TO SPREAD YULE CHEER:

Youth Seeks Old Toys for Needy Youngsters

WASHINGTON

Have you brought Christmas toys for your children, and plan to pack their old, broken toys away in the attic or throw them away—well, don't throw them away.

Clifford E. Winbush Jr., 20, a former Armstrong High School pupil, is tackling the mammoth problem of gathering old and broken toys for distribution among underprivileged children at Christmas time, and is seeking aid from the public.

An electrician by trade, the ambitious youth is urging all donators to send or bring their discarded toys to 216 T St., N.W., or call Adams 6663.

Here he and his energetic friends repair and distribute toys to needy youngsters during the Yule season.

Contacts Schools, Churches

"For the past three seasons Winbush has been contacting nursery schools, churches and people who know of destitute families, to get a distributing list. Many of these youngsters are invited to his home on Christmas Eve for a party where the majority of toys are distributed.

"I do this because there are many unprivileged children who are overlooked each year," he said. Young Winbush explained that he got his idea of helping others through experience gained while a member of the Junior Police and Citizens' Corps.

He estimated that he has aided over 200 children a year, and hopes that this year's contribution will enable him to reach more.

"It really gives you a good feeling of what Christmas means when you take toys into a house where there is a picture of poverty and wretchedness, and see how the kids' faces light up," he exclaimed.

Solicited Aid Over WARL

Last year, young Winbush solicited aid over Station WARL through the help of Mrs. E. E. Oliver who sponsors a weekly children's program. She has been among the first to make donations this year.

Son of Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Winbush Sr., of the above address, the youthful samaritan will keep a list of this year's donators and disclose their names as the contributions pour in. Remember, save those old and broken toys . . .

Cited For Service

Recently Edward A. Brown, commercial manager of The Chesapeake and Potomac Telephone Company office at 1531 Division St., received a sapphire emblem in recognition of 3 years of service with the company. The emblem was presented by T. G. Rumberger, general commercial manager.

Suffragists Map 4-Point Program

Three Committees to Be Established

WASHINGTON

A plan for a campaign organization to obtain suffrage in the District was approved "in principle" this week by trustees of the District Central Suffrage Conference, Inc.

A four-point program was decided upon by the 22-member board at their meeting in the Carnegie Endowment Building, 700 Jackson Pl., N.W., Monday night.

The points included:

1—Establishment of an Information and Research Committee to collect data "with respect to the suffrage bill, the history of suffrage in the District of Columbia.

2—Establishment of a Congressional Support Committee to handle and co-ordinate activities with Congress.

3—Establishment of a Community Support Committee whose activities will largely be devoted to stimulating action and interest in the community.

4—A recommendation that Suffrage Conference president, Wilbur S. Finch, assume responsibility for the functions of the committee setup.

Woolsey Hall, former president of the Federation of Citizens Association, is treasurer of the conference.

Leon Washington Given Chance to Recover

LOS ANGELES (ANP) — Leon H. Washington Jr., militant publisher of the Los Angeles Sentinel, who was rushed to Queen of Angels Hospital here last week suffering from a sudden attack of cerebral hemorrhage, has been given an excellent chance to recover from the illness.

According to attending physicians, Dr. J. W. Johnson and Dr. W. Forde, who were the first colord staff members at the hospital. The fact that Washington is only 41 assures his complete recovery, though it will take some time to build his system back to normal.

2 Aides Call City Hospitals' TB Dining Room 'Unsanitary'

Because of alleged unsanitary conditions in the dining room at City Hospitals tuberculosis building, a laboratory technician and her assistant have resigned.

The lab technician is Mrs. Jennie White of 1607 N. Appleton St., and her assistant is Miss Elsie Camper of 17 N. Bond St.

Both women charged that the dining room where colored employees eat is "in a bad condition, with so many flies that some of us get sick even to think of eating there."

Superintendent Demurs

P. J. McMillin, hospital superintendent, admitted that the dining room was unsatisfactory at one time, but said this condition was remedied when the matter was called to his attention.

Mr. McMillin said the women tendered their resignations when the nurses were allowed to eat in the general dining room and other workers had to continue to use the tuberculosis dining room.

Change Gradually Made

The superintendent explained that the colored nurses were ordered to eat in the general dining room as a part of the hospital's long range plan of combining dietrey services of all hospital personnel.

