More Nurses Still Needed for Army Duty

WASHINGTON

Efforts to have 3,000 additional nurses enter the Army for active military service would not be affected should hostilities end in Korea, Major Eileen E. Donnelly, First Army nurse procurement officer in Newark said this week.

"We still do not have enough nurses to staff our Army hospitals" Major Donnelly stated in explaining the continuing procurement program.

Overseas Duty

"Army nurses are needed in hospitals in the United States, the Far East and other overseas areas as well.

The special effort to recruit nurses was started last January by the Army in co-operation with the American Nurses Association.

A-Voyaging with The Jacksons

(EDITOR'S NOTE: Mrs. Juanita Jackson Mitchell, Baltimore attorney, en route to Europe, tells the day-by-day-story of the trip she is making with her mother, Mrs. Lillie M. Jackson, president of the Baltimore Branch of the NAACP. This is the first installment of a series of the travelogues to come in subsequent editions of Your Favorite Newspaper.)

TUESDAY

We have ridden out of the storm. The ocean is calm again. What a beautiful day!

We soaked up the wonderful sun in our deck chairs. People are so nice. The Levys from Brooklyn on their second trip abroad show us how to operate the precious movie camera which Pops only decided to let us bring the day I left.

There is the Presbyterian missionary, Grace Nyce from Jenkintown, Pa., in her early thirties, going back to India for six years of service in the Punjab area.

Extremely interesting is the African businessman, A. A. Akrofi Acrra, Gold Coast, British West Africa, a timber dealer. He is returning from four months in America. He has signed up two white saw mill operators in Chattanooga, Tenn., to come to the Gold Coast and set up a saw mill with the machinery he also purchased here. They will teach the Africans to operate the saw mills.

He operates the Victory Timber Company, with offices in London and Acera. He employs a staff of 900 officials and laborers. He sends down in trucks to the forests 90 miles away from Acera, loads the mahogany wood and ships 500 tons a month.

He says there are only four African operated saw mills on the Gold Coast. His will make the fifth and most modern. There are thirty operated by the British.

Akrof is proud of the successful efforts for dominion status in British West Africa. They have one half dominion status, with their own native prime minister elected by the natives, Kwame Nkrumah, who was recently feted by the State Department on his first visit to America. The Governor General is British appointed by England. "But," says he, "full dominion status is on its way."

Surprisingly, he tells me white and colored children go to school together on the Gold Coast with mixed faculties. Not so on Baltimore! The Africans are ahead of us.

But Akrof doesn't think much of colored Americans. He is puzzled that we have all the colored workers in American sawmills in the South, he couldn't find one colored operator. "Colored Americans don't care about discrimination," he adds. "I had never heard of the NAACP."

He became Mama's pupil for the next hour. His eyes glowed as we left him with a new appreciation of some colored Americans who did care about our second class status. We will give him our first full membership in the Baltimore NAACP campaign beginning September 15th.

Dr. and Mrs. David Jones of Greensboro, N.C. (he is president of Bennett College), and Dr. and Mrs. M. S. Davage of Nashville, Tenn. (he is with the Board of Education of the Methodist Church) are the other two colored passengers on board. They are on their way to the Ecumenical Conference of the Methodist Church to be held in Oxford, England, August 28 to September 7.

WEDNESDAY

Off last day on board ship. The English have such wonderful manners. Such genuine courtesy has been ours.

There are East Indians on board on their way back to India. One has spent the last 2½ years at the University of California in Los Angeles, learning merchandising and management on a scholarship from the Indian Government. The other has done graduate work in medicine and will go back to practice medicine in Burma. A wealthy import and export merchant, with his beautiful wife (who wears a different sari to each meal) make quite a picture as they stroll the decks.

The Methodists are aboard in large tour groups. The majority are from the deep South. They are very cordial and warm. The accents are most familiar including ones from Florida, Georgia, Alabama and Tennessee.

In one of the meetings where every one was introducing himself in turn, a minister from the West ended his introduction with the words and a laugh, "I am going to Oxford to see that America is not misrepresented by the deep South." Whereupon, the majority broke as one man into the song—"Oh, I wish I was in Dixie . . ."

There was much ribbing in good fellowship.

Small world it is. On board is Dr. A. Heintzman, minister at the University Methodist Church in Austin, Texas, who was chairman of the Board of Directors at Samuel Houston College, when my brother-in-law, the late Karl Downs, was president. He had prayer with Karl for forty minutes in the hospital that last afternoon before the morning of that fatal operation.

Karl's memory lingers on with these southern Methodists. They plan a reunion with Marion (his widow) in Paris.

At 8:30 a.m. tomorrow morning, we arrive in the harbor of Cherbourg, France. We will be taken off the ship, placed in a tender, a small boat, and to shore. There we will board a train for a 4½ hour ride to Paris. Marion and Karleen (sister and niece) will meet us at the station in Paris.

It must have been in God's plan that we make this trip. How else can we explain it? We didn't decide until three weeks before sailing ful concrts and bookings for date. Marion wrote of her success in Sweden in September, Germany in October, a return engagement for Pirelli, Italy's Firestone, in Milan in November.

She was staying on another six months. At the same time, my Clarence announced that he could not take a vacation with the family this summer. Congress had voted to remain in session and much of his legislative work remained to be done.

That is when we decided. Everyone advised too late for reservations—need 90 days; for passports—one month. Now I know that nothing is impossible, if it be God's will. Three travel bureaus in New York City whom I called said "too late." The fourth one booked us. The passports were secured in ten days.

No, nothing is impossible, if it be God's will!
