Charitable Gob Surrenders Wife and Home to a Friend

nary. This man (Conrad) was at the party. We all enjoyed ourselves.

Admits She Loves Another

The next day, they went to Washington. My wife told me she would be home by 10 p.m. It was 10 a.m. next day when she got home; but she told me that her cousin had a party and she stayed, so I excused that.

Two or three days later the same thing happened; and she came in at 4 or 5 in the morning.

"Honey," I said, "I didn't sleep the rest of the night thinking about you. What's the matter, do you love another man?" She told me "yes." Later, I agreed to a divorce."

Rival Moves Into Home

Later, Mr. Teodosio said, Mr. Conrad bought out his interest in property at 418 E. Lanvale St. which he and Mrs. Teodosio were buying jointly. After he moved out, Mr. Conrad moved in, he said.

Testifying for the husband was his wife's brother, James V. Carberry. The latter said his sister was a good wife, kind and affectionate, until she found she wanted someone else.

Donald G. Murray was attorney for the husband.

Supervisor Wins Decree

Also winning a decree was Mrs. Pearl C. Wilson of 1806 McKean Ave., an elementary supervisor in city schools.

Mrs. Wilson testified that her husband, Earl, had difficulty keeping a job and thus was not able to assume his share of responsibility. He denied that it would be best to end the marriage, she said.

Her attorney was J. Howard Payne.

Six File Petitions

Petitions for divorces were filed by the following:

Mrs. Edith Payne vs. Robert L. D. Lindsay Daynham, attorney; Mrs Emogene Floyd vs. Willie Roy S. Bond, attorney; Mrs. Callie B. Sprueill vs. George Roy S. Bond, attorney; Robert vs. Mrs. Mary Robinson, Roy B. Bond, attorney; Mrs. Ethel Lynch vs. Cecil B. Roy B. Bond, attorney; Mrs. Esther Bagwell vs. Emile, Roy B. Bond, attorney.

Given 18 Years in Shooting Case

UPPER MARLBORO, Md. — Thomas Hall of 5312 Maple Rd., Deanwood Park, and was convicted of second-degree murder in the fatal shooting of Charles F. Caldwell, Prince Georges County policeman, and sentenced to 18 years in prison.

The sentence was imposed Thursday afternoon following a two-day trial before Chief Judge William M. Loker and Associate Judges Charles C. Marbury and John B. Gray Jr. in Upper Marlboro, Md.

Climax Reached Wednesday

The trial reached a dramatic climax Wednesday afternoon, when the defendant and A. Gwynn Bowie, State's attorney, bitterly exchanged words as to how the confession, later admitted as evidence, was obtained.

Hall, a 56-year-old stoneyard worker, insisted that he signed the confession only after being told that he would "be convicted before he took the witness stand" unless he did so.

Defendant Stands Ground

The State's attorney shouted, "Hall, you know you are lying."

The defendant calmly replied, "I am telling the truth and I don't intend to fuss with you about it."

Hall is charged with shooting Charles Caldwell, Prince George County policeman as the officer attempted to arrest Hall's daughter, Janie, 20. Hall's wife was fatally beaten in the melee which occurred in a dance hall near Deanwood, last June.

for colored citizens out of the same loan.

He learned that plans for developing a beach there virtually have been abandoned, because of the polluted water supply.

Mr. Maxwell said the Health Department reported that the water at Fort Armistead is of "doubtful quality," but that the development of the site as a park without bathing facilities has better possibilities.

Dr. Harris and Mr. Maxwell were made members of a committee to study the possible beach facilities, after Mr. Mitchell suggested that the water condition could be straightened out."

Cherry Hill Site Broached

Mr. Maxwell later revealed that between 15 and 20 acres of land at Cherry Hill is already available for development of recreational facilities.

The area involved is south of Reedbird Ave., north of the Patapsco River outlet and west of Hanover St. Mr. Maxwell said that with minor bulldozing and top soiling, two ball fields could be placed there as a beginning.

He said eventual negotiations could lead to development of some 45 acres of playground space in the Cherry Hill section.

Could Acquire Field House

When the question of money for the playground facilities was broached, Mr. Hook, director of parks, suggested that one of the field houses, designated through the $2,000,000 park loan, could be situated there.

