Wizards, Blue Jays Win In AFRO Softball Loop

John (Brother) Dixon pitched and batted the Jr. Wizards to a hard-fought win over their arch rivals, the McCullah Macks, 5 to 4 in the AFRO-AMERICAN Junior Softball league at P.S. 122.

Dixon, known to his teammates as "Thin man," found himself in constant trouble by issuing 14 bases on balls, but spectacular fielding by his teammates cut off quite a few scores.

Little Victor Kane, pitching brilliantly for the Macs, had also limited the Wizards to 9 hits in the regular game but gave up 4 straight hits in the extra inning to go down in defeat.

Along with Dixon, who got 3 for 4 including the game-winning single, was Leonard Covington who had a perfect day at bat with 3 for 3, including a home run. Robert Clark also slammed a home run.

For the Macs, Donald Watkins, shortstop, played brilliantly, making several spectacular plays to stop Wizard rallies.

In the second game, the Blue Jays slaughtered the Warriors, 13 to 4. The entire Jays team contributed at least one it each in beating the Warriors who were playing without several of their stars.

U. S. COPS FIRST OLYMPIC RING CROWN

Five Tan Victories Clinch Team Title

Norvel Lee, Ex-Howard Star, Awarded 'Outstanding' Trophy

HELSINKI — The late rally which swept the United States ahead of Russia in the final days of the Olympic games, was keyed by five colored boxers who gave America her first team title in the history of the gold-crested international competition.

Setting the pace for Uncle Sam's triumphant mitt crew was Norvel Lee, a 26-year-old amateur from Washington, D.C., who recently was graduated from Howard University. Lee, winner of the light-heavyweight crown, was a swarthy Jim Crow star as well as the tournament's "outstanding boxer" in addition to the gold medal that goes to all the champions.

NORVEL LEE

First Since 1920

Other American titlists crowned, along with Lee, were flyweight Nate Brooks, of Cleveland; light welterweight Charlie Adkins, Gary, Ind.; middleweight Floyd Patterson, New York, and heavyweight Ed Sanders, Los Angeles.

Lee became the first American to capture the light-heavyweight diadem since Col. Eddie Eagan, former chairman of the New York State Boxing Commission, won the crown in the 1920 Games.

"Baby" Starts It

It was this five-cornered boxing sweep on the final day of the major competitions that enabled the U.S., to over-haul the Russians in the newspaper point counting. Uncle Sam wound up with a total of 619 to the USSR's 553½ points, ty 10-5-4-3-2-1 system of tallying.

Although the "outstanding" cup went to Lee, it fell to the lot of Brooks and Adkins to gain what the Americans considered the "sweetest" triumphs.

Nate, the 18-year-old "baby" of the squad, was the first champion crowned. His was also the first American boxing title in an Olympic Games since 1932.

And to Adkins went the honor of whipping Russia's proud Viktor Mednov. The Adkins victory was Uncle Sam's second of the afternoon and assured the U.S., of the team title in this sport.

The 20-year-old father of one child entered the ring with patches over and under his left eye to protect cuts. The Russian had two heavy patches over his eyes. He had big gashes requiring seven stitches over the right eye and six over the left one.

Charley took the fight right to the usually aggressive Russian. He ripped left hooks to the head to win the first round by an edge and knock the patch off Medkov's left eye. In the second Adkins hammered the Russian all over the ring. He kept it up in the third and made the Russian hold on. Twice the sturdy Soviet was staggered and the blood flowed from his cuts.

Pole Votes For Russ

Although he won decisively he was only given a split decision. The British judge voted for Adkins, 60-55, the French official gave it to him, 60-57, but Poland's J. Neuding, the object of a bitter American protest yesterday, scored its even in point, 58-58, and cast his ballot for the Russian.

With Neuding the referee again, Patterson took no chances. At the start he spun completely around, nowhere near his foe. The Polish official waved a finger and warned him. Why the referee warned him is something else again.

The husky, 17-year-old knock-out artist took charge. He clipped Romania's Tita Vasilis with one terrific uppercut to the chin and the seventh. Bob Cain finished the game. Paige gave up nine hits in the six and two-third innings he worked, struck out three batters and walked three.

