been looking for a lucky dollar since the contest began. This time he hit the jackpot. He said he had never won so much money before.

The former Washingtonian plans to use most of the money to pay down on a photographic enlarger to add to his dark room equipment. His hobby is photography. He someday would like to make it his business.

Green stated that he checked his change late Tuesday after he had bought the vegetables. The hard part was waiting for the AFRO office to open on Wednesday morning. Early Wednesday he arrived to redeem his "Dilly Dollar."

The winner said his wife was more overjoyed then he was at first. When he received his money in the AFRO office, he had difficulty concealing his happiness.

Father Of Twins

He said he intended to check every dollar he gets more closely. "Who knows, I might find another "Dilly Dollar," he said.

Mr. Green has lived in Baltimore about 12 years, coming here from Washington. He and his wife are parents of five children.

They are Ronald, 6; Beverly, 5; Michael, 4; and Roland and Donald, two-year-old twins.

A $20 winner, Mrs. Ruth Drew, housewife, of 314 N. Fulton ave., plans to use the money to buy books for her 11-year-old daughter, Jo Ann.

Mrs. Drew's husband operates a confectionery store at 1107 Madison ave. and she got her lucky dollar bearing serial number G-00 849 603 G in making change for a customer.

South Baltimore Winner

Another $20 winner was George W. Hill, civic leader and operator of a barber shop in South Baltimore at 793 S. Fremont ave. He redeemed bill No. F 38 826 339 G.

A customer gave him the lucky Dilly when he bought a magazine at Mr. Hill's AFRO substation. He will put the money in the bank, replacing money which he drew for a vacation trip to Canada.

The $20 won by Mrs. Mattie Parham, housewife of 1719 N. Broadway will also be spent on her vacation. Mrs. Parham lucked up on Dilly No. B 34 009 526 G.

Lucky Newsboy

An AFRO newsboy, 13-year-old Gerald Briscoe of 424 Cummings ct. got a $10 Dilly No. I 81 099 354 G when he served a customer.

Two other newsboys, Bernard Arnold and Theodore Fax helped him check the AFRO list where he found his lucky number.

Gerald plans to give half of the money to his mother, Mrs. Ella M. Briscoe and apply the rest toward a trip to New York.

Found In Drug Store

Another 13-year-old youngster, Everett Jones, of 1431 Mountmor ct. came up with $10 Dilly No. D 46 667 042 G in his change when he paid for medicine at a drug store at Edmondson ave. and Calhoun st.

Son of Mr. and Mrs. Everett Jones Sr., the youngster is an 8-A pupil at School No. 137. He will use the money to help with the family marketing.

Found In Feed Fair

A Coppin State college senior, Miss Freda Alston of 1643 Pennsylvania ave., will use her $10 winnings to pay her school tuition.

She received Dilly No. E 00 085 901 G in change when she made a purchase at a North Ave. food fair.

The $10 won by Eugene Watkins, 62, of 696 Pierce st. will come in handy for payment of his telephone bill. Mr. Watkins held lucky Dilly G 50-821 593 G.

Theatre Cashier

A cashier at the Carver theatre, Mrs. Lota C. Nickens lucked up on the $10 Dilly No. G 42 908 056 G when a patron bought theatre tickets.

She had been checking the AFRO Dilly list for weeks and

Ober promises 'attention' to Evans case

Answers letter asking probe and hearing on arrest

Police Commissioner Beverly Ober's office said Thursday it had received a letter requesting an investigation and hearing of the arrest, detention and entry into the home of Miss Betty Lou Evans, and that the letter "will receive the proper attention."

The request was made by Mrs. Juanita J. Mitchell, NAACP attorney in behalf of the 21-year-old nursing student who was arrested by members of the narcotics squad at her home at 1651 Vincent ct. about 3 a.m. July 28.

She was subsequently detained by police for about 30 hours and then released with out charge.

The arresting officers later admitted they had no warrant for her arrest nor a warrant to enter her home.

Pair Arraigned

Later arrested was Miss Evans' brother, Donald Evans, 24-year-old letter carrier charged with having under his control heroin and narcotics paraphernalia, and an older sister, Mrs. Loretta Johnson, 27, a hospital nurse charged with theft of articles from her place of employment.

Evans and Mrs. Johnson were scheduled to be arraigned in Criminal court at 10 a.m. today (Friday). Their attorney, Lin wood G. Koger Sr., said he will enter a plea of not guilty, and that their bail, totaling $4,500, will be continued.

