Leadenhall's New Pastor in Sermon

Rev. Thomas Davis Jr. Accepts Church's Call

Called by unanimous vote of the congregation of the Leadenhall Baptist Church in South Baltimore, the Rev. Thomas B. Davis Jr., new pastor, preached his first sermon there on Sunday.

The Rev. Mr. Davis came here from Kinmarnock, Va., where for five years he was pastor of the Calvary Baptist Church, following his graduation from Virginia Union University and Seminary, where he earned his bachelor of arts and bachelor of divinity degrees.

He is also a graduate of the Union Theological Seminary in New York, where he is now working toward his master's degree in theology.

Son of Baptist Pastor

The son of a Baptist minister, the Rev. Thomas B. Davis Sr., the newcomer to Baltimore is married to the former Miss Antoinnette Boler of Richmond. She is a principal of Providence Park School there.

The Rev. Mr. Davis was, while in Richmond, a member of the Richmond Minister's Conference, statistician of the Northern Neck Baptist Association and church representative of the Lott Carey Missionary Association. He was also active in the Baptist General Association.

Pulpit Vacant Year

The pulpit of Leadenhall Church has been vacant for nearly a year, after the former pastor, the Rev. M. C. Allen, resigned to become the president of Virginia Seminary.

On Sunday some 75 members of the Calvary Baptist Church were at Leadenhall Church to hear the Rev. Mr. Davis preach on "Let Me This Mountain." His wife joined the church.

On Monday, the new pastor joined the local Baptist Ministers Conference. The Rev. Mr. Davis aims to map out for Leadenhall a program to embrace the whole membership, with particular interest

IN OUR CHURCHES

By LOUISE K. HINES

The Rev. John T. Colbert, pastor of the Grace Presbyterian Church, has been one of 30 persons selected by the Board of Christian Education of the Presbyterian Church, to attend the Institute on Racial and Cultural Relations in Philadelphia, Nov. 29 to Dec. 3.

The Rev. W. N. Stokes of New Hope Baptist Church will preach next Sunday at the United Baptist Church, 1210 E. Lexington St., at 3 p. m. in a joint communion service at which his choir will offer special music. The Rev. P. C. Lane is host pastor.

When the Deaconess Board of New Shiloh Baptist Church held its anniversary service, last Sunday, the Rev. Timothy Boddie, pastor, preached on "What Happened When A Church Prayed?"

The congregation of Fulton Baptist Church and its pastor will worship at New Shiloh on Monday night, sponsored by the Shiloh Missionary Society.

Bishop Harris at St. James

Advent Corporate Communion of Men and Boys will be observed at St. James' PE Church at 7 a.m. on Sunday. Men's Service at 11 a. m. will feature a sermon by the Rt. Rev. Bravid Harris, missionary bishop of Liberia.

The Rev. Thomas Lee will be the guest speaker at the Memorial Baptist Church at 3 p.m. on Sunday, observed there as Helping Hand Rally Day. A musical and literary program will be held during the evening service.

The Missionary Circle is in charge of the "Grand Musical Program" set for 8 p.m. on Monday.

50 Choirs in Fete

At Allen AME Church, 50 choirs have been invited to participate in the annual Choir Day observance at 3:30 p. m.; while at the evening service, the Rev. Samuel M. Carter will preach. His choir and congregation will be present.

Election of officers of the Payne AME Sunday School resulted in Mrs. Katherine O. Johnson and Alfred Meyers being voted first and second assistant superintendents, respectively.

At Ames Memorial Methodist Church, the Sunday morning speaker will be the Rev. J. Beverly Shaw, area secretary. The Order of Moses will hold its annual service there at 8 p. m. and hear a sermon by the pastor.

Visiting the Mt. Pisgah CME Church, 1323 N. Gilmor St., at 3 p.m. on Sunday, will be the Rev. Winfield Showell, the choir and congregation of Apostolic Faith Church.

David Fairfax, president of the Stewards Board of Douglas Memorial Community Church, announced that the Sunday morning sermon will be delivered by the Rev. Levi B. Miller Jr. of Morgan State College. The assistant pastor, the Rev. Mrs. Mary Thompson, will deliver the evening sermon.

It is expected that definite action will be taken after the New Year toward the selection of a new pastor, Mr. Fairfax stated.

Bazaar at Hoffman St.

From 8 to 10 p. m. on Monday through Friday, the annual bazaar will be held at the E. Hoffman St. Methodist Church, Washington and Chase Sts. The Gospel Choir anniversary services are set for 3 and 8 p.m. on Sunday.

The Rev. Ward D. Yerby of Perkins Square Baptist Church will preach at 4:30 p. m. on Sunday to the Sampson Brooks Elks Drill Team.

YMCA Observes Fellowship Week

The Druid Hill YMCA joined some 10,000 Christian associations throughout the world last week in the observance of seven days of prayer and world fellowship.

The celebration was sponsored by the World Alliance of Young Men and Young Women's Christian Associations

Each day a different member of the Druid Hill Y took charge of the program.

On Monday, Joseph E. Lee took charge and the following day, Harold Jennifer handled a program on which Leonard Detweiler was main speaker.

Night Program Held

Miss Myrtle V. Dyson was in charge of Wednesday morning's program and Mrs. J. Timothy Boddie was guest speaker. The night program was planned by Lester M. Suitt and featured the Rev. Arthur J. Payne. The Rev. Charles Harper, presided.

Thursday's observance featured the Rev. Howard Cornish and was planned by T. Madison Garrison. James Copeland supervised Friday's program on which the Rev. Dennis Barrow was speaker.