The board investigated establishment of recreational facilities at Cherry Hill after the Cherry Hill Coordinating Council appeared before it with facts and figures showing that the community has over 7,500 persons with relatively no recreation and park areas.

'Look' Sued by Champion before this article was written. Mr. Cochane did not confer with my management, Marshall Miles of Buffalo and John Roxborough of Detroit.

"He did not talk with Theodore A. Jones, treasurer of Joe Louis Enterprises, Inc. Mr. Jones, C.P.A., has been making regular income tax payments on my behalf, nor did a Look magazine representative talk with my attorney, Truman K. Gibson Jr., of Chicago.

"Therefore I cannot account for the source of the false information that appeared in the Look magazine article I do know, however, that each and every statement in this article is an unqualified falsehood.

"In my many years in the boxing business, I have always felt that any writer had the right to criticize me for my actions in and out of the ring. Naturally, I do not enjoy this criticism, as who does, but I know I must expect it as a public figure.

Says Statements Untrue

"In this few suit I have not taken the position that I must not be criticized. If the author of the article in Look magazine merely had made statements reflecting on my boxing ability, I would have accepted these as part of the role of a heavyweight champion.

"My ring record will stand or fall on what I have done, or will do in the future in the ring. I have always tried to be a good, fighting champion. If Mr. Cochane had chosen to underline actual out-of-ring incidents involving me I would not have instituted this law suit.

"Because I pay my taxes and other debts, and have always tried to do right, I could not stand by and permit these untruths to be written—untruths that can destroy me and the businesses with which I am connected now and will be in the future."

Battling Church Factions' Violence Aired in Court

Only two, Johnson and Darby, admitted that the accusation was true.

Linwood T. Koger, representing the Rev. Mr. Guthrie, disclosed that a bill of complaints has been filed in Circuit Court enjoining the other faction from interfering with the normal procedure and church routine.

Court action during the past 20 months established the Rev. Mr. Guthrie as the legal pastor.

In commenting, Magistrate Fitzpatrick observed:

"If there is any further violence among the members, someone will be penalized either through a fine or jail. You people must wait for Circuit Court action.

The magistrate issued the same warning the day before when Mrs. Ora Braxton, a deaconess, of 1219 Park Ave., was given a hearing on charges of being disorderly during the Dec. 26 services.

She was accused by Mrs. Willette Tisdele, a licensed missionary. Mrs. Braxton, it was said, snatched a chair from the minister, tossed a Bible to the floor and made slanderous remarks about Mrs. Tisdale.

Denied Allegations

The allegations were denied by the defendant as the magistrate disposed of the case without a verdict.

New Central Baptist Church is the former home of Enon Baptist Church and was taken over by its present group when the Rev. A. J. Payne moved his flock to its present site at Edmondson Ave. and Schroeder St.

MAIL TRUCK DRIVER INJURED

William H. Jones, 31, of 1627 McKean Ave. was seriously injured late Thursday night when a mail truck he was driving collided with an automobile at Fayette St. and Broadway.

2nd MAN IN GREAR CASE JAILED

Identified as the woman involved with Edward Grear, who is accused in the slaying of a Northwestern district police officer, Miss Mary Williams, 23, caused the arrest Thursday of another man who, she said, beat her because of her association with Grear.

On her testimony, Robert Austin, 37, whom Miss Williams identified as her common-law husband, was sentenced to 60 days in jail at Western police station this morning (Friday).

The police victim, Patrolman John Arnold, was fatally shot when he and a fellow officer went to investigate a disturbance at Biddle and Little Pine Sts., finding Miss Williams being choked by a man.

Jude, Drs. Harris, Butler Named to Frontiers' Board

At an election held on Tuesday Frontiers Club elected to the board of directors, George L. Jude, insurance supervisor, Drs. Bernard Harris, physician; and Lucius Butler, dentist.

In an extensive session to be held this month, the board membership will elect officers and report to the body on Tuesday.

The new board members replace William W. B. Day, employment agency head; Reginald Gardner, soft drink bottling executive, and Dr. W. Leroy Berry, physician, who had also served respectively as secretary, treasurer and vice-president of the club.

