Former Newspaperman Shot, Fleeing From Jewelery Store

William Dixon Seriously Wounded by Police Officer

Former Navy Veteran Was Survivor of Port Chicago Explosion and Fire

PHILADELPHIA—William R. (Bumps) Dixon, 22, former newspaperman, and survivor of the Port Chicago explosion, was wounded early Friday night, shortly after he allegedly fled with a stolen watch from a jewelry store near Lancaster Ave. and 42rd St.

Dixon, who lives at 13 N. Yewdell St., was struck in the abdomen by a bullet as he tried to elude Victor Rowan, owner of the store at 4245 Lancaster Ave., and twelve policemen by darting through the crowd in the West Philadelphia shopping district.

Bystander Hit

Most of the shoppers scurried for cover when the shots began to rang out, but one bystander, identified as Robert Giles, 17, of 3502 Warren St., was accidentally hit in the left arm.

Police took both Dixon and Giles to Presbyterian Hospital, where Dixon was detained in a serious condition. Giles was discharged after treatment for his wound.

Detectives said they have been unable to determine whether the bullet which felled Dixon was fired by Rowan or two motor bandit patrolmen, John B. Celli and Deacon Hayes.

Was Ex-Truck Star

Dixon, police said their investigation revealed, had entered Rowan's store and asked to see some watches. While the store owner was exhibiting rm wares Dixon, a former track athlete, assertedly grabbed a watch from the counter and sprinted out of the door.

Rowan, who twice used the weapon to foil men who attempted to rob him before, grabbed a gun and fired one shot at the fleeing man. When the bullet sped wide, he gave pursuit.

The chase attracted the attention of the officers and they jumped from their vehicle and scampered after Dixon with drawn guns. The patrolmen fired several shots after Rowan took a second shot at Dixon.

The latter was dropped as he ran west on the south side of Lancaster Ave.

Involved in Other Robberies

At the hospital, Dixon was looked over by a number of other persons who had been robbed in recent weeks.

One of hem, Mrs. Beatrice Rickey, 5112 Haverford Ave., identified him as the man who held her up in a store at 4064 Lancaster Ave., the night before the shooting. She said he escaped with $250.

A member of a well-known Germantown family, Dixon was arrested last October in connection with a series of burglaries. He was released following a trial before Judge Eugene V. Alessandroni.

During the war he served in the Navy and was a member of the crew which suffered heavy losses when caught in an ammunition explosion at Port Chicago, Calif., in 1942.

Dixon formerly worked for a local weekly. Married, he lives at the Yewdell St. address with his wife, Barbara, and their young son.

Hampton Alumni Report $1,627 at Meeting Here

Middle Atlantic Conference Told of Money Needs; 1950 Sessions to Williamsburg

Some 150 Hampton Institute alumni, representing 22 chapters in four States and the District of Columbia, reported $1,627 during the 14th annual meeting of the Middle Atlantic Regional Conference here Sunday.

A quota of $1000 had been set for alumni in Virginia, West Virginia, Delaware, Maryland and the District of Columbia, as a part of the National Hampton Alumni Association's drive for $25,000 for the Alumni Development Fund.

A morning session held at the Madison Avenue YWCA was followed by a luncheon meeting at which time Dr. Stephen J. Wright, dean of the faculty at Hampton was the principal speaker.

The delegates were welcomed by Mrs. Lois J. Carter, president of the Baltimore chapter and the response was made by Hugh T. Jackson, president of the Newport News (Va.) chapter.

Graduates Cautioned

Miss Gertrude L. Perry of Norfolk, Va., president of the conference, speaking on "What Is My Attitude Toward Hampton?" cautioned the delegates against (1) allowing outsiders to "run Hampton down" and against (2) going around referring to Hampton as a "rich" school.

"Hampton is not a rich school," she said, "and with white philanthropy much less than it was 15 or 20 years ago, it is the responsibility of the alumni to give increased financial support to their alma mater.

Miss Perry closed by asking her listeners to keep in mind the challenge of General Samuel C. Armstrong, Hampton founder, to all who love Hampton, namely, "Show to it that Hampton does not go down."

Training For Living

Dr. Wright, in his address, emphasized that Hampton is making a serious effort to train graduates for "the times in which we live," and added that he belived that Hampton graduates can hold their own in life's competition.

