OPINION

The secret of education lies in respecting the pupil. — EMERSON.

Human Rights and the Church

Christian feelings have been outraged in this generation, by the Church's failure to speak out against evil.

Thus spoke the Federated Council of the Churches of Christ in America, which represents 27 denominations and 28 of the history on the currently passed the strongest resolution.

The resolution is composed of two basic points:

First, it is the duty of Christians in their own lives to practice democracy and to practice it in their relations with others.

It is the duty of Christians in their own churches to encourage the State governments to make segregation illegal.

Second, it is the duty of Christians to make segregation illegal.

The Baltimore Sun is such an example. In a recent editorial the Sun criticized the churches for their resolution.

The Sun says the churches seek to have State governments do what they themselves have failed to do, namely, to make segregation illegal.

The Sun says the churches seek to have State governments do what they themselves have failed to do, namely, to make segregation illegal.

Why should we have a Federal law which punishes kidnapping and not one which punishes lynching?

Why should a boy under the law, may be barred from a State university by a boy under the law, may be barred from a State university by a boy under the law, may be barred from employment on the basis of race or color in a State institution.

Why shouldn't it be equally unlawful to bar a colored person from a State university, or to deny him employment on the basis of race or color in a State institution.

As to segregation in the churches on Sunday, it is a slick procedure of debate when you are at a loss for a good argument to attack the debater. That is why the Sun and other advocates of segregation in the churches and say 'put your own house in order.'

The truth is, there is no more segregation in the churches on Sunday morning than in theatres on Sunday evenings.

If the Sun wants to do something about segregation, the purpose to do something about segregation. Surely, this is the churches' credit.

T. Wallis Lansey

Tenth Willis Lansey of the Druid Laundry, and prominent civic, church and welfare worker, died suddenly Wednesday at the age of 55 years.

It goes without saying that numerous Baltimore citizens mourn the passing of this man who was in the entire community. Part of this is due to the fact that Mr. Lansey was almost synonymous with the growth of the Druid Hill Laundry.

As we recall, originally it was the Pratt Laundry and occupied a very small building on Druid Hill Ave., near Biddle St. Later a branch was opened in the 900 block, near Biddle St.

In the early days, Louis Pratt, the father of Harry T., was the general manager. At his death, Mr. Lansey came to the fore as the manager. At his death, Mr. Lansey came to the Druid Laundry.

The late Harry T. Pratt was busy as principal of Douglass High and during his vacation to the business only on Saturday.

A great deal of the growth of the laundry as a public institution, therefore, was the largely to the efforts of Mr. Lansey.

Today the laundry stands on the solid reputation as a traditional Baltimore enterprise that has been progressive and

It must have been particularly satisfying to him that he could see with his own eyes in the short span of 40 years three generations of Lanseys in the plant and know that he would be succeeded by his own son.

There's Time Yet for Action

At first glance it may appear that the educational committee of the Legislative Council handled the report of the Maryland Commission on Human Relations with a high degree of tact.

In baseball this would give a batter a batting average of only .270. This is not enough to qualify for honors in the big

But a second look presents a different picture and shows that the Marbury Commission made substantial progress.

But a second look presents a different picture and shows that the Marbury Commission made substantial progress.

While it is our opinion that the commission's recommendations should be more forthright in calling for the ethical attitudes change, we look to see other recommendations adopted from time to time.

The commission recommended that the Maryland Commission on Human Relations be authorized to make sure they are State College.

This also may be considered a positive factor. For it goes with the State's problems in administration and support of its institutions of higher learning.

While it is our opinion that the commission's recommendations should be more forthright in calling for the ethical attitudes change, we look to see other recommendations adopted from time to time.

The commission recommended that the Maryland Commission on Human Relations be authorized to make sure they are State College.

This also may be considered a positive factor. For it goes with the State's problems in administration and support of its institutions of higher learning.

If not, we may wake up one day to find that the Maryland Commission on Human Relations has become a political tool.

But a second look presents a different picture and shows that the Marbury Commission made substantial progress.

The result of this grave misconception is a composition with our Negro population which can only be described as a mass of confusion.

And when they get the answers, they are not the answers they want to hear.

Page 2

The Battle Goes On and On

All in the Same Boat; So Let's Row Together

By MILTON P. BROWN
NAACP Executive Secretary

No one person's or group's peace or security is any greater than that of the weakest, most ostracized, most despised and most persecuted.

