Stadium Nuptials

They'll probably be talking for some time yet about Sister Rosetta Tharpe's public wedding at Griffith Stadium Tuesday night.

Main issue seems to be whether something as sacred as a marriage ceremony is supposed to be should be squeezed commercially for every drop of profit available.

Such criticism as I've heard is not against the promoters of the highly publicized affair or the minister performing the ceremony, but against the principals themselves for permitting the exploitation of what is usually a solemn and private affair.

Consensus seems to be that Sister Tharpe, whose vocal chords have carried her to the heights as a singer of gospel songs, should be able to turn a few more bucks without this added fanfare.

A Bit Old-Fashioned?

Maybe we're a bit old-fashioned, so we find ourselves lined up with those who wish the thing had never been staged. We can't bring ourselves around to this type of spectacle, no matter under whose auspices it is staged.

Some wag said that the addition of fireworks to the program was quite apropos, since the fireworks don't usually begin until after the marriage ceremony.

Nobody seems to have paid too much attention to the bridegroom. In fact, some of the advertising did not even carry his name.

A Necessary Evil?

But that, after all, is also according to tradition. A bridegroom, according to custom, is merely a necessary evil. Guests at weddings frequently don't even know his name or, if they do, know very little about his background.

One thing is certain about Morrison-Tharpe nuptials and that is that unless a divorce or annulment dissolve it before this time next year, there is little prospect that it will become an annual affair.

Or could I be wrong?

Color Causes Riot in Baptist Revival

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (ANP) — Some 6,000 angry white Baptists attend the two-week Criswell revival meeting here last week refused to allow a colored person to sit where he wanted until two white ministers appealed to them to "be good Christians."

Joseph Harris entered the Coliseum where the revival was being sponsored by 65 Baptist churches. He saw vacant seats in the white section and decided to sit in one of them. The ushers asked Harris to move. He refused. Several persons became angry and dragged him from his seat and through the exit. The two white ministers then took Harris to a seat on the speaker's platform.

Young Republicans Rap Republicrats

By FRANK SANTOS

BOSTON—Delegates to the biennial session of the Young Republican National Federation here thumbed their noses at a resolution proposing an "unholy marriage" of the GOP with the Dixiecrats, soundly defeating this proposal of their elders after a torrid floor battle.

At one stage of the torrid debate, Bernard Cull, delegate from Jackson, Miss., termed the resolution calling upon the body to support Sen. Karl Mundt's (R., S.D.) proposal of their elders for a GOP-Dixiecrat coalition "the damnedest, poorest political ever placed before any political party."

While the Mississippian delegate spoke for the resolution, which called upon Republicans to support Mundt's proposal for a coalition of Northern Republicans with what it termed "like-minded" Southern Democrats and for inclusion in the GOP platform a States' rights plank which would not be repugnant to the South," John C. Mundt Jr. fought for it.

Mundt's Nephew Active

Mundt Jr., a New Yorker, nephew of Senator Mundt and chairman of the organization's resolutions committee, made a valiant fight on the floor for adoption of the resolution in full, but he fought a losing battle, the assembly soundly defeating the proposal.

After tossing out the pro-Dixie resolution, the convention adopted instead a resolution pledging its support to the development of "competitive government through a two-party system as the best safeguard of the American way of life."

During the debate, Cull, the Mississippi delegate, had charged that adoption of the Mundt proposal would put an end to "a growing movement in the South to abandon the one-party system," adding that a coalition like that "would provide in the South a one-party system which would never be Republican."

Defeat of the pro-Dixiecrat resolution came despite the support of Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy (R., Wis.), one of the speakers at the convention, who prior to his address came out strongly at a press conference for the proposed coalition of Republicans and anti-Truman Democrats to elect a President next year.

Speaking on a panel discussion of campaign techniques, William E. Stevens of North Carolina, vice chairman of the Dixiecrats' Southern Conference, expressed the view that Southern Republicans are "exuberant" over the prospect of getting Dixiecrat electoral votes for a Republican Presidential candidate in 1952.

Stevens, who said the text of his speech had "been approved before delivery by several colored delegates," suggested that the GOP, as a concession to the Dixiecrats and their views on civil rights legislation, insert a strong States' rights plank in the 1952 platform.

He conceded, however, that there is some question whether "more will be lost in the Northern vote than be gained in the South" by the adoption of such a States' rights plank by the Republicans, a complete surrender of their traditional position and a repudiation of the historic principles of the party.

"The fundamental right to liberty, through which each and every individual, irrespective of race, color or creed is entitled to equal political rights under the law, has been by-passed by the Democratic party some 18 years," Mrs. Ruth Smith, treasurer of the Pennsylvania Federation, told the body Friday.

It is not the desire of minority groups to seek or receive charity or relief," she added, "but to have equal opportunity and the privilege to earn a living.

"The age-old something for nothing policy," exercised by the Democrats among minority groups, is merely a means by which the people are exploited for political purposes.

Council Puts Pastor in Place of Dentist

ROANOKE, Va.—In a surprise move, Monday, the City Council appointed Dr. A. L. James, pastor of the First Baptist Church here, to the School Board to succeed Dr. Harry T. Penn, dentist, the first member of his race to have ever served on the body.

"The only regret I have at leaving at the board," Dr. Penn said at the meeting Tuesday night, the last session he attended as a member," is for the vile, scurrilous campaign that has been used in an attempt to defame my character.

"The two races can work together harmoniously," if we enter into the job in the right frame of mind," he pointed out, adding that he hoped his presence on the board had helped to give the members "an insight into the wishes and needs of other people."

Cultural Tourists Stop in W. Indies

KINGSTON, JAMAICA, BWI — Clubwomen in Jamaica welcomed a group of American women to Kingston last Thursday when seven travellers from the U.S. arrived at the island on a tour of the Caribbean.

The visiting group, sponsored by the Committee on Cultural Relations of Washington, was headed by Mrs. Edmonia Davidson, chairman of the committee.

Members of the Jamaica Women's Liberal Club met the American travellers at Palisadoes airport and the group was then joined by other representatives of the Jamaica Federation of Women.

Talk With Norman Manley

Among the events planned for the visitors were a visit with Lady Foote at King's House and trips to the University College of the West Indies and other cultural centers. The group also had an hour of discussion with Norman Manley, head of the People's National Party in Jamaica.

The group which officially welcomed the Americans at Palisadoes airport included Mesdames M. R. Harrison, Morris Knibb, Vera Deans, and P. A. Aiken.

Call Men Soldiers Not 'GI's' Army Says

Officials of the Defense Department made it clear this week that they do not like the term of "GI" when speaking about Uncle Sam's soldiers.

"A soldier is a soldier and not a 'GI'," said an order that was dispatched to the Army's far flung posts and outposts around the world.
