Vacation Bible School Grads of Zion Baptist Church

The first Vacation School class graduated this season held its exercises at the Zion Baptist Church in East Baltimore, last week. The little folks, under the direction of Mrs. Frances Hinchens, were taught clay modeling, along with other arts and crafts. The Rev. Matthew Wilkerson is pastor of the church.

Former Catherine Russell Named 'Librarian of Year'

Mrs. Catherine Russell Robinson Baltimore librarian, stationed in Wurzburg Post, was named "Librarian of the Year" at the 1950 Annual Special Services Library Conference in Vienna in June.

MRS. CATHERINE ROBINSON

The Pier Brussels Travel Agency awarded Mrs. Robinson an 11-day tour of Italy for her outstanding work as librarian at Kitzingen, Germany Training Center.

Certificate of merit was presented her by Lt. Col. Rudolph Hegdahl, chief of EUCOM Special Services Recreational Branch.

Mrs. Robinson was chosen by a special committee of four librarians from among six candidates nominated by the various posts and commands.

Her selection was based on her all-round librarianship in the use of professional knowledge and originality in meeting library problems and enthusiasm in extending the library program.

She has been associated with Wurzburg Post libraries since 1948. Prior to going to the European Command, she was assistant librarian at the Enoch Pratt Free Library, Baltimore.

Mrs. Robinson received her B.S. from Morgan State College, Baltimore, and took graduate work in library science at Atlanta University. Mrs. Robinson is the wife of Capt. John Robinson, who is stationed at Kitzingen Training Center, Germany.

Md. Pupil Enrollment to Rise by 115,679

Enrollments in Maryland elementary schools will increase by 115,679 during the next seven years, Dr. Thomas G. Pullen, State superintendent of schools, estimated, this week.

Dr. Pullen made the prediction while addressing the conference of the Maryland Congress of Parents and Teachers on the University of Maryland campus.

He also forecast that despite these increases, each class will be limited to 30 pupils next year.

GEORGE COOPER ENGAGED

EASTON, Md. — Mr. and Mrs. Henry Roberts of this city have announced the engagement of their daughter, Miss Maude E. Roberts, to George H. Cooper Jr. The bridegroom, also of this city, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. George H. Cooper Sr.

LAUGHING AT LIFE:

Man Strikes Wife in Police Station to Quell Her Charge

The police of the Western precinct had their work cut out for them when John Johnson, 42, of 228 N. Greene St., literally knocked his wife into the station, Tuesday night.

Officer Louis Hranicka said Johnson boxed his wife, Fannie, below the ear as she entered the door.

Paradoxical Story

Before Magistrate Julius A. Romano in Western police court, Wednesday morning, Johnson said he chased his wife to the station in an effort to stop her from having him arrested.

Mrs. Johnson said her husband had been abusive, but she was willing to forgive and forget. Magistrate Romano was not as generously inclined. He fined Johnson $10 and costs on the assault charge.

Ground Troops in 1st U.S. Major Victory

CASUALTIES LIGHT

Now 60 Miles Ahead Other Troops

With a United States Infantry Task Force in South Korea — the first American ground victory of note in the Korean War was scored today (Friday) by colored troops.

The doughboys captured Yechon after a 16-hour battle which began Thursday afternoon and ended shortly after dawn Friday.

Drive Reds Out

After driving the North Korean Communists out of Yechon, the ground troops took over this railway city. Few of the colored soldiers have been reported as killed or wounded. At the same time, the extent of the Red losses is unknown.

The city of Yechon is located 60 miles Northeast of Taejon and 55

THE AFRO WAS RIGHT!

Last week, when the AFRO reported that members of the 24th Infantry Regiment, part of the 25th Division, were on duty in Korea, some readers questioned its accuracy. The Department of Defense itself denied colored troops were seeing service.

The accompanying story, telling how Tank Yanks scored in a battle against Korean Reds, marking first sizeable U.S. victory, confirms fact that that our boys are in there fighting. The AFRO was right and it said it first!

Vote Unopposed as 3 Laud His Record

WASHINGTON

The Senate confirmed the nomination of William H. Hastie as a Judge of the Third Circuit Court of Appeals late Wednesday, making him the first member of his race ever to attain such a high judicial post. The final vote was not opposed.

The nomination of Judge Hastie by President Truman to the $17,500 post had been kicked around with various Southerners opposing it since last Jan. 5 until the time for confirmation was about to run out.

Then finally, on last Monday, the Judiciary Committee favorably reported out the Hastie nomination with only Sen. James O. Eastland of Mississippi dissenting.

Hastie has been serving an interim appointment since last October as a Judge of the Third Circuit Court of Appeals. He will have jurisdiction over Pennsylvania, New Jersey, Delaware and the Virgin Islands where he was

HYPNOTIZED BY GREED:

Matron Gives $625 to Flimflam Operators

"I was hypnotized and just couldn't think clearly. . . ."

That's the way Mrs. Lois Fuller, 27-year-old East Baltimore housewife, explained how two women flimflammers tricked her out of $625 Tuesday.

