Oglesby Lauded For Va. Recital

LAWRENCEVILLE, Va.—Isador Boyd Oglesby, Baltimore lyric tenor, afforded a rewarding experience to the summer school and conference group who heard him here at St. Paul's Polytechnic Institute.

Possessed of a naturally rich voice of wide range, Mr. Oglesby sang with a deep appreciation of music and with a fine sense of production.

Beautiful Lyric Tones

Though his voice is powerful when used in full volume he sings the majority of his songs with great restraint, achieving beautiful lyric tones and a quality of simple tenderness.

In songs calling for a dramatic interpretation he displays emotional artistry but never spectacular, and rehabes his serious interpretations with quiet dignity.

Particularly beautiful was the group of early English numbers, wherein the lightness of his voice was noticeable, as was also the quality of sadness and expectation found in Beach's, "Hear the Wind Whispering."

Anderson Able Accompanist

All of the selections from Mr. Oglesbys' program were concert selections from the Aria from "L'Elsir D' Amore," Una Furtiva Lagrima," of Donizetti, being the only operatic selection included.

This was done with the usual individuality which has characterized the artists programs in other cities.

Robert Earle Anderson, a graduate of Howard university, displayed a keen insight into the literature of the accompanist.

Regent Heads New Supersonic Pix

"Breaking The Sound Barrier," which starts Thursday at the Regent, stars Ann Todd, Ralph Richardson and Nigel Patrick, tells of man's newest and most dangerous adventure—his quest to fly jet-propelled aircraft faster than sound. But this greatest of all adventure stories is told from the human point of view—not that of the machine.

"Breaking The Sound Barrier," is many stories. It is the story of an aircraft manufacturer, John Ridgerfield, whose vision drives him into the unknown, forcing him to ignore personal tragedies which occur in so doing. It is the story of his daughter Susan who believes that human life is more important than human progress. It is the story of two test pilots who believe that "breaking the sound barrier" (i.e. flying faster than sound) is more important than life itself, and one of them proves it by sacrificing his life.

Ralph Richardson is superb as the uncompromising aircraft manufacturer whose final display of anguish moves his daughter from cold despise to warm love for him. Ann Todd gives a sensitive performance as the staid wart but loving wife of Nigel Patrick, a test pilot who tries trying to crash the sound barrier. John Justin gives life and understanding to the role of the other test pilot whose burning goal is to be first, although he has about supersonic flight.

ROMANTIC TEAM — Esther Williams and Fernando Lamas, appear as a new romantic team in the new technicolor musical, "Dangerous When Wet," which starts Wednesday at the Harlem.

Esther Williams In Harlem Film

Esther Williams, the "Million Dollar Mermaid," and Fernando Lamas, combine forces with ferocious results in "Dangerous When Wet," MGM's new Technicolor romance with music which starts Wednesday at the Harlem Theatre.

Wherever there's Williams there's water, of course, and "Dangerous When Wet" has a plentitude of aquatic performances, among them a family swimming scene in a rustic pond, a sequence in which Miss Williams and Lamas take a romantic dip in the waters of a picturesque French swimming pool, and a captivating dream sequence bringing back M-G-M's famed cartoon characters, Tom and Jerry, in their first feature film appearance since "Anchors Aweigh."

Then there's the picture's excitement — packed climax, in which Miss Williams fights an almost losing battle against the waves and currents of the English Channel to win a championship victory with Lamas at her side.

Stark Police Film Hit At New Albert

Gripping drama and stark realism against the roaring tapestry of a great and teeming city, Chicago, marks the action-packed and suspenseful story pattern for Republic's "City That Never Sleeps," at the New Albert and starring a strong cast which includes Gig young, Mala Powers, William Talman and Edward Arnold.

In this noise film document, the audience will see the glamour, the tinsel and the stark tragedy of the big city through the eyes of the courageous policeman on the beat, the guardian of the law who never sleeps.