New members to join the service organization this year were:

Drs. Miles W. Connor, president of Coppin Teachers College; the Martin D. Jenkins, president of Morgan State College, Milton P. Brown, Baltimore NAACP executive secretary; and William I. Gibson, editor of the AFRO-AMERICAN.

An average weekly attendance of 85 per cent was reported for the club. Its 1948 service projects included:

The purchase of luncheon tables, electric fans and a speaker's stand for the YMCA, the donation of $100 to the musical therapy program of the Kerman Children's Hospital School, the donation of $400 to the Bragg Home for Boys, to equip a classroom.

Also the donation of the Radio Broadcast Fund, c/o York Hotel, Dolphin Street and Madison Avenue, Baltimore 17, Maryland.

Accompanied by the president of the Senate Joseph R. Byrnes; speaker of the House, C. Ferdinand Sybert, and members of the Senate, Governor Lane and Mrs. Lane left the auditorium immediately after the address.

Specially prepared, 75-page, printed copies of the Governor's message were made available to the members of the Legislature prior to the session.

State Teachers College

It disclosed that over $102,800 has been used in construction, renovation and for purchasing equipment for proper housing of students at the State Teachers College at Bowie. Additions and improvements were made to meet the needs of an increasing student population.

Funds have been provided for a women's dormitory, completion of the heating plant, erection of a temporary classroom building, dining hall, underground utilities and tunnels, and a new permanent classroom building at Morgan State College.

The full-time student enrollment for 1948 reached 1673. For the present school year the faculty consists of 82 regular teachers, of whom 26 are professors, 15 associate professors, 28 assistant professors and 13 instructors.

All except one of the teachers hold at least a master's degree and 29 teachers hold a doctor of philosophy degree.

In addition there are four regular Army officers who give instruction in military science (ROTC) and 11 additional teachers who offer instruction in extension courses.

Since April, 1947, the patient population at Crownsville State Hospital has been shifted and the physical plant remodeled in order to utilize all available space. It is planned to expand the Social Service Department and to include a boarding out program.

The Governor's message listed the vocational, athletic and institutional programs, the Social Service Department and cottage life of the 225 boys in the Cheltenham School for Boys.

A similar picture was drawn of the inmates of the Maryland Training School for Girls. The message, however, did not reveal any plans for future programs at these corrective institutions.

Raid Bares Delinquency

tle Ave., and Reginald Goldner, 17, 1101 Woodyear St.

Though police authorities have known of the existence of the Arabians Athletic Club on Myrtle Ave., and several such establishments in Northwest Baltimore, Sunday night was their first opportunity to raid the place, he said.

Complaint Permits Raid

A detail of officers swooped down on the club shortly after 11 p.m., Sunday, investigating a complaint that someone was there with a gun.

Officer Hayes said the noise could be heard at least a half block away and that when they arrived the frolickers began pouring out of the doorway.

The officer testified that between 40 and 50 teen-agers were jammed in the basement room, which was so dimly lighted he had to use his flashlight.

Youths Deny Charges

The club furnishings included a small electric phonograph, a cook stove, chairs and a cot in the rear, witnesses stated.

The testimony of three of the accused youths were at the hearing, but each denied any knowledge of the boy's actions.

The accused youths, themselves, denied the allegations, explaining that the members paid dues of 50 cents per week toward the purchase of athletic equipment and uniforms and for the rental of the basement which is $8 a week.

Each of them denied young girls visited the place, at the same time contending there was no way for them to tell a young girl's age.

Situation Termed "Alarming"

Before handing out the fines, Magistrate Fitzpatrick commented:

"This is an alarming situation, and if I thought giving jail sentences would break it up, I would do it. I'll reserve you to 30 days.

"I suppose when youngsters most of us belonged to clubs which met in cellars, and, since become backward when dealing with problems of juvenile delinquency.

"But I'm not going to tolerate the continuance of such dens. If parents can't handle their children, then other steps must be taken."

Guns Cached in Basement

Police testified they found two guns while searching the basement. This discovery opened another case and led four persons, one of them a 16-year-old boy, to jail on serious charges.

The youngster, Joseph Stephney of 928 Madison Ave., was held under $1000 bail on charges of the theft of five guns valued at $177, from a Howard St. sporting goods store.

