Speeding and reckless driving are the major causes of accidents on U.S. streets and highways. "Slow down and live" is a good motto to adopt.

SAFETY SLOGANS OFTTIMES NOT EFFECTIVE AS EXPECTED:

Common Courtesy Frequently ignored

Ever since the day the first pedesserian was killed by a motor car in England, sologans similar in nature to "Bad motoring manners can be murder" have been with us in virtually every traffic safety campaign.

As far as is known, too few safety campaigns have ever ventured far enough to stress the point that courtesy alone can do much in solving what has grown to be a major problem.

It's not difficult to understand that common courtesy and consideration for others can eventually make all highways safer, more pleasant, and above all,

Courtesy Expected

Just as common courtesy is expected and respected in the home, so should it be on the nation's highways. The 11 most common courtesy for the motorist should include the following:

First of all, a well-mannered driver should share the road with other vehicles. A well behaved motorist should use his horn only as a warning device and in emergencies, never as a bad-tempered voice to threaten or scold.

From the standpoint of honor, a motorist expected nefer is to cheat traffic regulations. For the pedestrian, respect traffic lights and avoid darting from behind parked cars. It is to be remembered also that an obliging driver will never fail to dim his lights when meeting other cars in the dark.

Accommodating Driver

An accommodating driver parks his car so as not to interfere with the use of other parking spaces, or with movemen of other vehicles. An orderly driver keeps to the right, except when using the proper lane for turning or passing.

A courteous driver never fails to signal his intentions to stop, turn, or move out. A considerate driver drives at a speed that is reasonable and gives consideration to traffic, road, and weather conditions.

One who has any consideration for the safety of others at all will refrain from driving when physically exhausted. For the curiosity seeker, a kindly person never shows curiosity at the scene of an accident. And is always ready to give any assistance that may be possible.

Consideration Wanting

Well bred people, whether drivers or passengers, should be as considerate of each other as hosts and guests in a drawing room.

Too frequently, as a result demic of traffic violations and critical injuries on state highway

In Anne Arundel county was placed in the hands of county and state officials Monday.

A decision to do something about what has been termed the "hard luck stretch" of highway, came to a head following the death of Miss Doris Vivian Williams.

Critically injured in a collision on the highway Friday, she died at the Anne Arundel General hospital Saturday night.

13 Injured

Out of 17 traffic accidents in Maryland over the weekend, 13 persons received injuries in two accidents on route 301. Miss Williams was the third to die as a result of a three car collision on the road.

A fourth person, Marine Sgt. Leonard M. Barker is in critical condition at the Bethesda Naval Medical Center. Miss Williams was injured while riding with James Jacobs of Baltimore. Mr. Jacobs was killed in the accident.

The third person to lose his life was Richard Johnson of Bowie. Of the four persons injured, George Edward Green of Bowie remains a patient at Anne Arundel hospital. Green suffered a fractured hip

Eight Others Injured

In raising the total to 13 injured on route 301, the second accident in which eight persons were injured occured one mile south of Anderson's corner early Monday.

On Tuesday the board of county commissioners called for measures to improve the situation on the short north-south stretch between Dorr's Corner and the Pigeon House Inn.

According to police there has been a collision for every 200 feet of the stretch since 1953. Work is now underway to convert the roadway into dual lanes.

So far 54 accidents have been reported on the roadway this year. The Annapolis Junior Chamber of Commerce recently passed a resolution calling for the following:

1. More warning signals posted on the highway.

2. Rigid enforcement of the maximum speed and no-passing laws.

3. Earnest possible plans to convert the road into a dual highway.

On Wednesday County commissioners moved to adopt a resolution similar to the one passed by the Anapolis group.

Solution sought to accident rate on 301

With the death Saturday of a 20-year-old Wilmington, Del., woman, the solution to an epidemic of traffic fatalities and critical injuries on state highway 301 in Anne Arundel county was placed in the hands of county and state officials Monday.

Killed Saturday night was Miss Doris Vivian Williams, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Leonard C. Brett, 712 E. Front street. Miss Williams was the third victim of a three car collision on the road.

New postal legal aid enjoys job

WASHINGTON (ANP) —Attorney Vernon Greene, who recently began work as legal counsel on the staff of the post master general, said this week he found the work very interesting and everybody very cooperative.

Mr. Greene, who is a member of the Monumental Bar Association of Baltimore, the Washington Bar Association, and a member of the bar of the U. S. Supreme court, twice interrupted his law practice to serve in the armed forces.

Former Army Officer

He was lieutenant colonel in command of the Battalion, of Maryland National Guards serving in Korea for 16 months, returning to the U.S.A. in April, 1952.

He is a member of the Phi Beta Sigma fraternity, and of the legal redress staff and the veterans committee of the Baltimore NAACP.

He is married to the former Catherine Wyatt of Baltimore. They have one daughter, Patricia, age 8.

Increased rents must clear through office

Rent problems of landlords and tenants should be reported to the city Rent Commission in the old People's Court building at Market st. and Lombard st.

The office is open from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. Mondays through Fridays.

John A. Dewicki, chairman, advises landlords and tenants to consult the commission before making increased charges or increased payments of rent.

Deaths

NASH — In loving memory of our loved one NELLIE who departed this life one year ago August 21, 1952.

Time can not take from us our love departed.
Arms can not alone and broken-hearted.
There is something in a kindred
That always leaves a sense behind
Of true companionship. We know
The pain it was to see you go.
Yet memory softens everything.
The grave its victory cannot sting.
We who loved you sadly miss
You.
We who held you very dear.
And in lonely hours of thinking
Often feel your presence near.
Though God has taken you away
You are with us every day.
Niece, GLORIA AND FAMILY

WHITE — A tribute of love to the memory of our dear Brother, EDGAR, who passed away August 21—1947.
They say time heal all sorrow
We do not care to forget.
The time so far has only proven
How much we miss yet.
BROTHERS and SISTERS
