All-Out Legislative Drive for Civil Rights Proposed

Randolph and Reynolds Outline Plans at AVC Banquet Held in Their Honor

WASHINGTON—A. Philip Randolph and Grant Reynolds proposed an all-out legislative program for civil rights at a reception given in their honor at the American Veterans Club-house Friday night.

The only way to get civil rights is by maintaining heat on the White House and Congress," said Mr. Randolph, urging citizens filled in the country to adopt a direct "buttonholing" contact with Senators.

Messrs. Randolpr and Reynolds outlined plans to introduce legislation to:

Legislative Proposal

1. Forbid the Government to buy any military supplies from a manufacturing plant that discriminates against an employee because of color.

2. Make it impossible for the Government to train or station any new colored soldier in a State that has segregation or "jim crow" laws.

3. Guarantee that colored soldiers will receive equal treatment with white soldiers while being transported from one state to another.

Reynolds said he is not against dolph. Universal Military Training but will go along with no program which will destroy democracy.

Randolph said the movement for civil disobedience which he and Reynolds proposed before a Senate Committee last March, has been called off. The need for civil disobedience has ceased, he stated.

"We consider the movement fulfilled its purpose," he declared, adding:

"The great social forces, meaning the Federal, State and Municipal Governments are not committed to the doctrine of civil rights."

Likewise the major church and labor forces are not committed to a civil rights program, he contended.

Felman Taft, chairman of the Greater Washington Area Council of AVC, was master of ceremonies.

Arthur Garfield Hayes, lawyer and author, Congressman Yates, legislator from Illinois, and William Langer (Rep., N. D.), were among the 300 guests present. Gilbert House, national AVC chairman, made the welcome remarks and Joseph Cloerty, national officer, introduced Mr. Randolph.

Aids Grace Church Membership Drive

The Rev. L. B. West of Charlotte, N.C., is shown with the Rev. John T. Colbert, pastor of Grace Presbyterian Church, where, on Sunday, he preached the first of a series of monthly sermons in connection with the church's membership canvass. This year marks the Rev. Mr. Colbert's 32nd anniversary at Grace Church located at Dolphin and Etting Sts.

New Anti-Poll Tax Bill Introduced by Rep. Scrivner

WASHINGTON—Congressman Errett P. Scrivner (Rep., Kan.) in conjunction with the President's Civil Rights Bill, last week, introduced a bill in the House of Representatives, H.R. 304, making unlawful the payment of a poll tax as a prerequisite to voting in a primary or Federal election.

Representative Scrivner, who has voted for all anti-poll tax legislation since his election in 1943, explained that he introduced his bill because it is less complicated than others which have come before the House and he feels it has a better chance of being enacted.

"I hope that this legislation is enacted at an early date, and I will again vote for such legislation whether it is my bill or some similar measure that will bring the same results," he declared.

Provisions of Bill

The bill provides that:

"The requirement that a poll tax be paid as a prerequisite to voting or registering to vote, in any primary or other election, is not, and shall not be, deemed a qualification of voters or electors to vote or to register to vote at primaries or elections for President, Vice-President, electors for President and Vice-President, or of a United States Senator or a Representative."

Congressman Scrivner, a native of Newton, Kans., is a World War I veteran and holder of the Silver Star and Purple Heart medals. He is a graduate of Kansas U. and member of Phi Delta Phi and Order of Coif.

11 Doctors Get Polio Grants

Dimes' Drive Make Studies Possible

NEW YORK—Eleven colored physicians in six States and the District of Columbia have been awarded 1948-49 scholarships for studies in caring for polio patients, Charles H. Bynum, interracial director, National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis, announced this week.

The recipients were Drs. Edward L. Davis, Winston-Salem, N. C., and Justin Plummer, Roanoke, Va., who attended a refresher course at Knickerbocker Hospital, NYC; Drs. John Manly of Howard University, and John Chenault of Tuskegee's polio center, who attended similar courses at Boston's Children's Hospital.

Drs. T. M. Campbell, Tuskegee Institute, who has just completed a study at Meharry Medical College; Oliver Crawford, Aurora, Ill.; Robert Nesbitt, Chicago; Colbert Davis, Chicago, who have begun their second year of training through renewal of prior awards.

Dimes' Drive Responsible

Drs. Hernandes LaBranche of New Orleans, who is studying at Children's Hospital, Chicago; Walter H. Payton, Washington, D. C., and Starks J. Williams, Orangeburg, S. C., for studies at Children's Hospital, Howard University, and Meharry Medical College respectively.

