On the Limb

By GEORGE LYLE JR.

PHILADELPHIA — (NNPA) — My nomination for the best left-handed man of the year goes to Larry Doby of the Cleveland Indians. Hard upon his recovery from a groin injury he turned his ankle in the game with the Browns on Sunday and is apt to be laid up for a few days in this crucial period in the baseball world.

And, the award for comebacks should go to Old Satch for his masterful relief job over the Tribe the other day.

Meanwhile young Willie Mays continues on his merry way, slamming extra base hooks and making impossible catches in addition to being the center of controversy as to who pulled a rock in not signing him.

Last week the story made the rounds that the Yankees had failed to sign him and now we hear that the Braves passed him up, too.

'DIDN'T DO IT'—MAUGHN

Bill Maughn, who now works for the Giants, denies emphatically that he was enthusiled when, in 1951, he was working for the Boston Braves.

Maughn says that he was the first to discover Willie but was prevented from signing him. His story is that he was told that he'd have to deal with Tom Hayes, the owner of the Birmingham Black Barons and the deal offered him by Hayes was not to his liking.

Hayes, says the Giants Scout, wanted $15,000 for Mays's contract; half of it to be paid then and the balance later. He wanted Mays to finish out the season with the Barons and report to the Braves in the Spring. Maughn couldn't see this, figuring that over the winter anything could happen.

GARNER GARNERS PRIZE

Horace Garner, 26-year - oldster who plays with the Eau Claire of the Northern League copped the Rookie of the Year award. He's an outfielder and received a total of 31 votes, 25 of them being first place votes.

The runner-up was Dick Newberry, Duluth second baseman.

Meanwhile Percy Miller, the first colored player to play in the Carolina League (Danville) failed to make the trip to Durham last week. He remained at home to sharpen up his batting eye.

And Satchel Paige has gotten back into the groove again. He missed the train when the Browns left Detroit. He managed to get to Dayon in time for the game there, however.

GIL-IKE READY

Gil Turner, who is working out at Pleasantville is prepping for the most important bout of his career. In meeting Ike Williams, here on September 10, Gil will have his hardest hurdle - cross.

Ike, while he has not shown to an advantage against the welters whom his manager has lined up for him — following his disastrous meeting with 'Sugar' Costner, still packs a potent punch. That, plus experience, has the Turner adversary a little nervy but they are riding the Turner bandwagon come what may.

Meanwhile Ike has shifted his training quarters up to Summit, N.J. and reports coming from that end of the state indicate that he is seriously undergoing his preparations for this fight which can make or break him.

On the other fight front, Randy Turpin, dethroner of Sugar Robinson, got dumped on the canvas in a training session with California lightheavyweight, Bert Lytell. I don't know what the result of that will mean to Lytell, but I have known of sparmates who have lost their jobs for getting gay with the champion.

Big Roles on Bisons' Team for Freshmen and Reserves

WASHINGTON

Seldom are freshmen and substitutes reserves the recipe for a successful football season, but Howard University Coach Eddie Jackson, shorthanded in returning lettermen, is hoping for a fair showing anyway.

With less than 30 grid aspirants, including five lettermen, showing up for his initial cutting on Saturday, Jackson expressed satisfaction in the small group. He expected a small turnout, but anticipated the number to swell to 50 this week end.

Newcomers Super

From all indications, new faces will make up the Bisons' squad. In pre-scrimmage drills mass anything, then the reserves will be hard pushed for starting berths with several super-bear-cats freshmen around.

Up until Thursday, Sept. 6, Jackson sent his squad through fundamentals in blocking, tackling, passing, spiraling downfield, punt returning and kicking. Heavy scrimmages likely will be in order Saturday to decide who's who among candidates for the 11 starting berths.

Lettermen Back

Among lettermen making an early return were John Carter, 225, tackle from Catskill, N.Y.; Carl Westry, 165, halfback from Newark, N.J.; Gil Benson, 170, halfback from Paterson, N.J.; Sammy Boston, 165, halfback from Ansonia, Conn., and Edward (Skippy) Neverson, 180, D.C. halfback.

Others from last year's squad out on the first day were:

Andy Chambers, 165, halfback; William Needham, 190, guard; Clarence Pendleton, 170, center; Bruno Carroll, 250, tackle, all of D.C.; Milton Penny, 175, Halfback from Berwyn, Md., and Aaron Davis, 170, 5 foot, 7 inch back from Monongahela, Pa.

