AME Church Scores S. C.

NEW YORK. — Taking the "irrevocable stand that enforced racial segregation is immoral and contrary to God's law," the AME Church has rejected proposals to take over State schools in South Carolina, Bishop D Ward Nichols this week informed the NAACP.

The official rejection on behalf of the entire AME Church of a proposal by Gov. James M. Byrnes that the church take over colored schools in that State was made by Bishop Nichols, writing as chairman of the AME connectional commission on general public relations and social welfare.

In a letter to Walter White, NAACP executive secretary, he backed up on behalf of the church the rejection by Bishop Frank M. Reid of South Carolina overtures made by State officials there for the church to buy or lease colored schools in the event of a U.S. Supreme Court decision abolishing segregation in public education.

"Stand Ready to Assist"

"I can assure you," Bishop Nichols wrote, "that my beloved colleague . . . Bishop Reid, speaks for the entire church when he rejects any compromise on the issue of segregation in public schools.

"We will never permit our educational institutions to be used in any attempt to circumvent or resist the inevitable march of progress and democracy."

The bishop, himself a native of South Carolina, praised the "splendid work the NAACP and its legal staff are doing in the field of civil rights" and assured Mr. White that "We stand ready to assist in what-ever way we can."

Downtown Hit by State Budget Battle

DOWNTOWN, Pa.—Like all other institutions receiving State appropriations, Downingtown Industrial School is in a financial squeeze as the result of the disagreement between Gov. John S. Fine and a faction of the State Senate over the Governor's tax program.

Pennsylvania's fiscal year began on June 1. Ordinarily the legislature has ended its biennial session well before that date and appropriation-bills have been submitted to the Governor for his approval, but in a record-breaking session, the 1951 legislature is deadlocked over the Senate's refusal to enact a State income tax bill.
