Fashion Trends

by Freddye S. Henderson

THE FASHION PLATFORM — Fashion this fall seems to have picked up the election year flavor, and women will get a chance to vote for their choice in silhouette, texture, beauty and appeal.

There will be the middy versus the high waistline; the bell silhouette versus the tabular; the tent versus the toga; the crisp versus the fluid look. But regardless of the choice on detail, certain basic campaign issues are paramount in any fashion platform.

The woman who keeps well informed on such vital issues will recognize immediately the merit of the following fashion platform.

BECOMINGNESS: First and foremost in any campaign to get a favorable fashion vote is becomingness, for if a costume does nothing for the wearer, then there is no excuse for wearing it except the very elementary one of protecting the body.

So notwithstanding what the fashion designers come forth with this fall (once in awhile they do release a monstrosity, you know) the smart gal is going to adjust in the general direction of prevailing mode, but will stand most closely by those lines that do most for her.

BUDGET: Another major consideration is budget. Gone are the days (happy farewell) when one has to be on speaking terms with "Brewster's millions" to be well dressed. Of course the smaller the clothing allowance the more selectives one has to be, but thanks to the American system of mass production, smart clothes can be bought at nominal prices.

'SIMPLICITY: In no area is the need for restraint more pronounced than in the matter of being smartly attired. Many an otherwise handsome outfit has been utterly ruined by the addition of just one item too-many.

This isn't to say that one must never use decorative touches. It is essential to learn to distinguish between simplicity and a paucity of ideas. However, if one has to err, 'tis better to do so on the simple side, for overdressing is the most effective barometer of poor taste yet devised.

COLOR: Even if you don't go so far as to subscribe to the belief that beautiful color can compensate for poor lines in a costume, no one can deny the wonder appeal of the magic color.

It is easy to feel safe with the dignity of black and navy, and the subtlety of the neutral grays and beiges, but it takes a lot of courage to break forth in flaming orange. However, often there is nothing like a gay colored dress to lift one's mood on a blue or grey day.

The time tested experiment of draping a large swatch of cloth around the neck and shoulders is a wonderful way to tell whether or not a particular color is right for you. A word of caution: sometime the lipstick has to be changed in order to wear a color well. This is especially true if the color is in the red or orange family.

KEEP DESSERT MAKING ON THE EASY SIDE

Keep summer desserts easy like this Walnut Cream Pudding. Combine a package of vanilla pudding mix with 1 tablespoon instant coffee and 1½ cups milk. Cook according to package directions. Cool. Stir in 1/2 cup whipped whipping cream and ½ cup chopped walnuts.

Rum-Butter Raises This Lobster Above Par

Broiled lobster requires one simple vegetable or just a colorful tossed salad. An extra "dividend" of drawn rum-butter sauce gives the lobster dish mouth-watering appeal.

Foods and Fashions

Broiled Lobster

Split lobsters, discarding vein and sac. Place tomalley (the green liver) in a bowl.

Melt ¼ lb. butter with 1 oz. of Puerto Rican rum for each lobster. (Allowing enough liquid to baste lobsters several times while broiling) and add remainder to bowl.

Blend with enough bread crumbs to bind the mixture. Salt and pepper to taste. Fill lobster's cavity with stuffing. Place lobster on broiler pan, cut side up, in a preheated broiler.

Baste occasionally and broil for 15 to 18 minutes, depending upon the size.

LEFT-OVER CAKE FOR QUICK DESSERT

Use that left-over cake in your cupboard in this luscious dessert. Drain and dice 4 or 5 canned cling peach halves. Combine with 6 cut up marshmallows, 2 tablespoons chopped almonds, one cup sweetened whipped cream and a cup of cubed stale cake. Chill several hours.

4 tablespoons water

Place a peach half in the center of each square of dough and put the sugar in the cavities. Wrap the dough around the apple, moistening the edges with water or milk to form a tight seam.

Cover the bottom of a greased baking pan with the mixture of sugar and water. Place the dumplings in the syrup with the smooth side uppermost. Bake in a moderate oven (375 degrees F.) for 30 to 40 minutes, basting occasionally with syrup in the pan.

Test the peaches with a fork to make sure they are sufficiently cooked. Serve warm with whipped cream in 4 delightful servings.

Cooking Fun

By MARY DOWN HEALER

HOT AND HEARTY

Homemade vegetable soup is as much a part of the first snappy days of fall as demothballing the family sweaters. And the one can simmer away while you do the other, with time to spare to sew on missing buttons.

