1200 Delegates Attend N.E. Baptist Session

By MARGARET L. CAUTION

ATLANTIC CITY—More than 1200 delegates attended the four-day 77th annual session here last week of the New England Missionary Baptist Convention, the Baptist Convention, the Baptist Young People's Union, and the Women's Auxiliary at Union Baptist Temple. The Rev. Matthew E. Neil, pastor.

The convention opened Tuesday with a forum on "Faith for Today." Leaders were the Rev. R. M. Owens, Miss Mildred McIntyre, Mrs Mae Wood, Miss Olivia Stokes, the Revs. Homer Tucker, E. Ba. Vancey, and J. Quinton Jackson.

School of Methods

The president, the Rev. Willia P. Hayes, pastor of Bethany Baptist Church, Newark, presided.

The church School Auxiliary Department sponsored a "School of Methods," conducted by the Rev. M.L. Wilson, superintendent; Miss Olivia Stokes, young people; Miss Mildred McIntyre, adults; and Mrs. Beatrice Foster, children.

The annual sermon was delivered Tuesday by the Rev. Leon Sullivan, of Philadelphia.

Nannie Burroughs Speaks

Dr. Nannie Burroughs, vice-president of the World Baptist Alliance, and president of the Women's Auxiliary of the National Baptist Convention, addressed an overflow gathering of 700 people Wednesday evening.

The theme of the meeting was, "A Living Faith in the Age of Fear." Following the session, the eminent educator was greeted by hundreds at a reception on the church lawn. The Rev. Julian Taylor of Philadelphia is president of the Baptist Young People's Union. The annual sermon was delivered by the Rev. C. S. Lee of Camden and Philadelphia.

Other Addresses

The Rev. Logan Kearse of Stamford, Conn., delivered the inspirational address. The educational address by Dr. Gardner Taylor, pastor of Concord Baptist Church of Christ, Brooklyn, N.Y., Thursday evening, at the Atlantic City High School.

He told a capacity audience that: "One of the tragedies of the American educational system is the emptiness at its heart; the blankness at its core.

"This is a God-tight world and we cannot cancel God out of human life. Man is not self-sufficient, he is on the receiving side and anything without God leads to death and destruction.

President's Message

The President delivered his annual message on Thursday, pointing out that we face a crucial hour in our history, and "that humanity stands at the cross-roads in a world that is troubled, fearful, confused and uncertain."

Rev. Hayes Re-elected

Officers elected were: The Revs. W. P. Hayes, president; Dr. J. C. Jackson, president emeritus; Dr. F. W. Jacobs, Bridgeport, Conn., vice-president-at-large; Matthew E. Neil, Atlantic City, vice-president; J. Quinton Jackson, Philadelphia, recording secretary;

The Revs. C. L. Franklin, Brooklyn, N.Y., treasurer; A. A. Lewis, Elizabeth, N.J., auditor; H. L. Rawlins, Boston, statistician; Horatio S. Hill, president, Sunday School Department; Julian A. Taylor, president, BTU Department.

Other Discussions

The theme, "Christian Vision and Strategy in the Face of Communism," was discussed by the Rev. B. F. Jackson of Baltimore and others. The Rev. Andrew Fowler of Washington, led the discussion on "Christian Vision and Strategy in the Light of International Relations."

The convention closed Friday evening with the missionary sermon delivered by the Rev. J. L. Morgan of Wilmington, Del.

JR. HI HISTORY TEACHERS

Houston R. Jackson, assistant superintendent of schools, was guest speaker at the closed meeting of the Junior High School History Department, held recently at the YWCA.

"Responsibilities of the Classroom Teacher," was the subject of Mr. Jackson's talk.

"Education," he pointed out, "must lead the students to think for himself, to continue his own self-education after school days are over."

Cooperation Cited

"It further should teach the pupil to cooperate with others and to be a responsible individual in whatever circumstances he may find himself."

These four qualities, said Mr. Jackson, overshadowed mere subject matter alone and could be aroused only "from the person of the teacher, from the total climate of the school itself."

While by-products of teaching, these qualities, Mr. Jackson explained, are among the few permanent values with which teachers can endow their students.

In addition to the principal speaker, other guests at the meeting included:

Frank Sorrell, principal of Druid Junior High School; Mrs. Edna Thompson, Edward Selsey, Mitchell and Alan Cohen, history department chairman at Dunbar High School.