He stated that this integration program was being put into effect gradually as it was not practical to make the change suddenly.

Drinking Fountain Broken

The two hospital workers made their complaint in a joint statement which read in part:

"We have been without drinking water for almost two months, because of a broken water fountain.

"Recently the colored nurses were told to eat in the general dining room with white staff members, but technicians and other colored employees were denied this privilege."

"We don't think it's fair for employees to be forced to eat in unhealthy surroundings from dishes that are not properly washed and on tables covered with grease."

Quits Post After 3 Years

Mrs. White holds a bachelor of science degree from Shaw University and a certificate in technology from Wayne University. She been employed at the local hospital for three years and formerly held similar posts at Trinity Hospital in Detroit and St. Agnes Hospital in Raleigh, N. C.

Miss Camper has been employed at City Hospitals only three weeks. Both resignations are effective as of Dec. 1.

Three Indicted on Murder Count

WASHINGTON

Three men were jointly indicted on a charge of first-degree murder, Monday, in the beating to death of John H. Cant, 55, of the 6000 block of Eads St., N. E., with a blunt instrument, while robbing him of $10 on Sept. 15, in an alley in the 6200 block of Dix St., N. E.

Woman Freed in Love Duel Knife Killing

It was another one of those "Frankie and Johnnie" cases for Judge Herman Moser, Tuesday, only this time the man over whom two women fought a fatal knife duel really is named Johnnie.

Ruling that the woman who was killed was the aggressor in the fight, Judge Moser freed 23-year-old Miss Ollie McMillion of 343 Forrest St. on murder charges.

The victim was Miss Dorothy Washington, 32 of 1104 E. Lexington St. who died on Sept. 25 after she was stabbed in an argument with Miss McMillion about a man identified as Johnnie Jackson of the Forrest St. address.

"Borrowed" Fatal Weapon

Evidence was that Miss McMillion ran into a nearby restaurant and picked up a butcher knife after the other woman pulled a knife of her own.

Represented by Joseph Rosenthal, attorney, Miss McMillion was released when she went to the hospital to inquire about the condition of Miss Washington after the stabbing, it was revealed.

Morgan State College Faculty Host to New Executive

Car Theft Traps Former Convict

Admitting that he began stealing cars from a dealer the day after he was released from a five-year term for robbery, Robert Hogue, 23, was sent back to the penitentiary, Wednesday, for four more years.

Two companions, arrested when police spied them riding in one of the cars, were acquitted on evidence that they did not know the car was stolen. They were represented by Josiah F. Henry Jr., attorney.

Judge Herman Moser learned that Hogue of the 1300 block Fayette St. was released from prison on Oct. 12 and began working for the used car dealer on Oct 13.

Drove Home to Dinner

He said he used the cars to drive himself home for dinner. Sgt. Dennis Roche and other officers saw one of the automobiles about 3 a.m. on Nov. 2 at Hanover and Hamburg Sts.

The acquitted men are Elmer Williams, 25, of the 1400 block Druid Hill Ave., and William Young, 24, of he 1300 block Fayette St.

Lack of Evidence Frees Youth, 18

Lack of evidence to prove a burglary charge netted an acquittal in Criminal Court, Wednesday of 18-year-old Garth W. Wade who was arrested after it was discovered that someone tampered with the safe in a 22nd. St. cleaners shop on Nov. 9.

Wade admitted being there that evening, but since he was an employee, at the place, police were unable to refute his claim that he had climbed through the window because he had forgotten to take home his hat.

In releasing the youngster, Judge Herman Moser warned him, "Take your hat with you next time."

Shut-In Raises $70 of $1000 in Church Rally

Mrs. Virgie Taylor, a shut-in, raised $70.39 of the $1011.88 netted from the annual Women's Day sponsored by the Women's Society of Christian Service of St. Matthew Methodist Church.

Other captains and their reports were as follows:

Mesdames Mary Griffen, $53.40; Carrie Yorkman, $35.50; Iris Jordan, $16.75; Annie Fender, $36; Marjorie Cole, $56.50; Rosalee Freeman, $28.75; Christine Coston, $12.75; Margaret Epps, $52.50; Ann Woods, $46; Elizabeth Fuller, $59; Doris Harper, $48.10;

Mrs. Jefferson Raises $103

Mesdames Rosa Dowell, $40; Mary Jefferson, $103.34; Emma Nelson, $60.67; Julia Hyman, $75.49; Emma Higginbottom, $61.43; Geneva Saltus, $71.50; Dessie Spradley, $52.50; and Marietta Stewart, $31.55.