The luncheon meeting, which was conducted as a forum, with the theme, "Our Responsibility and Opportunity in Relation to Our Alma Mater," had James S. Woodson, principal of Nottoway Training School, Blackstone, Va., as co-ordinator.

Alumni participants were: James O. Snowden, Washington; Mrs. Emma E. Roane, Heathsville, Va., and Boyd Jones, Farmville, Va.

Student participants were: Paul W. Slater, of Baltimore, president of the Student Council and Miss Bobbie E. Jones, of Gary, Ind., president of the Women's Senate.

Meet Next in Williamsburg

It was voted to hold next year's conference at the Bruton Heights School, Williamsburg, Va. Meanwhile, all chapters in the region will continue their drive for funds and make their final financial reports when the full association membership meets at Hampton in May.

259 Bills Handed to Md. Assembly

Mental Hospitals, Vets Legislation Proposed

Through Wednesday afternoon, when both houses adjourned until 8 p.m. next Monday, 259 measures had been introduced. Of these, 135 were presented in the Senate and 124 in the House.

The Senators have passed 19 proposals and the Delegates adopted 4.

Mental Hospitals

The first report by Dr. Riley Guthrie, chief of the mental division of the United States Public Health Service, on a canvass of the State's mental institutions is to be submitted to the Governor next week.

The complete survey, resulting from a recent expose of the deplorable conditions in the mental hospitals, is expected to take about four weeks.

Meanwhile, Dels. J. Raymond Buffington Jr. and Chester W. Tawney, both of the Third District, introduced a joint resolution asking Speaker of the House C. Ferdinand Sybert to appoint a committee to investigate conditions.

The seven-man panel is to report its findings and recommendations within 30 days.

War Veterans Benefit

A bill providing for burial allowance of $100 to survivors of war veterans was presented to the House by John F. McNulty of Anne Arundel County.

The present law authorizes the State Veterans Commission to provide "the necessary burial expenses of the sick, disabled or indigent veterans" only.

Another measure would provide for the outlay of funds up to $500 a year for secondary, college or vocational education for Maryland war orphans 18 years of age or older.

Already several legislators have expressed favor of a State bonus of $500 for every Maryland war veteran.

Income Tax Reduction

A House-sponsored measure favoring a reduction of tax payments on earned income from 2½ per cent to 2 per cent aroused quite a bit of controversy here.

The proposal sped through the House of Delegates and was sent across the hall th the Senate, where it was referred to the finance committee for action.

This sub-committee adopted a favorable report but pigeon-holed the measure until after Governor Lane's budget message of next Tuesday.

On Subversive Groups

Both houses of the Assembly accepted a bill directed against activities by subversive groups within the State.

Revision of the city election laws as regarding salaries is also sought. A measure would increase the terms of members of the Board of Supervisors of Elections from two to four years.

It would also increase salaries from $3,190 to $5,000 a year; raise the pay for election judges from $15 to $20 a day, and provide for amendments to the system of registering voters.

Coat 'Salesman' Gets 3 Months

Convicted of selling a $79 stolen coat for $15, James Crawford of the 1000 block Gilmor St., was sentenced, Wednesday, to three months in jail.

The man was acquitted on a second charge involving a $200 coat allegedly stolen, because it was not produced in court.

Two women testified that Crawford sold them the coats for less than $40 apiece when they met him on Pennsylvania Ave., last Dec. 15.

Sold Day of Burglary

Edwin Gehring, prosecutor, established the fact before Judge John T. Tucker that the coats were taken in the burglary of a Pres-bury St. home on that same day.

Officer William Copsey of Northwestern said that none of the other articles reported stolen, including two suits, three radios and a wedding ring, was recovered.

Jail Terms Given in Oyster Violation

The first jail sentences for illegal oyster dredging were given to two Virginia oystermen, one of whom was colored, last week, by Magistrate Ralph Abell, at Leonardtown, Md.

Sentenced to a year in prison were John (Winky) Atwell, 21, white, of Colonial Beach, Va. and John Brown, alias Norman, 27, of Fredericksburg, Va.

The third Virginia waterman convicted of violating Maryland's oyster dredging laws was Thomas D. Jackson, 24, white, of Oak Grove, Va., who drew a $500 fine.

