Pythians May Drop Color Bar

SARATOGA SPRINGS, N.Y. — (Special to the Afro-American) — The $1,000 members of the New York State Lodge of the Knights of Pythias will vote on whether or not they want to sever connections with the national Supreme Lodge over the color issue.

The parent body has rejected the New York proposal that the "white only membership restriction be removed from the Pythian by-laws. The referendum will be of an advisory nature.

A resolution adopted Friday at the eighty-third annual state convention said further that the New York lodge will ask the State Legislature to outlaw the color line in all fraternal organizations.

The resolution was drafted by Nicholas Atlas, of New York City, chairman of the Grand Lodge Civil Rights Committee, and twelve other Lodges at Odds

The state and national bodies, Knights of Pythias, have been at odds over efforts of the New York Grand Lodge to have the color line eliminated from membership qualifications.

The New York Grand Lodge decided by voice vote at the close of the day to rescind the action it took last year withholding per-capita dues from the Supreme Lodge because of the latter's refusal to remove the membership color bar.

Earl N. Gemberger, of Montana, Supreme Chancellor, who was accompanied here by Sheldon R. Roper, of North Carolina, Supreme Vice Chancellor, and Mel M. Even, of Minnesota, Supreme Secretary, in an interview last Thursday declined to discuss either the merits or demerits of the New York Grand Lodge's proposal on membership.

He said the Supreme Lodge, composed of fifty-six grand lodges and 3,300 local lodges, had existed since 1864 as a "highly selective" fraternal order with "certain membership qualifications."

During the convention, all delegates received copies of a brochure containing letters from United States Senator Herbert H. Lehman, Judge Jonah Goldstein of General Sessions Court; Borough President Hugo E. Rogers of Manhattan, Nathan S. Sachs, New York merchant; Abe Stark, Brooklyn civic leader, and others. All as members of the order, condemned the "white male" membership qualification as un-American and bigoty.

Senator Lehman's letter, which was addressed to Dr. Ephraim Cross, professor of Romance languages at City College, New York, expressed hope that the New York Grand Lodge would hold firm in its fight "to eliminate the un-American and distinctly undemocratic line-provision from the lodge application blanks."

Mr. Atlas, who served as an assistant district attorney when Governor Thomas E. Dewey was district attorney of New York, and as an assistant United States attorney under the late George Medalie, said several influential members of the legislature have volunteered to handle the proposed legislation which would be introduced as a bi-partisan measure at the next session in Albany.

At the Supreme Lodge convention held in Grand Rapids, Michigan, last August, the representatives of the New York Grand Lodge pressed for the passage of a resolution to have the word "white" eliminated from lodge membership applications. The resolution was defeated. Implying that the defeat was attributable to the opposition of delegates from Southern and other white-supremacy States, Mr. Atlas explained, that "the difference in the vote was much the same as in the vote in Congress on FEPC and we despair of ever overcoming that block in our national body."

Interracial Romance Blamed in Slaying of Mother, 2 Sons

Va. Farmer Takes Own Life After Rampage with Shotgun; Small Town Gossip Flares

WARSAW, Va.—Did love for a white mother he could not have for himself motivate the shotgun slaying of the woman and two of her children, Friday, by a 26-year-old tenant farmer who ended his own life after the triple killings?

It is whispered in this small community that "for quite a spell" the talk of the town has been the affair between Moses Gordon and Mrs. Elizabeth Webb.

At about 3 p.m., Friday, Gordon who worked a tomato patch on the Webb farm, appeared at the farmhouse and with four blasts from a 12-gauge single-barreled shotgun, killed the 33-year-old woman, her two sons, and wounded a third child. Mr. Webb was in Richmond selling strawberries.

Shotgun in hand, Gordon then walked a mile and a quarter to his own home, where his mother quoted him as saying: "I have just killed some people and I might as well kill myself." Mrs. Gordon said that her son did not say who his victims were.

"Son, don't kill yourself up here by the house," were the final words of the mother.

Chase the Carrieield

under the hot August sun, as the son she had given birth to just six months after coming to the farm some 26 years ago, walked away to kill himself.

Eleven-year-old Lloyd Brown who works for the Gordons, stood wide-eyed, as Moses walked to the edge of the cornfield, placed the stock of the gun on the ground, bent over and fired a deadly charge into his chest, and then lay down to die slowly. Hours later, the Gordons picked their supper's corn from that same field.

For more than two hours, as his life ebbed away, Moses Gordon stared beyond the tall trees, beyond which was the Webb farm, beyond the hopeless pattern which led to murder and suicide had been performed. About 8 p.m., he died in St. Philip Hospital, Richmond.

All Knew of Affair

A strange silence fell over the little town following the triple slaying. People continued their work in the fields, an old man puffed on a corncob pipe; but no one was anxious to talk about the colored man who had slain the white woman and her sons.

Colored residents grunted answers to questions shot at them by AFRO reporters. The few questions that were answered, however, all added up to the same thing: "There was something between Moses and Mrs. Webb."

Shot Down Him Back

A relative of Gordon remembered that once the slayer had left Warsaw for a short time, working on a project in Arlington, but had returned upon the "urgings" of Mrs. Webb.

According to the relative, when the white teacher is paid $326 more than the average colored teacher.

Separate Schools Marred Harmony

The record in this case demonstrates that the jim-crow school harms the pupil to such an extent that it cannot be repaired.

In some cases of race segregation, the citizen can exercise his own will as to whether he will, for example, go into a theatre or stay at home. But in the public schools he has little freedom of choice.

He is forced by the compulsory school attendance laws to go to a jim-row school. And he hasn't the money to go to private schools.