This year's theme was "That They All May Be One."

Protest Mass Meeting Planned

The Rev. Volley K. Stokes has called a mass meeting for the Citizens Speedway Committee to be held at 3 p.m. on Dec. 5, at Trinity Baptist Church, Druid Hill Ave. and McMechen St.

Charles Houston, chief counsel for the organization, will review legal activities in opposition to the conversion of McCulloh St. and Druid Hill Ave., into one-way thoroughfares, together with the social and economic implications to the entire community.

It is advantageous for all residents of this area and the entire city, to attend this meeting, as the future development of colored communities in the city will depend upon the outcome of the fight which the Northwestern section is conducting to preserve the livability of this dred.

Oxford Firemen Put Out Blaze at Lincoln

OXFORD, Pa. —Local firemen were dipatched to Lincoln University, Nov. 17, to extinguish a fire in the school's powerhouse. The blaze, which was confined to the generator, is believed to have been started by a short-circuit.

Aged Couple Save $900 in 10 Years to Give Church Chimes

AUGUSTA, Ga. (ANP)—The 10-year-old dream of the Rev. Robert Johnson, 81, and his wife, Mattie, 74, to make a gift of a set of chimes to the local AME church came true here last week. The chimes were installed and the first musical notes floated through the air to the couple's home nearby.

Ten years ago, the now bedridden minister and his wife decided to make the gift. They figured their income, expenditures and savings and concluded that within 10 years they could save $968.80 to pay the cost. Only one stipulation was made, the chimes must be heard outside and inside the church.

On the day the chimes were first heard, the Johnsons handed over a sugar sack to the piano company installing the chimes with $968.80 in change and bills. Upon their death they are leaving their home to the church for a mission.

REPORT FROM EUROPE:

Austrian Youth Learns About Our Democracy

PHILADELPHIA—The youth of Austria is keenly interested in the workings of democracy in the United States, according to Miss Jean Fairfax, former dean of women at Tuskegee Institute, who returned recently after two years as a member of an American Friends Service Committee team in Austria.

Miss Fairfax, who was the first colored person sent abroad by the Quaker organization in March, 1946, specialized in work with Austrian young people.

MISS JEAN FAIRFAX

She cited as an example of their interest in our democracy and its problems, the desire of several with whom she worked to come to this country to do "interracial work."

Taught Organization

During her first winter in Vienna, Miss Fairfax organized youth groups at a neighborhood center operated by the Quaker team in the British Sector of the city, which met in the evening for "experiments with democracy."

An attempt was made to have the young people organize themselves and thus develop "a sense of responsibility." From 15 to 40 youths, ranging in age 19 to 25, attended each meeting.

Work Camps Set Up

In the summer of 1947, Miss Fairfax helped organize and served as co-director of the first Quaker "work camp" ever held in Austria, located in Brixlegg, a village badly damaged by American bombing.

Twenty four young campers, representing many nations, spent eight weeks in the village helping people rebuild their homes.

This past summer she co-directed two such camps, one of which was in Klagenfurt, a city near the Italian and Yugoslavia border of Austria.

Participating in the camp were young people from eight countries—Sweden, Denmark, Switzerland, Poland, Russia, Hungary, Austria, and the United States. They clear ed rubble from a park and playground for seven weeks.

Flood Victims Aided

Toward the end of the summer, Miss Fairfax and 14 other campers went to a nearby village of Treffen which had been severely damaged by flood.

Clothing and shoes were sent in by the Service Committee, then the work camp spent three weeks on a mountain, 1000 meters above the town, cutting through a new road to replace the one that had been washed out.

The road will enable farmers who had been isolated farther up the mountain to get down to the village.

Clothing for Viennese

Another part of Miss Fairfax's work was the distributing of clothing to the most needy people in Vienna. Since she speaks German fluently, she did a great deal of visiting in the homes of those who received the supplies.

The visits were an effort to interpret to the Austrians the "people behind the packages," those in America who care enough to send them.

The Will to Live

Despite severe physical hardships, she reported that the Austrians had a tremendous "will to live."

They do feel, however, she said, that they are "caught between the power of the United States and that of Russia, and that their opinions and wishes count for very little in the scheme of power politics."

The Friends Service Committee is carrying on a program of food and clothing distribution in Austria as well as in many other countries of Europe and Asia.

Young apprentices and victims of tuberculosis are among the principal recipients of Quaker relief supplies in Austria. Neighborhood Center activities, such as those carried on by Miss Fairfax with youth are carried on for other groups as well.

Miss Fairfax's home is at 10614 Drexel Ave., Cleveland, Ohio. She graduated from the University of Michigan in 1941, and did graduate work at Union Theological Seminary and at Columbia University, receiving her Master's degree in comparative religion from the latter.

From Oct. 1942, until Aug. 1944,

Practical Christianity Key to Civil Rights, Scott Says

Declaring that Christianity, when translated along practical lines, can be used in the attainment of civil rights, Cecil Scott, Baltimore Urban League Industrial secretary, addressed some 200 persons, Sunday, at Mt. Zion Methodist Church.

Speaking at the annual Men's Day observance, Mr. Scott urged his listeners to "protect the freedom of worship of other religious sects as well as their own."

On another civil right issue, the safety of the individual, he asserted:

Urges Equality

The speaker urged his audience to encourage equality of opportunity in employment by setting good examples at their jobs.

He assailed the "decline in national character" and said something should be developed to replace the "hardiness of spirit that was characteristic of the early American."