Thus we consider oneself immune to what is happening to others in the world, we are indeed, as has been illustrated in recent incidents in

Brutality Heritage Evaded

Brutality Heritage Evaded

Brutality Heritage Evaded

Police Picks White

A Lynching Victim

Officer's Killings Recalled

Officer's Killings Recalled

Problem Edward Sender Shot

Problem Edward Sender Shot

Russia and the South

Russia and the South

The Yardstick He Uses

The Yardstick He Uses

Family Background, Education

Family Background, Education

"I Hove a Lot of Southern Blood"

"I Hove a Lot of Southern Blood"

scratch pad

Keep your eye on the slum clearance program.

Check Up on Things

Slums and Clearance

By Mode Morris

pencil shavings

By Peyton Gray

Bootleg Hockers Running Rampant

The "bootleg" taxicab situation along Pennsylvania Ave., especially the part between Mosher and Pitcher Sts., is fast getting out of control. Within the past week, at least, four serious crimes have been committed within a few hundred feet of the intersection of Pennsylvania Ave. and Mosher St.

Two of the crimes were committed by persons who had just left a bootleg joint located in the rear of a dwelling at 1 Pitcher St. Police have been informed that the occupants of the dwelling have been selling liquor to passers-by for some time. Police have also been informed that several private cars (or a trip to a given destination. There were five men, all strangers, in the car in which the patron rode. Instead of being taken to the destination he had indicated, the driver proceeded to a lonely street, where all five abused her.

Upon reaching the destination, the woman was robbed of her money and repeated the criminal act, then left the victim stranded in a lonely spot, and repeated the criminal act, then left the victim stranded blocks away from her home.

The woman reported the incident to the police, and they started an investigation. Previously, four of the suspects have been arrested and identified. They await trial.

Second Incident Reported

The second incident, which occurred over the past week end, involved the slaying of a former AFRO news carrier. He was sitting inside a bootleg joint waiting for a friend to take him to work, when he was shot to death. Police have a number suspect, who is a "bootleg" cab driver, is still being sought by police.

Approximately six weeks ago, a young man, known to be one of the hackers in question, was robbed of $40 while in a bootleg joint located at 1 Pitcher St. He was accosted after taking "smack" to a philadelphia officer.

The officer, upon being informed that the young man was robbed, was interrupted by the man who said he "paid money to work that corner."

His street followed. Meeting Maddrey Pittsville let it be known that "hackers cannot control any street corner from which to make a living." Pittsville, a veteran of the police force, let the man with a suspended sentence

The Police Are Aware

Complaints and reports of disorder among the hackers along the block in question without being molested by these characters. They not only try to rush passengers bodily into their cars, but they also try to rush passengers bodily into their cars.

The answer is simple. One of the men flashed a gun which he threatened to use if the reporter four days later, the woman, who was frightened to prevent. In addition, she values her life.

The matron was reluctant to discuss the embarrassing and humiliating incident. She was reluctant to talk only after strong assurances and the solemn promise that neither her name nor her address would be published.

Incidentally, the police department has promised that neither the police have been arrested and identified. They await trial.

The Freedom of Entertaining

Gov. Lane's method of combatting police criticism "the different investigations," before the accused suspects received court

Now comes Chief Magistrate James Cadden, whose quoted comments Cadden stated that he was "not in favor of a group of interested friends who could each Observed drinking together in a private home, they were

The minor jurist said something about breaking up interracial mixed parties in the solid resolution as a traditional Baltimore enterprise that has been progressive and

Ridden Baltimore's Legislative Cadden Knows

Gov. Lane's method of combatting police criticism "the different investigations," before the accused suspects received court

Now comes Chief Magistrate James Cadden, whose quoted comments Cadden stated that he was "not in favor of a group of interested friends who could each Observed drinking together in a private home, they were

The minor jurist said something about breaking up interracial mixed parties in the solid resolution as a traditional Baltimore enterprise that has been progressive and

Ridden Baltimore's Legislative Cadden Knows

patrons of one of the better night clubs cannot get in, or have to wait in the dark outside the place, while the accused suspects received court

I doubt that there are existing laws on the statute books of Maryland which can be used to prevent a group of interracial friends from having a home. Perhaps the learned magistrate or some friends of his thinking

birthdays

Thirteen the bride of Time, fair Lettering slow, the Future creep; Grow swift, the Present, creeping, Age stumbles, forever and the past.

— SCHILLER

Birthdays are for those who celebrate birthdays meet. Felicitations to:

DEC. 11 — Mrs. Willie J. Winston.

DEC. 12 — Mrs. Angie Mitchell, 1128 Druid Hill Ave.; Mrs. Ethel Mae Jones, 1128 Druid Hill Ave.; Mrs. Mary B