a cab if they had robbery in mind.

Why then was Winston a father of four young children, killed?

The police, baffled by the actual motive behind the slaying are still investigating the case.

Youths Held

The two youths who are being held without bail in connection with the stabbing are Clarence Appleman, 21, and Noel Corkran, 20, both of the 800 block of St. Paul.

Police arrested them after they found Winston bleeding beside his cab in the 5300 block of Wright ave. Appleman was nabbed 20 minutes after the stabbing at Pulaski highway and Bowleys lane.

Corkran was arrested in the backyard of the St. Paul st. address as he was returning to his house, carrying a suitcase. A search of his residence showed he had removed all of his clothing and other possessions.

The two men were identified by William B. Davis, 5300 block Wright ave., who was the first person on the scene of the attack before police arrived.

Davis told police he was awakened by screams about 1:30 a.m. He rushed outside and saw Winston lying on the ground bleeding and noticed two men running down the street.

Winston was taken to Johns Hopkins hospital where he died at 4:45 a.m.

Recover Knife, Coat

Investigating the area of the assault, police recovered a knife and a coat in a sewer near the scene of the crime. At North-eastern police station they found a knife on Corkran.

The two men were arraigned Friday afternoon in Central police station and the trial date will be set by the State's attorney's office.

Residents of Armisted Gardens are upset over the driver's death. Through several interviews, the AFRO learned that many believed Winston would have had a better chance had he been taken to the hospital sooner. The ambulance arrived about ½ hour after the attack, one neighbor said.

Further investigation of the neighborhood by the AFRO disclosed that Noel Corkran's relatives also live in the 5300 block of Wright ave.

Mother Upset

Although his family could not be reached for a statement, one neighbor quoted the boy's upset mother as saying, when she learned Winston had a wife and four small children, "All I can say is I'm sorry, but what good does that do?"

The neighbor informed the AFRO that young Corkran was a "black sheep" of the family, having spent most of his life in reform schools.

"The boy has a record as long as my arm," the neighbor said.

Corkran, who has tatooed marks on his arms, was wearing black cowboy boots when he appeared before Magistrate Wm. F. Laukaitis at Central Police station, Friday.

Wife Calm

Mrs. Winston is taking her husband's death very calmly. Only 23 years old, the tiny mother has managed to busy herself in the home at 1812 W. Franklin st., which she and her husband were buying, besides making the necessary funeral arrangements.

She was in the process of selecting a dark suit for her husband's burial when the AFRO called on her Sunday afternoon.

"I think that dark blue suit is all right, don't you?" she asked cleverly, directing her question to her mother, Mrs. Grace Mathis who was going through some of Winston's papers that were kept in an old candy box.

Turning to a reporter, she began slowly, "The last time I saw Clyde was at 8 p.m. Thursday. He had gone to work at five o'clock, but he often stops by when he has a call in the neighborhood.

"He told me that he was going to Greenwood, S.C., the following day (Friday) to get the children." (She explained that the three older youngsters were visiting their great - grandparents there.)

The Red Cross is arranging to have the children returned to Baltimore in time for their father's funeral.

Informed By Neighbor

"I didn't learn of his accident until 9 a.m. when Mrs. Jackson, next door came over and told me. We don't have a phone so they called her," Mrs. Winston continued.

"She told me that I should hurry and get dressed because Clyde was hurt and had been taken to Johns Hopkins. She said that a cab would be by to get me.

"I got to the hospital at 3:30, but the doctors wouldn't let me see Clyde even though I begged them. In fact, I never saw him again, even after they told me he was dead.

"At 5:30 the doctor came out and told me that he was sorry it had to happen, but he had done all he could. 'You have lost your husband, Mrs. Winston,' he told me."

Had Planned Vacation

Breathing deeply, the young mother shook her head as she added, "He was supposed to get his vacation soon. We had planned to drive out to Cheyenne, Wyoming to visit his brother Roscoe who's stationed out there."

"I don't know why it had to happen," she said quietly. "He never bothered anyone and he loved the children. The cab company said he was one of their best drivers."