Mr. Bynum pointed out that these awards were made possible by funds representing contributions to the annual March of Dimes campaign for the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis.

Elk Ruler Attends Installation Here

Dr. J. Finley Wilson, grand exalted ruler, was the guest of honor as the newly-elected officers of the Monumental Elks Lodge were installed Tuesday, under the direction of Charles S. Dersey, district deputy.

Mr. Wilson disclosed that six charters for new lodges have been issued since Jan. 1 and mortgages on seven other buildings have been burned.

New Officers

Officers installed included:

Laurence Dorsey, exalted ruler; John Lee, leading knight; Julius Richberg, loyal knight; Calvin Rice, lecturing knight; Herbert Keller, esquire; Howard Moten, inner guard, and William Miller, tiler.

Linwood Frazier was installed as financial secretary; Charles G. Cooper, treasurer; John Procope, Edward Prettyman, Israel Cook, Edward C. Wooden, Lorenzo Howell, trustees, and Dr. Leroy Berry, medical examiner.

Southerners Hope for Rights Delay

WASHINGTON—Although President Truman in his message to Congress, last week, declared that he still stands squarely behind his civil rights program, Southern Democrats are hoping that he will not force the issue until Congress has been in session for two or three months or longer.

In their hope for a delay, they point out that the President called for a heavy legislative program in his demand for tax revision, economic controls, housing, broader Social Security and a great many more items.

The civil rights proposals call for a ban on poll taxes in Federal elections, anti-segregation measures, creation of a fair employment commission and making lynching a Federal offense.

Sparkman's Theory

Senator Sparkman of Alabama, says that since civil rights is only one part of a great platform, he does not believe the President will jeopardize the bulk of the program by starting a fight early in the session.

In Our Churches

By LOUISE K. HINES

Increasing interest is being shown in the Young People's Forum at Memorial Baptist Church which has listed for its discussion on Sunday at 3.30 p.m., "Is Education Enough?"

Purcell Taylor of the Baltimore Institute of Musical Arts, will provide the music.

Tonight (Friday) marks the end of the annual revival services of the New Shiloh Baptist Church being conducted by the Rev. J. L. Harvey, pastor of Zion Baptist Church in Norfolk, Va.

Also slated for tonight is the church membership meeting. Music will be offered by the Allen Chorus, Senior Choirs 1 and 2.

New ACE Plan at Payne

In order to increase its membership, the Allen Christian Endeavor League of Payne AME Church is being divided into three age groups.

Misses Beatrice Nimmons and Gwendolia Howe will supervise the junior and intermediate groups, respectively; and Lloyd Dorsey the senior group. Mrs. Julia Conner is ACE president.

Bishop Installs Staff

The sermon and installation of officers at Pyane by Bishop L. H. Hemingway drew a large crowd, many of whom attended the Installation Tea held in the afternoon in the parsonage.

Alph and Omega Pentecostal Church at 916 Madison Ave., will open its three-day quarterly conference tonight (Friday). The Rev. Mrs. M. Phillips is pastor, and the Rev. E. S. Stanback, district elder, will preside.

Sponsored by the joint usher boards, the Baltimore and Ohio Women's Music Club will be presented in concert on Sunday at 7:30 p.m. at the Sharp St. Methodist Church.

Rev. West at Grace

Dedicatory services are held on Sunday at the Mount Olivet Christian Church, conducted by the Rev. William T. Pearcy of Indianapolis.

Grace Presbyterian Church, beginning the first of a series of membership canvass sermons heard last Sunday the Rev. L. B. West of Charlotte, N.C.

The Madison Ave. Presbyterian Church will observe Young People's Day next Sunday when the morning message will be delivered by Dean Frank Wilson of Lincoln (Pa) University.

The Girls Choir of Grace Presbyterian Church, directed by Mrs. Mercedes Douglass, will sing.

Recital to Be Given on Sunday at Morgan

The Morgan Christian Center will present in recital there at 4 p.m. on Sunday, George Matthews, tenor, who is a former soloist with the Fisk University Singers.

Son of a North Carolina school principal, Mr. Matthews was a member of the high school glee club; and later while at the Detroit Institute of Musical Art, was soloist at St. Matthew's Episcopal Church, and first tenor with the Ford Octet.

Served In Air Force

He won $500 first prize in national auditions at Chicago. During the war he was a church soloist in Dayton while serving as clerk at Headquarters, Air Service Command, United States Army Air Forces.