Three other persons were placed under $500 bail each, on charges of receiving the stolen weapons.

They are John Turner, 18, 929 Madison Ave.; Walter Jones, 32, 1101 Linden Ave. and Walter Johnson, 24, 504 St. Mary St.

The investigations were conducted by officers Jerome Glass, James Hayes, Walter Costin, Harry Klages and Robert Deitz.

baby be committed to the welfare department, and "placed in a home today and kept there until it gets well."

He again criticized the failure of the hospital to keep the baby in the first place, and remarked that "people are shuffled about and many times they die as a result."

At the same time, he released Mrs. Shields on probation without a verdict charged that she neglected the infant and another child age 2, by subjecting them to unhealthy living conditions "their home in the 700 block Saratoga St."

The woman promised to clean the place up, after Mrs. Rentzel testified that the home was "filthy."

Only this week a 19-year-old mother charged that her five-month old daughter "would probably be alive today" if the infant had not been shuttled between Sydenham and City Hospitals where she sought medical aid for the dying child.

The mother, Mrs. Mildred Fenderburk of 2714 Large Farm Rd., said she took the child to City Hospitals where they worked on the baby for three hours—and then told her to take it to Sydenham.

Shifted by Hospitals

There they worked on the baby about four hours, and sent the mother back to City Hospitals where they worked on the baby again, and told the mother to bring it back that afternoon. The baby died when its mother was returning, for the afternoon trip.

Student Denies Perjury Charge

with an uncle, Moses Wells, at 1253 E. Lexington St.

Investigators are said to have learned, however, that Mr. Wells is not Davis's uncle and that the girl never lived there.

The perjury charge was returned by the grand jury in November, and later a bench warrant was issued for Davis's arrest. The local attorney who represented Davis in the divorce action has not been implicated in the perjury charge.

Davis will be prosecuted by J. Harold Grady, assistant State's Attorney who worked up the case against a New York mother and daughter whose conviction on perjury charges launched the "divorce mill" investigation several months ago.

Sentences Suspended

The women involved were Mrs. Martha Kearney, sentenced to a year in Women's Prison, and her mother, Mrs. Mary Knight, 53, given a suspended sentence, when both said they acted on the advice of a local law firm in testifying falsely that the daughter was a resident of Baltimore in order to obtain a divorce for the younger woman last August.

Davis's petition for divorce from his wife, Lorine, whom he charged with desertion, has been held in pending the outcome of the perjury charge.

It was said that the couple married in Orlando, Fla., in June, 1943, and Mrs. Davis thought to be living there now, deserted her husband in February, 1944. The only grounds for divorce in New York is adultery.

Meanwhile, Davis is lodged in City Jail because he has not posted the required $1000 bail.

and when he did not drive off before making his purchase, they assaulted him. He was kicked, beaten and cut on the face, the cut leaving a gash which necessitated 32 stitches to close.

When Mrs. Holley went to her husband's rescue, she too was attacked.

The couple was taken to Brown Hospital, a private institution for white patients, where they received very efficient treatment, they said, from Dr. Stewart Brown, the proprietor.

After three days of hospitalization, the Holleys returned to Baltimore by train. A relative came up from Florida to retrieve their automobile.

The Royston sheriff has arrested several suspects, some of whom Mrs. Holley was able to identify as participants in the attack. Trial of the case is set for early March.

Morgan Prexy Get Apology

In a letter to Dr. Martin D. Jenkins, Morgan College president, Dr. Brown pointed out that he called the sheriff and had the attackers arrested, declaring that "I want to apologize for such a brutal assault occurring in our town."

The physician further declared: "We people don't stand for this kind of thing and I personally and the good people of my section are going to see that these men are punished."

He pointed out that the Holleys in no way agitated the assault by the "six drunken white men who are classed among our worst characters in this section."

Long's Testimonial Dinner to Be Held

WASHINGTON

The testimonial dinner for Dr. Howard Long, former chief examiner for District public schools, divisions 10 - 13, now dean of administration at Wilberforce State College, will definitely be held on Jan. 24, at the Department of Commerce Auditorium.

This statement was made this week by Eugene Davis, a member of the testimonial committee, in answer to the rumors that it would be cancelled because of the recent death of Dr. Long's wife.