Her brother interrupted to add, "He was a wonderful young man. He never drank nor cursed. He was always kind. He was one who would always do you a favor.

"Clyde was too good to be taken," the elderly woman sighed.

Winston's parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Winston of Keysville, Va., arrived in Baltimore Saturday morning after learning of his death.

They are staying with a son and his family, Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Winston, 711 Fayette st.

'Never Get Over It'

"I'll never get over it," Mr. Winston sobbed. "He was my baby boy. Now both of my youngest children are dead."

He was referring to a daughter, Virginia, who died in 1950 following a stroke.

Lloyd Winston explained that his brother's funeral will be the first time the entire family has been together since the sister's death.

Another sister, Mrs. Lena Reddick of California is scheduled to arrive in the city today (Tuesday.) Sgt. Roscoe Winston arrived Monday night.

The last member of the family to see the cab driver before his untimely death was his pet 15-year-old niece, Mary. She told the reporter that she saw him in the cab at 11:30 a.m. Thursday on the corner of Fremont and Fayette st.

"He honked at me and told me to be sure and be ready to go with him Friday to South Carolina," she said. "He told me he was going, regardless of what happened."

Mary explained that Winston often took her with him when he took short trips to visit relatives. "I think I was his favorite neice," she explained.

Drove Cab 16 Months

Winston worked for the Belle Isle cab company 10 months. According to officials, he had an outstanding driving record.

Born in Keysville, Va., the young father spent two years in the navy during world War II before coming to Baltimore in 1946. He married in 1947.

The children are: Dolores, 6; Clyde Jr., 4; Cynthia, 3 and Kenneth, 11 months.

Funeral services will be held in Keysville, Thursday at 2 p.m. at Mt. Ellis Baptist church with the Rev. Lesly Atkins, pastor, officiating. Interment will be in the adjoining cemetery.

The body will be shipped from the Holland Funeral home, Wednesday evening.

MR. AND MRS. JOSEPH APPIAH

Blonde Miss Cripps, African Student Wed

LONDON—"The whole world is watching you as you go out from this church to live a new life together in Christ—a life which knows no barriers."

That was the solemn admonition given Enid Margaret Cripps, daughter of the late Sir Stafford Cripps, and Joseph Appiah, son of an African Gold Coast leader, following their marriage in St. John church here Saturday.

The message was given by the Rev. N. A. Perry-Gore, officiating minister.

Miss Cripps, whose father was Laborite leader and postwar chancellor of the exchequer, and her husband, law student from the Gold Coast and personal representative in London of the Gold Coast's Prime Minister, plan to live on the Gold Coast, a British West African colony.

Mr. Appiah wore the brilliant crimson, green and yellow striped ceremonial dress of the Ashanti tribe. The bride, given in marriage by her brother, John, was gowned in embroidered silk brocade with ankle-length skirt and long tight sleeves.

England, Africa Unite

Lady Cripps, the bride's mother and widow of the Laborite leader, along with her English friends, stood in the church side by side with the Gold Coast Africans in their brilliant native robes and sang the hymn:

"There is no east or west, or north or south, but one great fellowship of love throughout the whole wide world."

While the onlookers filled the air with fluttering handkerchiefs and some of the tribesmen held aloft charms and wished the couple luck, the newlyweds drove off in an automobile flying the Union Jack and the Gold Coast flag.

They will spend their honeymoon in Paris before going home to the Gold Coast.

Public Interest High

The intense public interest in the marriage was shown by spectators who strained against police lines thrown around the church, some succeeding in squeezing into the church to get a fleeting glimpse of London's most popular wedding of the year.

Others had to content themselves with standing in the rain

Michaels, likewise won the jackpot. The two couples are planning a joint celebration in New York on Friday.

Mrs. Michaels, who marked her birthday on July 20th, said her husband's good fortune was "just too good to be true. It's the best birthday present I have ever had."

Mr. Michaels told the AFRO, "I'm still flabbergasted. I never won anything before in my life, not even a raffle." He modestly admitted that his training as a teacher helped him a good deal.

The Michaels are staying in the Bronx with his sister, Mrs. Clarice Peters, while Mr. Michaels studies at New York university for his master's degree. With them is their six-year-old daughter, Michele, who watched the show at home.