Shared Jail Term

Jackson was spared a jail sentence when his elderly father testified he needed his son for work on the farm and that the youth had never been in trouble before.

The men were arrested last Friday after a Maryland Patrol boat caught them dredging oysters in a State-planted bed in St. Mary's River. The men fled in their 42 foot work boat, but were forced to shore by rifle fire, it was testified.

$52 in Fines Doled Out in City Clean Up Drive

Co-operating with police and sanitation bureau employees in a drive to clean up trash-littered alleys in Northwest Baltimore, Magistrate Harry S. Kruger doled out $52 in fines to 18 persons in Housing Court, Tuesday.

The evidence in the cases was based on the testimony offered by Officer Walter Faulkner of Northwestern district, and the dirty scraps of paper which he had fished out of piles of trash.

"The piles of trash in some alleys," the officer stated, "was 10 feet long and three feet wide and of such foul odor that at one place it almost made me sick."

In Clean-up Drive

Faulkner and his fellow officers Patrolman Thomas Henderson, are conducting a drive in the area bounded by Pensylvania Ave., Dolphin St., Linden Ave., and North Ave., to discourage residents from tossing trash and other debris into alleyways.

The procedure is for an officer to rummage through a pile of trash and garbage until he finds a piece of paper with a name and address on it then summons that person to court.

Alibis Vary

The explanations offered by the accused persons, Tuesday, varied. Some blamed careless trashmen who carelessly emptied containers, causing debris to fall to the ground where it lay.

Others said they lived in apartment houses where janitors are responsible for emptying refuse containers.

Still other persons contended trash had been dumped near their homes by persons living in other neighborhods.

To these comments, Magistrate Kruger commented:

"This is a serious condition, especially because of the fine character of the people involved. It is up to each of you to see to it

Pratt Library's 1st Bookmobile in Use

After nearly a year of planning and construction, the Enoch Pratt Free Library's first bookmobile is now in operation in areas lacking library facilities.

The bus, from which the bookmobile will operate temporarily is the library's Branch No. 25, Roland Ave. and Longwood Rd. This will house the books not in use, provide working quarters for a bookmobile staff members and furnish parking space for the mobile unit when off duty.

Schedule to Be Advertised

Time tables will be distributed and signs will be posted in areas the bookmobile will service.

The contents of the bookmobile are designed to meet the book and information needs of all age groups.

Girl, 11, Identifies Painter'-Burglar

Identified by an 11-year-old girl who placed him at the scene of a burglary shortly before it was committed, Beales Weatherspoon, 32, was convicted Tuesday, by Judge John T. Tucker.

Sentence for the burglary conviction was taken under advisement after Prosecutor Alan Murrell advised that Weatherspoon was on parole from a six-year robbery term when he was arrested.

Several hours before the burglary of the McCulloh St. apartment was discovered, Officer John F. Kapran of Northwestern, arrested Weatherspoon as he tried to pawn one of the two suits stolen that morning.

Inquired About Paint Job

Still liter, Miss Minnie Smallwood, 11-year-old tenant on the first floor of the apartment house, identified Weatherspoon as the man, who had been there that morning inquiring about a paint job.

Weatherspoon of 783 W. Saratoga St., claimed that a friend had pawned the suit to him for $5 and was returning it to get the money back. He denied being at the apartment house.

Officer Kupran said that the other suit, an overcoat and a pair of shoes taken in the burglary,

Money, Shoes Stolen as He Slept, Man Says

While he lay in a lower Pennsylvania Ave. doorway sleeping off a drunk, thugs robbed Patrick Bernard, 22, 1400 block E. Preston St., of his money and the shoes from his feet, he testified in Northwestern police court, Tuesday.

Bernard was arrested shortly before 5 o'clock that morning by Officer Avon Cooper who said that after arousing the sleeping man, Bernard attempted to fight him and resisted arrest.

The victim's defense was that he had been drinking heavily and didn't remember what had happened. Magistrate Fitzpatrick imposed a suspended fine of $2 as Bernard shuffled out of the court room in his stocking feet.

Tribute Paid to Ten Community Leaders by AFRO

Honor Roll

A Community-Active Mother

Mrs. Catherine Adams

Despite the demands of motherhood in caring for two young daughters, MRS. CATHERINE ADAMS, wife of Dr. Maurice Adams, finds time to devote to a record number of community organizations.