There are plenty of inexpensive fresh vegetables to make the most flavorsome and nutritious soup. Tomatoes, corn, snap beans, lima beans, carrots and okra are abundant. And new turnips, crisp celery, and onions for added flavor.

A famous chef recommends roasting the soup bones in a hot oven until slightly browned for best flavored stock. Trim the meat off first and dip it in the fat with a little fat to brown lightly. Then add cold water and the bones. When the water begins to simmer, add a finely chopped onion then forget it for a couple of hours.

Blending Necessary

About an hour before serving time, prepare the remainder of the vegetables and add to the stock. Ordinarily such long cooking of vegetables is frowned upon, but the delectable flavor of vegetable soup depends almost as much on a mellow blending of flavors as upon using absolutely fresh ingredients.

The choice of vegetables depends on your taste. Tomatoes are almost indispensable. Peel and dice them first, and if you like, remove the seedy pulp. Celery and carrots are basic too, with a few finely chopped celery leaves added for flavor. If you can get okra, slice it thin and add in the last 15 minutes of cooking. The flavor is special.

Some good soup-makers like to drop in shredded or chopped cabbage during the last 15 minutes. Others add a crushed clove of garlic. And still others prefer to press the vegetables through a sieve for a rich puree soup.

Autumn Bounty

For nobody knows how many years, grapes have symbolized harvest time and plenty. And can you think of a more decorative accent for your home just now than bowls heaped with soft green and flame colored grapes on the tables?

The seedless ones are especially nice for healthful snacks for the children, since their seeds need not be reminded not to swallow the seeds. Serve them in this unusual salad for a party meal:

Fruited Chicken Salad

Serves 8

1 large cooked chicken
1½ cups seedless grapes, halved
1 cup orange sections
1½ cups diced celery
½ cup diced apple
2 tbsps. lemon juice
Salt to taste
Lettuce cups

Dice meat from chicken. Combine with fruit and sprinkle with lemon juice and salt. Serve in lettuce cups. Garnish with frosted grapes: dip clusters of grapes in beaten egg white then in granulated sugar. Place on rack to dry.

Another fruit salad, this one a green and gold ring to surround creamy cottage cheese.

Golden Ring Salad

1 pkg. lemon flavored gelatin
1 cup hot water
¾ cup pineapple juice
Juice of 1 lemon
1 cup seedless stemmed grapes
1½ cups chopped watercress

Dissolve gelatin in hot water. Stir in pineapple and lemon juices and grapes and watercress. Pour in ring mold and chill. Turn out on salad greens and heap cottage cheese in the center.

When you make a hurry-up dessert of fluffy tapioca, tuck a few stemmed seedless grapes in the bottom of each dish. Then pour the tapioca over them! If you have time, a hot caramel sauce over all will be well worth the extra minutes.

Look for bright color and plumpness when you buy grapes. The seedless green ones grow sweeter as the color becomes tinted with amber. However, many people prefer the tartness of the jade green ones.

Handsome Is As Handsome Does

Satiny, royal purple eggplants are at their peak just now. And if you're tempted to buy one because it's so beautiful, buy two and use the other like this:

Eggplant-Frankfurter

1 medium eggplant
Flour, salt and pepper
½ cup salad oil
8 franks, sliced lengthwise
2 cans tomato sauce
1 cup grated sharp cheese
Finely chopped parsley

Wash eggplant and cut in 8 slices crosswise. Mix salt, pepper and flour and sprinkle eggplant slices. Heat salad oil in skillet and saute eggplant until golden brown. Place 4 slices in a flat baking dish.

Place two halves of frankfurters on each slice. Pour 1 can of tomato sauce over and sprinkle with half of cheese. Top with 4 more eggplant slices and remaining franks, tomato sauce and cheese. Bake at 350 degrees for half an hour. Sprinkle each serving with parsley.

Of course you fry eggplant slices. But did you ever cut them like french fried potatoes and cook quickly in deep hot fat? Or serve a supper or luncheon dish of poached eggs on sauted eggplant slices? Pour cheese sauce over the eggs and serve with or without bacon strips.

Eggplant is a great favorite of Italian cooks. And they know what to do with it.

Eggplant Parmignia

1 medium eggplant (1½ lbs.)
2 eggs
½ cup salad oil
2 eight oz. cans tomato sauce
½ lb thinly sliced Mozarinelli cheese

¼ cup grated Parmesan cheese

Wash eggplant and slice thin without peeling. Beat eggs lightly. Dip eggplant slices in egg and saute in hot salad oil until golden brown. Arrange layers of eggplant, Mozarinelli cheese and tomato sauce in a baking dish. Sprinkle Parmesan cheese over the top. Pour remaining egg over and bake at 350 degrees about 30 minutes.