They do not plan to return to Baltimore until August 7. They live at 1433 Madison ave.

Delayed Honeymoon

The lucky couple confided to the AFRO that they will take the airplane trip to Holland, one of the contest prizes, sometime in December when school is out.

Mr. Michaels told the television audience it would be their first honeymoon, and he had picked Holland, because he served there during World War II. He was a lieutenant with the 333th Quartermaster Truck Co., a part of the Ninth Army.

Further, he explained, Uncle Sam had interrupted their honeymoon plans nine years ago. They were married on Monday, he promised to see his bride on Thursday; but he didn't make it until two years later because he was shipped overseas.

She Got Tickets

Mrs. Micahels, who has been a Big Payoff program fan for sometime, secured the tickets for the show which brought them luck. It happened this way:—

They were first asked to be on hand for the Wednesday afternoon show on another network. There they filled out cards but were not called. Later, an attendant said they might be notified of an appearance later in the week.

On Friday, along with a number of other couples, they were asked to be present for a Sunday night appearance. They were elected.

"We really had no idea we'd be on," Mrs. Michaels said, explaining. "Two other couples who were called at the same time did not get on, so we were lucky."

Former YM Worker

Mr. Michaels, called 'Mike' by his friends, is a former worker at the Druid Hill Ave. YMCA and the Chick Webb Recreation Center in East Baltimore. He came to Baltimore five years ago from his native Trenton, N.J., where he was likewise employed by the "Y." He has been a junior high teacher for two years.

He is a graduate of Trenton State Teachers' College and served in the Army five years.

The Michaels attend Madison Ave. Presbyterian church where he sings on the choir.

Color Secret Weapon, U. S. Told

By JAMES L. HICKS

NEW YORK — Pentagon officials at the highest military level have been warned by one of its own staff specialists that if peace is ever to come to the world "there must be a reassessment of values in relation to skin color" which will eliminate "race and pigmentation as an all-determining factor."

The blunt warning came from Army Captain John D. Silvera a staff specialist in a paper prepared during his eight weeks' course at the nation's hush hush Psychological Warfare School at Fort Bragg, N.C.

It was learned that Captain Silvera's paper has been forwarded directly to the chief of Psychological warfare in the Pentagon at Washington.

Psychological warfare is regarded today by military men as one of this nation's "secret" weapons for the winning of the cold war.

Soviets Score Victory

Captain Silvera, who is reported to be the second colored officer ever to complete the psychological warfare course, blunitly told Pentagon officials in his paper that:

"In attacking the United States on the treatment of colored persons, the Soviets have scored victory after victory and most of all are continuing to destroy the credibility of all that we can say about the benefits of our way of life."

The thirty-page document with covering letters and documented references is entitled "Color—A Factor in U.S. Psychological Warfare."

Captain Silvera's thesis contends that "the Colored person in American can be the most potent weapon available to the free world today."

"Proper use of the colored people in propaganda themes would defy any conceivable Red-inspired attempts to continue making a mockery of our professions of democracy," he wrote.

Outlines Points

He then went on to "field strip" the colored American as a weapon and pointed out that the Soviet Union is successfully preventing the U.S. from using colored people as a weapon in the cold war because of their ability to capitalize on the injustices done to colored people in various parts of America.

Silvera said the Soviets have succeeded in "conjuring before the world" the following stereotypes of attitudes and opinions on colored people:

That colored Americans are a despised group universally hated by the rest of America;

That they are forced to work for slave wages and to live in concentrated ghettos, denied free access to public schools, hospitals and other places;

That they are denied any semblance of justice in the courts;

That they are lynched, burned at the stake, bombed from their homes denied the right of trial by jury, and forced to ride in the rear of all public conveyances;

Denied Opportunity

And that they are never given an opportunity to participate in the affairs of the American government and are appreciated only as entertainers and sports figures.

These "images" Silvera wrote are "confirmed time and time again not only through our own actions, but through examination of the laws of 30 of the 48 states which are found to have statutes perpetuating these conditions."

