FLAUNTS NIGHTINGALE CODE:

Pastor Aids Blind Man Struck by Nurse's Car

PHILADELPHIA

The Rev. William J. Harvey, 3rd, pastor of Pinn Memorial Baptist Church, Powelton Ave. and Sloane St., played the Good Samaritan to a blind man who was struck down by a hit-run driver at 36th and Warren Sts. last Wednesday.

The minister aided the injured man, George Mummie, 58, white, resident of the Pennsylvania Home for the Blind, 36th St. and Lancaster Ave., to a grass plot beside the sidewalk.

The driver of the car, "a woman in white," came back to the scene, and reportedly told the blind man, "You should have watched where you were going."

The Rev. Mr. Harvey, who lives at 5820 Thompson St., said he told the woman the man was sightless, and asked her to drive him to the hospital.

"He's not hurt," the woman is alleged to have remarked as she

Christianizing World Aim of Church, Dr. G. Imes Says

WASHINGTON

Speaking to a large congregation at Fifteenth Street Presbyterian Church last Sunday, Dr. G. Lloyd Imes, field representative of the Board of National Missions and Christian Education working in the churches in the North West, listed three aims of the church today.

"We are the effort of the church to make the world picture and the world as a whole its effort of the church to itself as a world force, the great Christian church is organizing itself it has not got to the place it can say 'I will not support Dr. Imes emphasized, and that the church sad taken and the calling of disciples to impon the entire gobe as its task be done.

"What happens in one part of the world affects the other, and Jesus said "Go into all the world and preach my gospel."

In regard to religious education Dr. Imes told the congregation that the church is making progress, but that the need is great because there are tremendous and belligerent forces seeking to destroy the fiber of the church.

"If we are going to have a newer and better civilization, we must make sure the church is at the heart of that civilization," he asserted.

Capital Press Club Favored Truman, 14-3

While the nation's poll takers and daily columnists called the Presidential race about 99% wrong, the members of the Capital Press Club in a pre-election poll Tuesday morning expressed their preference for the victorious President Harry S. Truman.

The CPC, composed of editors, reporters and advertising men of the weekly newspapers, favored Truman by a 14-3 margin over Dewey. Wallace received two votes and Norman Thomas a single ballot during the informal poll.

The mock electioneering was directed by Ralph Matthews, editor of the Washington AFRO-AMERICAN, and vice president of the press club.

Conn. FEPA Opens New Job Fields

HARTFORD, Conn.—During the first year of the Connecticut Fair Employment Practices Act (July 1, 1947 to July 1, 1948), voluntary compliance with the law made it unnecessary for the State Interracial Commission to hold formal hearings or take court action to settle any of the 64 formal complaints.

This information was revealed in the annual report of the State Interracial Commission to the Governor. The Commission stated that none of the dire happenings predicted by FEPA opponents such as walkouts, demonstrations or loss of patronage because of the hiring of colored workers in new fields, had occurred.

Forty-eight of the 64 formal complaints were filed by individuals and 16 were initated by the Commission when no specific individual was involved. Numerous other complaints were settled informally.

One of the visible results of the FEPA has been the employment of colored persons for the first time as telephone operators, bus drivers and in higher skilled work in insurance company offices. In the mercantile field the Commission's activities have expanded from Hartford to New Haven, New Britain, Bridgeport and Danbury.

Colored school teachers are currently employed in Bridgeport, Coventry, Hartford, New Haven, Norwalk, Stamford and Wallingfordtic. No complaints have been received against the FEPA law and the Commission has received co-operation from their top officials.

Since no complaintant has filed a formal complaint, the Commission believes that its method of investigation and settlement insures speedy treatment of the facts presented.

Girl's Traffic Death Causes $10,000 Suit

WASHINGTON

Declaring that her daughter, Zenobia, 8, had without authority been sent across a heavily trafficladen street and was subsequently struck by an auto, the mother, Mrs. Angela Mosby, 2109 First St., N.W., filed suit for $10,000 in the alleged wrongful death.

Named defendants in the District Court action are Edward W. Challiet, 328 Brady Ave., S.E., and Mrs. Tessie Tannebaum, 1900 First St., N.W., of the Thomas Marbury.

The combined negligence of the two caused the little girl's death, according to the complaint filed by George E. C. Hayes, attorney. Mrs. Tannebaum is accused of having sent Dorothy on an errand, during which performance, she was struck by Challiet's vehicle.