Parcel Post Station Director to Speak

Harry Grimm, recently appointed superintendent of the Parcel Post Station on St. Paul St., will be guest speaker, 6 p.m., Sunday, at the monthly meeting of the Baltimore Branch, National Alliance of Postal Employees at Druid Hill YMCA.

In recent months the Alliance has dedicated each meeting to a post office station and this Sunday is being observed as Parcel Post Station Day.

Mr. Grimm has made many improvements in the short time he has commanded the station, and is well-liked by the employees.

2nd Largest Station

The parcel post station on St. Paul St. is the second largest in the city, the main office being the largest.

George L. Russell is president of the Baltimore NAPE branch and R. Earl Williams, financial secretary.

Public Health Forum Planned by Committee

A public health meeting sponsored by the Negro Health Committee will be held at 8 p.m., Thursday, at Fountain Baptist Church, Monument near Gay Sts.

The program will include a talk on proper nutrition by Miss Eleanor McKnight of the City Health Department; and a demonstration on methods of protecting the city's food supply by James Edwards of the Department of Food Inspection.

Movies will be shown on the causes, effects and prevention of tuberculosis. Dr. Chalmers Hairston will preside; and music will be furnished by Hoffman's Student Orchestra. Charles C. Key is president of the sponsoring committee.

Trenton Couple Visits Parents in Cramerton

CRAMERTON—Mr. and Mrs. P. F. Sloan of Trenton, N.J. are visiting his parents, Mr. and Mrs. S. L. Sloan.

The Hallilujah Gospel Chorus of Lancaster, S.C., will sing at Center Baptist Church, Sunday night, Jan. 16.

Building Needs Emphasized at Crownsville Open House

10½ Millions Requested to Relieve Overcrowding

100 Hear Superintendent at Open House Say That Needs Have Been Aired for Years

A six-year capital improvement program, seeking $10,550,656 for new buildings to relieve overcrowding at Crownsville State Hospital for the Insane, was cited on Tuesday by Dr. Jacob Morgansters, superintendent, as Open House was observed at the institution.

Holding more living accommodations as the principal need of the hospital, Dr. Morgansters has submitted to State authorities proposals for a new admission and convalescent building as well as for separate quarters for feeble-minded children, feebleminded infants and for the chronically disturbed patients.

The effective medical treatment given the patients, despite the handicaps of overcrowding, staff shortages and lack of essential facilities, was illustrated to 450 guests who visited the institution on Open House Day.

Treatments Explained

The afternoon program, attended by approximately 100 visitors, included tours of the buildings, a movie, showing the various treatments of mental ills, and informal discussions concerning the system of operation at the institution.

This was followed at 8 p.m. by a panel discussion on the hospital's facilities and needs, moderated by Dr. Morgansters, Dr. Arnold Eichert, the clinical director, and Miss Elizabeth Moss, administrative assistant. The Rev. John S. Mount, rector of St. Stephen's Church at Millersville served as moderator.

Leo V. Miller, Crownsville board chairman, severely criticized the medical profession generally for not devoting more time and study to the treatment of insanity. He also lambasted members of the State Legislature for apparent disinterest in the institution, since few of them attended the open house session.

Inadequacies Long Aired

Dr. George H. Preston, chairman of the State Board of Mental Hygiene, told the audience that current focus on inadequacies at the hospital reveals nothing new, because he has been citing these conditions in public speeches at least twice a month and also has described them to the various State Governors as far back as Governor Albert Ritchie.

It was explained that there are three categories of treatment for mental patients, all in effect at Crownsville.

One category is the environmental therapy, which is based on the principle that if a patient is placed in a situation in which he can be accepted as a sick human being with the right to be angry, sad, frustrated, happy, etc., he will use his own natural drive to regain mental health.

Physiological Methods Used

The second category consists of such measures as shock therapy, lobotomy, etc., which aim at interrupting the patient's phychosis by means of changes in his physiology.

The third type of treatment is directed not at his mental illness, but at any attending physical disease.

He is assigned to some task. The purpose of these tasks is not only to help run the hospital, but also to increase the patient's sense of being useful, which contributes to his mental health.

Limited Activity Program

This work is generally referred to as occupational therapy, but Dr. Morgansters pointed out, Crownsville's facilities for presenting occupational therapy to patients who need special attention are extremely limited.

A few patients are treated by individual and group psychotherapy, which Miss Moss said, a recent award are gathered together by the doctor once a week and encouraged to discuss their problems with each other.