Interviewed at her home, 223½ Barclay St., after she had recovered from the initial shock of the loss of her savings, Mrs. Fuller declared:

"I am sure they hypnotized me, because I felt different as soon as they left me. While we were talking I seemed confused and unable to think.

Savings Gone Forever

"I am hurt and sorry it happened, but I never expect to see my money again."

Mrs. Fuller went to a bank at Howard and Saratoga Sts. and opened an account with $550 she had saved.

About a half-block from the bank she was met by a woman, approximately 25 years old, who said she was looking for a place to find "room and board." As they talked another woman, older than the first, approached and asked to be directed to the "lost and found department."

Gilb Tongues Trip Victim

The younger flimflam artist inquired:

"Why, did you find something?"

The older flim-flammer explained that she had found some money, "about $650."

She then suggested they all go to Pratt Central Library where she would call her employer and ask him what to do with the money.

The call was supposed to have been made and the older woman told Mrs. Fuller the bag actually contained $3,600 and that her boss had advised the three to split the money up.

Joker in Deck Exposed

She said the boss also suggested that Mrs. Fuller put "security" before she could collect her share.

Mrs. Fuller explained that she had just deposited some money in the bank and doubted if she could get it out within 30 days.

The flim flammers assured her that she would have no difficulty getting her money from the bank. They accompanied her to the bank to withdraw the funds.

Adds $75 to Savings

Mrs. Fuller then turned the $550, plus an additional $75 over to the flimflam artists, who left her in the

Ohio Tragedy Follows 6-Month Separation

CLEVELAND — When numerous long distance telephone calls and a plea in person failed to alter his wife's decision about returning to live with him, Elijah Biggins of Baltimore pumped five bullets into her body and then ran out into the yard where he shot himself three times.

"I couldn't bear the thought of going on without her. I knew I'd rather see her dead, and me too," Biggins told police at the hospital here where he was taken to be treated for his three chest wounds.

Mrs. Evelyn Biggins, the wife, is in a critical condition and expected to die from bullet wounds in the left eye, abdomen and left arm. She is confined to St. Luke's Hospital. Biggins is expected to recover.

The tragedy occurred in the dining room of the home of Mrs. Ethel Looney, Mrs. Biggins' aunt, with whom she had made her home since leaving her husband in Baltimore six months ago because he apparently could not support her.

When she arrived here, she obtained a job as a domestic and refused to return to her husband. A bricklayer and contractor, Biggins was having difficulty getting enough work to support his wife. But when she left, he missed her and wanted her back.

He called every Sunday, but she refused to return. Last Sunday he came in person to make his plea.

Wanted to Throw Him Out

When he arrived at the Looney home, 3298 E. 132nd St., J. A. Thornton, Mrs. Biggins' cousin, wanted to throw him out, but Biggins told him that he merely wanted to talk with his wife.

Then according to police reports, Biggins asked Mrs. Biggins to leave the house with him and have a private talk. She refused.

"I suddenly became very angry and pulled my gun to scare her, when her cousin, Thornton, came in to help her and she pulled away from me, I fired," police quoted

Bogus $10-Bill Ring Dented

5th Man Gives Self Up to U.S. Agents

A 32-year-old man, described by Secret Service agents as "distributor" in a ring that has recently been flooding Baltimore with counterfeit ten-dollar bills, is being held in $15,000 bail for trial in Federal Court.

The suspect, Alvin Bawzell Brown of 545 N. Bruce St., was surrendered to T-Men, this week, by his attorney, Bernard Ficken.

Brown, also known as "Brownie," has been sought by Federal agents and local police since early June when the first arrest was made in the war on counterfeit money.

Another man, identified as a "passer" of the bogus bills, was nabbed by Secret Service men in Washington. He is Velaris Edgar Leonard, 41, of 1228 U St., N.W. Leonard, who made his home in New York City, is also well-known on Pennsylvania Ave. in Baltimore.

He is being held for court in $5,000 bail.

Indications are that these men and two other men also arrested on counterfeit money charges, will be given hearings in Federal Court in September.

The phony ten-dollar bills first appeared here last June. At that time, George C. Drescher, agent in charge of the Baltimore Secret Service office, warned businessmen in the city's northwest sector to be on the alert for he bills.

Diggs, Pettie Held in Bail

The warning came shortly after Willie Diggs, alias Willie Davis, Avenue playboy and self-styled numbers writer, was arrested in a Northwest Baltimore

Charles (Chuck Richards) Richardson, radio commentator, disc jockey and entertainment promotor filed Thursday for the Democratic nomination to the House of Delegates from the Fourth District.

Announcing his candidacy as an independent at this time, Mr. Richardson said he has developed an interest in politics because he wants to "try and do some things which will give the people a square deal."

Specific Needs Noted

Particularly, the candidate, who was cited on the AFRO's 1950 Honor Roll, pointed to the need of equal park and recreation services; better housing; better schools; civil rights and education for both races.