14,189 Greet Paige Despite Heavy Rains

ST. LOUIS (NNPA)—Heavy pregame rains hurt "Paige Night" attendance at Sportsman's Park Monday night, July 28.

But 14,189 fans paid to watch Satchel Paige, the grand old man of baseball, collect gifts at home plate and then pitch the St. Louis Browns' to a 6-to-3 victory over the Washington Nationals.

Gifts to Paige included a motor boat, a television set, fishing equipment and a camera, his teammates gave him the rod and reel, which Gene Bearden presented.

Paige brought up a familiar topic in his talk at the plate—his age. But he would not disclose it.

31 Games

After going to the mound thirty-one times this season in relief roles, Paige made his first start and, despite weak infield support, held a 4-3 lead before retiring in

Jackie 'Sorry' For Part In Rhubarb

BROOKLYN, N.Y. (NNPA) — Jackie Robinson had to be restrained from charging Phil Cavarretta, manager of the Chicago Cubs, when the game between the Brooklyn Dodgers and the Cubs was called last Saturday in the fifth inning with the Dodgers trailing, 4 to 0.

With one out in the Cub fifth, Augie Donatelli, the plate umpire, called the game because of rain. Cavarretta charged Donatelli, who accused the Dodgers of using stalling tactics.

Before fans realized what was going on, Jackie was trying to get away from restraining hands, but Tom Gorman, an umpire, stepped in front of him and talked to him, and finally Cookie Lavagetto, a coach, grasped his wrist and led him to the clubhouse.

Later, Robinson said Cavarretta had pointed a finger at him and said:

"There's the so-and-so who's responsible for this!"

"Why should he blame me?" asked the Dodger second baseman. "Why not the umpires? They called the game— I didn't."

Cavarretta Story Differs

Cavarretta gave a different version when told what Robinson had said.

"Did he say I called him a so-and-so?" asked the Cubs' manager. "Well, I did nothing of the kind. Why Should I call him that? I am not that kind of a guy. I did say he was the guy who started the stalling tactics and that's what burned me.

"He's a great ball player. I got no reason in the world to call him a name," added Phil.

When Robinson was told what Cavarretta said, he said:

"I thought he did call me that, but if he didn't and I said so I'm sorry."

Robinson had taken his time at bat in the third inning, as the first drops fell, but as Cavarretta admitted later, "that's the proper play."

Newk's Fast Ball Too Fast For GI

CAMP PICKETT, Va.—(ANP) —Big Don Newcombe, now Sgt. Newcombe, former Brooklyn Dodger pitching ace, is a first baseman in the army.

Don still can pitch, but his fast balls are too speedy for his intramural team's backstop to catch.

For example, one day last week, he started a game for his team. He faced four batters, and all four reached base. It seems that he fanned each man, but his catcher dropped each third strike, and the batter reached first safely. Two men scored.

That was enough for the Dodger great. He returned to first base, and the catcher was happy.

Yokelys Halt Hoboes, 3-2

Simmons Wins Torrid Slab Duel

Herb Simmons, brilliant south paw checker of the Yokely All-Stars, continued his winning ways Sunday afternoon by out-dueling Davie Kitte to snip the U. S. Hoboes, 3-2, in the first game of a Westport Stadium double-header.

In the nightcap, the Kent Monarchs, top Eastern Shore, Md., nine, also took the measure of the Hoboes, winning, 7-3.

When Simmons stopped the invaders, it marked only the fourth loss they had suffered in 44 starts for the season.

Grays Returning

Business Manager Garfield Willie announced Sunday that the Homestead Grays, one-time power of the Negro National League and frequent world champions of colored baseball, will be here for a return Sunday for a return engagement. In a recent twin-bill with the Grays, the local Yokelys lost the nightcap after taking the opener from Sam Bankhead.

The following Sunday, Aug. 17, the interracial New York Bronchos' ace club will visit the Stadium to try the Stars.

Fancy Diving Champ

John Hargrove, local attorney with offices in the 300 block Dolphin St., was winner of the fancy diving classification at the swimming meet recently held at Druid Hill Park. Besides being an active practicing attorney, Mr. Hargrove also finds time to be a full-time boys counselor at the Druid Hill YMCA.