With only eight doctors and one nurse to care for 1795 patients, Dr. Morgansters emphasized that "There will have to be considerable increase in both the medical and nursing staff before anything much can be accomplished by this means."

He admitted that due to lack of adequate personnel and limitations of space, much that would be helpful in treatment must be left undone. The tendency is to concentrate first on the treatment of physical diseases.

Success of efforts in this direction is shown by the fact that the hospital's death rate has dropped steadily from 11.5 per cent or 180 death out of a patient population of 1520 in 1944 to only 7.4 per cent or 130 deaths out of a population of 1795 in 1948.

Dr. Morgansters said this is partly due to more effective drugs, but increased effort of the physicians has also contributed.

Handles All Group Patients

Because Crownsville is the only institution in the State, public or private, for colored mental patients, it must accommodate the aged and senile as well as children and adults with various types of mental illnesses.

So, 61 of the 130 deaths which occurred last year were caused by old age. Some 41 were caused by syphilis of the brain, 4 resulted from exhaustion, 2 from brain operations and one from shock treatment. The other 21, Dr. Morgansters said, were due to causes which might be found in any average population.

Building Needs Detailed

In detail, the building program calls for the following:

Eight staff houses and four staff apartment buildings, $684,400; power plant equipment, $750,000; cafeteria building for 150 employees and recreation and canteen facilities, $394,175;

Admission and convalescent building for 175 male patients and 175 female patients, $5,589,734; security building for 100 feeble-minded children, $815,691; building for 100 male and 100 female chronic disturbed patients,$1,551,193;

Building for 100 feebleminded infants, $814,463; electric kitchen cooking equipment for tuberculosis and the senile group, $8,000; and electrical equipment, $11,000.

Playground, Church Listed

These improvements, Dr. Morgansters said, are all immediately necessary to bring the institution to even a desirable standard.

Other needed facilities and equipment, he said, include a school for children who can be taught, a playground, a church, a door recreational equipment, an occupational therapy service.

Few Colored Staff Members

The 110 attendants at the institution while but colored staff members include Vernon Sparks, psychologist, Miss Rebecca Johnson case worker; and Miss Naomi Evans, junior case worker. They are social service workers who handle admission details of women patients.

Dr. Morgansters said that efforts are being made to develop more Negro personnel, he said, as supervisor in this department.

Pianos Sought for Institution

2 Teachers Available, But Instruments Needed

An appeal for pianos and musical instruments of all kinds to be used in two new projects for mental patients at Crownsville State Hospital was issued on Wednesday by the entertainment and instruction service of the Red Cross.

Mrs. Roger Williams, wife of a Morgan College faculty member, Catonsville, is to give choral instruction to groups of patients at the institution. A singer, pianist and actress, Mrs. Williams has done similar work in a community organization in Boston and at a community center in Bangor, Me.

In addition, Richard Harrison of the city school system has agreed to organize an orchestra among the hospital patients if sufficient instruments can be obtained. He studied music at Washington College in Topeka, Kan., and later at the University of Omaha, and has done graduate work at the University of Nebraska.

According to Dr. Arnold Eichert, clinical director, there is only one well worn piano which cannot be moved, in the auditorium at Crownsville; and additional ones are requested for the various wards where instruction will take place.

As for other musical instruments, the hospital possesses only a few guitars, drums and plastic flutes.

Donations may be made at the Red Cross entertainment and instruction headquarters, 1714 Park Ave.; further information may be obtained by calling LAfayette 5700.

Crownsville Set for Mixed Staff

Like other institutions for mental patients throughout the State, Crownsville is suffering a critical staff shortage, agravated by the fact that the attendants have been limited to white persons only although the patients are colored.

At present there are only 110 attendants, eight doctors and one nurse to care for the 1795 inmates.

Lack of Play Equipment Leaves Crownsville Patients Idle

This group of men patients at Crownsville State Hospital for mental defectives who work in the laundry, boiler room, farm and other places around the institution are shown lounging in one of the day rooms before their dinner and bath. They sit idle because of lack of recreational equipment. The AFRO carried a full page illustrated story in 1947 pointing out needs of the institution, but this picture taken on Open House Day, Tuesday, shows that no improvements have been made in this direction since that time.