Briefly, "City That Never Sleeps" tells the exciting story of a young police officer, who is seeking to escape his present environment, finds his true self in the tracking down of a mad killer, running berserk on the streets of Chicago.

There is strong romantic conflict in his desire for a [illegible] against his waning love for a faithful and beautiful wife. He is nearly side-tracked as a pawn in a blackmail scheme, his father is killed and his kid brother is almost implicated in a murder plot. Then there is a climactic fight to the death on the Chicago elevated with the highly charged third rail rendering the searing decision.

GOP Lauds Ike's Record

Accomplishments Of 75 Days Cited

WASHINGTON

In a continuing record of the accomplishments of the Eisenhower administration in co-operation with the 83rd Congress, the Republican National Committee had this to say about segregation during its "second 75 days" in power:

Civil rights accomplishments by the Eisenhower administration underline this pledge from the inaugural address:

"We reject any insinuation that one race or another, one people or another, is in any sense inferior or expendable."

On April 14, the first top colored appointment went to Mrs. Jane Morrow Spaulding of Charleston, W. Va. She was named $10,000-a-year assistant to the Secretary of Health, Education and Welfare.

The first official act of the Eisenhower administration to end racial segregation was taken March 10, when Attorney General Brownell asked the Supreme court to uphold two old laws forbidding segregation in the District of Columbia.

On June 8, the Supreme Court ruled that the so-called "lost law" gave still valid and as a consequence, any operator of a licensed restaurant in the District which refuses service to any "well behaved and respectable" person is guilty of a criminal offense.

On another front, the Defense Department announced, that in line with the president's orders, all schools on Army reservations operated entirely by federal funds will be integrated by September.

Bishop Flays Red Charges

Wright Denounces Matthews Article

PHILADELPHIA (ANP) — Another colored minister has come forward to denounce J. B. Matthews for his statement that Protestant clergymen are the greatest supporters of communism in America.

The latest person to blast Matthews, recently resigned director of the senate investigating subcommittee, is Bishop R. R. Wright Jr, of the AME church.

In an article appearing in a recent issue of American Mercury, Matthews charged that "the largest single group supporting the communist apparatus in the United States today is composed of Protestant clergy."

Bishop Wright, prelate of the the West Indies, arrived here last week and expressed surprise and indignation that members of his church and other clergymen of the race, should be accused of being sympathetic to communism.

Clergymen Listed

The colored clergymen whom Matthews included in his article were:

Bishops W. J. Walls, and C. C. Alleyne, both AME Zion prelates; Bishops S. L. Greene, W. A. Fountain, Cary A. Gibbs, Frank M. Reid, R. R. Wright Jr. and A. J. Allen all of the AME Church, and J. Arthur Hamlett, CME prelate.

Bishop Wright said he has known these ministers for more than 25 years and has heard many of them speak against communism. Among other things he said:

"I know personally everyone of these bishops ... All of them I have known for more than 25 years. Some of them are regarded as very conservative. Half of them I have heard speak against communism. Of course, like myself, they have worked for the recognition of colored persons as full members of the Christian brotherhood, and first class citizens in our American democracy.

"No intelligent colored minister could be fair-minded enough to oppose communism. Because of the religious attitude of communism, colored persons generally, though poor, oppose communism."

In denouncing Matthews' statement, Bishop Wright joined Dr. Benjamin Mays and Bishop D. Ward Nichols who earlier expressed opposition to it.

Mr. Justice Reed Of United States Supreme Court

Here's His 15-Year Record In Civil Rights Cases; Read It And Guess How He'll Vote On Five School Segregation Cases Next October.

By LOUIS LAUTIER
(For NNPA)
WASHINGTON

Take a look at the record of Justice Stanley F. Reed, see how he has acted in civil rights cases decided by the Supreme Court during his 15 years on the bench.

It is possible that you may guess how he will vote in the five school segregation cases that are set for reargument before the Supreme Court on Oct. 12.

The Henderson, McLaurin and Sweatt cases were decided by an unanimous court. In the racial restrictive covenant cases, Justice Reed excused himself.