Mrs. Adams, who is president of the Parent-Teacher Association of Douglass Memorial Community Center, Baltimore, she is a member of the committee of management of the Douglass Memorial Community Center, president of the Medical Association, first anti-basileus of Phi Delta Kappa Sorority, vice-president of the Baltimore branch of the Hampton Alumni Association and of the Northeastern District of the Maryland State Federation of Colored Women's Clubs, treasurer of the Mothers' Auxiliary of the North Baltimore Medical Society, treasurer of the Woman's Medical Association, the Maryland League of Women's Clubs, of the Monumental Medical Society. She is also a member of the senior choir at Union Baptist Church. Her daughters are Ann Victoria, 8, and Nina Belle, 3.

Directed County Civic Campaign

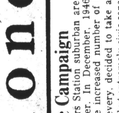
Some 12,000 persons dwell in the Turners Station suburban area and Day Village bordering Baltimore City proper. In December, 1946, the citizenry, aroused by the lawlessness, filth, rats, and petty thievery, decided to take action.

A young man, not yet 30, but extremely civic conscious, DR. ARTHUR L. JOHNSON Jr., a native Baltimorean, was recruited to head a vigilante committee. That was the beginning of the Turners Station Progressive Association. Soliciting aid and support which has resulted in the purchase of a community-nursery center building, encouraging 1,440 of the 1,624 voters to register, and in the Association's drive for a Community Center, Dr. Johnson is a member of the New Life Presbyterian Church of Day Village.

Judge Combats Delinquency



Judge Moylan

Presiding Judge of the Juvenile Causes, JUDGE CHARLES E. MOYLAN combats juvenile delinquency through his chairmanship of the Baltimore Youth Commission and his sincere interest in the Cheltenham School for Boys. Chairman of the Commission's Committee on Juvenile Youth Advisory Board, through which high school pupils of both races participate in and learn about city government. The Judge has donated musical instruments and athletic trophies to the Cheltenham School.

Appointed to the Supreme Bench in 1945, Judge Moylan was previously Chairman of the Industrial Accident Commission and a judge of the Appeal Tax Court. He is a native of Frederick County, where he was graduated from Mount St. Mary's College. He is a member of the National Council of Negro Women, member of the Sigma Gamma Rho and Phi Delta Kappa sororities, and active in the Elks.

Conducted Effective Vote Drive

Mrs. Vivienne Adams

MRS. VIVIENNE Q. ADAMS is small of stature, but has done a Herculean job in encouraging Baltimore housewives to become interested in politics and educated to the value of the franchise. As president of the Eighth Ward Democratic Women's Club of Maryland, Mrs. Adams directed a register-to-vote drive which resulted in 4,500 additional voters being registered between April and November, 1948. She is a member of the Altar Guild of Saint Peter Claver Catholic Church, formerly a member of the Maryland Training School for Girls, a delegate-at-large to the National Council of Negro Women, member of the Teachers and Morgan State Colleges, Mrs. Adams taught school for 14 years before resigning to concentrate on her civic activities.

Establishes Projects for Youngsters

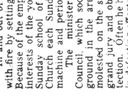
Mrs. Waters

In and out of the pulpit, the REV. WILBUR H. WATERS meets fire with fire by setting up preventive measures against crime and delinquency. Because of the emphasis he places upon the needs and welfare of youth, Mr. Waters has established a Sunday school of Bethel Christian Community Church each Sunday. They have a motion picture machine and periodic kiddie parties.

Chairman of the Community Men's Advisory Council, which soon will open a neighborhood playground in the area. When women members were asked to name the man they would like to head the grand jury and obtained more lights and police protection. Often he has joined with neighborhood groups in defeating efforts to bring unnecessary business into the area.

A native Baltimorean, the Rev. Mr. Waters was assistant pastor a Douglas Memorial Community Church, before he went to Community Chapel. He is president of the Council of Community Churches. The minister and his wife have one son, Raymond T. Waters.

New Head of Church Organization

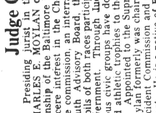


Dr. Lemmel

FATHER CEDRIC E. MILLS, rector of St. James PE. Church, set a precedent in religious circles when he was recently elected president of the Maryland Clergy, an organization of approximately 1,000 members. The group is composed of clergymen in the various churches of the diocese to discuss prepared papers on world affairs and subjects of religious and civic interest.

