Day Camp for Older Girls Sponsored at Cherry Hill

The YWCA, Madison Ave. branch recently sponsored a day camp at the Cherry Hill Whitehouse (now painted green) in Cherry Hill for girls between the ages of 11 to 17.

During the sessions the girls visited Radio Station WCBM and witnessed the program "Lauri Alwyn and Eve," and were served tea and cakes supplied by the Acme Food Market.

They also witnessed the "Story Hour" and toured the building and the Western Maryland Dairy plant, where the girls were served crackers and milk.

On Mondays and Wednesdays the girls were taught to swim at the Druid Hill YMCA, under the direction of Mrs. Ethel Freeman. Other program activities were arts and crafts, paper mache work, sewing, cooking, dramatics, worship services and music and sports.

The closing exercises were in the form of a "Mardi Gras," at which time their crafts, projects and other works were displayed.

Mrs. Linese Marvin, teen-age program assistant at the Y, was camp director. Teachers and volunteer workers were Mesdames Grace Price, Beatrice Nicholson, Julia Noel, Mamie Noel, Georgia Orr, Sarah Bundy, Vera Shahpless, Dorothy Brown, B. Campbell and Mrs. Amos.

Tardy Draftees Given Warning

Selective Service Headquarters in the District sent out a stern warning Wednesday that all draftees who fail to register or report for physicals when summoned will suffer the consequences.

Those who fail to appear when ordered will be reported by the Local Boards to the U.S. District Attorney as delinquents and will be subject to prosecution, William E. Leahy, district director of Selective Service said Tuesday.

51 Missing Last Week

Leahy pointed out that during last week 51 of the 235 District registrants ordered to report for physical examinations failed to report.

Negligence in advising Selective Service Boards of changes of address was given as perhaps one of the reasons for failure to appear.

One of the penalties for failure to report for physicals, and which most likely will be used in the future, Mr. Leahy indicated, is to induct draftees immediately without benefit of the customary 21 days waiting period.

Plumber With No Permit Fined $15

"I was just trying to get some work," James Murray of the 1000 block Rutland Ave., told Magistrate Harry S. Kruger in Housing Court, Thursday, in answer to a charge of making plumbing installations without a permit.

Murray admitted he installed a bath tub, a kitchen sink and several water closets in a Pennsylvania Ave. store, none of which complied with the Health Code. The defendant said he learned the plumbing trade by "working with plumbers."

Martin Goodman, a white used clothing merchant, said he hired Murray upon a "recommendation." Magistrate Kruger fined Murray $15 and cost and told Goodman he would have to go the expense of having the work done all over again.

Two Held in Bail in Traffic Deaths

Accused of killing the persons struck by automobiles they were driving, a 17-year-old and a 29-year-old man were held under $1000 bail each for a State's Attorney's hearing, Thursday.

They were Miss Ruth Z. Knox, 1143 Calhoun St.; and James E. Young, 1675 Bakbury Ct.

Police report that the car Miss Knox was driving collided with a motorcycle driven by Dermel N. Armstrong, 17, 1925 Riggs Ave., at Carrollton and Lafayette Aves., Wednesday morning.

Both Die at Provident

The youth was taken to Provident Hospital where he was treated for a fractured leg, head injuries and shock. He died six hours later.

Mr. Young is accused of causing the death of Mrs. Mary Catherine Hall, 62, 1819 Sebbins Ave., NYC, who also died in Provident Hospital, Wednesday.

Police said that Mrs. Hall was struck on June 1, as she walked across Druid Hill Ave. near Robert St. She had been confined to the hospital with leg and internal injuries.

Beaten Man Charged With Assaulting Cop

With an eye discolored and swolen the size of a hen's egg, a man was charged in Northeastern Police Court with assaulting, striking, and attempting to run down a police officer with an automobile in the 1500 block of E. Lafayette Ave., Wednesday night.

Held in $1000 bail pending a jury trial is John Jenkins, 32, of the 1800 block N. Spring St. who was arrested on charges made by Officer Albert Thomas.

Air Condition Courses Attract Vets to ACRI Technical School

An awareness of the job opportunities in areas that have been closed to them is attracting colored GI's to the Air Conditioning and Refrigeration Institute at 110 N. Paca St.

Thus "ACRI" has become the first technical school to offer training for all in the growing fields of air conditioning, refrigeration and oil burner installation and repair. In addition, a thorough course in all phases of theoretical and commercial electricity is included in the extensive program.

The standard course of the air conditioning and refrigeration division is composed of 42 subjects providing the students with a through step-by-step training period. More important ACRI graduates are constantly sought by some of the city's largest business firms.

Oil Burner Course Popular

In Baltimore alone, the need for men to service the city's 150,000 oil burners has drawn many students to ACRI's oil burner division which includes all types of automatic heating. Graduates of the 24-week oil burner course will be the best qualified to obtain available jobs.

A tour of the commodious Paca St. school and its Greene St. annex reveals that a tremendous outlay in materiel and personnel has been made to train men in profitable trades. Fully equipped students further profit from the experience and training of a carefully selected faculty.

In an all-out effort to democratize its personnel, a college-trained colored instructor has been hired to teach courses in electricity.

Flames Leap 30-Feet High as Trash Burns at Morgan

Flames leaped 30 feet, last week, as firemen fought to extinguish flames from trash on a city dump aside Hughes Stadium at Morgan State College.

The trash had smouldered for hours, and when flames took hold, they singed shrubbery and trees on nearby Herring Run. One engine company spent most of the day pouring streams of water on the fire which was eating its way under the embankment.

The fire burned from 7 a.m. until 5:30 p.m. last Tuesday. Another broke out on the same dump Saturday, and burned about 10 minutes, the fire department revealed.

At the college's request, the city has been dumping trash and leaves on the east side of the stadium along Herring Run for several years to level off a deep slope on the campus.

Provided Roadway

The newly-made ground made it possible to provide a roadway completely around the stadium. At one time, however, residents of Morgan Park objected to city dumping on another area adjacent to the college because it attracted "rats" and constituted a fire hazard.

The total fill made by the city on the side near the stadium is over 500 feet long, and in some places over 100 feet wide.

Nevertheless, as soon as the college built up a portion of the low land with ashes acquired from the city, it sold some of the ashes to a private contractor.

Continuous Process

This results in a continuous dumping process, residents complain.

Morgan Park residents point out further that the college should fill up its low ground, and then stop having material dumped there.

At present, they add, the college is taking ashes that has been dumped, and also filling the depression on one side with trash, and on the other side with soil that has been excavated from foundations in various parts of the city where structures have been directed.

Dr. Martin D. Jenkins, president of Morgan, said that questions concerning how long the dumping process will be continued should properly be decided by the Board of Trustees.

WATCH YOUR EYES, DOCTOR ADVISES

Keep an eye on your eyes, and improve your disposition and your health, says Dr. M. N. Baskin.

In many cases, headaches, nervousness and eye strain can be prevented by the use of glasses.

Dr. Baskin suggests that you have your eyes examined without charge, at the Penn Optical Company, 1525 Pennsylvania Avenue.

These examinations, conducted by a registered doctor of optometry, are entirely free of charge. If glasses are not needed, you are told frankly and honestly.

If you do need glasses for reading, close work or regular wear, they can be purchased for as little as $10 with terms as low as $1 a week. Watch your eyes for better health.