Mesdames Julia King and Minnie Harvey were chairman and co-chairman; Misses Laura Driver and Lucy Johnson, president and secretary of the WSCS. Pastor of the church is the Rev. M. M. Jefferson Jr.

Youth Sentenced on Abuse Count

There are only bad adults and not bad children, Judge Herman Moser commented, Wednesday, as he sentenced 20-year-old Otis M. Smith to 18 months in the Reformatory for Males for making an indecent assault upon a 13-year-old girl.

Judge Moser pointed out that a child 13 years old could not be inherently bad, and that the purpose of the carnal knowledge law is to protect children whose age necessarily limits their knowledge of right from wrong.

Represented by U. Theodore Hayes, attorney, Smith was acquitted on a more serious charge that he attempted to criminally abuse the child.

Testimony was that he made the assault on Nov. 9 after taking the girl to his home in the 900 block N. Vincent St.

Jurist Hits Delay in $200 Repair Job

Colinus Epps, 40-year-old contractor, charged with obtaining $200 under false pretenses, was given nine days in which to make proposed repairs on a N. Castle St. house or face criminal prosecution.

The ultimatum was issued by Magistrate A. A. Kozlovsky in Northeastern police court, Wednesday, after Mrs. Annie Hamilton of 113 N. Castle St. testified that she had given Epps the money to make repairs several weeks ago but that he had failed to do so.

The defendant was represented by Antony Federico, attorney, who explained that Epps had been having difficulty getting materials, but that the repairs would be made within 10 days.

Epps was then released on his own recognizance to make the renovations. The case was then postponed until Dec. 11.

$2,500 Bail Set for Theft Suspects

Two men, charged in Western police court on Wednesday, with the theft of clothing valued at $1212, plead innocent but were placed under $2,500 bail each, for a grand jury hearing.

During a preliminary hearing before Magistrate Preston Pairo, Robert Maddox, 31, of 1021 Sterling St., admitted breaking into the New York Pants Co. at 723 W. Pratt St., and piling the loot on the roof where William Holbert, 20, of 652 Dover St., was stationed.

The loot included 178 pairs of pants valued at $1178; a pair of paper shears worth $10, a $5 hat, and two sweaters valued at $19, police said.

Dedication of Turner Station Community Center Postponed

Originally scheduled for Dec. 5, the formal dedication of the Turners Station Community Center has been postponed until sometime in January.

This announcement was made Thursday by Dr. Eugene D. Byrd, acting chairman of the center's managerial board.

Dr. Byrd said the postponement was made in order to make it possible for the County Commissioners to attend the dedication program.

Christian Kahl, chairman of the three-man Commissioners' Board was unable to attend on the December date, Dr. Byrd explained.

The community building was purchased early this year with $7,000 raised in a citizen-sponsored door-to-door campaign. A balance of $3,000 is still outstanding on the structure.

4 Accused of Stealing 2,000 Pounnds of Iron

Charged with the theft of 2,000 pounds of cast iron from a salvage yard, four men were held for grand jury action in $500 bail, each, Tuesday, following a hearing in Eastern police court.

The defendants identified themselves as William Royster, 26, of 1016 N. Eutaw St.; Herbert Ross, 26, of 406 N. Dallas St.; Russell Crapper, 25, of 517 N. Bond St., and Bennie Barnes, 32, of 607 N. Bond St.

Evicted Roomer Sought in $99 Wardrobe Theft From Woman in Jail

While Mrs. Lillie Herring was serving a term in the city jail, someone entered her apartment at 704 Harford Ave. and stole $99 worth of clothes.

Mrs. Herring reported the theft to Northeastern District police on Wednesday and said she suspected William Smith, a roomer at the Harford Ave. address who was evicted during her involuntary absence.

Suspect 67 Years' Old

Meanwhile police are seeking Smith who is 67 years old, for questioning. Mrs. Herring said her loss included two dress suits, two bathrobes, four bedsheets, and two blankets.
