Vegetable Week Set

By VIRGINIA C. SHERBOURNE

National Vegetable Week has received the approval of Governor Lane and Mayor D'Alesandro, who have both issued proclamations pledging observance of the week.

August is the month that Maryland farms reach their peak of productivity, so locally grown produce is at its best right now. Housewives should use more fresh vegetables, and should become more aware of the variety of choices and the quality of the produce offered for sale. Help observe the week by serving more Maryland grown vegetables!

Tomatoes Top Buy

Topping the "best buy" list this week is Maryland tomatoes. Though actually a fruit, this luscious red summer favorite is considered and used as a vegetable. It is a "must" for summer salads, and combines well with other vegetables as a casserole dish. Tomatoes are also delicious served baked, broiled or stuffed.

Choose tomatoes that look good —firm, plump, fairly well formed and free from blemishes. Buy the fully ripe ones for immediate use, and the green-tinged tomatoes to ripen at room temperatures for use in a few days. Tomatoes that are heavy for their size are a good choice, since they are more apt to be juicy. Avoid yellow-wrinkled, misshapen or scarred tomatoes.

Other vegetable "buys" this week include sweet corn, cabbage, limas, potatoes, and snap beans.

Melons Suggested

In fruits, apples, peaches and melons are good suggestions. Supplies of Maryland peaches are rapidly increasing, and prices are lower generally.

In meats, half hams and sausage constitute the "best buys." All other meat prices fluctuate slightly this week. Lard came down some, while cheese went up in price.

Poultry prices declined slightly, egg market is holding steady with receipts adequate.

Red-Gold Salad

Place slices of tomato on bed of salad greens. Cover each slice of tomato with a thick coating of grated yellow cheese. Serve with mayonnaise to which has been added chopped cucumber and onion.

Tomato Pinwheel Salad

Plunge 2 medium-sized ripe tomatoes into boiling water for only a minute, then peel off the skin. Chill. Peel ½ cucumber and score lengthwise with prongs of fork to make a fluted edge. Cut in thin slices. Make 5 cuts in each tomato from top almost to bottom, being careful not to sever the section. Insert a slice of cucumber in each slit. Arrange on lettuce and top with mayonnaise into which tomato ketchup has been folded.

Fighting Chaplain and Family

Lt. Gray G. Johnson, 622 Peach Orchard Lane, and his wife, Mrs. Helen L. Johnson and son, Gray Jr. Lieutenant Johnson is the chaplain with the 24th Infantry in Korea, who was described by AFRO War Correspondent Jimmy Hicks as: "Praising the Lord and passing the ammunition."

Tuskegee Gets $60,000

TUSKEGEE, Ala.—Long recognized for its constructive program in low cash-cost housing, Tuskegee Institute here gained the acceptance of the Housing and Home Finance Agency of the Federal Government during the past month when a $60,000 research contract was signed.

In this agreement, covering a two-year period, the institute will continue and expand its plan of training farm families in building low cash-cost dwelling units to be built by individual farm families under Tuskegee Institute's supervision.

This Business of Being Mrs.

By ETHEL VENSON

NEWARK

Primitive is the word. Primitive, barren and peaceful best describe Staten Island's beautiful South Beach.

When one lies down on its coarse sand that fails to cling to the body, and looks through a pair of sun glasses into the sky, the warm rays of the sun and the hypnotic effect of blue sky and silver lined clouds eases one into a state of lethargy; that erases from sight all other vision.

It blots from ones ears all other sounds but those of rushing waves beating against the shore. The body itself feels that the spot upon which it is stretched is the whole earth. And finally the lethargy deepens into oblivion and sleep.

Splashes in Water

Later, much later, the deep rest is broken by a child playfully kicking the sand (a bit too near). The feeling of being refreshed that usually follows hypnotic sleep keeps your mood pleasant until you suddenly discover that the warm rays of sun have become hot . . . blistering hot.

Then with a short leap it's splash . . . splash! And after enough of those splashes, one pulls heavily toward the shore.

Although uneven steps are made (salt water intoxication, you know . . .), there is not enough lag to cause one to overlook a man standing high on his wooden pedestal with whistle in hand and the enigmia of Life Guard stretched across his massive chest.

An he gloriously tan, not by sun, but by God and birth . . . Not even the heat of strong sun rays beating down, can prevent one from a feeling of pride.

For the sober thought comes to mind of the significance of a virgin freedom existing, at least within this stretch of beach, freedom not yet darkened by the spirit of bigotry.

But just a few block from the boardwalk stands a bus full of other tan citizens from neighboring towns. They are enjoying a day at the beach, and all around the bus there is rubbish lying around.