Court Asked to Sell, Divide Property Funds Among 11

The Circuit Court No. 2 was asked, this week, to sell a piece of property at 3207 Sun St., and to distribute the proceeds after determining the interests of 11 family members.

The property, located at Fairfield, Md., belonged to Mrs. Mary M. Brooks who died June 12, 1944, without leaving a will.

Her heirs included nine children, one of whom, Elmer Brooks, died April 27, 1947. A daughter, Mrs. Iona Brooks Fitz, was said to have relinquished her interest in the property in July, 1946.

The suit, this week, was brought by another son Arvell O. Brooks, and his wife, Mrs. Amanda Brooks, of 1704 Brady Ave. They are represented by William H. Murphy, attorney.

Co-Defendants Named

They asked the court to determine their interests along with those of six other brothers and sisters, the deceased brother's widow and his three children.

Named co-defendants are the wives and husbands of those sisters and brothers who are married.

The litigation was filed against the following:

Mrs. Ruby Brooks Hurst and her husband Samuel; Virgil Brooks; Hampton Brooks and his wife, Verna, all of whom reside at the Sun St. address.

Widow Involved

Twyater Brooks, and his wife, Julia, of 816 N. Payson St.; Alvin Brooks, and his wife, Alice, 608 Avondale Rd.; Martin Brooks and his wif, Evelyn, 1516 Brady Ave.

Mrs Jeanette Lumpkins, (widow of Elmer Brooks) and her present husband, Robert Lumpkins, living in Boston.

Mrs. Audry Brooks Dailey (daughter of Elmer), and her husband, Raymond, living in Elk ridge, Md. and Elmer's two minor children, Iona and Elmer Brooks, living in Boston.

Cupid's Corner

Five couples from other cities joined 24 local ones in obtaining marriage licenses, here, this week.

The non-residents were:

Alfred S. Simmons, 39, and Miss Mary L. Smith, 29, both Portsmouth, Va.; Clarence J. Cross, 29, and Miss Urilie L. Russell, 22, both New York City; Albert F. Willis, 28, and Miss Ruth M. Foster, 23, both Philadelphia;

George D. White Jr., 21, and Miss Margaret C. Smith, 20, both Matthews, Va.; Robert Thompson, 25, and Miss Lillian Johnson, 25, both Aliquippa, Pa.

Are Court Decisions Solving Sex Problems?

To be shocked at the word "perversion" is to be unintelligent.

Society must recognize that "third sex" in its population is a direct threat to future generations, an dis a force that can be curbed with understanding treatment.

Within recent months, cases of unnatural sex acts have hit the courts more and more often.

No Simple Combination

Sordid charges involve men and men, boys and men, women and women, boys and boys, men and little girls—the stories that unfold are unbelievable, yet startlingly true.

In just one police district, some 100 cases of perversion are uncovered in a year.

About half of these land in court; and, in most instances, the offender is given a prison term. But does prison solve the problem.

Youths' Lives Warped

Most pathetic aspect of cases of perversion is that which involves youngsters whose thinking and habits may be warped for life because of association with adults with homosexual tendencies.

The problem of the juveniles is accentuated by the fact that many homosexuals enjoy the highest rating as chefs, musicians, cooks or perhaps school teachers, who may pose in the guise of normalcy and yet prey upon the physical and mental weaknesses of children when the cloak of decency is discarded behind closed doors.

Dens of juvenile delinquency, presided over by adult perverts, have been flushed time and again by the police.

But when the adult in the case goes to prison, what is left for the juvenile in the way of help?

Imprisonment Not Answer

Maryland courts have come to realize that ordinary penal treatment is not the answer for the "misfit" in its prison population.

For years, judges have deplored the lack of a State institution which would give help to those sex offenders who want to be cured and who are worthy of rehabilitation.

Because most forms of abnormal behaviour have come to be recognized as being mental in cause, psychiatry, too, is playing an important part in the treatment of

As more and more cases of perversion pour into the courts, judges are faced with the problem of what to do with these individuals who are misfits both in prison and in society.

3,338 in Clean Block Drive; Fund Now $966

A total of 3,338 children living in 197 blocks throughout Baltimore are now registered in the 16th annual AFRO Clean Block Campaign.

Meanwhile, the prize fund for the campaign has reached a total of $966.25.

The new contributors to the prize fund include a well-known Northwest Baltimore minister, $25; Mrs. Helen Holland, $20; George C. Smullen, J. Preston Lindberry, $10 each; School No. 125 and Harvey Johnson High School, $5 each.

Captains Meet

The captains and secretaries met at the McCulloh Homes Auditorium this morning (Friday).

Each captain turned in a list of workers who will try out for the AFRO Clean Block Talent Show at an early date.

Some captains are still having problems, especially, by the folks not co-operating in their respective books. It would be fine if everyone concerned would give a little co-operation, which would not only lighten the work for the captains, but help beautify the various blocks.

New blocks were registered and additional window cards and other materials were given to the captains.