Mr. Koger said he intended taking the case to the Supreme Court if necessary, to test the admissibility of the evidence, which he contends, was gained illegally.

Police Abuse

"The legislature has made some loose references that evidence is admissable any way you can get it in narcotics cases, and the police are abusing that," Mr. Koger said.

He added that he didn't believe "the legislature can overrule the full peer of the Constitution."

Mr. Koger said he could object to the use of all testimony submitted by prosecuters in the case.

—The Mayor's son

caused Defense Attorney W. A. C. Hughes to say Terry could not get a fair trial in Baltimore. The result was a six-week postponement of the case until public hue and cry which presumed the guilt of the accused had subsided.

3 Keys In Operation

And, we also hasten to point out to the mayor that the city of which he is chief executive, apparently has one law for dealing with accused persons who are white and privileged and another for those who are colored and poor.

Last week, this newspaper reported on its front page how a 21-year-old Provident Hospital student nurse was taken from her home at 3 o'clock in the morning by police.

She was forced to ride around in a car to look for her brother suspected of a narcotics violation and then put in jail for seven additional hours.

She was not charged then with any crime violation, has not been charged as of this date, and so far as is known is an innocent victim of a practice common to Baltimore police—to haul colored people from their homes at any hour when they are making an investigation.

Within hours after the Provident nurse was taken from her home, her sister, a City Hospitals' nurse, was likewise taken into custody and held for a total of 30 hours before police finally decided to prefer their charges.

In both cases, police entered and searched the nurses' homes without warrants, a clear violation of the U.S. Constitution (Fourth Amendment), and the State laws.

All East Baltimoreans

Both of these young women are daughters of a nurse at Crownsville State hospital. They are natives of this city who were reared in East Baltimore just like Mayor D'Alesandro's son.

But they were taken from their homes, held in police custody, put in jail, and no charges were preferred for a total of 30 hours!!

In the case of the mayor's son, he was arrested, charged, placed in a lineup, identified, released all within a short period of two hours. At no time, was he put behind bars or manhandled by policemen nor was he taken out of bed at 3 o'clock in the morning.

In fact, it is reported that Police Commissioner Ober, representatives of the state's attorney's office and others held conferences with police officials on the case.

This is the same Commissioner Ober whom the NAACP has asked to conduct an investigation and hold a hearing in circumstances surrounding the young nurses' arrests by police. To date, the Commissioner's office has not scheduled such an investigation.

One Law For All

All the NAACP and thinking citizens of this community are asking is that one law apply for all.

It is mandatory for every man to have a fair chance to defend himself against an accusation, and to be secure in his home; safe from police invasion without a warrant.

It is likewise important that these same rights apply to the two colored nurses and to all citizens of Baltimore as well as to the mayor's son.

A report issued last March by a special state senate investigating committee headed by Sen. Hubert P. Barton (D-2nd Dist., Balto.) said among other things: "It is important for all criminal cases to be handled alike regardless of the races involved."

We would add, it is important for all criminal cases to be handled within the law and with due respect for the people's right, whether the accused be the mayor's son, the nurse's daughter or the garbage man's nephew.

That's the guarantee our U.S. Constitution gives and Baltimore police must be taught to understand it.

of nurses at Douglass Hospital in Philadelphia, and received a B. S. degree in nursing at the University of Minnesota (1949).

Tuskegee Graduate

A native of Phoenix City, Ala., Mrs. Brannon is the former Maida Stephens, and the widow of the Rev. George M. Brannon, an AME minister of the Alabama conference who died in 1946. They have one daughter, Mrs. Mae Ruth Wilson who resides in Lawton, Oklahoma.

Mrs. Brannon is a graduate of Tuskegee Institute, where she received her nursing diploma in 1923 and her academic diploma in 1925. She served as night superintendent of nurses at the Tuskegee Institute hospital for one year, 1925-26.

Wide Experience

Registered to practice in Ala., Tenn., Mich., N. Y., Md., and Pa., Mrs. Bannon has had wide nursing experience. From 1926-27, she was in charge of nursing at Brewer Hospital, Greenwood, S. C., 1928-37, superintendent of nurses at Prairie View State college, Texas;

From 1937-38, she was superintendent of nurses at Meharry Medical college; 1939, a similar post at Mercy Hospital, Detroit; and 1939-40, a member of the nursing staff at Sea View hospital Staten Island, N.Y.

During her Baltimore residence, Mrs. Brannon has not only helped to expand the hospital's nursing service and school of nursing, she has taken an active part in the community.