Then, urging the Psychological Warfare experts to capitalize on the better side of the minority life in America, Silvera, said:

"The story of the colored citizen is indeed the saga of America. It is a rags to riches idyll which could literally inspire millions of people in other parts of the world.

"There is no field of endeavor, no institution, no area of accomplishment in which they have not made a sizeable contribution.

He added that the "contributions are in direct proportion to the opportunity given."

Suggests Plan

After pointing to the advantages which the progress of the colored race offers in psychological warfare, and clearly showing that this nation is not making use of these advantages, Silvera got down to outlining how this nation could convert these advantages to its use by a change in its official policy towards colored people.

He conceded that the "official" policy of the U. S. State Department is non-discriminatory so far as race or color is concerned.

But, he said, "in actual practice, there has been considerable room for improvement to say the least. Only a handful of the State Department employees are colored persons.

"To the degree that such inadequate representation reflects any bias in hiring, it represents a shameful neglect of one of the most potent resources for use in our efforts to effect complete acceptance in other parts of the world."

Problem Enormous

Still driving towards the State Department, Silvera said "No mission calculated to in any way represent America abroad should fail to take heed of the enormity of the problem of proper racial attitudes."

The presence of colored persons on such official missions is in itself a powerful answer to the charge that they take no part in the government of the U.S."

Silvera had a word for the State Department's sending of the play "Porgy and Bess" to Europe.

"Certainly" he said, "such cultural efforts as "Green Pastures" and "Porgy and Bess," both exceptionally meritorious Broadway successes, can do little to change attitudes and to show the true role of colored Americans."

He concluded his paper with five specific recommendations as to how this nation can implement an integrated policy in world affairs and take advantage of the saga of the colored man.

Lists Recommendations

The recommendations called for:

1. Appointment of a Presidential Commission to survey State Department policies with an aim of additional hirings of colored people.

2. The issuance of directives to all State Department executives stressing the importance of making full and effective use of facts about colored people in the US as an offensive weapon.

3. Closer attention given to racial attitude phase of the nation's student exchange program.

4. Issuance of a directive calling on Department of Defense to use colored personnel on military missions and as attaches. Other government agencies with overseas functions would be similarly directed.

5. Relationship with other powers will be conducted with the same basic policy providing it conforms to the national interest.

Concluding his paper Silvera said:

"To be effective, propaganda must take the offensive; moreover it must perforce contain a hard core of truth and credibility. Both can be present in the picture of the colored American. True there are weaknesses; but permitting their exposure to go unanswered is to accept defeat."

Silvera, for fifteen years one of the top public relations specialists in New York served as an intelligence officer to Col. B. O. Davis during World War II and during the 1952 Presidential campaign was consultant to the National Citizens for Eisenhower-Nixon team.

He is author of the book "The Negro Soldier in World War II."

Police Beat

Young Intern Needs 27 Stitches To Close Wounds

GALVESTON, Tex. ANP) — A brilliant young intern was the hospitalized victim last week of brutal beating by one or three white police officers.

As a result of the beating in which he suffered four gashes in his head, the physician has filed suit in a federal court, charging that he was denied his civil rights.

The victim of the police brutality was Dr. Herman Barnett, first colored graduate of the University of Texas Medical school in Galveston.

He was graduated only a few months ago with highest honors.

Appointed Intern

After graduation he was appointed an intern at the John Sealy hospital in Galveston. His supervising physicians at the hospital and faculty members of the medical school praised him highly as a very capable young man.

The beating occurred early Monday morning, July 13, after Dr. Barnett had been arrested for speeding. Here is the story of the incident:

Dr. Barnett was returning to Galveston from Houston on Highway 75 at a speed above the legal limit. He was stopped at a road block set up for him by two city policemen. Highway patrolman John Connor had radioed them to set up the block.

Struck With Pistol

When he stopped, Connor pulled up beside him and asked him his name. When he identified himself, the officer told him he was lying, then bashed him across the head with his pistol and asked him his name and address again.

Stationed at the road block were city policemen Ammie Mize and Louis Kesel. They held Dr. Barnett while Connor handcuffed him and took him to his auto. They then took the intern's car to a local garage.