Visited Crownsville Hospital on Open House Day

These persons were among 450 guests who visited Crownsville State Hospital, Tuesday, when Open House Day was observed. Left to right they are Mrs. Sizzie Pittman, Miss Julia Butler, James B. Kenny, Melvin Harper, Mrs. Mary Harper, Betty Cotten, Mrs. Elizabeth Cotten and Miss Fannie Kenny, all of Baltimore. Here they watch a movie showing the various types of treatment given patients at the hospital. This was followed by a tour of the buildings.

Blow on Eye Led to Death of 1 of 43 Persons to Die in Week

A young woman to whom a black eye was fatal was one of 43 persons whose deaths were reported to the Baltimore City Health Department, last week.

She was Miss May Morris, 30, of 637 W. Saratoga St., a chronic heart disease sufferer, who died under an anaesthetic administered to her while being treated for an eye injury allegedly received from a husband.

Other Deaths Listed

Real Democracy Here Key to Peace—Mrs. Roosevelt

WASHINGTON—World peace depends on the establishment of absolute religious and racial equality in America and how well democracy works in this country, Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt, chairman of the United Nations Commission on Human Rights, declared Wednesday night.

Mrs. Roosevelt addressed an overflow audience at Andrew Rankin Memorial Chapel as guest speaker on the second of a forum series conducted by the Howard University School of Social Work.

Declaring that the big struggle in the world today is between the East, as represented by Russia and the West, represented by the United States, the former First Lady asserted that Russian delegates to the commission never failed to point up instances of racial discrimination which occur in this country.

She said that such occurrences militate against the United States and the United Nations more than anything else.

Solution Is Here

The outcome of the battle between these two factions is to be decided right here in our own communities, Mrs. Roosevelt said, adding: "If we succeed in improving our democracy, I have no question but what this fact will become known and have its effect in the United Nations.

"If, among the people of the United States, there is a real recognition of the rights of individuals and of our obligations to regard those rights, we can remove many possible causes leading to war."

Good Opposition

Attainment of a real American democracy is the surest way of securing the peace, Mrs. Roosevelt called the opposition of Russia to the United States good th that it makes Americans re-examine their democracy.

Warmly defending the United Nations she pointed out that a new war organization can only keep the peace, the widow of the late President Roosevelt, hailed the recent ratification of the Human Rights Commission declaration as a great first step. She said that this document will not have legal standing with the 55 nations that approved it but it will have a tremendous moral weight in working to bring about world respect for human rights.

She urged that Americans read and understand the declaration and quote it often.

Asserting that the next big job of the commission will be to write a covenant that will carry methods of implementing the declaration and hence carry legal weight, Mrs. Roosevelt said that its ratification by other nations will depend on how quickly the United States delegates ratify it.

Throngs Overflow Chapel

Mrs. Roosevelt, dressed in a pale gray wool dress and hat and wearing a white gardenia, received a tremendous ovation.

Throngs of persons stood outside the little chapel in jostling crowds, trying to push their way in to see and hear her. Those unable to get in listened to the speech at open windows.

Mrs. Roosevelt was intrduoced by Dr. Mordecai Johnson, president of Howard University.

Marshall Heights Project Hearing Opens on Friday

No Family Will Be Displaced Until New Home Is Found for Them, Official Says

WASHINGTON—Preliminary hearings on redevelopment plans for the Marshall Heights Project area designed to accommodate 1500 families or about 6,000 persons, will be held by the District Commissioners at 10 a.m., Friday (today), in the Board Room of the District Building.

The hearing called by the commissioners as the result of an original notice last Dec. 21, will deal primarily with information on the National Capital Park and Planning Commission's plans for the project.

Subsequent Hearings

Subsequent hearings will be held in which views by anybody opposing or condoning the proposition may be heard, Gen. U.S. Grant, 3rd, commission president, announced.

The redevelopment plan would provide for 350 single family detached houses, 23% of the total, which would give each on-site home owner the opportunity to have a decent, safe, and sanitary detached house within the area.

There would be 950 semi-detached, community and group houses or 64% of the units planned primarily to accommodate families of four persons or more and 200 apartment units or 13% that would accommodate families of three persons or less.

Would Add School

There would be five acres preserved for an elementary school and playground to supplement the Nalle School that will be inadequate to accommodate the increased population, the report states.

Two areas totaling about 14.5% acres are allocated for park use. The two existing masonry churches and a third under construction are to be conserved and incorporated in the redevelopment plan.

A small area, one and one half acres is reserved for the development of a local shopping area to supplement two proposed but yet undeveloped areas.

The policy will be to conserve as many dwellings existing