AFRO Honor Roll

Recognition was given her in 1951, when she won honorable mention on the AFRO honor roll.

In 1950, the Tuskegee Nurses' Alumni Association honored her with a tea and in 1952, she received the Tuskegee Alumni Merit Award in recognition of distinguished service in advancing human welfare.

She was also the recipient of an engraved cup from the International Trade Association of N. Y. and Baltimore in 1951 for superior service to public institutions.

When Mrs. Brannon came to Provident Hospital, she revived the education department, the division which gives instruction to nurses, and organized the in-service program for nurses aides.

Active In Drive

During her administration, the semi-private facilities on the second and third floors were equipped, and her team was the leading women's division in the $300,000 campaign (1951) for the hospital, reporting in excess of $14,000.

She was also instrumental in getting the physicians' wives to equip a second floor semi-private room with new furniture, and in getting various clubs to contribute to the beautification of the hospital.

Mrs. Brannon has served as a member of the Henryton Hospital School of Nursing advisory committee and as a steward and senior choir member of Bethel AME Church.

She has been active in Madison Ave. YWCA, holds membership in the "American Nurses' Association, the National Nursing Alumni, and the Ministers' Wives Alliance of Baltimore and vicinity.

Two hurt after three-car crash

Two persons were hurt in a three-car accident at Fremont ave. and Saratoga st., Monday.

The vehicles involved in the accident were a taxicab driven by Oakley Bailey, 2546 Calvertion Heights ave., a sedan driven by Stephen Greenleaf, 46, 513 Lafayette ave., and a panel truck driven by James I. Rose, 26, 242 Bishop ave.

Rose and Mrs. Beatrice Greenleaf, a passenger in Greenleaf's car, received minor injuries.

The injured were removed to University Hospital by ambulance, treated, and released.

and the Parade Park facilities, reserved for colored people exclusively.

The Court of Appeals brushed aside this issue by saying we shall not engage in a detailed comparison of these physical features.

They said that if the colored pool at Parade Park had been an exact duplication of the white pool at Swope Park, their ruling would have been the same.

Officials' Contention

Kansas City officials also offered as a defense that the colored pool was located near the center of the colored residential district, and Swope Park is many blocks away.

The Federal Court based its opinion on the McLaurin case.

The Supreme Court ruled that G. W. McLaurin, having been admitted to the University of Oklahoma graduate school, could be treated no differently than white students.

The Missouri court said that since colored people are admitted to the public parks they may not be barred from public pools in those parks.

Swope Park is about five miles wide and 15 miles long. It is the largest park in the city and contains many other facilities besides the park pool.

The city authorities have appealed to the U.S. Supreme Court for a reargument of the case.

Baltimore's situation is identical to that of Kansas City.

Baltimore has pools in Roosevelt, Clifton, Patterson, Riverside, and Gwynns Falls Park, which parks are open to all citizens, but the pools are reserved for whites only.

The Federal District Court's decision requiring the city to open Parade Park to colored citizens was handed down over a year ago.

Rather than comply with the court's deision, the city at once closed Parade Park.

A short time after, the City Council voted to open it but the Kansas City Park Board, which is an independent organization, disagreed. Last month the Court of Appeals sustained the District Court's desecision.

The Parade Park swimming pool is still closet despite the action of the city and the general sentiment in the community. The case now goes to the Supreme Court.

Fifteen years ago Kansas City was required to open one of the golf courses to all citizens by order of the court. Later on, the other course took down its restriction sign.

Laborer given 6-month term in larceny case

James Whitlock, 30, of the 1300 block E. Fairmount ave., was sentenced to six months in the House of Correction Wednesday at Northeastern for larceny of a cast iron dryer and a car top grating from the Baltimore Brick company at 3200 Madison st.

The sentence imposed on Whitlock, who frequently used the alias "John Louis," was the third given to him by Magistrate Samuel Gaboff. In the two previous cases Whitlock was accused of taking equipment from the same company.

Man given 10 years in assault case

ANNAPOLIS — Leo Simms, a 28-year-old Washington man, charged here with assault and battery, was sentenced to ten years in the state penitentiary Tuesday by Circuit Judge Benjamin Michaelson.

A special jury panel of ten men and two women found the defendant guilty after deliberating for an hour and 30 minutes. Simms was acquitted of attack charge.

A resident of the 800 block 1 st., se, Simms was found innocent of assaulting and attempting to assault Mrs. Helen Harley, 31, of the 1200 block First st., sw.

Separated From Husband

According to Mrs. Harley, who is separated from her husband, she was severely beaten about the face following an all-day outing with Simms and several others at a local beach last May 24. She suffered a broken jaw.

