Grand Jury Room 102 Hits Twice

enthusiast, realtor and personal friend to Joe Louis, said he was at his country place when the probe opened here.

Asked why he was being called before the jury, Mr. Adams laughed, "This thing is happening so often that it's no longer amusing."

Mrs. Adams, her petite figure garbed in a low - neckline, sleeveless, gold and black dress, set off with black accessories, waited in the air conditioned offices of Attorney Rogan who telephoned her in time to go before the jury.

She wore high heeled black shoes, flesh - colored hose and a velveteen hat that was perched forward on her head. Her gloves and bag were black.

Called Right Away

Although others had been waiting two days, the Adamses were called shortly after they entered the courthouse.

Under the Declaration of Rights, a person cannot be made to testify against himself.

If he waives these rights, anything he says can be used against him. The State has the right, if a person refuses to sign a waiver, to make him a compellable witness by offering him immunity from prosecution.

Speculation was, however, that the Adamses were not offered immunity.

Mrs. Butler Ill

Absent from the hearings has been Mrs. Beatrice Butler, school teacher wife of Detective Butler, who said she is ill in New Hampshire.

The summoning of Mrs. Butler for husband and Detective Lloyd Johnson came as a surprise to observers.

Said Sgt. Butler before he entered the jury room, "I won't know what it's all about until I get in there." He has been on the force some 12 years, and Detective Johnson for eight. Together they have cracked some of the city's biggest cases.

"I can stand any investigation of any kind. It's the smear I don't like," declared Detective Johnson who is nicknamed "The Fat Man."

Hard to Fight Lies

He said "Once you raise a doubt in people's minds by connecting them with something like this, it's hard to remove it. You can always prove the truth. It's hard to answer lies."

Detective Johnson was in with the jury only 25 minutes, Thursday. He was the first to be called that day. Sgt. Butler was the last to be called the day before.

Gatewood Nonchalant

Askew Gatewood, night club operator, shrugged his shoulders, and made a make-believe swing at an imaginary golf ball as he stood in the courthouse corridors, and said, "Indeed I don't know" why he was called before the jury. He was among those who waited for two days without being called in to testify.

So was Austin Scarlett, heavy-set country club operator, who said "I'll be doggoned if I know what's going on!"

Hotchins Gets Disgusted

Mr. Hutchins, who was the last witness called Thursday, displayed disgust Wednesday after he had been cooped up in a small room with other witnesses for three hours waiting to testify.

He said, "All because some politician wants to get his name in the paper, and get another vote!"

When he finally came out of the jury room the next day, Mr. Hutchins was mopping his face with his handkerchief.

"Whew!" declared Mrs. Louise Taylor, who lived at the North Ave. raided address, when the jury was through with her.

"The Nervous Type"

She declared, "My heart's in my stomach. I'm the nervous type, and this sort of thing upsets me. I certainly hope they're through now!"

Her husband, Henry Taylor, was non-commital after his 20 minutes of questioning. Mrs. Taylor said, "I think it's a shame to make poor people lose a day's work. I'm no numbers writer. I work everyday."

Clyde Martin, another of the defendants in the 1948 case, was the third witness called, and stayed in the jury room for half an hour.

Taught Joe Louis Golf

He said of the summons, "When I got this thing, I said 'they don't want me. I'm a little guy. They want the big fellows.'" A golf pro, Mr. Martin once traveled as Joe Louis's golf instructor.

Those who testified before Mr. Martin were Frank Reddish of 2006 Division St., and Rudolph Fortune, of 2325 W. North Ave., both of whom were among the raid defendants.

Joseph Quille, another raid victim and the father-in-law of Mr. Adams, brought along his auburn-haired, comely wife on the second day of the probe.

Wears Dark Glasses

Sporting dark glasses, she wore a light summer suit with a small green chiffon scarf tied about her throat, and sat beside her husband as he waited to be called. He was told to return today.

Other raid defendants summoned are Henry Baker, operator of a Pennsylvania Ave. men's shop; Howard Anderson, Mrs. Edmonia Wilson and Thomas Wilson, all of 2006 N. North Ave.; Noland Clarke, 2431 Madison Ave.;

Mrs. Pearl Benton of 2008 W. North Ave. (who was freed in the numbers case); John Payne, 1819 E. Eager St.; Morris Fox, white, 2700 Sulvan Ave.; and Charles Dotson of 2330 Madison Ave.

David Freedman, said to be the owner of the raided property, was summoned, but the State's attorney's office was informed that he is ill Robert Dunmore, an auditor, of the 1000 block W. Lafayette Ave., has been summoned too.

Captain Alexander Emerson, who made the North Ave. raid, stayed in the jury room for half an hour. An officer who worked with him at the time, Officer Hubert Hogan, went in behind the captain.

Jury Gets Warm

The jury sent out for cokes and sodas after the first two hours of its session Wednesday when the witnesses were made to wait in an ante room. There a bailiff placed an electric fan and pitcher of ice water for them.

On the second day, the witnesses were allowed to sit in the corridor on benches outside of the jury room.

J. Harold Grady, assistant State's attorney, is working with Mr. Sodaro during the investigation.

Colored members of the grand jury are Dr. James White, dentist, and Mrs. Berkley Butler, physician wife.

When it was noted late Thursday, that new witnesses being summoned included a colored attorney. One person recalled that Paul Mules, white lawyer who died this week, defended a great many gambling defendants in court.

"But," the person added, "they can't call HIM now."

'Little Willie' Adams's Home and Interests

This handsome homestead at 3103 Carlisle Ave. is the home of Mr. and Mrs. William (Little Willie) Adams who were summoned this week to appear before the Baltimore city grand jury in its investigation of gambling activities. The business establishments are the Charm Centre, women's apparel shop at 1811 Pennsylvania Ave., and the Club Casino at 1517 Pennsylvania Ave., in which Mrs. Victorine Adams has business interests. Mr. Adam's real estate office is next door to the Casino.