History Department Members who attended were:

Churches Cite End Color Ban,

Most Segregated U.S. Institution—Dr. Mays

BUFFALO, N.Y. (ANP — Dr. Benjamin E. Mays, president of Morehouse College, Atlanta, pleaded with Protestant churches of the North and South to "break the color ban by declaring the church to be the House of God, as over against the house of man."

Speaking at the 44th annual meeting of the American Baptist Convention here Thursday, he said that Protestant churches should "take a daring step and throw their doors wide open to colored worshippers," he said, adding:

"The home Christian church is the most highly segregated institution in the United States. In the North, the churches are more segregated than the public schools, the public library, the theatre and certainly more segregated than the New York subway."

8 Million Colored Protestants

He pointed out that there are about 8,000,000colored Protestants of whom 7,500,000 are in separate colored denominations.

In the South, the local church is as segregated as the elementary and high schools, the streetcars, the buses and more segregated than train travel in a pullman car."

He added that the majority of Christians "probably feel that churches should exist along racial lines" and that few ministers would dare to jeopardize their social position and economic security by operating a completely integrated, interracial church."

"While colored ministers loudly denounce segregation in churches, they are not themselves thoroughly prepared to accept integrated churches," he said.

"And yet, I know of no colored church that would segregate, in its worship, members of other races."

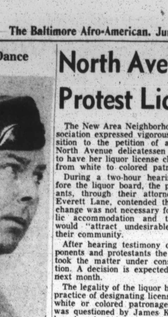
Youth, 19, Follows Martinsville ?

WINSTON SALEM, N.C. — Clyde Brown, 19 has been sentenced to die on Friday, June 22, for allegedly "beating and criminally attacking" a white high school pupil in June, 1950, the Civil Rights Congress has been informed. The execution date was set by the State following refusal by the Supreme Court on June 4, to grant a review.

Justices Hugo Black and William O. Douglas disagreed with the majority and favored consideration of the case. In reporting the execution date, William L. Patterson, CRC executive secretary, declared.

"During Brown's trial, colored citizens were excluded from the jury. A prejudiced atmosphere was created by the local press, and there was conflicting testimony by the witnesses. The girl said in court she didn't remember. She current because of the alleged beating."

Ordered Dance



Commander Gordon A. Griffin of the US Navy, who ordered a dance for his crew held aboard ship when colored personnel were barred from attending a dance scheduled for a hotel in downtown Pensacola, Fla.

Ga. University Bans Student, Invites Suit

ATLANTA (ANP)—The all-white University of Georgia last week defied a threat of an anti-segregation lawsuit and refused the application of a colored student who sought entrance to the university's law school.

Denied admission because of his race was Horace Ward, 24, holder of a bachelor's degree from Morehouse College and a master's degree from Atlanta University. He first applied last October for admission to the summer quarter.

North Ave. Homeowners Protest Liquor License

The New Area Neighborhood Association expressed vigorous opposition to the petition of a West North Avenue delicatessen owner to have her liquor license changed from white to colored patronage.

During a two-hour hearing before the liquor board, the protestants, through their attorney, E. Everett Lane, contended that the change was not necessary for public accommodation and that it would "attract undesirables" to their community.

After hearing testimony of proponents and protestants the board took the matter under consideration. A decision is expected early next month.

The legality of the liquor board's practice of designating licenses for white or colored patronage only, was questioned by James K. Cullen, board chairman. Mr. Cullen expressed doubt that such restrictions are constitutional and said he would like to see the matter ruled upon by the Maryland Court of Appeals.

The hearing grew out of a petition by Mrs. Mildred Harris, white, operator of the P and M Delicatessen, 2115 W. North Ave.

Presented with a petition bearing of the signatures of 500 people living in the immediate area, the protestants sought to show that residents of the community would not patronize the establishment and it would have to draw its trade from other sections of the city.

No Pennsylvania Avenue

"We do not want to make a Pennsylvania Avenue out of North Avenue," they contended.

The protest was based solely on the sale of alcoholic beverages to be consumed on the premises.

Mrs. Harris, holder of a Class B beer, wine and liquor license, contended that she had invested $38,000 in the business and that income had dropped considerably since the neighborhood changed from white to colored.

She was represented by Edwin Harland deputy city solicitor.