Whatever happened between that time and the moment Dr. Barnett was accepted as patient in the County Memorial hospital is a mystery.

Barnett was brought him to the hospital he was unconscious. He was treated there and later transferred to the hospital.

27 Stitches Needed

Some 27 stitches had to be taken in the patient's head, and a "no visitors" sign is still on his door. He suffered four head gashes and a possible fractured skull.

A young white senior student doctor who recognized Dr. Barnett inked his future to have him transferred from County Memorial to Sealy. The intern, unidentified, telephoned Dr. Chauncey Leake at Sealy telling him about Dr. Barnett.

Dr. Leake, Dr. D. Bailey Calvin, dean of students and E. N. Cappleman, business manager, went to county hospital and had the intern transferred to John Sealy hospital.

Returning From Houston

An official at Sealy praised Dr. Barnett as a man with "a fine record." He said the intern was returning from a reception for interns in Houston.

Dr. Barnett has filed charges against Connor and his attorney, Thomas Dent of the local branch NAACP legal redress committee. Dent is seeking an FBI investigation of the incident and has charged that Connor violated Dr. Barnett's civil rights.

Latest developments indicate that the two city policemen may not have been involved in the brutality. They made a joint statement declaring that until the time they transferred Dr. Barnett to Connor's patrol car, no one had hit the intern.

They pointed out in their statement that Dr. Barnett was handcuffed when they put him in the police car. They said they left him with Connor unharmed.

Officer Files Charges

In the meantime Connor has filed charges against Barnett, accusing him of assault with intent to murder, resisting arrest and fleeding. He claims that Dr. Barnett attempted to knife him.

NAACP Probe Closes Migrant Labor Camps

NEW YORK—Several migrant labor camps in Potter County, Pa., have been closed by order of the Governor's Commission on Migrant Labor, following investigations and recommendations by representatives of the NAACP, according to Reuben Kolb, executive director of the commission.

The NAACP investigations were conducted by Herbert Hill, labor relations assistant, in cooperation with the Pennsylvania State Conference of NAACP Branches. Among camps closed was one at Sweden Valley, branded by the NAACP investigators as "the worst example of indescribable filth, complete lack of sanitary facilities, and economic exploitation."

Locker Named Liberian Envoy

WASHINGTON, D.C. (NNPA)—President Eisenhower recently appointed Jesse D. Locker, of Cincinnati, as ambassador to Liberia. Mr. Locker, if confirmed, will succeed Edward R. Dudley, of New York, who resigned from the post.

This is the first nomination of a colored person made by President Eisenhower, requiring confirmation by the Senate. It is also the first appointment made by him of a colored person to an office to which a salary is attached.

The other appointment of a colored person by Mr. Eisenhower was that of General Benjamin O. Davis, U.S. Army, retired, as a member of the American Battle Monuments Commission. Membership on that commission is without compensation.

The appointment of Mrs. Jane Morrow Spaulding as an assistant to the secretary of health, education, and welfare, was made by Mrs. Oveta Culp Hobby, head of the Department of Health, Education, and Welfare.

The appointment of Miss Roberta Church as minority groups consultant in the Employment Security Bureau of the Labor Department was made by Martin P. Durkin, secretary of labor.

Mr. Locker was born in Cincinnati, May 31, 1891. He is the son of the Rev. and Mrs. Labon S. Locker. He was educated in the public schools of Cincinnati and the Howard university law school.

The new ambassador to Liberia has been a practicing attorney in Cincinnati for 32 years. He was elected to the Cincinnati city council in 1941 and re-elected five times. He is now the president pro tempore of the Council.

The appointee has been active in civic affairs. He is a trustee of the Harriet Beecher Stowe Memorial Home, a member and elder of the Fifth Christian church, a member of Kappa Alpha Psi fraternity, and a member of Alpha Lodge No. 1, Improved Benevolent and Protective Order of Elks of the World.

He also is a member of the board of directors of the Lincoln-Douglass Republican club and is one of the founders and president of the Negro Sightless Society of Ohio. He is married to Mrs. Lucille Lockers. He resides at 612 West Ninth street, Cincinnati.