Along with Justice Robert H. Jackson and the late Justice Wiley Rutledge he took no part in the consideration or decision of these three cases, the three judges lived in covenanted property.

Dissented In McDonald Case

Justice Reed, with Chief Justice Fred M. Vinson, joined in the dissenting opinion of Justice Harold Burton, holding that the arrest of Earl McDonald was lawful, that the seizure of evidence followed his arrest and that there was no need for a search warrant.

District of Columbia police broke into a house where McDonald was a tenant, peeped over the transom of the room he was renting, ordered him to open the door and then seized adding machines, numbers slips and money.

The Supreme Court, by a 6-to-3 decision, set aside McDonald's conviction of violating the lottery laws on the ground that seizure of the evidence without a search warrant was illegal.

Against Pickets

John Hughes and Louis Richardson were found guilty of contempt of court for picketing a grocery store in Richmond, Calif. after an injunction had been issued restraining them and others from picketing any of the Lucky stores to compel the hiring of colored persons as clerks in proportion to the colored trade.

The California Supreme Court upheld their convictions. The United States Supreme Court affirmed that judgment. Justice Reed wrote a one-paragraph concurring opinion, in which he said:

"I read the opinion of the Supreme Court of California to hold that the pickets sought from Lucky Stores Inc., discrimination in favor of persons of the colored race, a discrimination unlawful under California law. Such picketing may be barred by a state."

Brutality Case Opinion

Justice Reed wrote the opinion of the court in the case of Jay G. Williams, Charles R. Ford, John S. Bombaci and Andrew J. Yuhas, upholding the appeal of the United States from an order of the Federal District Court at Miami, Fla., dismissing an indictment against the four men.

The indictment charged six men—the four appellees and two others—with the crime of perjury while testifying in a prior trial. The former trial was for using "third degree" methods to force confessions from four colored men in thefts from the Lindsley Lumber company.

Williams, who operated a private detective agency, held a special police officer's card issued by the City of Miami.

Guilty Of Beating

He was found guilty of violating the civil rights of his victims and his conviction was upheld by the Supreme Court in another decision on the same day Justice Reed delivered the opinion in the perjury case.

Justice Reed held that conviction of Williams, at the former trial, for beating the theft suspects, and to convict him of perjury for testifying that he had not beaten them, would not constitute double jeopardy.

Justice Reed, with Chief Justice Vinson, dissented in the case of Jesse W. Jeffers, who was convicted in the district court here of violating the narcotics laws.

The United States Court of Appeals reversed the conviction on the ground that narcotics belonging to Jeffers had been illegally seized, without a search warrant, in the room of his two aunts at the Dunbar hotel. The Supreme Court upheld the judgment of the appeal court.

In the Railroad Trainmen Brotherhood case, Justice Reed, with Chief Justice Vinson, joined in the dissenting opinion of Justice Sherman Minton.

The majority of the court held invalid an agreement the which would have forced the Frisco to fire its colored "train porters" and fill their jobs with white "brakemen."

Justice Reed wrote a concurring opinion in the James Avery case, in which the court held unconstitutional a law in Fulton county (Atlanta), Ga., of putting the names of white prospective jurors on white slips of paper and of colored prospective jurors on yellow slips of paper in the box from which juries were drawn.

Lily White Jury Issue

Justice Reed pointed out that the population of Fulton county is 691,797, of which 25 per cent or 165,814 is colored; that the jury list for the year in question had 20,500 white and 1,115 colored persons—5 per cent.

That from that list from 150 to 200 were drawn for jury service in each of the divisions of the Fulton county superior court, and that the venire from which the trial jury for Avery was selected numbered 60, all of whom were white.

"These facts established a prima facie case of discrimination which the record does not rebut," he said.

Justice Reed wrote the majority opinion in the cases of Clyde Brown, Raleigh Speller and Ben nie and Lloyd Ray Daniels, who were sentenced to death by North Carolina state courts.