Yardstick For School Lunch

School days are here again, so start the year right by packing the lunch that is full of zip.

Make the lunch protein rich. Use canned or cooked meat, fish, poultry or eggs, cheese or peanut butter in sandwiches as a mainstay for lunch.

A vegetable is a must—Carry along a relish or include in a sandwich.

Pack some fruit.

Include bread.

Milk everyday.

Don't let sandwiches get humdrum. Vary the breads, the fillings, and the way you cut them.

Sandwiches In Freezer

Make sandwiches for a week and store in the home freezer if there is room. Avoid spreading these sandwiches with salad dressing, mayonnaise or jelly that soaks into bread. Leave out lettuce, celery, carrots and tomatoes. Wrap them separately and carry along in the lunch box.

An occasional surprise package, hidden in the bottom of the lunch box, makes lunch time fun. It can be a few stuffed dates, a sugar-topped cupcake, a candy bar or extra change for an ice cream treat.

Chuck Roast, Corn, Beets On Week's 'Best Buys' List

Russell C. Hawes, Marketing Specialist

Most all fruits now are in plentiful supply and one should take advantage of the situation before it is too late.

There is a wide choice of fruits for your selection and many fruits are in peak volume. Eastern Shore cantaloupes and watermelons are arriving in quantity and are reasonable in cost.

Pears Plentiful

Besides melons, top billing includes Western Bartlett pears, peaches, seedless grapes, and plums. California Bartlett pears continue very low in cost but soon will be again higher in price. Thompson seedless grapes are a very good buy and too, red malagas.

There are several varieties of plums on hand at most fruit counters, all reasonable in cost. Several nearby states are supplying our markets with tasty peaches, besides our own state of Maryland. Maryland's peach crop is near peak of production and if you intend to process any peaches, you had better start soon. Remember, the peach season is all too short.

Corn Good Buy

In fresh vegetables, this week's list should include peppers, sweet corn, lettuce, cabbage, and beets. The quality of Western lettuce is said to be the best for the season, price is moderate. Native grown peppers and New Jersey peppers are in adequate supply and low in price. As a change for your evening meal, try some fried peppers, they're really good.

Beets continue low in cost, also bunch carrots. Cabbage again is down in price and for those lovers of cole slaw, this is good news. Maryland sweet corn is in peak volume and of good quality. Both the yellow and the white types of corn are available.

Chuck Roast Reasonable

In meats, chuck roast and fresh sausage are reasonably priced. Fats, cheese, and frozen foods are mostly unchanged.

DON'T GIVE UP! If you're forever changing from one kind of coffee to another, trying to find the makings of a better cup of coffee, there's still hope. Maybe it's not the coffee. Perhaps you should "cream" your coffee with Carnation Evaporated Milk. Stick Carnation is concentrated to the consistency of thick, rich cream—and even whips—it gives coffee a smoother, mellower flavor and a richer, more tempting color. More folks prefer Carnation to their coffee than any other brand of evaporated milk. Chances are you will, too. Next time you have coffee, fill your cream pitcher with rich Carnation, and see if I'm not right.

Mr. Baseball Gets A Grand Hand From Elks

member of that man's party."

He again pointed toward Powell, whose face reddened. The group entered.

The second "rhubarb" occured following the conference. Assuming the role of spokesman, Congressman Powell began telling newsmen what was discussed.

'You Can't Speak For Me'

Councilman Brown interrupted. "Wait a minute," he said, "You can't speak for me, Adam."

Others in the party attempted to quiet Brown. "I mean that," he said. "After all, all of us did not come at your invitation. I was invited by Jimmy Fitzpatrick."

Powell ignored this outburst and continued talking to correspondents.

Behind the two arguments was the struggle for political power presently going on in Harlem.

The fight is Powell vs. Rep. William L. Dawson of Chicago, who is vice chairman of the Democratic National Committee.

Powell Vs Truman Feud

Powell has been out of the patronage picture since he sturringly referred to President Truman's wife as the "last lady of the land."

Mrs. Truman's refusal to quit the Daughters of the American Revolution brought the outburst. The DAR had refused to allow Hazel Scott, Powell's piano-playing wife, to perform in Washington's Constitution Hall.

Dawson has been the key to political jobs in New York ever since. And Congressman Dawson depends upon the advice of Dr. Silas Taylor of Boston for his Eastern operations.

Attempting to break Dawson's iron grip on patronage, Powell angrily termed Dawson "an Uncle Tom" at the Chicago convention.

