Second Judgment Over New Bandleader in Year

Wilcox Accused of Refusing to Pay Sums Agreed on for Using Dead Musician's Name

NEW YORK — Mrs. Crystal Lunceford, widow of the once-famous bandleader, Jimmy Lunceford, last week, won other awards from Edwin F. Wilcox, the man who took over the Lunceford band after the leader's death, to total more than $3,000.

Mrs. Lunceford was awarded $1008.85, before Justice Rocco A. Parella in City Court, after charging that Wilson had failed to live up to the agreement signed by them in April of 1947.

In April of this year she had gained a judgment of $1555 from Wilcox. When no payments were made a month ago, she demanded further action and received the award amounting to nearly $2,000, which was not paid at press time.

Says She Got Only $150

The agreement cited by Mrs. Lunceford called for payment of $50 weekly to use the Lunceford name during the first six months, $75 a week the next six months, $5,000 a year the next two years and $7,500 annually beginning in 1949.

Mrs. Lunceford charged through her lawyers, Hersh and Gerber, that Wilcox, who was a star member of the band when Lunceford was alive, has never paid her more than $150.

Denies Agreement

Wilcox, who was represented by Eustace V. Dench, denied the existence of such an agreement even though the widow produced a copy of the contract in court.

Wilcox's attorney argued that the musician expected to return to the Army and had not made any plans to continue with the band, not to mention using the Lunceford name for future bookings.

ILLUSTRATIONS EXHIBIT

18 Youths Fined After 'Club' Raid

Blackjacks, empty whiskey and wine bottles, cards and knives are not keeping with good training habits, Magistrate Harry Kivitz told 18 members of the International Athletic Club, Sunday morning following their arrest on disorderly conduct charges.

The group, 11 of whom are under 21 years of age, were arrested in an alleged candy store in the basement of 525 W. Biddle St., on Saturday.

Officer Robert Lisz stated that neighbors had complained of noise coming from the club, plus the fact that they (the officers) heard loud noises as they approached the premises.

Policewoman's Testimony

Policewoman Whyte said she had received many complaints but witnesses were not present because they were afraid to testify against the young men.

It also was alleged that young girls were frequently seen entering and leaving the premises.

James Johnson of 446 W. Biddle St., explained that he operated the club for the young men who were in training as boxers in a gymnasium in the 1400 block of Etting St.

His argument was that the club afforded the young somewhere to go and kept them off streets corners.

Fines Denied

The jurist then fined the offenders $3 and costs each and charged Johnson $25 and costs for operating a disorderly establishment.

One of the group, Lucius Carter, of 26 W. Biddle St., was the missed when he had to be entered the store to buy some pop corn.

Defendants Listed

The others gave their names and addresses as:

Frank Scott, 33, 519 W. Biddle St.; Joseph Biddle, 20, 918 McCulloh St.; Leroy Bryant, 20, 709 Druid Hill Ave.; James O. $2 Cab Fare Costs 'Con' Man $50

Cleveland Smith, 34, of 1501 Argyle Ave., who has a long record of arrests and convictions as a "confidence" man, was fined $50 and costs in Northwestern police court, recently, for attempting to defraud a cab driver out of $2.

Smith was arrested by Officer Avon Cooper on a complaint lodged by an undentified taxi driver earlier that morning. At Member St. and Argyle Ave., the cabbie complained to officer Cooper that he had given a fare $2 for a $10 blackmarket ham.

Pick Up 'Fare'

Since the fare disappeared with the $2 and failed to return with either the money or ham, the officer and the foiled cabbie cruised about the neighborhood until they overtook Smith at Fremont Ave., and Sewell St.

The fine was imposed after Magistrate Kruger had been told Smith has served several jail terms for fraud and false pretense.

'HE WHO HESITATES . . .'

Fla. Denied Prisoner Rejected 19 Years Ago

Florida police decided 19 years too late that they would like to have Tom Johnson of 51st. near Arch, as one of their prisoners again.

When oJhnson, also known as William T. oJhns, was nabbed here on a robbery charge in 1929, local police learned that he had escaped from a prison in the Southern State.

But Florida authorities, frowning at the expense involved in returning Johnson, waived their claim to him. This Commonwealth proceeded to prosecute him on the robbery charge and he received from five-to-10 years.

Law Abiding Citizen

After serving the minimum sentence, Johnson was released from jail. Since then he has been a law abiding citizen of this community, and, according to his attorney, Raymond Pace Alexander, has a fiancee.

