Jimmy Carter to box Flanagan

CHICAGO (ANP) — Former lightweight champion Jimmy Carter has signed to meet Glen Flanagan in a 10-round bout Aug. 4 at the Chicago Stadium, Truman Gibson, secretary of the International Boxing club, announced last week.

This bout will serve as a tune-up for Carter in preparation for a championship fight, Sept. 22, against world lightweight champion Paddy DeMarco at the Cow Palace in San Francisco. This bout takes the place of a battle originally scheduled for last June 2, but cancelled because of the champion's reported illness.

Maryland clubs cop ESTA straight, hi-gun honors

COATESVILLE, Pa. — The Eastern Skeet and Trapshooting Association closed its intra-club shoots here Sunday, with the Cornelius Six-Point Gun Club as host.

Because of the unfavorable weather conditions prevailing throughout the Eastern seaboard, only 77 shooters were on hand for the closing event. Strong, high winds and cloudy skies failed to dampen the spirit of the participants, and those who looked on.

The Deep Sea Anglers Club of Washington, D.C., won the intra-club honors for the year, by posting a 226 out of a possible 250 birds. This score, however, was matched by Sycamore Club of Asbury Park, N.J., closing the meet in a tie.

James Banks and S. A. Brown of the Royal Gun Club, Aquasco, Md., and Falcon Rod and Gun Club, Baltimore, Md., tied for high gun honors with a score of 49.

Dr. Frank J. Sykes, James Banks and S. A. Brown, each ran 25 straight.

The average number of shooters for the intra-club matches was 104, which indicates that the championship shoot to be held in Baltimore, Md., Aug. 22, will be largely attended, when a supreme effort will be made to break the present record of 98 out of 100 birds.

The Falcon club will be host club for these matches, and already has begun making arrangements. Together, trophies and cash prizes amounting to over $5,000 will be awarded. A new feature will be "Ladies' Class" with cash prizes and trophies.

IBC asks court to toss out U.S. monopoly suit

By LOUIS LAUTIER

Charges of the Justice Department that the International Boxing Club is a monopoly in which Joe Louis, former heavyweight champion of the world, played a major role, are neither affirmed nor denied by the combine in opposition to the Government's plea for a Supreme Court review of the judgment of the Federal District Court in New York City.

That court dismissed the suit brought by the Government charging violation of Federal anti-trust laws by the IBC, of Illinois, the IBC of New York City, Madison Square Garden, James D. Norris, IBC president, and Arthur M. Wirtz, an IBC director.

The three corporations and two individuals are asking the Supreme Court to affirm the judgment of the District Court or dismiss the Government's appeal.

Cites Baseball Case

Their motion is based squarely on Supreme Court decisions of 1922 and 1953 in baseball cases holding that professional baseball is not subject to the anti-trust laws.

Attorneys for the appellees argue that professional boxing is indistinguishable from professional baseball so far as the anti-trust laws are concerned. They say the present case deals with a competitive sport which is similar to baseball.

Since a boxing bout, like baseball, is a purely local exhibition —in connection with which the use of interstate travel and communication is much less important than in baseball—the principle laid down in the baseball cases should be controlling, they argue.

Charges Monopoly

The Government seeks to distinguish its case against the boxing combine by alleging a monopoly of telecasting, broadcasting, and making and distributing motion pictures of fights.

The appellees conceded that such activities have been held to be in interstate commerce, but they say that Government, even overlooking the fact that they are not engaged in any of these activities,

A promoter sells the rights to broadcast, televise and film a boxing contest they say. As long as the purchaser of those rights pays the promoter's price, they add, the promoter has no interest in whether or not the contest is actually broadcast, televised, or filmed.

The Government charged that since 1949 the appellees have had a monopoly in promoting, exhibiting, broadcasting televising, and motion-picture producing and distributing of professional boxing events.

Conspiracy Alleged

The conspiracy consisted of a continuing agreement to exclude others from such activities, the Government alleged.

To carry out this conspiracy, the Government said, the appellees in January, 1949, entered into an agreement with Louis, then heavyweight champion of the world.

Under the terms of the agreement, Louis was to retire from active boxing, resign his title, preclude exclusive rights to the services of Jersey Joe Walcott, Ezzard Charles, Lee Savold and Gus Lesnevich, the four leading contenders, and assign those rights to the appellees.

To Receive $150,000

Louis was to receive $150,000 from the appellees and stock in corporations which were to be formed by them.

Contracts were entered into between Joe Louis Enterprises, an Illinois corporation in which Louis was the majority stockholder, and Walcott, Charles, Savold and Lesnevich.

These contracts provided that the exclusive services of these four boxers were to be rendered to Joe Louis Enterprises and that an elimination professional contest was to be held among them for the heavyweight championship of the world.

Louis resigned his heavyweight title, the Illinois and New York IBC corporations were formed. The contracts between Joe Louis Enterprises and Walcott, Charles, Savold and Lesnevich were assigned to IBC of Illinois. Louis was paid $150,000.

The elimination heavyweight championship contests were promoted by the appellees which wound up with Charles winning the title in states affiliated with the National Boxing Association. His title was not recognized by the New York State Athletic Commission until he defeated Louis, which he did.

Deadlines near for Exchange Club meets

The Exchange Club of Baltimore advised prospective competitors that there is only one week left until July 31, when the swimming meet will be held at Patterson Park pool, and about two weeks left until August 7, when the track and field meet will be held in Clifton Park.

WOULD YOU PAY $50.00 FOR A BOTTLE OF RYE?

One man did! In 1937, a Baltimore multi-millionaire's wine cellar was invaded by a mysterious quart of Maryland straight rye distilled in 1911 sold for $50! The very same man who made that prized bottle of rye is making RYEBROOK Maryland Straight Rye today! It's name is Fred Lewis.

Rye Wight, rye brook is the delightful result of Mr. Wight's 80 years of distilling experience. Real rye! True, traditional rye! The Flavor Of Maryland Rye!

It won't cost you $50! In fact, it's only $4.75 a fifth, plus taxes. But no amount of money could buy finer, tastier rye!

Rye brook is straight rye whiskey, 5 years old. 86 proof.

himself since he got in, would make me feel he's ready to give it a real test.

"Of course, he hasn't done much. But there's been no indication during his punting that he's favoring it. And he certainly runs well enough on it."

Buddy Lightest In 5 Years

With respect to Young, Fullback Zollie Toth had this to say: "Buddy looks all over like a guy coming in trying to win a job. You'd never think he was an oldtimer.

"That 181 pounds is the lightest I've been into in the five years I've played with him. We were together on the (New York) Yankees and on the (Dallas) Texans before we came here last year. He's never come to camp looking so good before."

Jacquet repeats in net doubles

WASHINGTON

Earthna Jacquet, winner of the men's singles crown in the National Capital Open tennis tournament last weekend, came back on Monday to team with Eleese Thornton to cop the mixed doubles title.

The two Californians defeated Doris Harrison and Edgar Lee in the finals, 6-2, 6-3.

In the men's doubles, another West Coast entrant, Bob Ryland paired with Harold Freeman to down Lee and Elton King in a three-set duel, 6-2, 3-6, 7-5.

The tournament was sponsored by the Mall Tennis Club of this city.