With the carefree spirit that a day at the beach holds, rubbish will be scattered by all. But that deposited around a bus filled with colored persons will be remembered more vividly. It's much easier for others to point the accusing finger in our direction as there is always being sought some added reason to persecute . . .

So tred we gently on the placid shore of South Beach while the spirit of freedom is lasting. For in Atlantic City, all buses arriving with full crew of colored passengers are unloaded at the very outskirts of the city, one block from the highway. The paradise for bus rides at Rye Beach, N.Y. is no more. There have been "restrictions" on admittance of certain bus loads. Shall we swallow the chicken bones and change the color of our skins or shall we have a beach of our own!

Greens Are Good Eating, Nutritious

What do you get when you buy greens? Good eating first. But more important in the long run, good nutrition. So it makes sense to serve as much of those vitamins and minerals as you can. After all, you paid for them.

Since most of the nutrients will dissolve in water, the less liquid the better. Succulent greens like spinach contain their own "juice" so just drop them in a cold pan with only the moisture clinging to the leaves and a little salt to start them off.

Then cover tightly and place over low heat. Not long though. About eight to ten minutes is sufficient since overcooking can destroy the vitamins too. And the flavor is better when they have some "giit up" left in them.

Use Little Stock

Some of the less juicy greens such as kale, turnip and mustard greens and collards may need as much as an inch of boiling salted water. Or if you want the seasoning of ham or corned beef, use a little of the stock.

It doesn't take an ocean to give the flavor.

"Panned" greens are about the best way to blend the flavor of butter or bacon with the greens, and to keep the food value too. Just melt a little of the fat, or fry dired bacon or salt pork in a skillet until crisp.

Remove the bacon and drop in the freshly washed greens. Toss them around a little, then cover tightly and simmer until tender. A little onion sauted in the fat before adding the greens is well worth your attention.

Turnip greens may take as long as half an hour depending on their age. Collards kale and chard are ready to serve in 15 or 20 minutes. And don't forget wedges of lemon to add the final fillip.

EASY DOES IT

BY ..... MELIN HALE

Washing shower curtains is no problem if you dip the entire curtain in suds, and then rinse carefully. Spots which need extra care may be rubbed with a sponge. Do not twist or wring these curtains. Hang unfolded, in the shade until dry.

White washable materials which have become stained with grass should have these spots rubbed with lard. Follow with a washing, using cold water and soap.

Net curtains will dry better, as well as retaining their shape well, if they are slipped on their curtain poles while still wet.

Care of Blankets

Heavy woolen blankets will keep well during warm months if you wrap in heavy gummed paper and seal thoroughly so no insects can penetrate the package.

RECIPE OF THE WEEK

Honey Salad Dressing
(Makes 2 cups)
½ cup water
1 teaspoon dry mustard
1 teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon paprika
½ teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon celery seed
½ cup strained honey
3 tablespoons vinegar
3 tablespoons lemon juice
1 teaspoon grated onion
½ cup salad oil

Mix dry ingredients. Add honey, vinegar, lemon juice and onion. Pour in salt briskly, beating constantly with a rotary beater. Serve with fruit salads.

A small amount of borax added to the water in which linens are rinsed will make them more glossy and somewhat stiff.

It takes a bit more time, but you'll keep sheets and towels from having their edges stretched out of shape if you fold them before running through the wringer.

Ammonia Fumes for Stains

Colored fabrics which have had their colors changed by perspiration stains should be held over an open ammonia bottle to let the fumes try to restore the color.

Stuffed toys which become dirty may be washed for two or three minutes in a machine, or in heavy suds by hand.

The soap jelly on ears, arms and spots which are extremely dirty. Rinse well, and wrap in heavy towelling to press out as much water as possible. Hang in wind to dry.

4-Day X-ray Survey Opens at Greenmount

An x-ray survey will take place at the Greenmount Avenue Recreation Center, 2306 Greenmount Ave., Monday through Thursday, Aug. 14-17, from 4 to 9 p.m. each day.

Sponsored by the North Baltimore Civic and Home Improvement Association, the survey is a step forward by the residents of the community toward a healthier neighborhood. The survey will be conducted by the Baltimore City Health Department with the assistance of the Maryland Tuberculosis Association.

Residents of the community have been reminded that T.B. remains a prevalent threat to health, killing more people between the ages of 30 and 45 than any other disease. By getting a chest x-ray the individual can be sure that his lungs are free from tuberculosis.

It is easy to get this valuable health insurance. It takes but a few minutes, requires no unpleasing or inconvenience. Residents are strongly urged to step in line for their x-ray—Remember, it's a gift.