Truman Against It

President Truman's Commission on Higher Education was quoted as saying, "The time has come to make public education at all levels equally accessible to all, without regard to race, creed, color or national origin."

NAACP lawyers pointed out that the South Carolina law, setting aside schools on the basis of race, violates the Federal Constitution.

No Harmful Effects

"For many years residents in the South have sought educational facilities equal to those offered citizens. Blind adherence to the separate but equal doctrine has produced increasing inequality within a segregated system.

Great progress has been made in graduate and professional education during the year since the Sweatt and McLaurin decisions.

None of the harmful effects predicted in the brief filed in these cases by the attorneys general of 10 Southern States has materialized.

"In the decision in this case, as in the McLaurin case, plaintiffs' individual rights have been lost in the racial group classification required by the laws of South Carolina.

Expert witnesses testified as to the harmful effects of this enforced racial segregation, i.e., the resulting injury is even more effective and harmful than in graduate education.

"The questions here involved are substantial and important to the interest of public education, today and in the future, to the individual's right to complete equality before the law, and to our government."

Army to Retire Colors of 24th

The 24th Infantry Regiment, which the Army is deactivating as a step toward complete racial integration of all combat and service units in the Far East Command, is to be redesignated the 14th Infantry Regiment.

The 14th, now at Camp Carson, Col., will in turn become the 11th Armored Cavalry Regiment. Colors and insignia of the 14th will be sent to Korea to be conferred upon the personnel of the 24th Regiment.

Although most of the racial integration in the Army was accomplished without disturbing unit designations, the 24th Regiment fell in a special category, the Army said.

The reason was that the 24th was organized in 1869 as an all-colored outfit and has so served ever since. Since its history as an all-colored regiment is so firmly fixed in the public mind, it was decided that a new designation was more appropriate for a racially mixed unit. Colors of the 24th Regiment will be retired.

Will Fatten Purse

Walcoff's visit is one of many he will make on an eye-tight-city personal appearance tour. The tour was planned with the idea of permitting the champion to fatten the pot of gold that the heavyweight usually carries with it. Boxing leaders feel also that, by playing up Jersey Joe's religious background, the promoters have somewhat gentle need new friends.

Main purpose of the tour, undoubtedly, is to help fatten the bank account that Walcoff, once on the ropes, has left to acquire for his wife and six children, Jersey Joe is expected to tell how his faith in God helped him to win the crown and devoted prize, after four unsuccessful tries.

COLUMBUS, Miss. (ANP)—Jack Giles, 51-year-old white man, has been charged with the murder of Thomas Porter, whom he shot down in cold blood on Monday at some small change. Slides were rendered to Deputy Sheriff Dorothy Woodpitt Monday and the homicide charge followed.

Youth Leader Held as Draft Dodger

NEW ORLEANS (ANP) — Posted bail of $1,000 cash by the New York friends last Wednesday enabled 21-year-old Roosevelt Ward Jr., to be released from federal custody on bail. He is charged with draft evasion, but has declared that he is ready for induction.

Ward, New York administrative secretary of the Labor Youth League and a member of the organization's National Council, was arrested May 31, in New York on a letter failed, Gordon received a telephone call which brought him back.

Keep If From Papers

A prominent white citizen said: "Yes, it was known that there was something between them, but I wouldn't want that in the newspapers."

The white resident said that prior to the killings, Gordon had been considered a "good boy."

"His father," the white man stated, "is a capital d—r." (This is thought to mean that the father is considered a "good Negro.")

Beat Her with Stick

The triple slayings and suicide climaxed a two-year series of court action brought against Gordon by the Webbs, numbering some 11 charges.

It began on Oct. 31, 1949, when Gordon was charged with assaulting Mrs. Webb with a stick, threatening the Webbs with a shotgun; refusing to leave the Webb premises when ordered to do so; and behaving in a riotous and disorderly manner in a public place (the Webbs formerly operated a store).

Gordon reportedly disappeared after the warrants were served and did not return until November 1950, when they were served.

Husband Dropped Charges

However, in February of 1951, according to sources, Mr. Webb appeared before the Trial Justice of Richmond County and signed an acknowledgement of satisfaction and the charges were dismissed.

This action is said to have taken place after Gordon returned from Arlington on the "urgings" of the woman.

Threatened to Kill Husband

On April 9, Mr. Webb again charged Gordon with being disorderly in the store and with threatening to kill him in his place of business or if he caught him going to and from home. (The Webb farm is located on a dirt road, a half mile from the store on Route Three).

Three days later, additional charges were placed against Gordon. He was charged with being a disorderly manner in the store and threatening, using threatening language, and failing to stay off the premises after being ordered to do so.

Again, Mr. Webb appeared before the court, acknowledged satisfaction, and the charges were dismissed.

Pushed Her on Floor

On May 26, Gordon was accused of assaulting Mrs. Webb by grabbing her arm and pushing her down on the floor.

At his trial on July 24, Gordon was fined $25 and given a 60-day suspended jail sentence, with the understanding that he would work his crops on the Webb farm, but that he was to stay away from the farmhouse.

Two weeks later, shotgun in hand, Moses Gordon came to the farmhouse, one-story frame dwelling. When he left, Mrs. Webb lay dead in the hall of the house. Close by were the bodies of Grover Webb, 3rd, age 7, and his brother, William, 4.

Shirley Ann Webb, 9, who raced for safety suffered a gunshot wound of the shoulder. The wounded child, Margaret, was unharmed.

Sheriff Ike B. Hall of Richmond County, could only shake his head when
