SONNYBOY WHIPS STONEW ALL

D.C. Lightweight Champ Easily Retains His Crown

Season's Second Largest Crowd Sees Homecoming Rivals in Return Battle

By FRED LEIGH

WASHINGTON

Displaying the smart ring generalship and clever punching ability which has made him the District's outstanding fight prospect, Sonny Boy West successfully defended his local lightweight championship in a 12-rounder Wednesday night at Uline Arena.

A crowd of 2,375 fans paid a gross of $4,819.32 with a net of $3,432.90 to see the contest. It was the second largest indoor gate attraction this season as a previous high of 2,470 fans saw their lastsetto.

After solving Jackson's unorthodox style in the late rounds, West had little trouble overpowering his opponent, and literally had to chase him around the ring.

A murderous two-fisted attack to Stonewall's head in the seventh round slowed him down considerably. West was bleeding slightly from the nose while Jackson appeared to be tiring rapidly at this stage.

Tries for Kayo

Switching to a crouch position and pecking away at Stonewall's midsection, West angled for a knockout. However, Stonewall rocked with the potent power in Sonny Boy's punches, and he did more retreating than fighting in the ninth round.

Aroused after being shoved into the ropes in the tenth, West catapulted back like a jack-in-a-box, swarming all over Jackson and literally covering him with blows. Both fighters slugged it out toe to toe in the tenth.

West literally chased Stonewall around the ring in the final two rounds, hopeful of sending a knock-out blow, but Jackson got up enough steam to dance gingerly out of the way.

Like little giants, both fighters leveled a furious two-fisted attack on each other's midsection. Westfloored Jackson for an eight count in a wild exchange which saw both fighters continually winding up in the ropes.

Second Straight Win

The victory was West's second straight. He stopped Jackson in 140 of the eighth round in their last encounter. The triumph gave Sonny Boy a record of 35 wins in 38 tilts as a professional.

The preliminaries opened with Tee Edwards, 158, Washington, outjabbing Joe Green, 154½, Washington, in a slow bout. In a one-sided bout Herman Johnson, 133, cuffed out a unanimous decision over Russell Rohner, 135.

Ray Hanbury, 142, outlasted Leestoner Johnson, Philadelphia, to take a split decision which was roundly booed for some five minutes by the spectators who thought at least it could have been a draw. All were four-rounders.

A six-round semi-final bout saw Johnny Holt, 160, and Arthur Bethea, 157, fight to a stirring draw.

Seek Saddler, Bean

Two top-notch fighters are among prospects now being lined up to meet the winner during inauguration week in January.

Promoter Goldie Ahearn is seeking to bring Sandy Saddler, world's featherweight champion, here on Jan. 13, and has offered him 30 per cent of the gate.

It had also been proposed that Beau Jack, lightweight contender and popular fighter among District fans, meet the winner with part of the receipts going to the March of Dimes Fund to combat polio.

82nd Airborne Eleven Out to Break Marines' Streak

Fort Bragg's 82nd Airborne Division All-Americans, sparked by a galaxy of former collegiate and scholastic grid stars, will seek to end the Quantico Marines' three-year win streak in a service game, Dec. 18, at Maryland University Stadium.

The contest, sponsored by the Washington Junior Board of Commerce for benefit of the Jaycees Youth and Welfare fund, will include former players from Ohio State's jayvee squad, Johnson C. Smith, Tuskegee, Prairie View, W.Va. State, Alabama State, and outstanding high schools over the nation.

The 82nd Airborne All-Americans closed their regular season by beating Fort Benning, 14-0, recently, for their ninth straight win, completing a perfect season.

The Quantico Marines are undefeated since 1946, and are spearheaded by Jouliing Joe Barton, former Navy gridder, who is rated among the nation's individual leaders in pass receiving, rushing and total offense.

Ohio State Gridder

A mixed aggregation, the 82nd eleven will be bulwarked by stalwarts as Robert R. Ross, 192-pound end on Ohio State's jayvee team in 1946, and an excellent pass receiver and defense man.

Other collegiate standouts are Percy Foxx, 180-pound halfback, who saw service with Johnson C. Smith in 1943; John Underwood, former end at West Virginia State in 1945; Floyd McAffee, who played three years at Tuskegee in 1946, 1946 and 1947; Ollie R. Jones, 191-pound end, and former player at Prairie View, and Barnell Breedlove, former Alabama State flankman in 1939 and 1940.

Bright prospects among the scholastic gridders include Fred Bell, 164-pound halfback, who starred at Central High School in Galveston, Tex., in 1944 and 1945. A member of the 555th Parachute Infantry Battalion, he has scored 30 points for the All-Americans this season.

Scholastic Standouts

Others are Soloman Spencer, 174-pound half back from Kelly Miller High School in Detroit; Quarterback Harold S. Davidson of Gordon High School, Yonkers, N.Y.; David M. Hannah, 180-pound end from DuBois High School, DuBois, W.Va.; Fred L. Truitt, 5-foot 7-inch 170-pound guard from Dudley High School in Greensboro, N.C., and Marvin Groom, 200-pound center, from Daytona Beach High School and former Camp Lee Travelers' star.

Harrison's Rally Wins 'Touch' Title

Harrison School Yellow Skins, striking through the air for two TDs in the third period, came from behind to defeat Lovejoy, 24-13 for the elementary school touch football championship, recently, on the Monument grounds.

Trailing 13-12 at halftime, Quarterback James Lewis and Calvin Beaner teamed up to tally twice in the third quarter.

Outstanding for Harrison in addition to Lewis and Beaner were Charles Fenner, Eugene Washington and Frank R. Dutch.

The Yellow Skins have defeated Wilson, Bruce, Stevens, Phillips-Wormley, Bundy and Lovejoy. Charles B. Shorter is coach at Harrison.

PRINCESS ANNE SEEKS CIAA MEMBERSHIP

Maryland State College Delegates at D.C. Meeting

36th Annual Conference Highlighted by Address by President John H. Burr

By SAM LACY
AFRO Sports Editor

BULLETIN

A motion to divide the CIAA into two eight-team sections was lost by a voice vote today (Friday) at the morning session of the CIAA Conference, meeting in Washington at Carver Hall.

WASHINGTON — The 36th annual meeting of the CIAA got under way promptly at 10 o'clock this morning (Friday) at Carver Hall with President John H. Burr presiding.

The invocation was pronounced by the Rev. A. H. Taylor of St. Paul Polytechnic Institute of Lawrenceville, Va.

Immediately after the meeting was convened, the AFRO learned that Maryland State College of Princess Anne hopes to become affiliated with the association.

Coach V. E. McCain and his assistant, C. D. Coffey, were present to make formal application for membership when the proper time arrives.

While no official word has been given, it is exceedingly doubtful that the fastgrowing Eastern Shore school will be admitted this year, if at all.

Move Generally Opposed

The reason is that CIAA members are already outspoken in their criticism of the size of the conference. Many hold that sixteen schools are too large a body and there has been considerable discussion of a division of the circuit into eight school sections.

It is recalled on each occasion when a new school was admitted to the conference, representatives of that school were forced to wait sometimes three years, before the body approved its membership.

Notable cases are Delaware State College which sought membership for three years before being admitted; Winston-Salem Teachers College which tried for two years before being accepted on its third time around.

The Friday morning session was highlighted by an address by President Burr.