Father Mills, who has been at St. James since February, 1941, coming from St. Anne Church in Plainfield, N.J. He is a native of Hartford Conn. a graduate of Lincoln University (A.B. in 1936) and received his ST.B degree from the Philadelphia Divinity School. He also holds a master's degree from the University of Pennsylvania and received his doctorate at Columbia University in 1940. He and his wife, Mrs. Fanny Lemmel, have one son, Charles.

Liberal School Administrator



Father Mills

Long recognized as a liberal school administrator, DR. WILLIAM H. LEMMEL, superintendent of schools, is lauded for the democratic policies and principles he maintains in operation of the Baltimore education system. Publication of a pamphlet which was circulated among the schools last year recently won the Hollander Award for its outstanding merit. Dr. Lemmel came to Baltimore in 1946 from Wilmington, Del. where he had held the schools superintendency for 10 years. He received his A.B. degree and his master's degree at Iowa in 1928 and his doctorate at Columbia University in 1940. He and his wife, Mrs. Fanny Lemmel, have one son, Charles.

Advisor on City Expansion Plans

Dr. Jackson

Hard-hitting member of the City Planning Commission, DR. ROBERT L. JACKSON served as chairman of the committee members of the group and to all city officials of the need of colored citizens for community growth and development. Dr. Jackson is a native of Birmingham, Ala., and has practiced in Baltimore since 1922. Recently he was among three Provident Staff members admitted to membership in the Medical Society of Baltimore. He and his wife reside at 600 Arlington Ave. and have a daughter, Mrs. Evelyn Barksdale.

Bar-Wil-Ba, Haven for Aged

LITERALLY A HAVEN for the aged and ill is the clean, attractive home of Bar-Wil-Ba, a licensed convalescent home at 1315 Madison Ave. which this week celebrates its first anniversary.

Founded originally at 1319 Madison Ave. by Mrs. Elizabeth Barbaugh, her daughter, Mrs. Elizabeth Williams and her son-in-law, Mr. Brooks, the home was forced to close its doors when a gas explosion on Nov. 18, 1947, left the building in ruins.

Rebuilding their efforts, the group found a new home at a loss but acquired two other three story houses in the same block and under way re-completed the home with 25 patients in wards and private rooms.

The staff of 13 includes three graduate nurses, two practical nurses, a male nurse, three kitchen aides, a male nurse, three kitchen aides, a male nurse, three kitchen helpers and a part time doctor.

The present enrollment of 50 persons include Old Age Insurance recipients, Old Age Pensioners, private patients and aged parents of Baltimore City and County.

Cheerful, efficient care is given patients at the Bar-Wil-Ba Convalescent Home, 1317-19 Madison Ave., which is a private home for the aged, paralytics, amputees, and mentally ill. Bar-Wil-Ba has been approved by the State Department of Health.

The patients placed in the home by the Baltimore City Department of Welfare Department are given regular medical care by a program of medical care, which includes a full time nurse and daughter, Mesdames Barbaugh and Williams, who have the home were assisted in grooming patients by the last graduate nurse, who lives in one of the nearby Douglas Memorial Community Center.

Miss Battle, a nurse's aide, is also student at the Cortez Peters Business College, and is taking full charge of the business affairs of the home.

The rapid growth of Bar-Wil-Ba proves that it is meeting a long felt need in Baltimore.

Checked help while away he built for a [illegible] the male patients residing at the home while Mrs. Margaret Jackson, nurse, looks on. The directors of this private institution are proud of the fact that they care for 100 patients. It is the first home of this type to care for such patients.

Private rooms are available for those patients able to pay for them, such as the one in the foreground. Note the spacious hall, ample light, the room's homelike feel provides enough space for Mrs. Dobson to keep many of her personal possessions. She is shown getting a few things in a knitting from Mrs. Fenny.

Mrs. Elizabeth Williams Tolley, director, of 1317-19 Madison Ave., is shown consulting one of her patients. Standing in her office, Mrs. Tolley, who is a graduate of the Maryland League of Women's Clubs are shown boarding one of two buses owned by the home.
