House Kills Resolution to Alter Election Method

WASHINGTON. — (NNPA) — diminished the importance of the The House on Monday killed the colored vote in pivotal States Lodge-Gossett resolution to amend where that vote, in close elections, the Constitution to change the represents the balance of power, method of electing the President and would have given Southern and Vice President. On a roll call States, where only a relatively the vote was 134 for the resolution small fraction of the people vote, and 219 against. The resolution greater weight in Presidential elections.

was brought up by Rep. Emanuel Celler, chairman of the House Judiciary Committee.

On a voice vote, the motion apparently was beaten, but before Speaker Sam Rayburn announced the result, Rep. E. Gossett, (Dem., Tex.), asked for a division. On the division, a standing vote, the result was 79 for the resolution and 141 against. Gossett then asked for a roll call.

Aimed at Colored Power

The resolution, which already had passed the Senate, would have

This would have been accomplished by dividing the electoral votes of a State among the candidates in direct proportion to the popular vote. Thus, in close elections like 1948, in which President Truman carried the State of Ohio by only 12,110 votes, the electoral votes of that State would be divided as follows:

Truman, 17, and Dewey, 12, with the result that Ohio with more than 2,902,478 voters, would have a net of only one electoral vote, while one-party States like Mississippi, with fewer than 200,000 voters, would have nine electoral votes.

40 Per Cent of Whole

The resolution also would have abolished the office of Presidential elector, but would have retained the State electoral vote system. It sought to prevent elections from being thrown into the House by providing that the person having the greatest number of electoral votes would be President if his vote was at least 40 per cent of the whole.

PENTAGON PUNDITS AIRY:

Top Brass Optimistic Despite Korean Losses

WASHINGTON

Optimism was still high among top brass at the Pentagon, Monday, who declared that we are doing all right in the Korean fighting, despite reports of heavy losses and the fact that we have been forced to retreat in the western sector of the peninsular as the North Koreans breached our Kum River line defenses.

A high Pentagon official spokesman said that our withdrawals were orderly and orderly during the past week shows that our forces are stiffening and are holding much better and there is evidence of greater organization and co-ordination.

He said withdrawal to the uphill sector, near Tiejon is some what to our advantage in that it will give us better opposition positions.

"Joint Secretaries" Formed

Newsmen were informed at the Monday afternoon briefing conference by Secretary of the Army Frank Pace, Secretary of the Air Force Thomas K. Finletter, and Secretary of the Navy Frances P. Matthews that they have formed an organization to be known as the "Joint Secretaries."

Among the duties of this group will be the consideration of policy making in regard to the utilization of military personnel.

Integration Not Considered

Secretary Pace, acting chairman of the new group, in answer to a question, said the matter of integration had not been taken up yet, but will be considered.

The Air Force and Navy have announced and are carrying out completely integrated personnel policies. The Army has made some improvements in this respect, but has not yet come all the way.

What influence one department will have on the other in the matter of policy toward racial troops, when the matter comes up for discussion, should be interesting to follow.

The group has named Edward Dickinson Jr., former member of the Foreign Military Assistance Coordinating Committee of Capital ECA, as assistant to the Joint Secretaries.

Return Cards Sent Prisoner

Mrs. Ingram Denied Holiday Greetings

WASHINGTON — (ANP) — The several thousands of cards sent to Mrs. Rose L. Ingram bearing Mother's Day Messages, are being returned to the senders by the Reidsville, Ga., post office marked "refused unclaimed, no address, not on the mailing list," etc.

Mrs. Ingram is now doing a lifetime stretch in the Georgia prison at Reidsville for the alleged murder of a white sharecropper who is reported as having attacked her with a gun assumedly because she had refused his constant attempt to force his affections upon her.

No Answer to Pleas

Scores of petitions, thousands of letters and telegrams have been sent to President Truman urging him to take action to free this mother of 11 children, who dared protect her virtue against a white Georgia farmer.

No answer has come from the White House however.

It has been rumored that the President is considering granting a pardon to Purnell Thomas, Congressman from New Jersey who was convicted for stealing thousands of dollars from the Government by padding his payroll.

And it is also known that several months ago Mr. Truman pardoned former Mayor Curley of Boston who was guilty of using the mails to defraud.