Committee Meeting Slated

Laurence F. Hunt, executive secretary of the 12th St. branch of the YMCA, told the AFRO that reservations were being received and that the full committee met Friday to make final plans for the affair.

Dr. Long resigned his local school post after serving for 24 years. Dr. Victor J. Tulane is chairman, and Reginald W. Thorne, co-chairman of the committee.

Funeral Services Held for Charles (Mike) Carter

Camden Attorney, Former Morgan Grid Star, Gas Victim at His Jersey Home

JERSEY CITY — Funeral services for Charles W. (Mike) Carter, 42, Camden attorney and clerk in the Camden City Tax Bureau, were held Monday at the John T. White Funeral Home here.

Mr. Carter, a war veteran and a graduate of Morgan State College in Baltimore, where he was a football and baseball star, died from gas in his room at 959 S. Ninth St., Camden, on Wednesday, Dec. 29.

The funeral was conducted by the Rev. Charles S. Lee, pastor of Caighn Ave. Baptist Church in Camden and the Rev. Excell Webb, pastor of Monumental Baptist Church here. Burial was in Bay View Cemetery.

Served Overseas

Mr. Carter, a native of Jersey City, was graduated from Lincoln High School here. He was also a graduate of John Marshall Law School in Jersey City.

The lawyer served 37 months in the Army during World War II and was discharged as a master sergeant. He spent 18 months in the South Pacific.

After being discharged from the service, he began teaching at Camden and T. College in Greensboro, N.C., and served as assistant football coach.

He was appointed to his job in the Tax Bureau in Camden in July and succeeded Robert Burk Johnson, who is now Assistant Camden County Prosecutor.

Mr. Carter's sister, Mrs. Leola Johnson of 901 S. Ninth St., Camden, said that she did not know the reason why her brother took gas. However, the AFRO learned on good authority, that the lawyer had been in financial difficulty for a considerable period and that he was depressed because of legal action over funds he is said to have borrowed.

Carter's body was found at 5 p.m. on Wednesday, Dec. 29, by Joseph C. Walker, a postal clerk with whom Carter lived.

Walker found Carter on the floor of a rear bedroom with a gas hose from a gas heater.

Airport Dining-Room and Coffee Shop Now Open to All

This picture shows the dining room and coffee shop at the Washington Airport, subject of litigation following the order of D. W. Rentzel, CAA Administrator, abolishing segregation. Judge Alfred M. Bryan, in a federal District Court, ruled that the decision was illegal and that Federal policy takes precedence over Virginia's segregation laws. The dining room and coffee shop are now open to all races without discrimination.

Conquest of Tsetse Fly to Make Central Africa World's Largest Cattle Country

British Scientists Announce Discovery of Cure for Sleeping Sickness in Kine

LONDON — Tropical Africa is expected to become the world's leading cattle raising section as a result of discovery by a team of British scientists of a drug that will defeat the ravages of the tsetse fly on cattle.

The tsetse fly cause sleeping sickness in animals and because of its wide prevalence in Africa, cattle raising in the hotter sections has been an unprofitable industry despite the fact that an area four times the size of Argentina is available for that purpose.

David R. Rees-Williams, Colonial Under-secretary, announced the discovery here last week. He said cattle authorities regard the new drug, which has been named antrycide, as a means of making safe for cattle raising an area of 4,500,000 square miles.

The leader of the team of Office and Imperial Chemical Industries research workers, Dr. F. H. S. Curd, was killed in a railway accident in England a month ago. Associated with him was Dr. D. G. Davey.

With a group of chemists, biologists, veterinarians and pharmacists, they set to work in 1944 to seek a remedy for trypanosomiasis— the technical name for sleeping sickness in animals.

Experiments were conducted in laboratories in Khartoum, Nairobi and Enterbe. In the worst areas of disease the new drug cured all forms of sleeping sickness in animals on the second day, period of immunity given by the drug are still being made.

The administration of the drug—a white crystalline powder soluble in water—is simple and safe and presence of a skilled veterinarian is unnecessary.

Imperial Chemical Industries expects to produce two or three tons of antrycide this year—enough to cure or immunize about 2,000,000 animals. The first supplies will go to the Sudan, Kenya and Uganda.
