Man Gets 15 Years in 'Perfect' Crime

commenting that Cecil Joyner "almost got away with" the bedroom slaying of his pretty young wife, Judge Herman Moser sentenced the husband, Thursday, to 15 years in the penitentiary.

The body of 23-year-old Mrs. Constance Joyner, a nurse's aid, lay undiscovered for three days in the room she and Joyner had rented a week before her death last Aug.

Judge Moser pointed out that Joyner might have committed the perfect crime if he had not lacked funds to get out of town immediately.

Friend Tells of Admission

Instead, he tried to borrow money from a friend who turned up at the trial and testified that Joyner admitted shooting his wife before he boarded a bus out of the city.

"Otherwise, she might have lain there for three days, and nobody would have known who did it," Judge Moser said.

Traced to California

Joyner, 27, was picked up in San Francisco on May 10 of this year. He had been living there under an assumed name, but a check of fingerprints brought Baltimore detectives after him.

Other occupants of the house at 1318 N. Mount St. found Mrs. Joyner's body on Aug. 16 when her father came around to inquire about her.

Fully clothed, the body was covered with Army blankets. The last time Mrs. Joyner had been heard from was three days earlier when she telephoned the house and come home after one witness heard Joyner tell her "Come past here first."

Took Her Taxi

A neighbor, Mrs. Anna Holmes of 1322 N. Mount, said she saw a woman drive up to the house in a cab, and that Joyner came out half an hour later, and took the taxi, telling the driver, "She won't be needing it."

Harold L. Anderson, the friend of the 600 block Lafayette Ave., testified, reluctantly, that Joyner met him that night, and told him he had shot his wife.

Anderson added that his friend spent the night with him, and the next day pawned his ring for bus fare.

A gun, identified as the murder weapon, was found under a cushion in a chair in the bedroom.

Described Fight

Through Michael Freedman, his attorney, Joyner held that his wife pulled the pistol, and that it went off during a struggle.

He added that she picked an argument that morning after being out all night and coming home intoxicated.

Judge Moser dated the sentence from the day of the man's arrest on May 10. He told Joyner that if he maintains his prior good record while in prison, he has a chance to make parole in five years.

Two Named Inspectors by State Liquor Board

3 Couples Cut Marital Ties

Wife Charges That Cleric Went AWOL

The Rev. George Wilson went to Virginia to run a revival 12 years ago and is still running at least away from her, Mrs. Ellena Wilson said as she divorced him, this week.

The wife, who lives at 426 N. Carrollton Avenue, told the court of her predicament as she won a decree and the right to resume her maiden name, Ellena Bigbird, Monday.

She said that she thought all was well in her household on a Sunday morning in April, 1939. Her husband arose, packed a bag and said that he was going to Norfolk to run a revival. She said she hasn't seen him since. They had been married two years.

Student Wins Divorce

Rhodelia J. Webb, 1423 Bentalou St., Morgan State College student, divorced Mrs. Gladys M. Webb, this week, after he charged that she deserted him.

The couple, married in 1943, separated in 1949, according to his testimony.

Mr. Webb said that Mrs. Webb told him that she had made a mistake in marrying him and, that she just couldn't live with him any longer. Whereupon she packed up and left.

U. Theodore Hayes was attorney for the husband.

Wife Moved Him Out

Carlos Hutchins, 810 Madison Ave., won a divorce from Mrs. Sara E. Hutchins, who he said deserted him in 1949.

He testified that he came home and found his clothing and belongings removed from their joint bedroom on the second floor to a room on the third floor. He said that when he asked why, Mrs. Hutchins told him that she just didn't want to live with him any longer.

The Hutchinses were married in 1934 and are parents of an 18-year-old daughter.

Clean Block Highlights

From the Manager's Office

By now everybody in these, and surrounding parts knows the Governor and his family visited the Clean Blockers last week. What they don't know is, that His Honor took to his heels across busy McCulloh St. in pursuit of his daughter Clara's dog, who was bent on chasing a horse.

Like any other daddy, he was so provoked at the two of them, he scolded them in the street. The Governor was so fast, Cameraman Charles Percel was unable to focus his camera in time for "the picture" of the morning.

Mrs. Margaret Peay, the grandmother of Ann Holmes, who presented Mrs. McKeldin the corsage has been a Clean Block Advisor for 17 years. A resident of Wilson Park, she usually has from six to eight blocks under her supervision.

Honor Roll Ready

By the time your next highlights come off the press, the first Honor Roll of the campaign will no longer be news. Visit the blocks and send me your comments. Why you think they should or should not be on the Honor Roll?

Walton Carnival

As a means of entertaining their Clean Blockers, the workers in the 400 block of Walton Ct. will stage their second carnival on August 3. All Clean Blockers are invited.

Orchids Department

This office will go bankrupt, if this drain on the orchids department keeps up. This week they go to - Mrs. Margaret Franklin, who rearranged her daily schedule to play for the Clean Block meeting last Friday, and to

Mr. Stanley Beckett of the St. Francis Flower Shop for donating the corsage to Clean Blockers, so that they might honor their First Lady.

Inspectors Honored

Also to Hostesses Elizabeth Toatley, Clara Moore and Louise Bowman of the McCulloh Homes, who put potted plants in the windows and on the piano, to add color to the atmosphere during the Governor's visit.

Flash Police Kill Man at Tavern

Herbert Porter, grandson of Mrs. Elizabeth Porter of 748½ W. Saratoga St., is the latest victim of a police shooting. The youth was 23.

According to a report filed by Sgt. William B. Clayton, who is under suspension for the fatal shooting, Porter had broken into a tavern at 2006 Harlem Ave., and when he (the officer) spied him through the front plate glass window, Porter threw a bottle at him, breaking the window.

The officer stated that he fell back and Porter came through the glass toward him with an object in his hand and just as Porter was about to strike him, he pulled his gun and fired.

DOA at Provident

Sergeant Clayton adde d that a large wrecking iron was found near Porter who, he said, struck his head on the marble vestibule front of the tavern as he fell.

The officer added that he, Patrolman Norman Kelly and Patrolman John Uhler received a radio call at 3:19 a.m., Friday that three men were breaking into the tavern, and they went to the scene. Patrolman Kelly went to the side of the building to investigate; Uhler to the rear and Clayton to the front where the shooting occurred.