Taking these facts under consideration, the Ingram committee requested that the head of the Democratic party approach Democratic Governor Talmadge of Georgia urging him to free Mrs. Ingram and her two sons.

Shower Scalds Man to Death

Flight After Burns Fails to Help Victim

Morris Page, 36 year-old janitor of an apartment house at 2702 Wisconsin Ave., N. W., was scalded to death, early this week, while taking a shower bath.

Police said found dead in the living room of a vacant apartment next to the one that he occupied on the first floor of the apartment building by the resident manager, Mrs. Mary L. Adams.

Coroner Verifies Cause

According to police, Mr. Page apparently ran to the empty living room of the apartment shortly after the shower scalded him. Mrs. Adams discovered him after her attention was attracted by steam from the apartment.

A certificate of accidental death has been issued by Deputy Coroner Christopher J. Murphy, who said death was due to burns from hot water, shock and steam inhalation.

Judge Frees AME's Funds

Evangelist's Suit Causes N.J. Tie-up

PHILADELPHIA

A motion for dismissal of a suit to tie up the funds of the New Jersey AME Annual Conference was granted last week by Justice Wilfred H. Jayne in Trenton, N. J., along with a formal judgment of his decision.

The suit was filed by Mrs. Mattie Jackson, evangelist, in an effort to prevent Bishop D. Ward Nichols, prelate of the First Episcopal District, from conducting the annual session of the New Jersey Conference in May.

The Conference was held as scheduled, but Mrs. Jackson succeeded in having a receiver named to hold the funds.

Appointment Ineffective

His appointment was ineffective, however, because the money was already in the hand of Dr. A. S. Jackson, financial secretary, in Washington.

In granting the motion for dismissal, Justice Jayne said that though the court had jurisdiction, it did not care to interfere with the internal workings of the church.

His order to impound the funds was done "solely as a temporary action to defend the rights of all," the decision read, but "it is the duty of any member of a voluntary organization to exhaust the remedies within that organization before going elsewhere for relief."

No Mishandling of Funds

The court was of the opinion that there was ample evidence that relief could be granted with the organization if the charges were correct, but there was no evidence to show any mishandling of any money on the part of Bishop Nichols or any member of the conference.

In a statement to the Philadelphia AFRO, Bishop Nichols said the ruling was "the vindication that I have been expecting. There never has been a doubt in my mind that the final result would be determined as has been by Judge Jayne."

Evidence of Good Faith

The prelate said that he had forwarded $18,000 of the total $25,000 collected by the New Jersey Conference to Dr. Jackson, and that the money was returned on the advice of his counsel, Clifford Moore of Trenton, simply as "an evidence of good faith."

Kimbro Makes Debut as Manager Against Cubans

Elites Meet Cubans, Grays on Busy Weekend Agenda

Arclight Affair Tonight Opens 3-Game Series; Report Improved Bus Service

BULLETIN

BIRMINGHAM—Henry Kimbro and his Baltimore Elites look two games of a 3-game series with the Birmingham Barons early this week. After winning, 5-4, in Charlotte, N.C. Monday the Elites dropped a 14-8 decision here Tuesday night. On Wednesday, though, youthful Johnny Coleman pitched a 4-hitter to notch a 12-2 victory over the Barons here.

Baltimore fans will get their first glimpse of Henry Kimbro in his newly-acquired managerial role tonight (Friday) when the Baltimore Elite Giants return to Westport for a resumption of their Negro American League schedule.

The Elites take on the New York Cubans in the first of a 3-game series at 8:30 p.m., and Kimbro will be making his home debut as successor to Lenny Pearson, who piloted the club during the first half of the NAL campaign, was sold last week to Miami, one of the American Association.

The Elites and Cubans are back for a twilight-night doubleheader on Sunday, with the first game set for 6:30 o'clock.

On Monday, Kimbro takes his Elites to Philadelphia for one of two games listed as a four-team twin-bill under the lights.

Tuesday, they are back at Westport with the Homestead Grays, their long-time rivals of Negro National League days. The Grays have obtained an associate membership in the NAL and are again meeting league clubs.

Business Manager Dick Powell told the AFRO Thursday that Baltimore and Annapolis business officials have given assurances of improved accommodations are being offered Westport patrons for the duration.

