Washington.

"We There to Win"

Unlike many politicians of old, Dr. Camper would not make a prediction as to the outcome of the election. He told a reporter, "I hate to predict, but I'm in there to win. The outcome depends on the elements and I can win."

While addressing the Frontiers Club, Tuesday, Dr. Camper said: "I like the 20th Ward of the Fourth District. I hope Miller (Republican candidate) cuts deep into that ward. If he does, he will crack the Fallon (Democrat) hold and that will enable me to walk away with the election spoils."

As the campaign progressed, Dr. Camper's popularity increased.

Endorsed by Organizations

At this writing he has the endorsement of the Baptist Ministers Conference, the Honest Alumni of Baltimore, the Master Beautician, the Northwest Baltimore Improvement Association and numerous other civic and political organizations.

Any number of ardent and loyal Republicans and Democrats openly expressed their intentions of voting for Dr. Camper though they will follow their own respective party as regards other candidates. Mrs. Florine Jones, the candidate's real campaign manager, commented this week:

"If Dr. Camper loses this time, he won't run for any public office ever, because I won't let him. He's been campaigning and attempting to attend to his medical practice he is a physical wreck. But I hope he does win."

South Baltimore Notes

Teen-agers and adults of Mt. Winans have been invited to attend Halloween Party, Saturday evening, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Leroy Spriggs, 2832 Pierpont St. The affair is for the benefit of the Mt. Winans Improvement Association.

Edward Cooper was entertained on his birthday, Sunday, with a party given by a group of friends.

Those present included Mr. and Mrs. eGorge Hill, Miss Helen Travers, Mrs. Trilby Wicks and Mr. Edward Cooper.

Paul Thomas and Mrs. Nettie Gardner were among those accompanying the League of the Star of Bethlehem A.M.E. Church to Payne AME Church at Jessup, Md., Sunday. The Rev. G. Oliver King, pastor of the visiting church delivered the sermon.

The Flower Circle of the Star of Bethlehem AME Church is sponsoring a tea Sunday at the home of Mrs. Nettie Gardner, on Huron Street.

One thing is certain, when South Baltimoreans go to the polls on Nov. 2, that is that they will vote for the school loan. The Southside is in the worse shape of any section of the city as far as schools are concerned, its residents will be glad to vote "yes" to the school loan which is No. 17 on the ballot.

Southside Personality

Mrs. Margaret Alsup of 1101 Slater Rd., the mother of five children, is this week's personality choice.

A member of Ebenezer AME Church, Mrs. Alsup has a passion for being secretary of organizations. She is secretary of the drill team of the Spirit of Chesapeake Lodge and secretary of the singing school of the same group.

Her hobby is sewing and crocheting.

Mrs. Margaret Alsup

Geo. E. West, 'Banker,' Baltimore Native, Dies

George E. West, native of Baltimore and former chef and baker, horse trainer, bookie and independent "banker," died Sunday at his home in Cleveland, Ohio.

Born here in 1881, he went West in 1906 as a chef for a steamship company. Later he began what became a colorful career in horse racing an dthe numbers business. He is survived by his wife, of Cleveland, and a son and daughter, in Chicago.