Criminal Attack Case

Brown and Speller were convicted of criminally attacking a white woman; the two Danielses were convicted of murdering a white man.

After reviews had been refused, the cases came back to the Supreme Court on habeas corpus proceedings.

The chief constitutional questions raised throughout these cases were, that extorted confessions were used to convict and that colored persons were deliberatedly excluded from serving as jurors.

The majority opinion upheld the action of lower federal courts in refusing to grant writs of habeas corpus to review the proceedings of the state courts.

Group Libel Issue

Justice Reed dissented in the case of Joseph Beauharnais, who was convicted in the Chicago Municipal Court of violating the Illinois group libel law by distributing leaflets portraying depravity, criminality, uncharity or lack of virture of colored people.

Beauharnais's conviction was upheld by the Illinois Supreme Court and affirmed by the United States Supreme Court.

In his dissent, Justice Reed took jhe view that Beauharnais's conviction on a charge of violating the Illinois statute could not stand because the statute contains no definition of words of such ambiguous meaning and uncertain connotation as "virtue," "detrion" or "obloquy."

2nd in Seniority

Justice Reed, second only to Justice Hugo L. Black in point of service on the Supreme Court, was born in Mason county, Ky., Dec. 31, 1884. He holds two B. A. degrees, one from Kentucky Wesleyan and the other from Yale.

He studied law at the University of Virginia, Columbia university and the Universitl of Paris.

Justice Reed engaged in general law practice at Mayville and Ashland, Ky., from 1919-29, served in the Kentucky General Assembly, 1912-16, was general counsel to the Federal Farm Board, 1929-32.

Roosevelt Appointee

He was general counsel of the Reconstruction Finance Corp. from 1932-35 and solicitor general of the United States from March 23, 1935, to January 31, 1938.

President Franklin D. Roosevelt appointed him an associate justice of the Supreme Court on Jan. 25 and he took his seat on the court Jan. 31.

Death Rate Up Among Tan Babies

NEW YORK—The death rate among colored babies in NYC increased in 1952 from 37.5 per cent to 40.8 per cent, while the infant mortality among white babies remained the same, the Department of Health reported last week.

The department said the increase occurred mainly among infants more than one month of age and that upper respiratory diseases were to the largest extent responsible for the increment with accidents a possible contender.

No Reason Given

Dr. Carl L. Erhardt, director of records and statistics for the department said Brooklyn was the only borough in which it was found that the death rate among white babies had increased, while colored deaths show an increase in Manhattan, the Bronx and Brooklyn.

The department did not attempt to give any reasons for the increase but said in a statement:

"In general then, it appears that special attention need be given the non whites; that the whites need help particularly in Brooklyn districts and that something needs to be done about cradle respiratory infections in infants more than one month of age."

FEAR OF PROGRESS FOOLISH:

School Desegregation To Help Rather Than Harm Minority Group Teachers

Just as the policy of integration in the Armed Forces has enhanced opportunity for the colored officer and enlisted man, so the policy of school desegregation has reacted to the advantage of colored teachers.

This fact was revealed by a study of the colored teacher and desegregation of the public schools in the spring edition of the Journal of Negro Education.

The study sets forth that there has been considerable speculation as to How these teachers would be affected by desegregation since this policy is becoming more of a possibility because of the five school cases pending for argument before the U.S. Supreme Court.

Dire Predictions Vain

Some defendants of the status quo, whose arguments before the Supreme Court, have made dire predictions as to the effect which a decision to outlaw segregated schools would have upon the tenure of colored teachers.

Consequently, the article points out, it would be unnatural if some teachers, themselves, did not have some misapprehensions on this score.

Desegregation has been obtained during the past four or five years in several states — Southern Illinois, Indiana, Arizona, New Mexico and New Jersey.

Taken as a whole, the experience has been that there has been very little, if any, adverse effect upon the status of minority group teachers.

Larger Opportunities

William R. Ming Jr., NAACP attorney who made a special study of the situation in Illinois and Indiana, observed that in Indiana there are now towns with colored teachers where none had been hired before.

