Brown cheesecake, tan crooner send Hollywood

HOLLYWOOD (ANP) — It wasn't the luck of the Irish that had Ciro's and the Mocambo nitteries packing in capacity audiences, it was Katherine Dunham and Herb Jefferies, no less.

La Dunham and her dancers wrapped sex and rhythm into an exciting package at Ciro's that left audiences yelling for more. The Dunham touch was at its best in "Wild About Harry" and "Dark Town Strutters Ball," done in choreographic caricatures.

The multi-colored costumes added flash to the spicy native dance offerings that took ringsiders for a tour of Cuba, South America and the South Sea

Jeffries' selection for a week's engagement at the Mocambo was a wise choice: The smooth singing crooner has not only a good voice but stage presentation as well.

He clicks with his effortless renditions and his ability to hold listeners. He has mellow vocalizing mixed with beautiful phrasing.

"PONY EXPRESS"—STARTS AT MET SATURDAY

"KANSAS PACIFIC" IS NEW ALBERT FEATURE

Sterling Hayden heads the stellar cast of "Kansas Pacific," stirring railroad drama, produced in color by Allied Artists, which is the current attraction at the New Albert theatre.

Co-starred with Hayden are Eve Miller and Barton MacLane. The latter portrays a railway construction boss, and Miss Miller is cast as his daughter.

Hayden's part is that of an army engineer, ordered to complete construction of a rail line through western Kansas that has been sabotaged repeatedly.

He establishes that the damage is being done by southern sympathizers, headed by a clever plotter named Quantrill, and the gang eventually is routed out but only after northern artillery has been called in.

"KISS OF DEATH" BACK AT THE REGENT

Before he made the movie which established him almost immediately as one of Hollywood's top ranking stars, Richard Widmark was the actor Broadway stage and radio producers always thought of first when they had a "sweet guy" part of cast.

He had built up quite a reputation as a portrayer of nice young men. But as soon as "Kiss of Death" was released, in which he is cast as the now famous psychopathic killer, Tom Udo; he was dubbed as "the meanest man in the movies"—figuratively speaking, of course.

Fans who remember the famous Widmark characterization now have an opportunity to see him portray Udo once again in "Kiss of Death," a Twentieth Century - Fox encore triumph starring Victor Mature, Brian Donlevy and Coleen Gray at the Regent Theatre this week.

"ALL I DESIRE" PLAYING AT HARLEM

Barbara Stanwyck achieves one of her greatest dramatic triumphs in "All I desire," now playing at the Harlem.

"All I Desire" is the colpelling story of a woman who made one mistake and spends ten long unhappy years paying for her wrong. The story actually begins when Naomi Murdoch, having served her ten years, pen ance, returns to the family she had deserted and tries to begin a new life.

Miss Stanwyck rises to great emotional heights in her portrayal of the second-rate actress who tries to hold her head proudly on returning to the small town where she had left her husband and three children. The husband, as portrayed by Richard Carlson, is a man whose emotions every adult member of the audience will understand.

MARILYN MONROE IN NEW CARVER FILM

When Director Howard Hawks picked Jane Russell and Marilyn Monroe for the star roles in "Gentlemen Prefer Blondes," the Twentieth Century-Fox musical comedy which starts at the Carver Playhouse Friday, wiseacres immediately predicted a feud.

No two actresses with such similar attributes of beauty and form could possibly get along together, they said. However, before the picture had been in work two days the two became boom companions, according to Hawks.