The attack occured near the Anne Arundel county police station at Edgewater. Mrs. Harley said she was treated for her injuries at Gallinger Hospital after returning to her home.

The accused man, known to his friends as "Smoke," denied hitting the women. He admitted shoving her while they were in a car.

Said Woman Was "Agreeable"

Simms stated that the woman became "agreeable" 45 minutes later after a "scuffle." Mrs. Harley said her jaw had been broken once before in an accident in 1951.

In summing up his case, State's Attorney Osborne Duvall told the jury that Mrs. Harley was unable to yell because of her broken jaw. The defense contended that the woman still had plenty of time to report the affair but waited until a later date.

When arrested Simms was on parole for larceny. In connection with the case, Anne Arundel county and district police are looking for a man indentified as Louis (Poppa John) Pennamon.

Youth held in man's slaying

A 24-year-old youth is being held without bail for the murder of a night watchman last Saturday.

Police arrested Lenwood Mickey, of the 20 block of S. Dutch st., Tuesday, charging him with assault and striking Willie Johnson, 45, of the 1000 block Arsquith st., with a pick handle.

The date for Mickey's trial will be set by the state's attorney's office.

Meanwhile, Johnson's body still lies unclaimed in the city morgue. Police had been unable to locate his relatives, a wife and son, who are said to be living in Washington.

The victim was discovered with a deep gash over the left eye, stretched out on a block-sealed army cot in a second floor room in the 200 block N. East st.

The building is located in a slum area where dwellings are being razed for a housing project.

Johnson has been employed three days as night watchman with the ABCD Wrecking company, which is handling the slum clearing program, before his untimely death. It has been reported that Mickey also worked with the company some years ago, but police were unable to give reason for the alleged beating.

Liquor board asks Ober report on tavern slaying

The Liquor Board has asked Police Commissioner Beverly Ober for a report on the slaying of a 60-year-old man in a South Baltimore tavern on July 24.

Charles Bradford, unit block W. Montgomery st. was pronounced dead on arrival at South Baltimore General Hospital from a fractured skull received after an alleged scuffle with William H. Coleman, unit block Hughes st.

Coleman, 16 years old, is being held by police in connection with the slaying.

When notified of the tavern slaying—and extreme youth of the suspect—Joseph Van Collum, executive secretary of the Liquor Board dispatched a letter to Ober requesting the report.

The present Liquor Board not only forbids the sale of alcoholic beverages to minors, but also discourages minors from frequenting places where liquor is sold.

Occurred At Sach's

The slaying occurred at Sach's Tavern, 612 S. Charles st.

According to police, Coleman entered the tavern shortly before 11 p.m., that night, seeking a friend identified only as "Jimmy."

Jimmy was sitting at a table in the tavern with a girl, and soon Coleman and the girl became embroiled in an argument.

While they were exchanging hot words, Mr. Bradford, somehow, became involved in the argument.

Hits Head On Floor

Some blows were struck and Bradford fell, his head hitting the floor with an ominous thud.

Rushed to the hospital by municipal ambulance, he was dead on arrival. Coleman was immediately placed under arrest.

He is being held without bail pending a hearing date to be determined by the State's Attorney's office.

Truckers prep for state rodeo at city stadium

Plans for the 6th annual truck safety rodeo, sponsored by the Maryland Motor Truck Association and scheduled for Memorial Stadium on Saturday, received completion Thursday with the naming of official contest judges and the establishment of an exhibition section.

Included among the judges will be Col. Elmer Munshower, superintendent of the Maryland State Police; Deputy Chief Frank J. Trenner of the Baltimore Fire Department; Lt. Lawrences A. Kerr, Baltimore City Police Department; Claude Burton, district supervisor of the Interstate Commerce Commission; and Norman W. Gerhardt of the Department of Motor Vehicles.

The rodeo will get under way at 12 noon with the "Parade of Champions," and will require that the contestants maneuver their vehicles through a difficult obstacle course to determine Maryland's State Champion Truck Drivers. Winners will be eligible to compete in the national finals in September. Admission is free.

sure I use — "Yes, I am a member of "Ladies from the Rain Club" and have to have my hair combated too. Ever since I was a little girl, my hair has been combated with Apex Glossatina. I like it very much because it leaves my hair so soft, straight, smooth and shimmery. It does not have that ugly, sticky, greasy feeling. I recommend Apex Glossatina highly and know you, too, will like it." Mrs. Sara Washington Hayes.