Cook Shows Promise

Show stealers this fall promise to be several faces from the array of newcomers. Among these is Robert Cook, 170, a promising passer from Clairton, Pa.

Cook, who is 5 feet, 11 inches tall, was discovered on the Bisons' intramural squad last fall when he passed and ran the sophomores to the interclass title.

A chemistry major, the 20-year-old Cook is a right hander, but while lacking the finesse and color of most passers, got off some accurate tosses in drills this week.

Scrappy Tackles

Where they are weakest this fall, in the line, the Bisons have fallen heir to some scrappy newcomers.

Among them are Charles Kizard, a 6-foot 1-inch, 220-pound tackle, and John Johnson, 6-foot 4-inch, 185-pound tackle who may be shifted to an end spot on defense. Both are ex-Cardons, incidents.

Johnson was chosen unanimously on three All-High teams last year for his fierce defensive work against D.C. and Baltimore schools.

Other newcomers gaining attention are Harold Mason, 6-foot 2-inch, 205-pounder from Philadelphia; William Jacques, 6-foot 2-inch, 175-pounder from Columbia, S.C.; Robert Fulton, 6-foot 2-inch, 210-pound tackle from Baltimore; Carl Phillips, 6-foot 3-inch, 185-pound end from Newark, N.J.;

Steals From Baltimore

Jim Steale, 6-foot 1-inch, 165-pounder from Baltimore; Milton Harris, 5-foot 8-inch, 190-pound lineman from D.C., and backs, Don Curly, 5-foot 8-inch, 195 pounder from Des Moines, Ia.;

Herman Flora, 5-foot, 8-inch, 165 pounder from Norfolk, Va.; William Lemmon, 165, D.C.; Bert Berry, 5foot, 8-inch, 165-pound back from Newark, N.J.; Robert Robinson, 170, D.C.; and Robert Pessell, 135-pound back from Stanton, Va., and John Daniels, 195, D.C.

Of the group, Berry and Curly may be crowd pleasers this fall. However, neither showed too much in drills this week, apparently declining to open up until the real scrimmage which will count.

Carley Reserve Player

Curley, a reserve player, converted in the same backfield with Johnny Bright of Drake University in 1948 when both were freshmen. Dropping out of school altogether in 1949, he entered Howard in 1950 to major in accounting.

Berry, who looked impressive in spurts, may be a dark horse in the Bisons' lineup. A transferee from Winston-Salem Teachers College, he appears to know what to do at the right time.

The Bisons have lost a good reserve quarterback in Al Julian, 170, a slick ball handler from Bayonne, N.J. Julian is passing up football to keep his job in the Commerce Department. He has not received any scholarship aid, so he is working evenings and attending classes in the day.

Howard opens on Sept. 22 against Bluefield State Teachers on the Bisons' field. Last year, the Big Blues upended Howard, 19-12.

Ike, Gil Go to Camps, Taper-off in Training

PHILADELPHIA

Ike Williams and Gil Turner changed training sites last week preparatory to their Sept. 10 fight here at Shibe Park.

Williams, accompanied by five sparring partners, moved into Madam Bey's camp at Summit, N.J., and Turner with a smaller retinue into Miss Leonl Byrd's at Pleasantville, N.J.

Listed as helpers to aid Williams work himself into the pink are lightweight George Justice; welterweights Charley Parker, Calvin Davis and Al Mouson; and middleweight Herman McCray.

McCray at Tepp's

Featherweight Cortez Peters and welterweights Jetson Arnold, Billy Washington and Jesse Gathers are the shock absorbers allotted to Turner.

Herman McCray will be killing two birds with one shot in the form of pay in the workouts with Williams while conditioning himself for a windup shot Thursday night at Tepp's stadium.

Herman, the Hermit, takes on Marvin Edelman, billed as the Jewish middleweight sensation, in the eight round feature.

Harold Collier and Joe Benedict clash in the six round semi.

Seeks Title Bout

Jimmy Ayres and John Calcinore; Jimmy Carlini and Chico Alexander; Leonard Jefferson and Elwood Davis clash in scheduled four round bouts.

Turner's manager, George Katz, following their win over Williams is planning to ask the Pennsylvania Athletic Commission to require either Kid Gavilan or Billy Graham to meet his fighter or declare the welterweight title vacant.