Dawson Ignores Powell

He accused the Chicago Congressman of having blocked adoption of a stronger civil rights plank in the Democratic platform. Thus far, Dawson has ignored the whole business.

Bruce's dissatisfaction with the Stevenson recention hinged on his allegiance to Dawson. This was the reason he gave, when the reason for the Rev. Marshall Shepard of Philadelphia failed to show up.

A total of 26 colored leaders paraded in a separate delegation to corner Stevenson on his bold stand on civil rights. The Democratic nominee, in two speeches Thursday night, came out for an enforceable FEPC and for a revision in Senate rules to end the filibuster.

There was agreement among the leaders that Stevenson's position on these issues is "satisfactory."

The first group headed by Dr. Channing Tobias, entered Governor Stevenson's suite at 10:30 Friday morning. They consisted of quicker on civil rights than the Democratic party. Sen. Henry C. Lodge Jr., Friday, sharpened pledges made on the issue by Gov. Adlai Stevenson, Thursday night.

"That was so much pious claptrap," the Massachusetts senator said.

"Those speeches show that he's the one with the right personality when you consider the record of his running mate, Sen. John Sparkman."

Raps Cloture Stand

Governor Stevenson, he said, knows that he will get no action on civil rights until the cloture rule in the Senate is changed.

"And you will never get a resolution for a change out of the Senate rules committee as long as Democrats are in control," he added.

"If the Republicans elect a majority this fall, I will become chairman of the rules committee. And everybody knows I'm red hot for this issue.

Pledges Committee Rule

"I personally pledge and guarantee that if I become chairman, I will get a rule out of my committee and the resolution pocket on the calendar before February."

Returning to Senator Sparkman, the Massachusetts senator pointed out the wide difference of opinion between Stevenson and the Alabaman on civil rights. He quoted from a radio speech made by Sparkman at Mobil, Ala., on April 17, 1950.

In contrast to Stevenson's pledge to end the filibuster and support enforceable FEPC, Sparkman said:

"...I am against the civil rights proposals — always have been and always will be. One of the first votes I cast upon going to congress 14 years ago was against one of these bills. Almost every year since then I have voted against such proposals.

"Place Of Doubletalk"

"We Southern Democratic senators—all of us—are united together and pledged to use every parliamentary device possible to defeat civil rights legislation . . ."

Terming Governor Stevenson's pronouncements on civil rights, "an insincere piece of doubletalk," Senator Lodge quoted a line from the Democratic nominee's Thursday speech. 'I'm very proud to have John Sparkman as my running mate.'"

Senator Lodge said he was willing to fight filibusters as long as it takes to end filibusters.

He said he had just left breakfast with General Eisenhower, who had pledged that he would "take every step necessary to halt endless debate in the Senate."

G Girl—Blond Nuptials Nixed

GI's Family Sours Three-Year Romance

WASHINGTON

Wedding bells failed to ring for Miss Mary Glover, 24 - year - old government clerk and her G.I. fiance, Benjamin Sachs, 23, of Silver Spring, Md., when his family intervened at the eleventh hour, Friday.

Miss Glover, a native of Chicago, admitted to the AFRO Sunday that her plans for an interracial marriage and a week end honeymoon were suddenly cancelled when a relative of her intended spouse called her by phone and informed her that he would not put in an appearance. The informant, who identified herself as the soldier's sister, requested an appointment to talk the matter over.

Refuses Conference

"I politely told her there was nothing to talk about," Miss Glover declared. "I was not marrying the family and if Ben could not talk with me himself after we had been sweethearts for three years, I saw no point in discussing the matter with anyone else."

Young Sachs, who was stationed at an officers' Candidate School in Georgia, stopped in Washington while en route to an embarkation port in Seattle where he is scheduled to go to Korea. He and Miss Glover planned to wed during his short furlough and obtained a license at the local marriage bureau last week. It was the publication of this license that tipped off the family about the plans and they are reported to have prevented him from withdrawing certain funds with which he planned to take his bride with him to Seattle. Toward this end Miss Glover had given up her employment last week.

Chicago Girl

Miss Glover was born in Chicago but educated in Cleveland, Ohio; where she graduated from the Case - Woodland High School and the Mayflower Private School for Girls. She also attended the Longfellow school where she studied both business and home economics. She is the daughter of Mrs. Helen Glover of Detroit, Mich.; but was reared by her grandmother, Mrs. Mary Ginyard of 2362 E. 29th st., Cleveland.

She first came to Washington several years ago and was employed as a clerk - typist in the War Department.

Now that the wedding is off she has no immediate plans she says, but contemplates returning to Cleveland. She declared that Sachs informed her that the wedding is not off, just postponed.