"They have promised to take baseball passengers on the regular buses," Powell stated, "and they say they will discharge them directly in front of the park.

"These buses leave the Howard and Lombard terminal at 25 minutes past each hour, and will accept Westport fares at the regular 11-cents rate. Returning buses reach Westport at 18 minutes past the hour."

Powell said further the company intends to continue its special buses, which have a 35-cent round trip fare. These wait at the park and leave immediately after the game on the return trip

Groomes Named to Trenton Y Post

TRENTON, N.J. — Melvin H. Groomes, former Indiana University and Detroit Lions pro football star, last week was appointed physical and program director at the Carver Branch YMCA in Trenton.

Appointment of Goomes was announced by the Carver Directors after the former grid star was recommended by J. Edward Myers, chairman of the Y personnel committee.* He fills the position left vacant by Charles Henderson who left to accept a post at the Dallas, Texas, YMCA.

In his position, Groomes will be in charge of the Carver Recreation Center in addition to his Y work.

SPORTS CHATTER

HERE AND THERE—Col. Harvey Heinke Miller, chairman of the District Boxing Commission, expressed concern over several stories by this writer that a bill now before Congress seeking $2400 annual pay for him, and for the reinstatement of former Inspector Clarence Talley is attributed to him.

In a long telephone conversation he "Retired he had always been behind Dr. Joseph Triggs as a top choice for the vacancy created by the death of Thomas H. Morgan nearly a year ago.

"I've never been against Dr. Triggs. In fact I was the one to recommend him to Commissioner Guy Mason the same day Tom Morgan died. We had everything set up for his appointment when someone sent the commissioners a telegram saying if they didn't appoint Triggs, the fights would be boycotted.

"That made everybody piping mad, and they just refused to go through with the appointment. So the action is to be taken soon though with Commissioner Mason almost ready to return to active duty," he disclosed.

Denies Two Salaries

He added "In reference to the bill, I think I'm entitled to my salary as a boxing chairman. My retirement pay has nothing to do with two salaries. I spent 40 years in the marines, 20 of them on active duty, so I don't consider that being a salary, but a remuneration for service."

Asked if the bill did go through authorizing the appointment of Talley on the boxing commission, wouldn't it seal or block forever

MORGAN GETS NODS:

Eddie Hurt Named Top Track Coach of Year

SAN BRUNO, Cal.—Edward P. (Eddie) Hurt of Morgan State College, last week was recognized as "most successful track coach of 1950" by Track and Field News, a publication printed locally and boasting a worldwide circulation.

The naming of Hurt was one of two nods given to the Baltimore school in the publication's annual evaluation of cinder talent.

Arthur Bragg, fresh sensation of the Golden Bears, was picked by the paper as the "outstanding freshman" of the year.

Selection of Hurt, according to the publication, was based on the winning of two titles in the National Collegiate Athletic Association meet, and the accumulation of 52 points by his team in the National AAU track and field championships.

Won First and Second

The two NCAA crowns were won by George Rhoden, in the 440, and Bill Brown, in the 880.

Selection of Bragg as the season's top freshman performer was due to his acquisition of 100 points for crown and second in the 200-meter dash, won by his teammate, "Bob" Tyler.

Track and Field News also placed Rhoden and Brown on the first all-college team, picked each year by the publication, and named Tyler on the second collegiate team. Rhoden was nicked in the 440, Brown in the 880, and Tyler in the 220.

Other tan performers picked on the all-star cinder teams were:

Andy Stanfield, of Seton Hall College, in the 100-yard dash; and Jerome Biffle, of Denver, in the broad jump, on the first team. Bill Miller, of Arizona State, was named to the second team in the javelin.

N.Y. Giants Reported Eyeing Ole Satch

NEW YORK—With both Carl Hubbell and Mel Ott on hand to watch him pitch three innings of exhibition baseball here Thursday night, Satchel Paige appeared one step nearer his second major league sojourn.

Hubbell and Ott are scouts for the New York Giants, the former head of the farm system and the latter one-time manager of the Polo Grounders.

While neither would affirm an interest in the veteran right-hander, it is a known fact Leo Durocher is anious to obtain a steady relief pitcher.
