Molesting Charge Gets Man 2 Years

Convicted in three cases of assault involving two white women and the husband of one who chased him after the alleged offense, Edward A. Seabrook, 29, was sentenced, Wednesday, to two years in the House of Correction.

Judge Emory Niles imposed the term after Linwood Koger, attorney for the man, argued "every time a colored person touches a white woman in this town, it is assumed that he wants to interfere with her."

Mr. Koger had contended that one of the women had not testified that Seabrook touched her until she had been "prompted" by Prosecutor William J. O'Donnell.

Knife Flashed at Man

The first woman said Seabrook of 1412 W. Mulberry St., grabbed her about the waist on Nov. 20 when she and another woman were entering a house in the 2100 block of Fleshusy St.

She said that when they fled into the vestibule, Seabrook crashed the door pane with his fist before running away.

In the second case, the woman said Seabrook approached her with his arms outstretched that same evening as she was walking toward her home in the 1800 block Warwick Ave.

Her husband said that when she came into the house screaming, he chased Seabrook several blocks and that the man turned once and flashed a knife.

25 Policemen in Chase

Seabrook was finally captured by some 25 police in the 2000 block Braddish Ave. Officer Albert W. Lutz said Seabrook was hiding under the roots of an upturned tree.

The defendant denied that he had anything to do with the first instance that evening and said he merely asked the direction of his home in the second instance when the woman screamed and he was chased.

Police said that when captured, Seabrook was carrying a very small penknife attached to a key chain.

Appointed Warrant Officer

Lender Billed $3,000 Loan as $3,750, Pair Tell Court

WASHINGTON — Alleging there was an attempt to defraud them of $750 through use of a straw payee in the purchase of a $13,000 home at 428 Twenty-first St., N.E., John A. and Mrs. Gladys S. Tracy, of that address, said in District Court this week to accomplish the following objectives:

Cancellation of an alleged usurious note; release of a deed of trust; and damages for the reputed irregularities.

Named as principal defendants are James C. Stone, 1024 Park Rd., N.W., holder of a $3,750 note, and T. Powell, real estate broker of 1715 Eleventh St., N.W., along with Frank Parone and J. Vernon Thomas, 1413 I St., N.W., trustees.

April Fool Transaction

In a lengthy narration, the Tracys make the allegations that they bought the property on last April Fool's Day for a cash consideration of $13,000. To close the contract, they say, they borrowed $3,000 upon representations of Stone and Powell, but declare that those of the latter were fraudulent.

Powell is accused of having persuaded them to execute several joint notes for $3,750, with 6% interest, "against their better judgment."

Stone is said to have furnished the $3,000 and is now holder of the $3,750 note, which the couple contends is "usurious and was obtained by fraudulent means."

$750 Was "Bonus"

Powell is sworn to have told them the joint note was payable in monthly installments of $37.50, that the $750 was a bonus, that the indebtedness could be paid off in only 11 years for $5,000, rather than $3,750.

From May 1 to Nov. 1, 1948, the Tracys assert, they have paid Stone $2,501.12, leaving a balance of only $498.88, exclusive of interest.

They charge acceptance of the balance has been refused and an additional $750 is demanded before the note is marked paid and cancelled.

Straw Party Enters

The couple further declares that the $3,750 note was made payable to Thomas E. Valse, straw party payee, who endorsed the note without recourse to Stone, the real payee, who furnished the $13,000.

Interposing a straw party and not disclosing the fact to them was a "collusive agreement between Stone and Powell to defraud them of $750 and evade the District's usury laws," the couple charges.

They further charge that Powell's statement to them that the note could be paid off in a relatively short time was made to deceive and induce them to sign the $3,750 note.

Specifically they ask the court to:

Adjudge the $3,750 note in which Valse is named payee usurious, in violation of the law, and that it be cancelled upon payment of $498.88, with interest.

Award damages against Stone and Powell in the amount of $1000 for withholding the fact that the payee was a straw party.

Award damages of $1000 against Powell for reportedly declaring that if the note were paid in a short time, they would not be it called upon to pay more than $3,000; and

To assess defendants attorney's fees, court costs, and grant an injunction to prevent the holder of the $3,750 note from transferring the

3 Held Under $3,500 Bail in Burglaries

Believed involved in one burglary and one attempted burglary, three men were placed under $3,500 bail, in Northwestern police court, Tuesday, to await grand jury action.

They were identified as Onan Davis, 28, 1818 Woodyear St., William Jefferson, 37, 1928 12th St., N.W., Washington, and James Yorker, 29, 1032 Clay St.

Davis was arrested early Tuesday, three hours after a warehouse at Fremont Ave., and Winchester St., had been burglarized and six rolls of roofing paper stolen.

Uses Junk Defense

Arresting officers said Davis had three of the rolls in his possession. The defense of the accused was that he thought they were junk. He was placed under $1500 bail.

The other two men placed guilty to attempting to burglarize a shoe repair shop at 783 George St. They had tossed a paper-wrapped brick through a window, police said. Bail was set at $1000, each.

