Club 13's 'Bad Taste' Party Brings Out the Ludicrous in Baltimoreans' Dress Ideas

Mel Bolden of New York took first prize for the worst costume worn at a "bad taste" party in Baltimore, Friday night.

Mr. and Mrs. William Pinderhughes also exhibited the worst they could think up in costumes for the party.

Mrs. Frances Lockwood and Thomas Hawkins were among the guests who danced at the young men's club's holiday festival.

The Alvin Jacksons were among Club 13's patrons who danced so that needy families might receive Christmast baskets.

Town Socialites Rollick at Club 13's "Bad Taste" Party

Members of Club 13 offered their friends a good excuse to dress up in clownish costumes and have a rollicking good time at a "Bad Taste Party" Friday night, at the Elks Auditorium.

Hosts were:

George A. Brown Jr., Melvin A. Callaman, Dr. H. Garland Chissell Jr., Jerrold D. Griffin, Dr. Thomas W. Harris Jr., Atty. U. Theodore Hayes, Jesse Hurtt, Sterling Johnson, Bill Pinderhughes, John Procope Jr., Chuck Richards, Charles Thompson and Vincent Tubbs.

Chuck Richards emceed in his own incomparable manner and prizes were awarded for the most outlandish and orginal attire.

Belden Takes Prize

Mel Bolden, who came in tails, baggy black and white stripe pants that were nearly four sizes too large, won first prize.

Wearing black high buttoned shoes, a costume made from pig feed sacks and corn husks as a head dress, Ann Ferguson marched past the judges and came up with second prize.

Mrs. Gloria Parker's red and white polka dot pajamas, plaid jacket and black beret won third prize for her.

Fourth prize winner was Allen Ebb who actually wore the candy stripe pajamas and tuxedo coat mentioned in the cute invitation.

Melvin Hurtt was clad in a green and yellow hat with shoes to match. Mrs. Dorothy Gibson came in a black and gold evening blouse, gold sequined evening cap, a gray skirt and white shoes and hose.

Mrs. John Procope Jr. was dressed in a black slack suit. Arnetia Lottier wore green slacks.

Pink Shirt Scares

Jesse Green was there in knee-length pants and a pink stripe shirt. Cliff Mackay wore dungarees with his tuxedo coat.

Enodia Goodwin and Jacqueline Watts were dressed like characters from Dagpatch. Mrs. Goodwin wore dungerees under her skirt, a kerchief on her head and gold shoes with red anklets. Mrs. Watts was garbed in wool bobby sox, evening slippers, odd gloves and a plaid skirt.

Ties On Bustle

Patricia Jackson tied a bustle on the back of her peddlepushers and wore black hose with her white high heels. Tommy Hawkins came in a striped "t" shirt and a high silk hat.

Charles W. Anderson Jr., Louisville, Ky., legislator.

The marriage took place on November 19.

The bride's daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Edward McCall of Detroit, was formerly married to Dr. Alfred Thomas, who recently wed Marian Stubbs Turner of Philadelphia. Mr. Anderson's former wife, Ann, who divorced him a couple of years ago, is now on the staff of Maryland State College.

The newlywed Andersons are at homs in Louisville.

DR. HAWKINS WEDS

Dr. J. B. Hawkins, Baltimore physican, and Dorothy Anderson, also of this city were wed, here, the day before Thanksgiving, and immediately left for a brief honeymoon in Atlantic City.

The ceremony was performed by the Rev. W. P. Mitchell, pastor of Trinity AME Church, and the couple was attended by close friends, Mr. and Mrs. William J. Smith Jr.

HAIRSTON SURPRISED

Dr. and Mrs. Chalmers Hairston could have been topped over with a feather when their son, Chalmers Jr., popped down last week end, fetched with him the former Mae Davenport, and nonchalantly announced that they had been married since July 29.

...e parents, were nevertheless, no end pleased.

The new Mrs. Hairstton is the niece of Mrs. Amie McDowell of Corona, L.I., and is in training at the Harlem Hospital. Mr. Hairston is a student at Manhattan School of Music.

SMITH-SCOTT RITES

As predicted here a week ago, Stanley M. Smith, vocational school teacher, and Mildred E. Scott, beautician were married the day after Thanksgiving. The Rev. C. Baker Pearle officiated. Mr. Smith and Mrs. Justine Smith had been divorced the week before.

SHORTER INFANT BAPTISED

Up to New York for the Thanksgiving holidays went Bernice and William Shorter and their son, William Ivan, who was christened on Sunday at St. Phillips Church.

The godmother was Mrs. Edith Kirton, and godfathers, Arthur Martin and Sgt. Cecil Shorter of New York City. The godparents in Baltimore are Mary and Ernest Taylor of Edmondson Avenue.

Incidentally the mother is the former Bernice Iva Hawkins, a member of the Dunbar High School faculty and and dad is a Railway postal clerk. The Shorter's live on Evans Chapel Rd., here.

BRIDE SHOWERED

And, in the same theme, Elvera Nickens, who became Mrs. Henry Richardson back in August, was showered by co-workers of the home economics department of Dunbar High School, Friday evening, in the apartment of Sadye Bryant, of Virginia Hall.

The shower, a silver one and a surprise, was participated in by Helen Murray, Inez Duffin, Elita Higginbotham, Betty Bundara, Frances Williams, Mary Allen, Alma Parker, now of Douglass but formerly of the Dunbar faculty, Beatrice Buford and Mattie Connor.

PEREGRINATORS:

From Mexico City, Mexico, where they are winter vacationing, the Raymond Pace Alexanders, Philly attorneys, sent charming announcements of having reached their twenty-fifth wedding anniversary on Thanksgiving Day...with the opposite page showing a replica of the invitation of their wedding in Philadelphia in 1923, and the frontispiece bearing silver, engravings of his monogram and her maiden one, the final letter of the latter being for Morsell.

The Rev. Mr. and Mrs. Baxter Matthews returned on Saturday from Los Angeles where he conducted a successful 10-day revival at the famed Second Baptist Church.

Guests of Mrs. Horace Smith, here, this week, were Mr. and Mrs. Robert N. Hodgson, of Devonshire, North, Bermuda, and their daughter, Ruth.

Mr. Hodgson is a member of the Colonial House of Parliament on the Island. They have been in the States for the past nine weeks, having visited a niece, Mrs. Edgar Langley in Boston, William Boone and B. M. Nottage in Detroit, T. B. Nottage in Cleveland, Ohio, another niece, Mrs. John Frederick in Philadelphia, and from here will go to Jersey City where they will be guests of Dr. and Mrs. Robert Fullilove. From there they will return home.

TOWN DOINGS:

Viola Jackson was named president of the Baltimore Branch of the College Women's Club at a session at the home of Mrs. Ethel Payne a Sunday ago. Other officers are Marian Webb, vice president; Elizabeth Anthony, recording secretary; Dora Hutchinson, financial secretary; and Enna Payne, treasurer. We Wives have scrapped our costume ball on the past two seasons and will have a smaller, swankier affair on New Year's Eve. The Maids and Matrons met on Wednesday, shuffled a few pennies, inducted Jeane Parrott, Enola Knox and Jackie Watts. Elroy Wilson hosted employees of his establishment on Thursday night. Guests were Ernester King, Stetson Wilson, Mrs. Hazel Colbert, Dan Keating, Walter Brown, Goales Wilson, Johnie Williams and Mr. Wilson.
