Levi Jackson, 12 Others Cited at Civil Rights Rally

NEW YORK—Levi Jackson, captain-elect of the 1949 Yale University football team, was among the 13 individuals and agencies honored for "their important contributions to civil rights of American citizens" at a rally at the Wendell Willkie Memorial Building of Freedom House, Sunday night.

Nine organizations joined to make the awards of merit which were presented by Robert P. Patterson, former Secretary of War, who warned against being "lulled into a false sense of security" in the "cold war" against Russia.

Frank S. Jones, manager-elect of the 1949 Harvard University football team, also was honored. Jones and Jackson, the first colored to be named to the outstanding positions, were not present and the awards were given on behalf of their respective teams.

Senator Irving M. Ives (Rep., N.Y.), who addressed the rally, declared civil rights legislation may fail in Congress because of "lack of unity and disagreement among its supporters.

Senator Ives pointed out that rights supporters push only for enactment of their own favorite bill and "this scattered support" offers results in no bill receiving "united support." He termed the fair employment practices measure the most important.

Others receiving the merit awards included:

Frederick D. Green, 2nd, president of Phi Kappa Psi fraternity at Amherst College for "the election to that fraternity of Thomas W. Gibbs, colored student, resulting in the loss of their national charter," and Walter Rowland, coach of the Lakeview (Ga.) High School football team for his stand against the Ku Klux Klan.

Dr. Lewis W. Jones, president Arkansas University, the first Southern medical school to admit a colored student; the Rev. George R. Ratcliffe of Milton, Mass., Rabbi Gabriel Schulman of NYC; Robert Maxwell Associates, Ted Cott of WNEW, NYC; Curtis Campagna Jr., Montclair, N.J., Schrade F. Radke, president of Alpha Chi Sigma fraternity at Massachusetts Institute of Technology; Judge Warde Cider.

The Rev. George N. Marshall of Plymouth, Mass., for his crusade against restrictive covenants, and Judge J. Watie Waring of the Federal Court for his ruling in outlawing South Carolina officials "who sought to bar colored voters from participating in primary elections."

Ford's Lincoln Plant Lays off 600 Workers

DETROIT (ANP)—Production cutbacks have forced the Ford Motor Co., to lay off 600 auto workers at Lincoln plant.

Benson Ford, vice-president of the company and general manager of the Lincoln-Mercury division, said the lay offs were necessary because of a continued shortage of critical materials, principally steel.

"Our allotment of critical materials for 1949 is about the same as last year, but we have to spread it over a 12-month period," Ford said further, that because of the shutdowns for model changeover, the Lincoln plants were able to produce for 10 months of 1948.

Blind Man Hit by Car Twice Within a Week

BIRMINGHAM (ANP) — For the second time within a week, Reuben Steele, an aged blind man, was truck by an automobile as he "jaywalked" across the street here recently.

According to Wreck Investigator E. L. Lewis, Steele was admitted to Jefferson Hillman Hospital with a leg fracture, numerous lacerations and several minor injuries. The victim said he did not realize he was in the street.

LOUISVILLE'S FIRST HOMICIDE

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (ANP)—An argument over $1.25 lost in a game last week, cost the life of Frank Spurling, 40, and shoved up the first homicide reported locally this year. Spurling died of a skull fracture. The honor after Charles Irby, 45, hit him over the head with a board in the victim's home.

Riots in Africa Under Control

Loss of Life Heavy; 5 Million Damages

CAPETOWN, South Africa (NNPA)—While Durban was recovering from the recent riot between Zulus and East Indians, the South African Government received reports last week that the situation "is under effective control."

A judicial commission of inquiry will be appointed to look into the specific causes and circumstances of the bloody and costly outbreaks.

Most unrest in the country, prior to the Zulu-Indian feud, has been caused by Indians and natives protesting the white Nationalist government's policies of segregation and limited government representation for non-Europeans.

The latest reports say, 300 people were killed and 1000 injured in the riots which spread from Durban to Johannesburg, following a fight between a Zulu boy and an Indian peddler on Jan. 14. The death toll may reach 500.

One European was killed and 11 were wounded. The fate of hundreds of Indian families who fled in terror from Durban and surrounding rural areas is still unknown.

The damages, largely as a result of wholesale looting and destruction of Indian stores and homes, are expected to total five million dollars.

IN MEMORIAM

WILSON—In memory of my wife, Edna Mae, who passed away three years ago, Feb. 2, 1946.
To the world of pain and sorrow,
To the land of peace and rest,
Where I shall see my loved one,
When my heart is found at rest.
Husband, JAMES G. WILSON

MARTIN—In tribute of love to the memory of my dear son, William LeRoy Martin, who passed away six years ago, January 29, 1943.
There's a voice that I'm longing to hear,
There's a smile I'll remember forever,
There's a face I'm trying to see,
There's a hand to hold in remembrance,
There's a heart that's breaking for me.
There's a token of affection dear,
And a heart still aches for you.
LOVING MOTHER

WILLIAMS—In loving memory of my dear husband, JAMES W., who passed away one year ago
Sad was the day
Dear is my heart
you are fondly remembered
Sweet happy memories clung around your name
Always will love you
In death, just the same
Devoted Wife,
Hattie Williams

BRISCOE—In loving memory of my husband, Arthur E., who passed away January 29, 1947.
Thinking of you in the silent heartaches,
Only those who have lost can tell
How we miss the touch of your hand,
How we long to hear your voice.
Devoted Wife, LAVINIA

FOOTE—In loving memory of my daughter, PALESTINA GRINAGE, who departed this life four years ago, January 29, 1945.
She knows the silent heartaches,
Which we hide from her sight,
Of the grief that's borne in silence,
For the one we love so dearly.
Loving mother, LOURENA GRINAGE

CARTER—In loving memory of our dear husband, Clarence Carter, who passed away three years ago, January 29, 1946.
Only those who have lost can tell
The lonely stream of life rolls on.
Sweetest memories are those that linger
Of the one who once sat there.
We have taken your photo from its place,
In the beautiful ship called rest.
Where we hope to meet you, dear husband.
Sweet be your rest
Her loving Daughter and Grandchildren, JOHN, CLARENCE, GRACE, ARTHUR, ELEANOR, and PAULINE

JONES—In loving memory of my husband, Charles E. Jones, who departed this life on January 29, 1948.
Dear is the memory of my husband,
Our thoughts are with you as we pass along
Memories are all we have left to cherish
Memories we hold dear to us
Loved and lost, but never forgotten
Husband and Pal, ELLA P. JONES

GALLAGOT—In loving memory of my husband, Harry P., who passed away one year ago, January 29, 1948.
Dear is the memory of our loved one, Harry P. Feb. 8, 1948
Memories are sweet, time changes Truth with every morning rays.
Not a day passes, not a night
But that we think of you
Husband, THE FAMILY

KELSON—In tribute of love to the memory of Robert Hunt, Feb. 3, 1948.
Dear is the memory of our dear father
We think of you often, and will to the end
Gone and forgotten by some you may be,
But dear to memory you will ever be
Devotedly, Mildred, Ann, Dorothy, Daughters, MERITA K. STOKES, Son-in-law, JOHN T. STOKES

HAWKINS—In loving memory of our dear daughter and sister, ELEANOR HAWKINS, who passed away January 29, 1948.
Our daughter Dear sister and sister your test,
We loved you, but God loved you best.
Dear Eleanor
Your memory is dear
Your voice we long to hear
Your smile we miss
Your face we long to see
Your arms we long to hold
Your heart we long to
Your love we long for
Your home we long for
Your place we long to fill
Your place we long to
Your place we long to
Your place we long to