A special study of the Indianapolis situation by Jeanne Rogers of the Washington Post revealed that while there had been little integration of teachers, no casualties have resulted among teachers or principals because of the switch from a dual to a single school system.

Mine noted a similar situation in Illinois, pointing out that in East St. Louis, the largest community in which integration had taken place, the fact of residential segregation had forced predominately colored schools for the most part.

The school board, Ming said, had merely left the colored principals and teachers in these schools.

Increased 35 Per Cent In N.J.

J. L. Bustard of the New Jersey Commission Against Discrimination reported that in that state not only have there been no teacher casualties due to integration, but on the contrary, over a three-year period, the number of colored teachers increased almost 35 per cent.

When the schools were desegregated in New Jersey, a recent survey showed, in practically every case the colored principal was retained as principal although faculty and pupils were intergrated.

In fact, this has been observed to be the case in nine cities and towns in Southern New Jersey.

CICERO RIOT ECHO:

Landlady Names 6 In $ Million Suit

CHICAGO— A $1,000,000 damage suit was filed against a judge, two lawyers, two psychiatrists and an undertaker by Mrs. Camille De Rose, owner of an apartment building here around which a bloody race riot centered two years ago.

The charges that the six defendants "conspired" to hold Mrs. De Rose in the Kankakee State Hospital before she was found sane.

Named in the circuit court suit were, Criminal Court Judge William F. Crowley; Robert Porto and Angelo H. Payne, attorneys; William H. Haines and Bernard Skorodin, psyciatrists, and Louis Rapp, undertaker.

The Cicero riots broke out in July, 1951, when Harvey Clark Jr., a World War II veteran, and his family attempted to move into an all-white Chicago suburb. The National Guard was called out and more than 10 persons were arrested in demonstrations.

In her suit, Mrs. De Rose charges that the defendants "suppressed the true facts leading to the race riot." They also contrived, she said, to get an acquittal or discharge for George C. Adams, her attorney, whom she accused of embezzlement.

The 47-year old "landlady" has written a shocking novel, in which she describes what she terms, "the true story of the Cicero riots." She said she has had several requests for foreign translations of the book.

School Case To Court

Texas Jr. College Target Of Suit

TEXARKANA, Texas—A trial in the federal district court for colored students seeking admission to the publicly - financed Texarkana Junior college here has been ordered by the United States Circuit Court of Appeals, after reversing a lower court decision.

The federal district court in which the suit was originally instituted on behalf of Miss Geraldine I. Bruce and others, dismissed a complaint filed by NAACP Attorney U. Simpson Tate on the ground that the students had not exhausted the administrative remedies, in that they had not appealed to the State Board of Education.

The decision handed down on July 10 by Judges Helm, Borah and Russell of the Circuit Court held that "there is no administrative agency set up under the Texas law with authority or jurisdiction to determine constitutional questions."

Such questions, the court ruled, are to be determined under Texas law by the courts and since the board of trustees of the school acted without authority of law in such a manner as to deny colored students facilities available to white students, the rejected students had the right of immediate access to the courts.

"The rule is well established in Texas," the court said," that in all matters pertaining to the administration of school laws involving pure questions of law as contradistinguished from questions of fact, immediate resort to the courts is proper."

Catholic Girl Receives White Habit Of Novice

MILWAUKEE, Wis.—With her parents and friends present for the religious ceremony, Miss Maria Legg received the habit and white veil of the Novice here last week.

Miss Legg, who will be known as sister Mary Martyn, will spend the next year in the Novitiate according to Canon Law, to prepare herself for her duties as a Catholic Sister.

The daughter of Mrs. Sidney Davis of Indianapolis, Miss Legg is the first colored student to be received into the Order of the School Sisters of Notre Dame here in Milwaukee.

She did her practice teaching at St. Benedict The Moor in Detroit, which is staffed by the school Sisters of Notre Dame.