Area Rent Control Office Has Special Service for Tenants

Tenants seeking information on 1949 leases can get it free of charge by calling the Area Rent Control office, Walter R. Heath, area director, announced this week.

Mr. Heath pointed out that many tenants and landlords still do not understand rent control. He said most of them are unaware of maximum rents allowable.

There are three sources a tenant can check to determine the top rent he should pay, Mr. Heath explained.

Sources Pointed Out

One is his copy of the landlord's registration statement. Every tenant was mailed a copy when the accommodations were registered.

Another is the landlord's copy, if the tenant's copy has been taken by the previous tenant or been lost.

The third source, Mr. Heath said, is the area rent office, where persons familiar with rent controls are ready with information.

$55,000 Suit Filed for Son's Injury

Acting on behalf of her minor son and because of medical expenses she has had to meet, Mrs. Irene Hawkins of 1632 N. Gilmore St., filed damage claims this week totaling $55,000 against a Pennsylvania Ave. bakery.

In the City Court suit, Mrs. Hawkins says that her son, William Parker, was knocked down by a bakery truck when he was crossing Gilmor and Presbury Sts. last Aug. 16.

She seeks $50,000 on behalf of the minor son and $5,000 for his own medical expenses. The bakery is located in the 2300 block Pennsylvania Ave.

Bandit Suspect Admits 3 Charges

Charged in 12 cases, including seven armed robberies and one sex attempt, James O. Brooks, 24, pleaded guilty to three of the holdup charges, Thursday, when arraigned at Criminal Court.

Judge J. Abner Sigler appointed E. Milton Allfeld, attorney, to defend Brooks, who lived in the 1100 block of N. Gilmor St.

Brooks pleaded innocent in the remaining cases which also include two charges of attempted robbery, one of larceny and one of assault.

Caught in Police Chase

He was arrested last Monday by Officer Lewis Hammersly of Northwestern District, who had been stationed in the rear of a twice robbed grocery in the 1100 block N. Carrollton Ave.

When the alleged bandit entered the store, the officer stepped from his hiding place and drew his revolver, but the suspect ran from the place amid a hail of bullets and jumped into a stolen car, it was said.

He was captured, however, when the car crashed into another parked nearby, it was revealed.

The woman was arrested after an investigation by Special Deputy Attorney Abraham J. Levy and Edward Williams, senior board investigators.

They said she had a medical diploma from a correspondence school, but was not allowed to practice here because the school is not recognized by the State Board of Medical Education and Licensure.

Helpful Driver Injured by Pickup

The victim was Arnold Love, 37, of 1511 W. Franklin St., who was treated at and later admitted to University Hospital.

The cutting occurred near the Poe Homes in the car driven by Love, who was transporting Smith to Saratoga and Poppleton Sts.

Attempted Robbery Charged

When Love refused to turn over his money to Smith, according to police reports of Love's story, the latter reached over from the back seat and stabbed him in the chest with a butcher knife; both got out of the car and continued the struggle.

In the tussle, Smith was cut on the hand. After treatment at the University Hospital, where he was carried by police, he was held at Western police station where he was later charged.

Jail Mothers for Keeping Filthy Homes

A 51-year-old mother and her daughter, 29, were each imprisoned for six months, this week, on charges that they entertained "various boyfriends" in two rooms which housed three minor children and were overrun with vermin and filth.

When the daughter, Miss Lucille Arline appeared in slacks before Judge Charles E. Moylan, the jurist displayed evident annoyance, and remarked, "Wonder how you'd like it if I came to your house in a dress?"

Rat Variety

Policewoman Carolyn Robinson said the mother, Mrs. Edna Arline, and a daughter six years old, lived with the older daughter, and her own two children, ages 10 and 12 in two rooms in the 1700 block Orleans St., which was overrun with rats, "of both the two-legged and four-legged variety."

The children were committed to the protective service division of the Welfare Department in view of the prison terms given the adults.

Maas Sale Sign Charges Dropped

Charges of violating zoning board regulations by posting huge "for sale" signs in his yard, were withdrawn this week at Southwestern police station for Edmond Maas, who is a real estate executive.

Two months ago, the signs which advertised the Maas home at 5000 Edmondson Ave., as being for sale to colored Chinese, Cyps and Hebrew families stirred up a public controversy.

Following personal threats and damages to the house, Mr. Maas was arrested on charges of of assaulting one of his employees and for carrying a shotgun outside his home. These charges are still pending Criminal Court trial.

Unfrocked N.Y. Pastor Sues AME Conference

NEW YORK (ANP)—After unsuccessfully bringing a suit in 1947 for more than $8,000 against the New York Annual AME Conference for alleged back salary due him as a minister of an AME Church, Charles H. Taylor of Corona, L. I., has again filed papers in the same case in Queens County.

On Dec. 2 of last year, the same case was brought before Judge Frank E. Johnson justice of the N. Y. Supreme Court, who said in his decision, that the reason the complaint was dismissed was "not because of discretion, but on purely legal ground and reason.

"The corporation is a religious corporation organized under the laws of this State, and for the protection of its funds there are laws in New York limiting the power of officers," he asserted.