Three Held On Lottery Charges

After Capt. Alexander Emerson staged a raid on a Caroline St. house this week, two men and a woman were held on lottery charges.

Alexander Flourney, 1200 block E. Eager St., was visiting William Traynham, 54, and his wife Mrs. Gladys Traynham, 1000 block N. Caroline St., when Capt. Emerson appeared with a search warrant.

A search of the house revealed lottery tapes, reported the vice squad head, and more lottery tapes were fished out of a toilet bowl.

Magistrate Samuel Gaboff held the defendants in $2,500 bail each for action of the Grand Jury.

Matron Freed in Killing; Other Tenant Is Accused

Charges against a Laurens St. matron who told police she shot and killed a man who broke into her home, Sunday, were dismissed this week and another man, also an occupant of the house, was charged with the shooting.

After a thorough investigation of the incident, Northwestern district police accused James E. Reed, 31, of 1412 Laurens St. of fatally shooting Leroy R. Woodland, one of three men who forced their way into the Laurens St. home.

At a preliminary hearing in Central Police Court, Wednesday, Reed was held without bail pending grand jury action.

Forced Way In

Testimony at the hearing revealed that Woodland, his brother, Theodore Woodland, 17, and Randolph Holmes, 23, forced their way into the Laurens St. house Sunday and began beating the matron, Mrs. Lottie Harrison, and her daughter, Evelyn.

The men used a pistol and a black jack in administering the beatings, testimony disclosed. Leroy Woodland was shot during the fight and pronounced dead when taken to Provident Hospital.

Northwestern district police said Mrs. Harrison at first confessed to the shooting to "shield" Reed, a steel worker, who lives in the Laurens St. house. Investigation however, revealed that Reed fired the rifle.

Meanwhile, young Woodland, a bootblack, was held in $1500 bail for breaking into the house; $500 bail for attempting to cut Evelyn Harrison, and $500 bail for striking Evelyn, following a preliminary hearing, Thursday, in Northwestern police court.

State's Witness Held

Holmes was held for grand jury action in $1500 bail for illegally entering the house; and $500 bail for striking Lottie Harrison.

Oscar Carroll, 26, of the 1400 block School St., was ordered held in $100 bail as a State's witness in the case.

The investigation was handled by Sgt. John Griffith, Sgt. Frank Baccala and Patrolman George P. Hasson of the Northwestern district.

Miss Lane Wed to K. Mangum

RALEIGH, N.C.—The wedding of Miss Iris B. Lane, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. James K. Lane of this city, and Kenneth D. Mangum, son of Mr. and Mrs. John W. Mangum of Franklinton, N.C., took place recently at the bride's home.

A double ring ceremony was performed by Rev. Ollie H. Broadie of Franklinton.

A program of nuptial music was presented by Mrs. Geneva Brown of this city, organist, and Mrs. Frances Selby of Greensboro, soloist.

Brother Officiates

The bride was given in marriage by her brother Bartell Lane. She wore a gown of Chantilly lace over slipper satin. Her double-tiered finger tip veil of French illusion fell from a cap of matching lace with coronet of illusion. She carried a white satin prayer book topped with a white purple throated orchid and sprays of stephanotis and orchids.

The maid of honor and only attendant was Miss Eliza Lane, sister of the bride wore a pale pink dress of organdy over taffeta, and a picture hat. She carried a bouquet of peach colored chrysanthemums, pink roses and asters with a green lace mysteriusette bow.

Mr. Bussie Best Man

The best man was G. J. Bussie of Franklinton, N.C. Ushers were George Lane, Walter Lane, Pascal Williams and Jasque Hinton.

Immediately following the ceremony the bride's sisters entertained with a reception.

New Product Yogurt Has Tangy, Sour Flavor

In recent months you've been seeing a good deal of that "new" product called yogurt in dairy and grocery stores. It is a relatively new to most people here, this cultured milk product was originated in the Balkan States and has long been popular in Western Europe.

Many people enjoy its tangy, sour flavor. And according to Mrs. Natalie Russell, nutrition specialist of the University of Maryland Extension Service, yogurt is particularly good in combination with strawberry or raspberry preserves

HAPPY FAMILY
Their future dancer and athlete are growing up on Pet Milk

The Pet Milk Photographer Visits the Wilbur Brandon Hughes II Family of Detroit, Michigan
Every Saturday four-year-old Barbara Hughes goes merrily off for ballet lessons, already knows what she wants to be when she grows up—a ballerina. Brother Wilbur III, a year younger, gives promise of growing into a fine athlete. Mother Roberta, X-ray technician for Detroit Board of Health, and father, Wilbur II, owner of Hughes Realty Co. and president of Capital Modernizing Co., are proud of their talented, healthy pair, glad that they chose Pet Milk for both their babies.
For pretty little Barbara and sturdy Wilbur III have thrived on Pet Milk ever since birth, still drink Pet Milk. The whole family enjoys its rich flavor in desserts, sauces, main dishes. And they save money, for Pet Evaporated Milk costs less generally than any other form of whole milk.
Just Like Daddy—Wilbur II's favorite pastime is taking the family for drives in his new Chrysler. Wilbur III is also to take sister Barbara for rides, too. "Not so fast!" says passenger.
Just Like Mother—Children's favorite indoor sport is listening to rhymes and stories read by mother, who also loves reading. Family now lives in attractive apartment, is buying home on Virginia Park.
Early Start—Barbara and Wilbur have both attended Peter Pan Nursery School for more than a year, are very popular with other children. Favorite breakfast, school day or any day: Pet Milk for drinking, cereal with Pet Milk.