Saxton Triumphs Over Akins In 10

Gets Off Floor To Remain Unbeaten

CHICAGO (ANP) — Undefeated Johnny Saxton came up off the floor to lash out a convincing 10 rounds decision over light-weight Virgil Akins.

For Saxton, the nation's fourth ranking welterweight, this was his 31st professional victory. Although he won by a decisive margin, it was one of the toughest in his career.

A slim crowd of 1,972 fans paid only $3,929.50 to see the bout at the Chicago Stadium, an arena that seats 20,000 persons.

Akins surprised Saxton in the first round with a hard straight right that sent the welter tumbling to the canvas. Saxton, surprised and hurt, jumped up at the count of two, but was saved to take the compulsory eight count. This was the first time as a pro he had ever been floored.

Saxton Too Strong

After the first round, however, the fight was all Saxton. He was too strong for his lighter opponent.

Saxton weighed 147 pounds to 139 for Akins. Saxton won the bout through aggressiveness and brute strength. Akins proved himself excellent on defense, always managing to ride and dodge Saxton's best punches.

After the bout, Saxton said he had a tough battle, but Akins was difficult because he is an unorthodox batter. He said:

"This guy is awkward. He switches from the regular to a southpaw stance, and is hard to fight. He pulled a switch when he floored me."

Of Saxton Akin, said, "He is strong, but not the hardest puncher I faced. I wasn't hurt. I began to weaken in the sixth round. He said his weight to slow me down."

Hurt Bemoans Chances Of Morgan Grid Bears

Football prospects for Morgan State College, if one is to take the word of Coach Edward P. Hurt, are like "the inside of a coal mine when your lamp has gone out."

Never known to be too optimistic, the Morgan mentor this year is indeed a study in woe.

September 1 is the date set for the opening practice and members of last year's squad have been asked to report on August 31.

Expects 27 Back

"If all goes well," Coach Hurt mused, "we can expect back 22 lettermen from last year. Five others, who went out for the team but who did not earn their letter, are also due back."

"We normally have a squad of from 50 to 60 men out in September, so you can see that if we get anywhere near that number, the majority of them will be newcomers — unknown quantities, so to speak. Prospects of new material are pretty slim."

Key Men Lost

The 1952 Morgan grid machine, which won three and lost five to give Coach Hurt the worst season in his 23 years of coaching at Morgan, will be minus the services of a number of key regulars whose places will be hard to fill.

Among these absentees will be former Co-Captains Johnny Triplett and Earl Byrd, triple-threat halfback and end, respectively in to whose shoes have stepped Irvin Locust, end and Roosevelt Brown, tackle, both seniors this year.

Theron (Teddy) Banks, shifty, high-stepping halfback; Howie Depass, 228-pound tackle, Milton (Lucy) Jordan, 210-pound center; Richard (Dick) Harris, rangy, 6-foot, 5-inch end, and Tom Hasty, 200-pound tackle, are others who will be sorely missed.

Also lost by graduation were Melvin (Red) Fox, quarterback, and Arthur F. Shipp, fullback. Lost to the armed services are Bill Holt, a guard and Donald Ross center. John (Crazy Legs) Hurt, a backfield standout as a freshman last year, dropped out of school in the second semester.

Webb Swim Team Plans Big Splash

Just like a sailor on his day off, the Chick Webb Swimming Team, 1952 Playground and Baltimore Municipal Games champions when asked what they would like most to have, requested a Sea Party. So, a Splash Party it will be.

All of the members of the team will be guests of the Department of Swimming on Wednesday at 3 p.m. At this time they will be freed of the grind of training and allowed to just swim for pleasure. Recorded music will be set up in the pool for those who wish to dance.

Tentative plans for an amateur contest with prizes to the winners also have been drawn. Judges for the party will be the swimming staff, Mesdames Dunkins and Bado and Messers Hill, Garabelli, Taylor, Booker and Garrison.

For further information visit the Chick Webb center, 623 N. Eden Street or call Dickens 3600.
