Baltimore Attorney May Get PO Department Job

WASHINGTON (NNPA) — Vernon Green, Baltimore lawyer and postal employee, is one of five persons being considered to fill a vacancy in the Post Office department created by the retirement of Thomas C. Hall, attorney in the office of the solicitor.

Mr. Green served in Korea with a Maryland National Guard unit. A lieutenant colonel, he commanded the 231st Truck Battalion from Baltimore, which received a commendation for the good job it did with the First Corps in Korea. He also served with the 372d Infantry Regiment during World War II.

The pay of attorneys in the Post Office Department ranges from $4,205 to $10,800. There are thirty-one such positions.

William C. Hueston, secretary of the Elks, and the late Ralph Mizelle of New York served as Post Office Department attorneys—Hueston under a Republican administration and Mizelle while James C. Farley was postmaster general during the Franklin D. Roosevelt administration.

Mrs. Van's Case Lesson

The treatment accorded Mrs. Robert L. Vann, Pittsburgh publisher and J. Franklin Wilson, an attorney, points up the necessity of colored Republicans playing the game according to Hoyle.

Both were given the double-cross somewhere in the pipeline through which the names of persons being considered for political appointments by the Eisenhower administration are run.

Mrs. Van was proposed for Ambassador to Haiti.

Early after the Eisenhower administration took over, while Summerfield was still chairman of the Republican National Committee, he was quoted as saying he was greatly impressed by Mrs. Van and wanted recognition for her services during the campaign.

She Got Sidetracked

The FBI ran a full field check on Mrs. Vann. But somewhere in the pipeline—either in the State Department or by the Haitian government — her appointment was blocked.

Wilson's name reached Deputy Attorney General William P. Rogers, whose duty it is to bring candidates for judicial posts, marshals before the attorney general making his recommendations to the White House.

But Wilson's name never got beyond the Justice Department. The names of three white persons were sent to the White House and transmitted by the president to the Senate for confirmation as judges of the District of Columbia Municipal Court.

Pennsylvanians Slept

If the Pennsylvania Republican State organization had Pennsylvania's two Republican Senators had really been pushing Mrs. Van for ambassador to Haiti, she never would have been knifed.

In Wilson's case, it's a different story. Nobody is concerned about the wishes of District of Columbia Republicans because residents of the District can't vote.

Somebody Bell The Cat

Somebody should tell Leonard Hall, chairman of the Republican National Committee, and Sherman Adams, assistant to the president, that colored voters are mad because of the failure of the administration to give any colored person a presidential appointment.

Republicans may find on the 1954 congressional elections that they have lost the relatively small number of colored voters who voted for Eisenhower in 1952.

FBI Continues Investigation In Pentagon Death

WASHINGTON

Although the FBI maintains a strict policy of "no comment" in regard to the progress of its investigation of the recent Johnson slaying, uptown members of the gambling fraternity were rumored to have been quizzed by FBI agents last week.

The questioning of these figures in local gambling circles followed up a similar inquisition reportedly conducted among Emmitt Watson, Sam Beard and Abe (Jawboy) Dietz, reputed kingpins of white digits circles.

The AFRO was told that FBI agents talked to at least four well-known uptown sportsmen.

Threatened, He Says

One sportsman revealed that he was informed in no uncertain terms that if he did not give the FBI some good leads on the Johnson case that federal agents would wipe out local gambling.

Another sportsman, who was said to have lent Johnson money at various times, is alleged to have told the probers that he had not seen the slain mail clerk in many years.

There was another report that the agents spent a day questioning an uptown physician, who was said to have known Johnson.

Doctor Won't Talk

The medic, when asked to confirm the report said, "no comment" to an AFRO reporter.

The "no comment" extended to queries about the physician's former relationship with the slain Pentagon mail clerk.

The mutilated and decomposed body of Johnson was found June 30, stuffed in the trunk of his automobile on the north parking lot at the Pentagon.

It was reported that Johnson, called "School Boy" by his friends, had been active in gambling circles, taking horse race bets. His family, however, denied this report.

The news reports to the AFRO today that the FBI has been probing into Johnson's alleged association with gamblers indicates that the federal sleuths are impressed with the story.

Slaying Hurt Business

More than one sportsman has expressed the view that if he had any information to give the FBI that would solve the Johnson case, he would gladly do so, because business is bad during the investigation.

The AFRO learned that numbers played at the Pentagon building have fallen off to almost nothing during the heat that is being generated by the FBI manhunt.

"You have to be carefully screened to get down on a play." The AFRO was told. the book - holders are carrying the "plays" in their heads and are putting them in after working hours, it was said.

For everything that happens to you there is a reason.
Consult the greatest living authority on occult science in the world, and next to it is good luck. Do not be misled by the control of some ones and false friends are not on hand to help you in your troubles.