Florida authorities, however threatened to interfere with whatever plans Johnson has made for they decided they would like to revive the claim they waived 19 years ago. Johnson was placed under arrest.

When the defendent was brought before Judge Louis E. Leviathan, Thursday, the jurist refused to extradite him. He studied the circumstances and said to send Johnson back to Florida now "would be perpetrating a gross injustice."

Matron's Friend Jailed for Theft

It was a matter of "larceny" and not "love", Judge Herman Moser ruled, Monday, as he sentenced 27-year-old Wilbur Truxton to a year in jail for stealing some $60 from his girl friend.

The young woman, Mrs. Willie Walker of 903 Spring St., testified that Truxton warned her on the morning of Nov 3 that he was going to take the check she was to receive from a city agency for support of her children.

Took Check and Fled

She said he was in the store when she cashed the check, and that he snatched the money and fled.

Mrs. Walker then contacted Policewoman Carolyn Robinson who jumped into a police car, spied Truxton in an alley shooting crap and drinking liquor, and gave chase until he leaped a'fence.

Mrs. Robinson then obtained a warrant for the man. She said he pleaded guilty in police court, reporting that he had used all the money.

Alibi Not Convincing

Truxton of the Spring St. address, told Judge Moser that he needed the money to repay friends from whom he had borrowed funds with which to feed the woman's children that week.

He denied that Mrs. Robinson had chased him, or that he had been gambling in an alley. James E. Price and Charles Orth, assistant State's attorneys, prosecuted.

Grand Jurors Will Get Evidence

ATLANTIC CITY — Judson Eunice, 28, of the 100 block Bay St., is being held without bail for the grand jury for the alleged slaying of a man who had gone to request to borrow a dime in a Northside tavern Friday night.

The slain victim was William Herbert Kirkland, 22, of 108 N. South Carolina Ave., who died in Atlantic Hospital several hours after he had been attacked by Eunice with a stab wound in the neck.

Attacks Bar Patron

Police quoted James Truxton, owner of the Truxton Bar at Tennessee and Arctic Ave., where the attack occurred, as saying that Eunice entered the bar and asked him for a dime and was refused. He then turned to Kirkland who also ignored the request.

Several minutes later, Truxton said he investigated a noise in the back room of the tavern and found Eunice holding Kirkland against the wall. A penknife was in the victim's neck.

Halts Fleeing Man

Truxton, police said, ran into his adjoining home and armed himself his gun and seized the assailant after a chase of several phrases and held him until officers arrived.

Assistant Prosecutor David Brone said he would not lose time in presenting the case to the Atlantic County grand jury and asked for a first degree murder charge.

Police said Eunice has a record of jail sentences at Elkton and Baltimore, Md., and Mays Landing.

The body of Kirkland was at the city morgue Tuesday awaiting funeral arrangements.

Collier Held in N.Y. on Car Theft Count

NEWARK

John Collier, 28, a South Carolina fugitive who was set free by Gov. Alfred E. Driscoll last Aug. 6, after he had spent 27 months in a Newark jail awaiting a decision on his extradition to the South, is being held in custody in New York City on an auto theft charge.

Collier, who gave New York authorities 114 Walnut St., Newark, as his address, was arrested, Monday, with Triplett Hardy, 26, of 15 Charlton St., Newark, and booked on a grand larceny charge in the fifth Precinct Station in New York.

To Be Arraigned Monday

They will be arraigned in Manhattan Felony Court on Monday.

Collier's arrest was made after a stolen car he allegedly was driving, was involved in a collision at Canal and Christie Sts.

He attempted to flee, but was caught after a chase of several blocks.

Housewives Victims of Magazine-Racket

An old racket made its appearance in Baltimore this week—solicitation for subscriptions to a nationally circulated magazine. According to information uncovered by AFRO reporters, it is being worked on a door-to-door basis by a positive identification of door-to-door subscription agents and to notify the police or the Better Business Bureau if an agent represents representing the "Interracial Arts and Cultural League."

Latest known victim is Mrs. Georgie Dixon of 1516 Lafayette Ave., who paid the bogus agent $3 for a subscription on Oct. 15 and has not received a copy of the magazine yet.

Fictitious League

The agent identifies himself as a representative of the "Interracial Arts and Cultural League, 15 S. Gay St."

If the housewife consents to take a subscription he accepts the $3 and writes a receipt for the money signing the initials "A.B." He promises that the magazine will be delivered by mail.

Housewives Warned

Scores of housewives appear at the building at 15 S. Gay St. each week, only to find that there is no such firm there. The Better Business Bureau and police have been informed of the racket and are conducting an investigation.
